EX-GOV. RIVERS OF 'LITTLE NEW DEAL' INDICTED

Grand Jury Calls His Regime 'Shameful.'

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 3 [Special].—Former Gov. E. D. Rivers and 19 others, including many high officials of his tempestuous four year régime—Georgia's "little New Deal"—which ended a year ago in a flood of pardons for criminals, were indicted today on charges of embezzlement, conspiracy to defraud the state of $201,368 and on a number of other felony counts.

Ex-Gov. E. D. Rivers.

The indictments were returned by a Fulton county [Atlanta] grand jury. The jury said its investigation revealed "most shocking and shameful conditions" in state affairs under Rivers' rule and recommended that the succeeding grand jury continue the inquiry.

Besides Rivers, who is Democratic national committeeman for Georgia, the jury indicted Hiram W. Evans, once national head of the Ku Klux Klan, and E. D. Rivers Jr., the former governor's son.

Promised "New Deal."

Rivers campaigned for governor in the 1936 "coattail campaign" and was elected governor in the Roosevelt landslide on a platform promising Georgia a "little New Deal." His term was featured by a bitter dispute with state and federal courts during which he used troops to defy court edicts.

In one of today's indictments Rivers was accused of embezzling $12,101.65 from a $100,000 fund over which he alone had control. In another he was charged with four others with making an illegitimate $80,000 profit in the purchase of highway machinery, and in another with conspiring to defraud the state of $15,000 by paying excessive prices for lubricants.

Evans, former imperial wizard of the Klan, was accused of conniving with a state official to obtain a contract for painting center lines on highways at an excessive cost of $24,000 and of making an excessive profit of $11,000 on a state printing job.

Son Named in Printing Deal.

The former governor's son, who was chairman of the state industrial board, was accused of causing the state to pay out $11,500 in excess of the proper amount on a printing contract.

Other officials of the Rivers régime indicted are:

John W. Greer Jr., former clerk of the Georgia house of representatives and Rivers' campaign manager; W. Bradwell, former chief highway engineer; George C. Blount, former highway maintenance engineer; W. Fred Scott, former contract licensing board chairman; George C. Fisher, former industries superintendent at the state penitentiary; O. G. Glover, former state purchasing agent; J. G. Glover, former superintendent of convict forces, and former Wardens V. L. Webb and Hubert Smith.

Pardon Peddling Charged.

As one of his last gubernatorial acts, Rivers pardoned two wealthy youths serving life terms for a "thrill murder," Richard Gallogly of Atlanta and George Harsh of Milwaukee. In July, 1941, the former governor's Negro chauffeur, Albert Chandler, was arrested on charges of peddling pardons signed in blank among chain gangs.

When the governor of Massachusetts refused to sign extradition papers to permit the return of a Georgia fugitive, Gov. Rivers responded by pardoning a Negro forger on condition that he go to Massachusetts to live.

Gov. Rivers' conflict with the courts followed his attempted removal of W. L. Miller as chairman of the state highway board. When the courts held the removal illegal he placed National Guardsmen at the highway office building doors to keep Miller out.

The governor backed down on the Miller removal after he had been arrested for contempt of a federal court order.

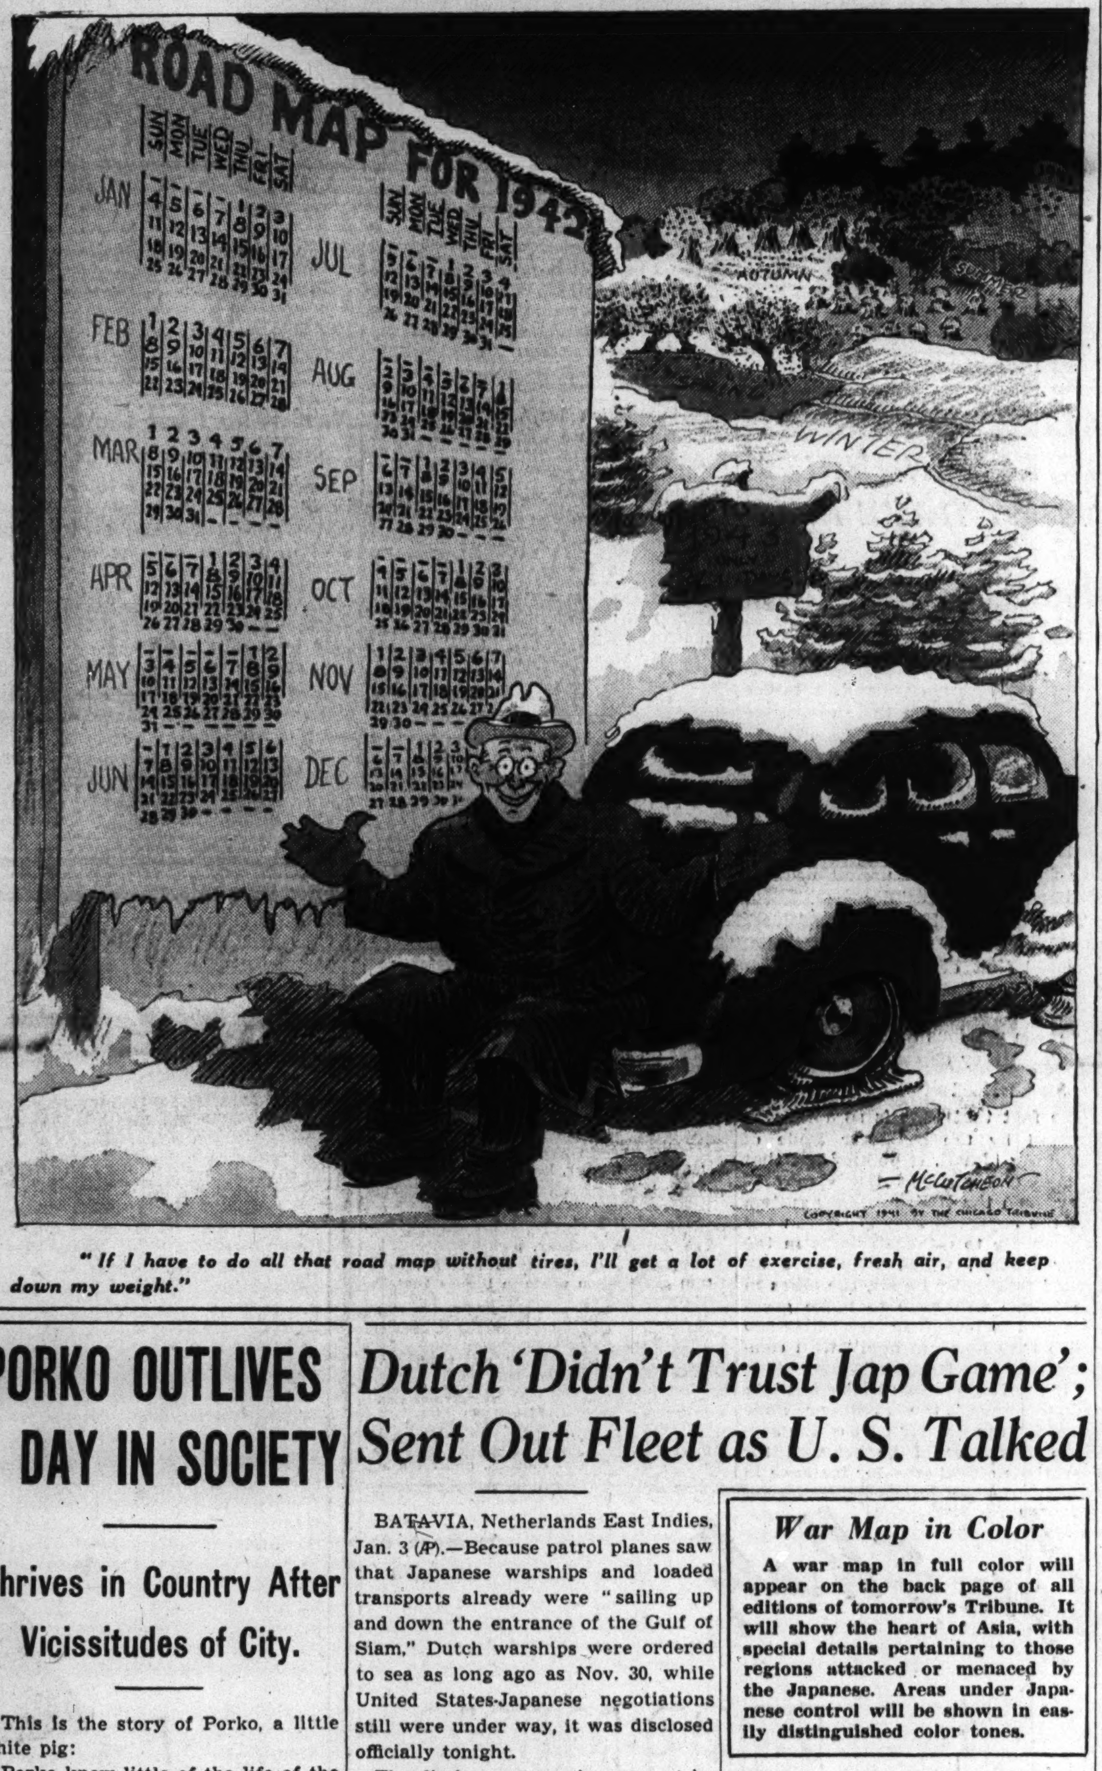
THE OPTIMIST



"If I have to do all that road map without tires, I'll get a lot of exercise, fresh air, and keep down my weight."

PORKO OUTLIVES DAY IN SOCIETY

Thrives in Country After Vicissitudes of City.

This is the story of Porko, a little white pig:

Porko knew little of the life of the élite. He didn't care. He was a pig of the people. And he was much taken aback when it turned out on New Year's eve that he was to be the center of attraction at a party in the home of Dr. Jerome Head, 1315 Davis street, Evanston.

He was startled when he was released among the assemblage. And when Porko found out that whoever caught him was to invite the others to a feast, with Porko the pièce de résistance, he was stricken with squealing woe.

Gloated Over by Little Girls.

He was caught by Mrs. Patricia Drew Alt, wife of Dr. Howard Alt, 1524 Farwell avenue. He was taken home to be gloated over by the Alts' two little girls, Leslie and Robin.

On Friday after New Year's he was sent to a butcher, but alas, Porko, after all this pushing around, had dwindled away to a mere 12 pounds or so, and the butcher said he wouldn't even make a good centerpiece.

Mrs. Alt brought him home and gave him to Dr. and Mrs. Geza de Takats, 1106 Oak avenue, Evanston, who had started the whole thing in the first place, because the pig-catching and pig-eating was an old Hungarian New Year's tradition.

The Police Called In.

Still Porko dwindled and waned. Finally, Mrs. de Takats called the Evanston police to do something about the little beast.

Police Operator Edward Fitzgerald took Porko home and added him to Jocko, the Fitzgerald dog, and Geeko, the Fitzgerald cat. That was some better, but it still appeared that Porko wouldn't survive.

So yesterday Fitzgerald turned the pig over to Policeman Robert F. La Bahn, who glories in a small farm. And last night Porko was back with hoi polloi, far from the drawing rooms and play pens of the élite, and Porko was beginning to thrive.

Dutch 'Didn't Trust Jap Game'; Sent Out Fleet as U. S. Talked

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Jan. 3 (AP).—Because patrol planes saw that Japanese warships and loaded transports already were "sailing up and down the entrance of the Gulf of Siam," Dutch warships were ordered to sea as long ago as Nov. 30, while United States-Japanese negotiations still were under way, it was disclosed officially tonight.

The disclosure came in a report by Aneta, official Netherlands East Indies news agency, which said the navy was ordered into action because Indies authorities "did not trust the game the Japanese were playing" at the conference table.

Lone Sub Survivor Talks.

Aneta released the story of the only surviving member of a Dutch submarine which torpedoed four heavily laden Japanese transports off the Malayan coast the day after the Indies and Japan went to war. The submarine was lost after hitting a mine in the South China sea Dec. 25.

Quartermaster C. De Wolf, survivor of the ill-fated submarine related that his vessel had been ordered to proceed to the Gulf of Siam, where the Japanese troop transports were loitering.

On the night of Dec. 6 it sighted two blacked-out Japanese destroyers. They swept the sea with their searchlights but the submarine already had dived and passed underneath the destroyers. Altho war had not yet broken out, De Wolf said his shipmates expected to hear the explosion of depth charges at any moment. However nothing happened and the next morning the Dutch crew heard a wireless report that they were at war with Japan.

Transport Eludes Submarine.

That night, Dec. 7, the Dutch submarine sighted an enemy transport ship but distance and heavy showers made a successful attack impossible. At 5 a. m., De Wolf said, the chase was given up and when daylight came the submarine dived and waited until darkness.

When the submarine again approached the surface it sighted a Japanese transport steaming toward Patani, on the east coast of Malaya just inside of the Thailand border, where Japanese forces landed at the outset of the war to launch the drive they are now pressing toward the British base of Singapore at the southern tip of the peninsula. The submarine followed the enemy ship with only its periscope above water until the sea became so shallow that it had to surface.

The enemy slowly sailed into the bay at Patani, De Wolf related, while the submarine picked its way carefully to a mudbank. From there it sighted three more heavily laden enemy transports lying at anchor in the bay.

Maneuvers on Surface.

"Orders were given to man the bow and starboard torpedo tubes while the boat slowly continued to make way," De Wolf said. "As we were in two and one-half fathoms of water it was impossible to dive. The commander maneuvered into position and six explosions followed. Thereafter we made for the open sea."

There was no immediate announcement of the results of the submarine's operations, but on Dec. 13 the sinking of four Japanese transports off the east coast of Thailand with the loss of 4,000 Japanese troops was announced by the Netherlands Indies war command.

Nights later the victorious submarine struck a mine and sank while on the way to investigate an unidentified light on the horizon. The commander of the vessel, De Wolf, and four others in the conning tower were thrown into the sea. The commander was lost immediately and of the five others who tried to swim ashore all but De Wolf drowned.

War Map in Color

A war map in full color will appear on the back page of all editions of tomorrow's Tribune. It will show the heart of Asia, with special details pertaining to those regions attacked or menaced by the Japanese. Areas under Japanese control will be shown in easily distinguished color tones.

Manila, Utah, Also in Jam: Allotted Fourth of a Tire!

Manila, Utah, Jan. 3 (AP).—This Manila has its troubles, too. The tire rationing order allotted one tire to Daggett county, believed to be the only county in the United States without an incorporated town, and instructions provide that not more than 25 per cent of the allotment may be issued in any one week. The county rationing board is wondering how it can follow instructions.

REDS WIPE OUT SPAIN'S DIVISION ON NAZI FRONT

Vow to Carry Battle Into Germany.

MOSCOW, Jan. 3 (AP).—The Russian high command tonight reported virtual destruction of a division of Spanish volunteers and continued advances in the great counter offensive which is now hurling back the Germans from Moscow at a rate three times as fast as they had advanced

In a supplement to its regular evening communique, the Red army announced that a prisoner from the Spanish blue division had disclosed that more than 8,000 of its members had been killed.

The communique itself was less specific, but told of relentless drives "in several sectors" which resulted in the occupation of "a number of localities."

"Annihilate" Nazi Regiment.

The high command also declared that soviet warplanes yesterday "dispersed and partially annihilated" one Nazi infantry regiment and a platoon of cavalry, while destroying four armored cars, 309 trucks, four troop and supply-laden carts and five field guns and burning six railway trains.

A Red army unit in one sector of the front, the communique said, occupied "five populated places" within one day.

At the same time the government newspaper, Izvestia, sounded the keynote of a new Russian determination—to "force the Germans to retreat until Germany becomes a battlefield."

In the same tone, the Moscow radio said, "At the present moment the most important task is not to give the enemy a breathing space. The Red army must drive the enemy back until the last Nazi has been cleared from Russian soil."

Seize 100 Towns Since Christmas.

Maj. Gen. Golubev, who led Russian troops in the recapture of the important rail line city of Maloyaroslavets, 65 miles southwest of Moscow, said that the task was well under way.

In an interview in Izvestia, he asserted that Russian forces had driven steadily westward scores of kilometers, retaking at least 100 communities south and southwest of Moscow since Christmas along a route lined with German graves.

He said an average of 2,500 Germans a day had died in the path of that advance from Dec. 25 to 31 and reported that the Russians already were pushing on west of Maloyaroslavets in the direction of Vyazma, almost 150 miles west of Moscow.

Peril Nazis' Mozhaisk Salient.

This advance imperiled the whole German salient at Mozhaisk, 57 miles west of Moscow, the last of the positions from which the Nazis directly menaced the soviet capital before the turn of the tide of attack.

Gen. Golubev said the Russians retook Maloyaroslavets in a day and night of street fighting after circling German defense positions and cutting the Nazi communications.

He said the 15th, 98th, and 34th German infantry divisions were routed in the Red army's assault, leaving to the Russians large stores of ammunition and fuel and quantities of tanks and armored cars in good condition, some of them loaded on railway cars.

"We shall strive," he pledged, "to continue our very modest success."

New York, Jan. 4 [Sunday] (AP).—The London radio quoted the Moscow radio today as saying that "German losses in a recent surprise attack at the Crimean port of Theodosia amounted to 10,000 dead."

Nazis "Resisting" Says Berlin.

BERLIN, Jan. 3 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—German troops fighting in intense cold have been under strong attack since yesterday morning on the central Russian front, German spokesmen said tonight. The Germans, the spokesmen said, were resisting stubbornly.

In one sector a Red army armored division supported by infantry and artillery was said to have attacked in waves which the Germans reported fighting off in fierce engagements.

In one place on the northern front the Germans said they beat back an attack in which Russian cavalry charged across a frozen river.

SUMMARY OF THE FIGHTING ON ALL WORLD'S FRONTS

Here are the principal developments in the war on all fronts yesterday:

With American and Filipino troops consolidated in new positions northwest of Manila and ground fighting lessening, the war department reported a five hour Japanese bombing attack on the fortress of Corregidor in which 13 Americans were killed and 35 wounded. Material damage was slight, it was said. Tokio reported that flames from the burning military stores along the Pasig river in Manila, set by the American forces before they evacuated the city, are still visible, but that conditions are otherwise normal in the fallen capital.

Jap Landing Attempt Beaten.

In Malaya, a second attempt by the Japs in two days to land troops on the west coast was repulsed by the British, who blasted Japanese barges to bits and set a steamer afire. The British admitted Kuantan, 190 miles from Singapore, had been occupied and that Japanese pressure south of Ipoh in Perak state had been increased. Japan claimed to have occupied six of the Malay Federated States. The lower border of Pahang, southernmost of these states, is only 80 air miles from Singapore.

In the Dutch Indies the newspapers continued to emphasize the need for allied reënforcements, expressing gratitude for the American defense of the Philippines as having won precious time for the allies. The daily communique reported a slackening of the enemy's air activity, a single Japanese plane having attacked an airdrome in the outer islands.

Russians Destroy a Division.

On the wide Russian front a late Moscow communique claims further unspecified gains were made by the soviet forces and asserts a Spanish volunteer division was virtually destroyed. A prisoner was quoted as saying that 8,000 of his comrades had been slain. The Russians claimed they were hurling back the Germans on the Moscow front three times as fast as they had advanced.

In Egypt the British reported that the capture of Bardia on Friday had yielded more than 5,000 prisoners, including a major general named Schmidt and his entire staff. In addition the British liberated 1,150 British prisoners who had been held in the town and captured large quantities of supplies with which the axis had stocked the town in anticipation of a long siege.

POWNALL MADE CHIEF OF STAFF IN NEW SETUP

Armies on Mainland Under Chiang.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on Page 2.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, who planned and organized the conquest of most of Italy's African empire, today was named by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill to be chief of a unified allied high command in the southwest Pacific.

The appointment, which resulted from the strategy conferences here, is the first of a series expected to set up an allied high command in each theater of the war.

Churchill has indicated, with the approval of Mr. Roosevelt, that there will be no one supreme high commander, because the task of directing the allied forces in all theaters of the war is "too great for any one man, even a Napoleon."

Wavell, now British commander for India and Burma, will be in supreme command of all American, British, Netherlands, Australian, and New Zealand forces—land, sea, and air.

Brett Second in Command.

Maj. Gen. George H. Brett, chief of the United States army air corps, was named deputy supreme commander under Wavell.

Adm. Thomas C. Hart, commander in chief of the United States Asiatic fleet, will assume command of all allied naval units in the area, under the direction of Wavell.

Gen. Sir Henry Pownall, who recently took charge of the British forces at Singapore and on the Malayan peninsula, will be chief of staff to Wavell.

Nothing was said in the official announcement of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commander of American and Filipino far eastern forces defending Corregidor Island in Manila bay and the hills above the city of Manila, which was entered by Jap hordes yesterday.

China was excluded from the area under Wavell's supervision. All operations there, and in such portions of Thailand and French Indo-China as may become available to allied forces, were placed under the supreme command of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. American and British officers are to serve upon his headquarters staff.

Suggested by Roosevelt.

At the White House it was said that the appointment of Wavell as supreme commander of all the southwest Pacific forces was suggested by the President. The text of the announcement follows:

"1. As a result of proposals put forward by the United States and British chiefs of staff, and of their recommendations to President Roosevelt and to the prime minister, Mr. Churchill, it is announced that, with the concurrence of the Netherlands government and of the dominion governments concerned, a system of unified command will be established in the southwest Pacific area.

"2. All the forces in this area—sea, land and air—will operate under one supreme commander. At the suggestion of the President, in which all concerned have agreed, Gen. Sir A. Wavell has been appointed to this command.

Brett Already in Area.

"3. Maj. Gen. George H. Brett, chief of the air corps of the United States army, will be appointed deputy supreme commander. He now is in the far east. Under the direction of Gen. Wavell, Adm. Thomas C. Hart, United States navy, will assume command of all naval forces in the area. Gen. Sir Henry Pownall will be chief of staff to Gen. Wavell.

"4. Gen. Wavell will assume his command in the near future.

"5. At the same time, His Excellency, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, has accepted the supreme command over all land and air forces of the united nations which are now, or may in the future be, operating in the Chinese theater, including initially such portions of Indo-China and Thailand as may become available to troops of the united nations. United States and British representatives will serve on his joint headquarters planning staff."

Wavell, who is 58 years old, is the first British general to have scored a success against axis forces. He was in command of the middle east drive which took Ethiopia, Eritrea and Italian Somaliland from Mussolini's forces. When tension grew in the far east, he was transferred there to plan and organize the defense of India and Burma.

Gen. Brett was born in Cleveland, O., on Feb. 7, 1886. Being a careless scholar, he would not work to graduate from Central High school until his parents yielded to his desire to enter military school. He graduated from Virginia Military institute—as did Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff—well up in his class in 1909.

Brett served in the Philippines in 1910. In 1916 he transferred to the budding air corps, then a section of the signal corps. During the World war he was engaged in building up the air corps in this country.

Succeeded by Weaver.

Brett was promoted thru the grades to brigadier general, in which rank he was commander of the air forces at Panama, assistant chief of the air corps and chief of the materiel division at Wright field. Last May, when the army's aviation setup was reorganized, he was placed in command of the air corps, the procurement division of the army air forces.

This post went to Maj. Gen. Walter R. Weaver, the son of Maj. Gen. E. M. Weaver, a few days ago. Weaver was born in Charleston, S. C., and graduated from West Point in 1909. He trained aviation cadets during the World war.

NEW ZEALAND'S BUSINESS MEN AID AIR DEFENSE

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Jan. 3 (AP).—New Zealand pushed rapidly toward total mobilization for air raid defense today. All business men were served with notices demanding the organization of a continuous fire watching service and the government was said to be studying a plan for making civil defense membership compulsory.

All buildings are being examined to devise the best means of protection and decrees covering shelters are expected to be announced shortly.

Tightening of gasoline rationing continues. All bread deliveries to homes will be stopped Tuesday. State railroads have announced that the ban on long distance civilian travel will be lifted next week.

TELLS BRITAIN'S FEAR U. S. WILL CUT EMPIRE AID

New York, Jan. 3 (AP).—British fears that the United States might forget England's relief needs were disclosed today by Mrs. Cameron Clark upon her return from Great Britain, where she surveyed relief expenditures for the British War Relief Society of New York, Inc.

She said the British fear that the United States would concentrate too hard on its own wartime needs to continue foreign aid. She prepared a report on 15 million dollars raised by the society and, for the most part, spent in Britain.

Mrs. Clark arrived on the Yankee Clipper which also carried Charles Bateman, newly appointed British minister to Mexico.

Service Men in New York to Receive Free Lunches

New York, Jan. 3 (AP).—Men in service uniforms will be served free sandwiches and hot drinks from a mobile kitchen stationed at 6th avenue and 42d street, starting tomorrow, the American Women's Voluntary services announced today. Service men will be given coffee or tea, doughnuts or sandwiches, and cigarets from noon to midnight.

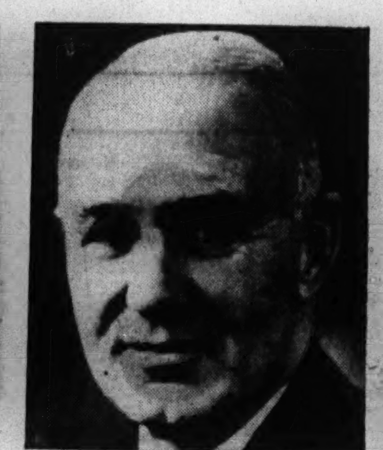
GEN. SIR ARCHIBALD WAVELL.

Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, who becomes chief of a unified allied high command in the southwest Pacific, with authority over all land, sea, and air forces, is a 58 year old fighter who lost an eye in the World war, learned desert fighting as an aide to Field Marshal Lord Allenby in Palestine and Syria, and a year ago gave axis forces their first setback in this war by routing the Italians in Africa.

Wavell began his army career with the famous Scottish Black Watch in 1901 and fought in the closing phases of the Boer war. He was decorated for frontier fighting in India in 1908. After two years in the thick of the fighting in France in the World war he served as liaison officer with the Russian army in the Caucasus.

Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German general staff, has called Wavell "the only good general Britain has."



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

MAJ. GEN. GEORGE H. BRETT.

Maj. Gen. George H. Brett of the United States army, who has been named second in command to Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell with the title of deputy supreme commander of allied forces in the Southwest Pacific, is chief of the United States air corps and is 55 years old—three years younger than Wavell.

Brett started his military career in the Philippine Scouts in 1910, a year after graduating from Virginia Military institute. During the first World war he was chief of the materiel division of the headquarters air force and in 1918 became director of military aeronautics in Washington.

He was appointed chief of staff of the general headquarters air force in 1938 and the following year became assistant to the chief of the air corps. He began a four year term as air corps chief on May 31, 1941.

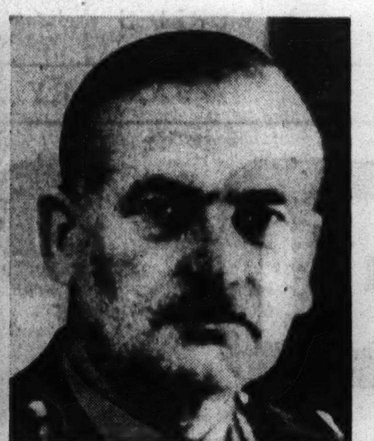
ADM. THOMAS C. HART.

Adm. Thomas C. Hart, who will assume command of all allied naval units in the Southwest Pacific area, subject only to the supreme command of Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, has been commander in chief of the United States Asiatic fleet since July 25, 1939, when he was given four star admiral rank.

Hart has had long experience in Pacific ocean operations and as a submarine man—both valuable assets in his new post. He was born in Genessee county, Mich., in 1877. After graduating from the United States Naval academy, he served during the Spanish-American war aboard the battleship Massachusetts.

In 1916 he commanded a submarine division of the Pacific fleet and in August, 1917, went to European waters in charge of two submarine divisions. He won the distinguished service medal for services during the World war.



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

GEN. SIR HENRY POWNALL.

Appointed chief of staff to Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, Gen. Sir Henry P. Pownall at 53 is one of Britain's youngest generals. On Dec. 27 he assumed command of British forces at Singapore, succeeding Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham.

Pownall served as an artillery officer in France and Belgium from 1914 to 1918 and won the distinguished service order and the military cross. He took part in operations on India's northwest frontier in 1931 and later commanded the artillery school in England.

From 1938 to 1940, Pownall served as war office director of military operations and intelligence, then was named chief of the general staff of the British expeditionary force. After Dunkirk he was made inspector general of the home guard and had a major rôle in reorganizing and arming the British to meet the Nazi invasion threat.

GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK.

Chiang Kai-shek, the man chosen to direct all allied land and air forces in China, is well known to Americans as the tall, slender generalissimo of Chinese forces who has gained worldwide recognition as a military strategist for his four and a half years of resistance to the Japanese invaders of his homeland.

Against overwhelmingly superior guns and equipment, he has held off the Japanese while unifying China. Born in 1888 in Fukien province, member of a family which for years controled the local salt monopoly, Chiang was educated at the Chinese government military school and in the Tokio military academy.

Chiang was captured and held prisoner in 1936 by a Chinese marshal, but eventually freed when his captors became convinced he alone could save China.

BRITISH BREAK UP 2D JAP LANDING PARTY IN MALAYA

Blast Troop Barges to Bits; Fire Steamer.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Jan. 4 [Sunday] [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—The newspaper Yomiuri reported today in a dispatch from Bangkok, Thailand, that 90,000 fresh Australian troops had landed in Singapore Dec. 31.

SINGAPORE, Jan. 3 (AP).—British batteries which blasted Japanese barges to bits and set a steamer afire broke a second Japanese attempt in two days to land troops behind defense lines on the west coast of Malaya, British headquarters announced today.

In a communique which covered operations thruout yesterday, the British said Japanese pressure south of Ipoh in Perak province on the west coast had been increased.

On the east coast, Japanese advance forces pushed into the outskirts of Kuantan, 190 miles from Singapore, the communique admitted. [The Japanese claimed capture of Kuantan Dec. 31.]

Exact location of the British defense line in Perak province has not been disclosed, but it was believed hinged near the mouth of the Perak river, 50 miles south of Ipoh and about 250 miles from Singapore.

Invaders Use Fishing Fleet.

Observers here expressed the belief that the Japanese were attempting to flank the Perak defenses by landings with native fishing craft seized on the Island of Penang.

The British communique said four barges used in the latest attempt were sunk and others withdrew under artillery fire.

It reported that the Japanese lost 400 to 500 men in their land thrust south thru Perak province.

Japs Claim Six States.

TOKIO, Jan. 4 [Sunday] (AP).—Domei news agency reported today that Japanese forces have occupied all of the Malayan states of Kedah, Perlis, Kelantan, Trengganu, Perak, and Pahang.

[Pahang, southernmost of the states claimed occupied, is a large state in west central Malaya, extending far north of Singapore, but at its nearest point coming within only about 80 air miles of the British naval base. Japanese occupation of Pahang would leave only the state of Johore standing between them and Singapore. There has been no confirmation of any such Japanese gains from any source, including the Japanese imperial headquarters. The nearest the British have placed the Japanese to Singapore was Kenaman, 175 miles to the north of the east Malaya coast, and there only advance patrol activity was reported.]

Jap Ace of London-Tokio Hop Fame, Dies in Action

TOKIO, Jan. 3 [Official Broadcast Recorded by Associated Press].—Masaaki Iinuma, one of Japan's ace pilots who flew the plane "Divine Wind" from Tokio to London in the record time of 94 hours and 18 minutes in 1937, died of wounds received during attacks on northern Malaya, army aviation headquarters announced today. Iinuma managed to bring his plane back to his base despite his injuries on Dec. 11, it was said.

ALLIES WARNED: DUTCH IN INDIES MUST HAVE HELP

Batavians Claim Isles Are Vital to U. S.

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Jan. 3 (AP).—Netherlands East Indies newspapers, warm in their praise for Gen. MacArthur's stubborn defense of the Philippines but aware it cannot be carried on indefinitely in the face of superior Japanese forces, reemphasized today the mounting importance of the Indies in the Pacific war theater and the urgent need to reënforce the islands' defenses.

The Surabaya [Java] Handelsblad, as quoted by the news agency Aneta, declared that even if the American and Filipino troops under Gen. MacArthur "cannot hold out they will have won precious time for the allies, for which they deserve praise."

Stress Need of Holding Isles.

The fact that time is so vital was stressed by the Preänger Bode of Bandoeng [Java]. It pointed out that if measures are not taken now to strengthen the Indies defense system and the Japanese thus are given the opportunity to establish bases in the outer islands, which they have attacked frequently by air, the allies in the future will have to make great sacrifices to recapture an archipelago which they now can hold "with comparatively small means."

"If the Netherlands Indies fall into enemy hands," the Preänger Bode warned, "the greater part of the Japanese forces could be released for operations elsewhere—for instance in Siberia, British India, and even the west coast of the United States."

Jap Air Activity Slackens.

Today's communique from the fighting forces reported a slackening of Japanese air activity, with a single plane reported to have dropped "a few incendiary bombs without doing any damage" on an airdrome in the outer possessions. The attack on Laboean Bilik [Sumatra] reported yesterday was aimed at shipping, but caused no damage.

At the same time it was learned from authoritative sources that the Japanese have not been able to take any oil out of oil fields in Sarawak and North Borneo, all of which were said to have been destroyed.

JAP WHO TWICE FOUGHT FOR U. S. SURRENDERS GUN

William Sato, a Japanese who came to this country in 1891 and subsequently served with the United States navy during the Spanish-American war and the World war, turned over a .22 caliber rifle and a camera to Sergt. Robert Ryan at the Chicago avenue police station yesterday.

He was one of many aliens who are bringing cameras and radios into police stations before the deadline—tomorrow night at 11 p. m.—for surrendering such articles. The 73 year old veteran was wearing an American Legion cap attesting his membership in a Legion post. Sato, who is also a former newspaper photographer, handed Sergt. Ryan a letter outlining his war service.

He displayed an honorary coroner's badge which had been presented to him for "valued services" during the Eastland steamship disaster in 1915. Sato, who lives at 167 Hill street, is a widower and father of three children.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 3 (AP).—The defense department today announced that Walter Manhardt, 24 year old German soldier who escaped from Bowmanville internment camp Tuesday night, had been captured at Ogdensburg, N. Y. He was turned over to royal Canadian mounted police at the Canadian border and started back to Bowmanville immediately. Bowmanville is in northern Ontario.

60 JAP BOMBERS RAID CORREGIDOR FORT; 13 KILLED

35 Wounded; 3 Enemy Planes Shot Down.

In the Graphic section is an article describing the victory of United States naval forces over the Japanese in the Strait of Shimonoseki on July 16, 1863.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 (AP).—A five hour Japanese air attack on Corregidor, America's "last hope" citadel in the Philippines, was reported today by the war department, but it said no material damage was inflicted on the island fortress in Manila bay.

Three of 60 air raiders were shot down, while the defenders lost 13 men killed and 35 wounded. The communique said:

"1. Philippine theater: Corregidor Island in Manila bay sustained a five hour aerial bombardment yesterday. The enemy air force attacking the island was composed of at least 60 bombers. There was no material damage to installations on the island.

Ground Attacks Lessened.

"Our casualties resulting from this attack were 13 killed and 35 wounded. At least three enemy planes were shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

"There was a marked lessening of enemy ground attacks. American and Philippine troops were consolidated in new positions, where organized resistance to Japanese attacks will be intensified.

"Enemy airplanes were active in the region occupied by our ground forces.

"2. There is nothing to report from other areas."

MacArthur's Line Strong.

The war department's curt summary of the fighting was its most revealing communique since its announcement that MacArthur had surrendered Manila and withdrawn to the north and northwest of the city.

The announcement used such definite language that many presumed MacArthur's men had established a strong line from which they could prolong the fighting for a considerable period. His forces stand on a terrain that is a mosaic of mountain and jungle and naturally suited to defensive fighting.

But the most that was hoped for was a long delaying battle which would keep the full might of Japan's mechanized hordes away from Malaya and the battle for Singapore, while the allied positions there are strengthened.

Holds Naval Station.

So far as is known, MacArthur's lines include the secondary naval station, Olongapo, on Subic bay, at the northern end of the Bataan peninsula. It was conjectured that a considerable quantity of stores and supplies might have been cached there. Some of the more hopeful were suggesting that reinforcements could be landed within the American lines at Olongapo. There has been no word of Japanese bombing on the shore facilities there.

Corregidor lies some two miles off the tip of the peninsula in the entrance to Manila bay. It is a low-lying island of almost solid rock into which have been chiseled fortifications which long were considered invulnerable. The negligible damage done by 60 enemy bombers in a five hour assault is evidence of its strength.

Should MacArthur's men ultimately be driven off the peninsula, conjecture is that they could be evacuated to Corregidor. Tokio reports have said that some of the general's troops and the general himself have already been evacuated to the island, but these statements have not been confirmed.

No Guerrilla Tactics.

Military men said the communique's reference to intensified organized resistance by the unified defending forces made it clear Gen. MacArthur had no intention of resorting to guerrilla tactics. As long as his main force remains intact, it was expected hit-run tactics would be executed only by relatively small, isolated forces in the mountains and swamps of Luzon and other islands.

FIRES IN MANILA SET BY U. S. STILL RAGING, SAY JAPS

Assert City Otherwise Is Normal.

TOKIO, Jan. 3 [Official broadcast recorded by Associated Press].—The first Japanese dispatch from Manila since the Japanese occupation said fires still were raging tonight along both banks of the Pasig river where military stores and oil tanks were set aflame by American forces before they left.

The dispatch, filed by a Domei correspondent, said the occupying forces "found virtually no traces of Japanese bombing of nonmilitary objectives in Manila."

[Actually, the famed Santo Domingo church, several schools and convents and other nonmilitary targets were levelled in the walled city of Manila by Japanese air raiders after Manila was declared an open city.]

Quezon's Whereabouts Mystery.

The whereabouts of High Commissioner Francis B. Sayre and President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines "remained a mystery," the account said. It reiterated previous Japanese reports that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had gone to Corregidor, island fortress at the entrance to Manila bay.

Japanese residents of Manila, numbering about 15,000, were reported unharmed.

Except for the fires burning on the shores of the Pasig river, the dispitch said "conditions are nearly normal with no signs of panic, and tram cars are operating as usual."

Claim Luzon Won.

The Japanese were told that the battle for the Manila bay stronghold of Corregidor was under way, that Luzon virtually was won, and that occupation of Mindanao, second largest of the Philippine Islands, had been completed.

Domei said it had "learned from the Japanese army headquarters on Luzon" that "Corregidor was subjected to joint attack by Japanese land and naval forces."

Domei added that Japanese bombers had attacked ships transporting American and Philippine troops to Corregidor.

Admit Strong Resistance.

An army spokesman said others of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's defense forces were putting up desperate resistance in the Bataan area northwest of Manila, where a mountainous peninsula juts within two miles of Corregidor from the north.

The Japanese press forecast continued guerrilla opposition for some time, altho the army headquarters predicted that American resistance would be broken soon.

The Japan Times and Advertiser said one result of the Japanese success on Luzon would be a diversion of strength to other fronts such as Malaya, where it predicted that the Japanese drive would be doubled in power.

A Japanese broadcast on the occupation of Manila implied that the troops of the mikado had to fight their way into the city. It said the Japanese, "braving furious fire, stormed the city, utilizing Manila's modern highways."

NOTHING BUT PRAISE FOR GEN. M'ARTHUR, AUSTRALIA DECLARES

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3 (AP).—The Melbourne radio, commenting on the fall of Manila, said today there was nothing but praise in Australia for the way Gen. Douglas MacArthur handled his men.

The broadcast quoted the Brisbane Herald as saying "the defense of the Philippines has not been in vain. Gen. MacArthur's stand at least occupied a considerable part of Japan's effort for three weeks. This was of tremendous value, as everything depended on gaining time to allow consolidation and reënforcement of allied positions in Malaya, Burma, and the East Indies."

Of the 26 nation anti-axis solidarity pact announced yesterday in Washington, D. C., the Melbourne radio said: "The way may be long but the ultimate result can no longer be in doubt."

COL. M'CORMICK FORESEES U-BOAT PLANE CARRIERS

Reviews Aerial Victories Over Warships.

Successes of aircraft in conflicts with warships in the present war indicate that an aircraft carrier is "enormously superior to a battleship, perhaps to a whole fleet of battleships," Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, asserted in a radio address broadcast last night by W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual Broadcasting system. The speech was a feature of the Chicago Theater of the Air hour.

Because of the vulnerability of an aircraft carrier to air attack, Col. McCormick said, "it appears that the carrier of the future will be a submarine of great size, with a flat top deck and capable of great submergence. Such a ship, when in danger from the air, could seek safety and escape by plunging into the bowels of the ocean," he added.

TEXT OF THE ADDRESS

The text of the address follows:

"Aircraft have been in action against surface craft under many conditions, and have won in every fight.

"The first successes were in the Skagerrak and off the coast of Norway, when the Luftwaffe drove off the British navy and permitted German transports to operate at will.

"This defeat was explained away on the grounds that airplanes had a special advantage when operating close to landing fields.

"Then came the capture of Crete. The British sought to save the islands by sending in the fleet to prevent the passage of troops in transports. They did not save the islands, which were captured from the air. They merely subjected their ships to a battering that sank some and forced the rest to retire all the way to California for repairs. The Luftwaffe was strong enough to defeat the British fleet and to take Crete at the same time.

Bismarck Defeated by One Plane.

"Then came the defeat of the Bismarck, the strongest battleship afloat, by the old airplane carrier, the Ark Royal, using only one torpedo plane. It was ship against ship. The Ark Royal, over the horizon, out of sight of the Bismarck, sent over a torpedo plane which put the battleship out of action. Not a plane or a man from the aircraft carrier was injured in destroying the 100 million dollar battleship and over a thousand of her crew. This was explained away by saying that the Bismarck was not accompanied by destroyers. It was claimed that if she had been accompanied by destroyers, they would have shot down the torpedo plane.

"British aviation had obtained a notable victory over the Italian navy when its naval flyers raided the harbor at Taranto and sank a substantial part of the Italian fleet.

"It should be borne in mind that a fleet in a harbor has, in addition to its own guns, the protection of the anti-aircraft guns on shore. The torpedo plane victory at Taranto and the disaster at Pearl Harbor were explained away with the statement that the responsible officers had neglected their duty and were surprised at anchor. However, a few days later the British battleship Prince of Wales and the battle cruiser Repulse were not surprised, were under way, and were surrounded by destroyers when both of them were sunk by aircraft.

Planes in Small Numbers.

"In none of these air victories, unless it be those of the Skagerrak and Norway, did the airplanes appear to have been in great numbers.

"Finally, our own heroes, flying inferior airplanes against superior material and overwhelming odds, sank one Japanese battleship and badly injured another.

"These exploits indicate the possibilities of aircraft carriers in war. The longest range at which guns have sunk a ship was 28,000 yards, when the Bismarck sank the Hood. The range at which bombs can be dropped from a carrier is measured in the hundreds of miles.

"Where bombs can be dropped, so can men. You can easily imagine parachute troops and air infantry in almost any number being transferred from transports to a carrier and flown to an objective. Islands will be rendered quite untenable by such attack.

"On the open ocean an aircraft carrier would now appear to be enormously superior to a battleship, perhaps to a whole fleet of battleships. There is no evidence that more than one carrier was used in bombing our fleet in Pearl Harbor or our air field at Manila or the Italian base at Taranto.

Planes' Advantages Over Ships.

"Let us now consider the advantages of airplanes over ships.

"The first one in itself is practically decisive in that the airplane can always attack the ship and the ship can never attack the airplane. The ship can lose or draw, but it cannot win.

"The airplane may choose from a variety of tactics. If the day be clear the airplane moving in level flight above the anti-aircraft range or the effective anti-aircraft range of the ship, dropping its bombs by calculation and correcting its range after each miss, will eventually score a hit. Or the airplane, especially if the clouds are low, may locate the ship and resort to dive bombing, which appears to be the favorite German method of attack, and the one used by our airmen in the Philippines. Or it may come in the early morning out of the sun, flying low, and unleash a torpedo. Or it may dive from a high altitude some distance away from the target and level off to fire its torpedo. During the dive the airplane is almost impossible to hit, and the time of leveling off is short. Or it may approach in a series of S's both horizontal and vertical, confusing the anti-aircraft aim.

Smoke Screens Aid Planes.

"The attack may be made with the aid of a smoke screen. Smoke laying planes may lay a screen at any convenient distance from the target. The attack planes will be within torpedo range when they break thru the wall of smoke. Or any combination of these methods may be used or all of them may be used.

"As the carrier when found is liable to destruction if its own fighter screen is defeated or penetrated, it appears that the carrier of the future will be a submarine of great size, with a flat top deck and capable of great submergence. Such a ship, when in danger from the air, could seek safety and escape by plunging into the bowels of the ocean.

"For the war of today we must find alert minds that can quickly grasp the new principles and think in terms of hundreds of miles per hour. The pedants, steeped in the methods of the past, and with calculations attuned to the speed of 20 to 30 miles an hour, must give way to men who can win victory wherever they may be found."

Father and Two Sons Join Navy

Recruiting Offices Busy

Long lines of men seeking enlistment in the armed forces taxed Chicago recruiting facilities again yesterday. Since war was declared 5,628 men have been enlisted in Chicago. The navy accepted 2,612; the marines, 896; the army, 1,820, and the coast guard 300.

A father and two sons, Charles E. Stephenson, 49 years old, Thomas, 20, and Richard, 18, of Geneseo, Henry county, were enlisted in the navy. The elder Stephenson served in the navy from 1912 to 1919.

Eight recruits from Neenah, Wis., were enlisted in the coast guard. They are Leander J. Buckberger, Tom R. Young, Robert J. Kelly, Eugene G. Chapleau, William J. Gerbrick, Leo K. Peterson, George W. Gmeiner, and Donald C. Mitchell.

GIVE OPERETTA 'EILEEN'

The musical offering of the evening was Victor Herbert's operetta "Eileen," with Marion Claire, Jan Peerce, Bruce Foote, and Edna Thompson in the leading rôles.

The speaking cast was composed of Luise Barclay, Bob Bailey, Marvin Mueller, Marilou Neumayer, Bret Morrison, Bess McCammon, Ray Suber, Bob Jellison, and Willard Waterman.

Henry Weber conducted the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and ensemble. Robert Trendler was the ensemble coach; Lewis James, the vocal coach, and William A. Bacher, the producer. John Weigel was the narrator.

ALLIED COMMAND RAISES QUESTION OF EMPIRE DRAFT

Foreign Service in Most British Lands Voluntary.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 [Special].—With a unified command set up for the allied troops in the Pacific, the question was raised here today as to how troops for the armies will be raised, particularly those of the British empire.

In the United States all men between the ages of 18 and 64, inclusive, must register for conscription with those between 20 and 44 being eligible for combat duty anywhere. There is also a general conscription law in the kingdom of Great Britain except Northern Ireland.

Conscription Conditions Vary.

In the British empire, however, conscription conditions vary with each dominion, as follows:

CANADA—Here conscription is for home defense only, with all single men between 19 and 45 eligible. Foreign service is voluntary. Canada at present drafts men from 21 to 24 who have not joined one of the forces for full-time duties with the active army. During their four months of preliminary training, these men are given an opportunity to volunteer for active service wherever required with the army, navy, or air force. Those who do not volunteer for such services are posted to home defense duties.

Compulsory military training was announced in Canada in June, 1940, under the National Resources Mobilization act, which specified, however, that the draft power "may not be exercised for the purpose of requiring persons to serve in the military, naval, or air forces outside of Canada or the territorial waters thereof." Canada at present has about 500,000 men under arms. Of this force, 240,000 are volunteers and more than half of them are serving overseas.

May Volunteer for Overseas.

AUSTRALIA—Under its World war compulsory service system, Australia faces a legal provision against overseas service. However, draftees may volunteer for overseas duty. The home defense conscription provides for the drafting of all single men and married men without children between the ages of 18 and 45. The government has no power to institute conscription for service overseas by decree. This could be ordered only thru an act passed by both houses of the Australian parliament.

Australia is reported to have about 500,000 men in service or training at home and overseas. Militia training has been extended to full-time and a volunteer women's army corps has been enrolled to release men for the fighting services.

NEW ZEALAND—Here the conscription provisions are similar to those of the United States, there being unrestricted conscription of men from 18 to 45, while only those between 20 and 40 are liable for overseas service. Those not eligible for foreign duty have been organized into home defense units. A lottery conscription of the single men within the combat ages has just been completed, and New Zealand is now combing thru the married men up to 40. About a third of the dominion's 700,000 males either are fighting or are getting ready to fight.

SOUTH AFRICA—There is no conscription in South Africa, but there is a volunteer reserve open to men from 17 to 60. All members of this reserve are liable to active service for home defense. Service outside Africa is voluntary.

NORTHERN IRELAND — Service here is entirely voluntary.

INDIA—British born subjects in India are subject to the same laws as England, which has general conscription. The Indian army, however, is made up of volunteers who may be sent anywhere.

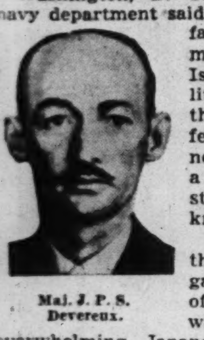
SAGA OF HEROISM SEEPS THRU MIST OF WAKE ISLAND

How Marines Sank Four Japanese Warships.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Maj. J. P. S. Devereux.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—The navy department said today that the fate of some 400 marines on Wake Island, America's little outpost in the Pacific which fell to the Japanese Dec. 21 after a heroic 14 day stand, still is unknown.

But some of the details of the gallant defense of the little band which resisted an overwhelming Japanese attack for two weeks have seeped thru to the capital.

Apparently a slender little Irishman with a French name, Maj. James Patrick Sinnot Devereux, commander of the island's forces, mainly was responsible for the strength of the resistance. He directed the defense with but 12 fighter planes at the outset, six cannon, and several aircraft guns.

Four Jap Warships Sunk.

At the end the American air forces had sunk three Japanese destroyers and one cruiser. There was only one American plane at the end.

There was much mystery concerning how fighter planes, which do not ordinarily carry bombs, could have accomplished such destruction. It was an unprecedented action, but the unofficial but authoritative explanation today was as follows:

Some of the men, it was said, who probably assisted the marine corps aviation unit in keeping its planes in the air, were civilian mechanics, employed by the Consolidated Aircraft corporation of San Diego, Cal., who had been left on the island a day or two before the Japs made their attack.

Ferry Crews on Island.

These men were supposed to take care of Consolidated PBY planes [patrol bombers] that were being ferried by civilian crews from the factory to the Philippines. These planes had been stopped at Wake Island for fuel and the mechanics had been left there to service them.

After the first unexpected wave of Jap bombers crossed the island, destroying eight American planes, the mechanics took charge of maintaining the four marine fighters which still were serviceable. They took parts off the damaged planes and patched together the four remaining planes after each battle. Their efforts, along with those of the marine crews, kept the United States in control for at least 12 days after the Japanese had calculated upon making a landing.

Fitted to Carry Bombs.

The solution of the bombing mystery is that the navy's single seater fighting planes, which were the type stationed at Wake, are fitted to carry light bombs as well as machine guns. All navy-trained pilots are given dive bombing training, and the marines used this type of attack to sink the Jap warships.

Bombs as heavy as 200 pounds may be slung under the wings of these fighters and released in dive tactics that the Japanese and Germans have proved are effective against lightly armored vessels.

Maj. Devereux, who rose from the ranks, is a soldier from a family of soldiers. His father was Lieut. Col. John R. Devereux who served in Cuba with Maj. Gen. Leonard R. Wood. His wife is the daughter of an army officer, one brother was with the AEF, and another is in the army air corps.

A Marine's Reply!

His acquaintances say he is the kind of a man who would not be considered a son of Mars. He is slightly built, with thinning hair and a small mustache. But after countless attacks from sea and air, he was asked by the navy at Hawaii whether he needed anything, he sent back a marine's reply: "Send us some more Japs!"

Maj. Devereux is a native of Washington, D. C. After schooling in Maryland he enlisted as a private in the marine corps in 1923. He was sent to the marine corps school in Philadelphia and was graduated there in 1925 with a commission as second lieutenant. His service history thenceforth is typically that of the marine corps. He was in Norfolk, Va.; Quantico, Va.; Guantanamo bay, Cuba; Nicaragua; Shanghai, and Peking. In Peking he married Mary Welch, who lives now with their son and her father at Governor's Island, N. Y.

Devereux is an excellent polo player who owned and raced his own ponies in China and San Diego.

Pictures were released yesterday from Washington, D. C., with the approval of United States censor, showing activities of American forces aboard transports in a heavily guarded convoy as they arrived at a destination "somewhere in the Pacific theater."

Censorship regulations prohibit the disclosure of the point of embarkation and the destination of the convoy. The pictures were the first to be returned by press service photgraphers who accompanied the convoy.

HAWAII ATTACK TAUGHT LESSONS IN WAR SURGERY

New Fragment Locator Saves X-Ray Time.

[Copyright: 1942: By the New York Times.]

HONOLULU, Jan. 3.—Lessons in surgical and medical treatment learned in Honolulu during the Japanese attack of Dec. 7 will be invaluable to the United States, Dr. John J. Moorhead, professor of surgery at New York post-graduate medical school and hospital, said today. Dr. Moorhead came to Hawaii Dec. 3 and was lecturing to a group of physicians at a hospital here early that Sunday when the Japanese planes roared overhead.

Foreign Body Detector.

Dr. Moorhead said that especially valuable for treating bomb fragment wounds was a foreign body detector invented by a New York transit electrician named Parens. Working on the principle of a radio tube, it has a long pencil-like apparatus that shows on a recording dial the presence and shape of a metallic substance in the body. The instrument, said to be the only one made, is being left in Honolulu.

"In the crisis of that morning," said Dr. Moorhead, "it proved invaluable for saving precious time in X-ray and probing. This locator is a distinct contribution to war surgery. I intend to advise its manufacture in quantity for distribution everywhere."

Hold Gangrene to Minimum.

Dr. Moorhead said that thru use of the instrument and application of sulfa drugs, infections, and the dread gas gangrene had been held to a minimum.

The Honolulu Medical society has presented a medal and an etching to Dr. Moorhead in recognition of his work in helping to care for the wounded. Dr. Moorhead himself praised the civilian medical setup and aid in the disaster.

Dr. Moorhead, a colonel in the army medical reserve, is a veteran of World war I., having served in France and Belgium. When he heard bombs dropping, he rushed to the army hospital here and started work. He has been on active duty since.

3 U-BOATS SUNK, CONVOY SAVED IN ATLANTIC BATTLE

Four of Britain's Warships Downed at Sea.

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP).—Britain told the story today of this winter's first great engagement in the battle of the Atlantic—how the royal navy, with sea and aircraft units made in America, brought a great convoy to port over 90 per cent intact after blowing at least three German submarines to bits in a five day fight.

The convoy's protectors lost the destroyer Stanley, which was the former U. S. S. McCalla, and an auxiliary catapult warship which, ironically enough, was converted from the former German merchantman Hanover, salvaged and taken as a prize by a naval patrol in the west Atlantic in March of 1940 after her crew had tried to scuttle her.

These were not the only losses which the admiralty announced today. It disclosed also that the 7,175 ton British cruiser Neptune and the 1,600 ton destroyer Kandahar had been destroyed in a Mediterranean minefield.

Lose Four Warships.

Thus the British acknowledged the sinking of a total of four of their warships: A cruiser, two destroyers, and a converted prize of war.

Of the convoy's more than 30 merchantmen, two, totaling but 6,193 tons, were sunk in the Atlantic battle.

Added to the three U-boats known to have been sunk in the convoy fight—prisoners were taken from each—was the destruction of two German bombers and serious damage to a third. The admiralty said also that American made Liberator [Consolidated] bombers of the British coastal command joined the naval escort in the last of its counterattacks, during which more German submarines may have been sunk.

The converted auxiliary that was sunk had been renamed the Audacity. The Germans, in reporting its destruction the day before Christmas, first referred to it as a 23,000 ton aircraft carrier, then as the 14,500 ton naval air supply ship Unicorn. Never, apparently, did they recognize it as their own former freighter, or at least they did not want to tell the German people so.

Charge 600 Pct. Exaggeration.

The admiralty, recalling that the Germans claimed that nine merchant ships totaling 37,000 tons were sunk out of the convoy, remarked that this was better than 600 per cent exaggerated.

Its communique, reflecting the confidence which Prime Minister Churchill and other leaders have expressed in the favorable allied position on the Atlantic bridge of ships, began with the sentence: "Week after week our convoys continue to arrive, bringing vital supplies to our shores."

The battle began on Dec. 17, on the morning of which the first U-boat was sunk on the surface by gunfire. It was Dec. 21, the admiralty said, when the last attackers were routed.

The convoy was under a veteran commander, Vice Adm. Raymond Fitzmaurice, who now is Sir Raymond, since he was knighted in the New Year's honors list. The senior officer of the convoy escorts was Commander F. J. Walker, in the Stork, a 1,190 ton escort sloop. Walker was given the Distinguished Service order for his part in the battle.

On the afternoon of Dec. 17, after the first U-boat had been forced to the surface and then blown apart by destroyers' guns, two German bombers were driven off by naval planes from the Audacity.

The next day the U-boats returned. A second submarine was forced to the surface by depth charges and sunk.

A few hours later the destroyer Stanley, which had aided in the destruction of the second submarine, was torpedoed and went to the bottom.

The other members of the escort blasted away again below the sea and finally a third U-boat bobbed up. The Stork came about swiftly and rammed the submarine headon, breaking her up.

Two Bombers Downed.

On Dec. 19 the bombers came back, and the Audacity's naval planes again took to the battle. Two of the German bombers plunged into the sea; a third, said the admiralty, limped away, badly hurt.

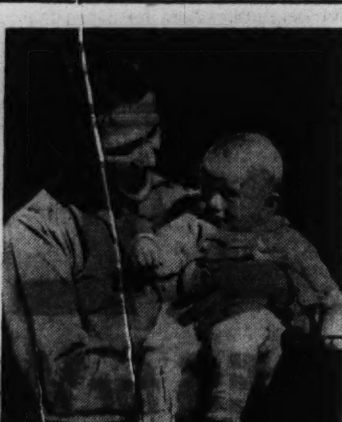
For two more days, then, U-boats again and again attacked, and finally the Audacity was sunk.

"Thruout these two days, the remaining U-boats were relentlessly hunted and heavily depth charged by convoy escorts," said the communique. "On Dec. 21 the attack was finally driven off. American built Liberator aircraft of the coastal command of the RAF joined the convoy at this stage and played a conspicuous part in the final series of counterattacks which eventually freed the convoy from further pursuit."

There was no estimate of the number of men lost in the sinkings of the British ships.

Including today's losses, the British have acknowledged the destruction of 12 cruisers and 57 destroyers since the start of the war.

Killed in Philippines



Lieut. William H. Slicer of Chicago and infant son, William H. III., in a picture made several months ago.

Joseph Cichon of 2721 South Kostner avenue, who received word from the navy department two weeks ago that his son, George, 20 years old, had been killed at Pearl Harbor, received another message yesterday stating that Cichon had survived the Japanese attack. Word from young Cichon telling of his welfare would be received at an early date, the second telegram said. He has been in the navy 16 months.

Lieut. William H. Slicer, 24, of 1000 South Mayfield avenue, father of two children, was killed Dec. 19 during the Japanese invasion of the Philippines, relatives and friends learned yesterday. His widow, Dorothy, received the information Friday in a telegram from the war department. Until he was inducted into federal service, Lieut. Slicer was a member of the Maywood tank company of the Illinois National Guard for six years. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Slicer, live at 1845 South 15th avenue, Maywood.

Frank K. Davis, a former clerk at the Edgewater Beach hotel, reported Dec. 23 to have been missing in action in the Pacific by the navy department, is alive, according to word received yesterday by his father. The original notification was sent to Davis' mother in California. Yesterday's message was sent to the father, Virgil Davis of Stronghurst, Ill.

Asks Northwest's Papers Stop Weather Forecasts

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 3 (AP).—The second interceptor command today requested newspapers in the 11 states covered by the command to refrain from publishing maximum and minimum temperatures and weather forecasts. States affected are Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, and Kansas. The command explained that bureaus would hereafter release no prohibited information. Storm warnings, however, would be given when property damage might thus be avoided.

Argentina Looks to Its Southern Air Defenses

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Jan. 3.—Rear Adm. Marcos a Zar, a director general of naval aviation, is to leave soon for an aerial inspection tour of the southern territories of Rio Negro, Chubut, Santa Cruz, and Tierra del Fuego in connection with government plans to establish naval air bases along the Atlantic coast. This was taken to indicate the government is growing increasingly aware of the vulnerability to attack of southern Argentina.

CITIZENS TO MOVE IN SAN FRANCISCO IF ENEMY STRIKES

City Blacked Out

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 3 (AP).—The roar of unidentified planes 80 miles west of the Golden Gate, picked up by an air raid listening post, gave the San Francisco bay district a 44 minute blackout tonight. The sound later faded and the all-clear signal was sounded. It was San Francisco's first blackout since Friday, Dec. 12. The bay district then was in darkness more than two hours. The blackout extended to Santa Cruz, 96 miles south of San Francisco, and to Santa Rosa and Napa, some 50 miles north.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 3 [Special].—Evacuation plans under which all or part of San Francisco's population of 650,000 would be moved out of the "combat zone," if war conditions necessitate, were laid today before army officers by civilian defense leaders. Max P. Lilienthal, chief of the civilian evacuation service, said the army representatives approved the program.

Warned of Bombings.

Evacuation orders will come only from the army but, if an order is given, the air raid warden captains then will decide on questions of procedure.

Lieut. Gen. John L. De Witt, the commanding general in this district, repeatedly has warned of the possibility that the Japanese might bomb west coast cities.

Army officers sniffed but offered no comment on a message left by a southern California hotel manager in the rooms of his patrons. It said: "We have reliable information that southern California will never be attacked by Japan."

Urge Home Guard Units.

Meanwhile a joint legislative committee considering California's defense needs was urged today by a subcommittee to reduce the state guard to about half the size contemplated at present and to set up home guard units for duty within their own cities and counties.

BITTERCOLDGRIPS EUROPE; LACK OF FUEL ADDS PERIL

BERNE, Jan. 4 [Sunday] (AP).—Bitter cold is sweeping southern Europe, adding to the suffering of people already distressed by lack of fuel.

Madrid reported a low of 3 degrees above zero [Fahrenheit] in the Aragon region of Spain. Many people are reported to have been frozen to death.

Turkey's cold wave has set a new 25 year low. In Italy, where schools closed to conserve fuel, unusually heavy snowstorms intensified suffering. Several persons froze to death.

In Albania snow has reached the unusual depth of three feet.

READY FOR MASS PRODUCTION OF NEW WARPLANE

U. S. Will Build Plants "Between Mountains."

Turn to front page of the rotogravure section and to the Graphic section for pictures and an article about new types of United States warplanes.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 [Special].—The United States soon will begin the manufacture of a new, secret interceptor plane, the Office of Emergency Management announced today. At the same time it said the airplane plants constructed in the future will be located "in the area between the mountain ranges."

The new interceptor, which is the type the American air forces have needed most, is to be one of a few models on which the country's plane building resources will be concentrated in the future, OEM said.

Without specifically designating the types of planes chosen under the new policy of standardization and concentration, an OEM summary stressed the importance of the new interceptor, which is the Republic P-47, as well as the Lockheed P-38 and the Bell Airacobra.

Outstanding Points Summarized.

In brief, these are the features of the three:

The new interceptor: Said by the army to be the world's fastest single-engined ship. It is to be heavily armed with large and small caliber guns. Tests have shown a speed of 680 miles an hour in power dives and 400 miles or better on the level. Built by Republic Aviation corporation, it is powered by a 2,000 horse power engine turning a four-bladed propeller more than 12 feet in diameter. It is said to weigh as much as the two-engined Lockheed P-38; twice as much as the Airacobra.

The Lockheed P-38: This is the army's fastest military plane, with a speed well in excess of 400 miles an hour. It is a low winged monoplane with tricycle landing gear, climbs 2,860 feet a minute, and has a service ceiling of 30,000 feet. As armament it carries a 37 mm. cannon and four .50 caliber machine guns. The British, for whom the ship has done excellent service, have dubbed it the "Lightning." Its two 12 cylinder supercharged engines are rated at 1,150 horse power each.

The Bell Airacobra: This is a single-place, single-engined pursuit ship, with the engine placed behind the pilot and driving a propeller in the nose by means of a long shaft. It weighs about 6,000 pounds and, the OEM asserts, "has no equal" as a middle altitude fighter and ground strafer. It is armed with 37 mm. cannon and .50 and .30 caliber machine guns. The cannon shoots thru the hollow drive shaft. The British have been using this plane with great effectiveness in their African campaigns.

Improved Pursuit Ships.

Altho emphasizing the three types described, the OEM announcement added a discussion of pursuit ships and said that later models of the Curtiss P-40 have greater horsepower and much higher fire power than even the predecessors of this type which have "done such meritorious work for the British in the middle east."

The statement explained that the RAF version of this plane is called the Tomahawk, while the sixth model, now being supplied, is the Buffalo. This plane has shown exceptional performance, the OEM said, at altitudes where bomber interceptions are now taking place. Its equipment includes leakproof tanks and fuel system, bulletproof glass, armor plate, an extra fuel tank in the belly, and full pilot protection.

The OEM said that concentration on a few types will not necessarily end improvements on other types; on the contrary, it said that "research and experimentation will continue at an accelerated" rate, but limitation on the number of planes and purposes "will make it possible to build more of the chosen few."

More four engined bombers than ever before were promised by the OEM, which said it will be necessary "to assign the efforts of a large section of the aircraft industry" to this end. It was in this connection that the OEM said the industry is emphasizing plans for more plants in the interior of the country, possibly the middle west, to which all operations might be moved in the event of damage on the coasts.

Friend of the YANKS

[The "Friend of the Yank" department in The Tribune will attempt to answer draft and military service questions, both in the daily columns of the newspaper and personally if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the query. Information on army and navy service also will be given by The Tribune's Public Service offices in Tribune Tower and at 1 South Dearborn street.]

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

The Friend of the Yanks department has had several inquiries from young machinists, electricians, and other craftsmen, asking whether the fighting forces will grant them a higher rank than the ordinary recruit if hey volunteer at this time. This question, put to Chicago representatives of the army, navy, marine corps, and coast guard, elicited the following answers:

Navy—The United States naval reserve now is accepting "specialists" such as electricians, machinists, carpenters, radio operators, tinsmiths, and a score of other tradesmen as petty officers, even tho they have had no previous naval experience. Such men start in the navy at salaries ranging upwards from $60 a month, compared with the $21 a month received by the ordinary recruit.

Required to Prove Ability.

Men desiring to enlist as specialists are interviewed by recruiting officers who determine whether they are fit for petty officer ratings. They must present proof of their ability in their specialties.

This applies only to the naval reserve. Men volunteering for the regular navy are accepted only as apprentice seamen unless they have had previous naval training.

Coast Guard—This service follows the same general policy of the navy in accepting specialists. The coast guard reserve accepts technicians as petty officers third class, at $60 a month, without previous military training. Specialists with previous military training may be accepted by the reserve as petty officers, second class, at $72 a month base pay.

In the regular coast guard, men without previous military training are accepted only as apprentice seamen at $21 a month, unless there is special authorization from Washington, D. C.

Army Takes All as Privates.

Army—The army enlists men for general service only and grants no noncommissioned officer ratings at the time of enlistment for special abilities to men without previous military training.

However, classification officers at the reception center and later during the recruits' training, interview each man and learn what trade or occupation he is best suited for. Men who are trained specialists in some particular line have a fine chance to attain a noncommissioned rank within a short time, it was explained.

Marine Corps—The marines follow the army's policy. Men without previous military training all go in as privates for general service.

At the marine reception center and during the eight weeks of recruit training, classification officers interview each man, as in the army, to determine what he is best suited for. And, as in the army, specialists stand a good chance of advancing rapidly.

Navy Slang.

W. F. B. writes—"In letters from my son in the navy he mentions the 'scuttlebutt' and the 'jo-pot.' What is he talking about?"

Reply.

Slanguists of the Great Lakes Naval Training station report that a "scuttlebutt" is a ship's drinking fountain, and a "jo-pot" is the huge coffee urn.

ARMY'S BIGGEST FIELD GUN TO BE TAKEN THRU CITY

A 240 mm. howitzer, largest piece of artillery in army service, will move thru Chicago streets Jan. 11 and probably be placed on display at some public place yet to be chosen, Col. Donald Armstrong, deputy district chief of the Chicago Ordnance district, said yesterday.

The weapon has a bore of a little more than 9½ inches. Altho it is surpassed in range by the 155 mm. field gun, with a bore of about 6½ inches, the heavier howitzer has immeasurably greater destructive power, Armstrong said.

When it passes thru Chicago, the howitzer will be on its way from Milwaukee to the ordnance proving ground at Aberdeen, Md.

AMERICAS TEST DEFENSE PLAN IN RIO TALK JAN. 15

G. H. Q. for Hemisphere Is Discussed.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 3 [Wide World].—Plans and principles laid down in peace time for the defense of the Americas come under the test of war when the consultative conference of foreign ministers opens here Jan. 15.

Out of the meeting, requested by Washington after Japan, Germany, and Italy went to war with the United States, should come concrete measures to strengthen the military and economic defense of the new world nations.

With the Brazilian foreign minister, Oswaldo de Freitas Valle Aranha, presiding, the parley is scheduled to open in the Palacio Tiradentes, which once housed the now extinct chamber of deputies.

Seek Common Program.

In committee rooms, in hotel rooms, in coffee houses, the foreign ministers and their representatives will seek to work out a revised common program for meeting the danger which, since they last gathered at Havana in the summer of 1940, has become a reality.

From the time when President Roosevelt gave the good neighbor policy a solid basis at the Inter-American peace conference in Buenos Aires in 1936, down thru the Lima, Panama, and Havana meetings of 1938, 1939, and 1940, the 21 nations have been drawing closer together.

What was once an effort to keep the war away from the Americas has become a struggle to defeat the axis powers, altho some of the South American nations have not admitted it officially.

This conference finds the United States at war with Germany, Italy, Japan, and their satellites. At war with the axis nations also are all the Central American and Caribbean republics.

Pledge Support for Pacts.

From all other countries in the 21 nation Pan-American bloc have come expressions ranging from military collaboration down to promises to abide by previous commitments.

Argentina, as often in the past, has shown some reluctance to declare frank support of a belligerent United States, altho she has said she will live up to her undertakings.

Diplomats here say generally they believe that, with a near-solid bloc clamoring for western hemisphere unity, the Argentine foreign minister, Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, will string along.

Another delicate point is the Peru-Ecuador boundary question, which only recently flared again into armed conflict. Ecuador, smaller and feeling herself in a weaker military position, wants the conference to settle it. Peru has been less inclined to bring it out at such parleys. Undoubtedly the dispute will be raised, but what the conference may do about it remains unclear.

Face Common Menace.

What is clear, however, is that the American nations face a common menace from the world war which already has involved many of them.

Informed persons here are talking of the possibility that the foreign ministers may create a sort of western hemisphere general staff of military and naval men.

There is some opinion that many or all of those not at war may enter the conflict after the conference—or will coöperate as an advisory and consultative body in coördinating the operations of the individual states.

Such an organization, it is felt, would try to work out a system of protection against attacks from abroad, not only against North and South American shores, but also against North and South American shipping.

Need U. S. Fleet.

Both would involve extensive use of the United States fleet, the only powerful naval force in the hemisphere.

It seems likely a convoy system may be set up to insure maintenance of maritime traffic between the two continents, and that warships of the South American countries might eventually be used along at least part of the route.

Local informants forecast the creation of an economic unit which will supervise continuance and intensification of trade. More than ever, the United States needs Latin America's raw materials and, more than ever, Latin America needs the United States' manufactured products.

Also facing the delegates are questions concerned with axis operations in the hemisphere. No country feels free of the possibility of internal trouble inspired by the axis. All feel axis propaganda in one form or another. German, Italian, and Japanese diplomats and firms still operate in many of the countries. Some of the countless problems in each country may be solved by common action.

WPA TO RESHUFFLE RESERVE PROJECTS TO AID U. S. JOBLESS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 (AP).—WPA, searching for ways to provide jobs for those temporarily out of work while peacetime factories convert to munitions production, may reallocate employment quotas for various areas.

F. H. Dryden, acting commissioner of works projects, today said that WPA, now operating under a curtailed program, will do everything within its resources to meet problems created by the curtailment of automoblie and tire production. As an initial step, WPA today arranged to provide work far about 40,000 workers in automobile plants in Michigan, half of them in the Detroit area. The WPA has a reserve of projects in Michigan and a wide variety of these are expected to be opened to provide the new jobs quickly.

WPA now has 1,050,000 on its rolls thruout the country. The agency still has about half its appropriation of $875,000,000 for the fiscal year, which ends June 30.

TOOK BARDIA AT BAYONET POINT, BRITISH REVEAL

One Daring Night Charge Enough for Axis.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 3.—Crediting the capture of Bardia, Libya, yesterday to a daring bayonet charge spearheading an attack by an almost international force, the British today reported the capture of the axis pocket near the Egyptian border yielded more than 5,000 prisoners, including a major general.

Along with the prisoners the British seized huge quantities of supplies, arms, and equipment with which the axis had stocked the garrison in the hope that it could hold out like Tobruk after the British advance swept beyond it. However, Tobruk held out for seven months, while Bardia fell after 46 days in the face of a single British attack, a blow so swift and daring on the night of Jan. 1-2 that the axis surrendered rather than face another assault.

The general captured, named Schmidt, was identified as the chief administrative staff officer of the German African armored force, apparently a right hand man of Gen. Erwin Rommel, commander of the axis forces in Libya. He was the first German general to make a formal surrender to an allied general. [The British wireless reported Schmidt's entire staff was captured with him.]

Only 60 Fall in Final Attack.

The final blow against Bardia cost the British and their allies only 60 lives and 300 wounded. To balance this loss they released 1,150 British soldiers who had been held prisoner in the town.

Mingled in the force which took Bardia were Britons, South Africans, New Zealanders, Poles, and air force men from all parts of the empire. The general who received the surrender was not an Englishman but a South African, Maj. Gen. I. P. de Villiers.

As the forces massed for the attack on New Year's night a heavy barrage was laid down by British medium artillery and Polish field artillery to give the infantry attack, made by the 1st and 2d South African divisions, a chance to get going.

South Africans Lead the Way.

The advance forces were led by the Kaffir rifles, the royal Durban light infantry, and the South African police. Powerful support was added to the artillery fire by British tanks and New Zealand mechanized cavalry.

The navy loosed a deadly bombardment on the enemy troops and gun positions to help demoralize the defense. Then, according to the official communique, the mixed air forces got in their blows and "by continuous activity in the most inclement weather conditions . . . made an invaluable contribution to the success of the operation."

Then the South Africans went in with bayonets, hand grenades, and submachine guns—and in the cold dawn the German and Italian defenders decided the fight was hopeless and that they must surrender.

Harass Main Axis Force.

The operations at Bardia demonstrated the marked improvement in general coöperation among all arms and branches of the British services in the new Libyan campaign.

The capture of Gen. Schmidt brought to four the number of German generals known to have been lost in Libya. Gen. von Ravenstein was captured at Rezegh, while the graves of Major Generals Neumann-Silkow and Suemmermann, both division commanders, were found at Derna.

While the British rear guard completed the occupation of Bardia, advance units today continued to harass the main axis forces near Agedabia, some 300 miles to the southwest.

The war bulletin said a German column, including armored cars, was put to flight in the Agedabia area after the British captured some mobile equipment, two anti-tank guns, three officers, and 45 men.

SOLLUM BATTLE REPORTED.

Both Berlin and Rome yesterday admitted the fall of the Bardia garrison, but the Italians indicated the axis pocket at Sollum, Egypt, still was continuing the battle, noting "violent enemy artillery fire" there. Intense reconnaissance activity in the Agedabia area was reported and axis planes were said to have destroyed British vehicles in Cirenaica and to have attacked military establishments on the Mediterranean Island of Malta.

'FREE FRENCH' URGED BY BRITISH WRITER TO ORGANIZE A CABINET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Vernon Bartlett, Independent member of parliament, writing in this morning's News Chronicle, expressed doubts as to whether the "Free French" will be able to play a part in the allied discussions unless they form a national committee whose members will have the power to vote.

Under the heading, "'Free French' Must Form a More Democratic Cabinet," Bartlett complained that "the important French officers" who have arrived here since the French collapse to "play a part in defeating Hitler have been suddenly hurried abroad on missions of minor importance," while "well known leaders of democratic opinion, whose influence might be invaluable when the people of France rise against their oppressors, have been neglected."

CENSORSHIP BANS CABLE, RADIO TO OCCUPIED AREAS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 (AP).—The navy department said today that Byron Price, director of censorship, had established these regulations for international cable and radio censorship:

"No communication with enemy-occupied territory except on specially licensed occasions.

"No codes or cable addresses permitted on terminal traffic at this time. [Terminal traffic originates or ends here.]

"Transit traffic in code or foreign languages may be passed if complying with the censorship regulations at the office of destination.

"The plain languages permitted are: English, French, Spanish, and Portuguese, except that unofficial radio telephone calls may be subject to delay if other than the English language is to be used."

AMERICAN BUILT PLANT IN EGYPT OUTFITS TANKS

Keeps British Supplied in African Drive.

[Copyright: 1942: By the New York Times.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 4.—Somewhere in Egypt, where the green valley of the Nile fades into the deep brown of the desert, stands a tank maintenance plant that, tho still far from perfect, illustrates what British-American coöperation may achieve in doing an actual wartime job.

At present staffed and directed by British personnel, the plant was built under American supervision along lines worked out by the United States army. Its job is to equip new American tanks for desert warfare in Africa and Asia and overhaul and repair machines that mechanical wear and enemy shells put out of action. There are other plants that do a similar job for British built tanks.

According to Maj. Henry Herbert, the British engineer who now directs the plant setup, crédit for the organization of this effective maintenance system is due chiefly to Maj. Joseph M. Colby of the United States military mission and Col. Charles Sellers, a Briton who now directs not only the American section but British tank maintenance as well. Several experienced American tank corps officers and noncommissioned officers assisted chiefly by training the British staff that now operates the plant.

How Plant Operates.

Maj. Herbert explained to this correspondent how the plant operates.

When a new tank arrives from some middle eastern port, still covered with protective grease and waterproof paper, the boxed accessories inside are removed and carefully stored for safekeeping. This also gives the mechanics room to work inside the cramped interior of the machine. The new tanks are checked to see that all parts are complete and in working order and minor alterations are made to fit them for desert warfare. One alteration is the addition of sand guards over the tracks to keep sand from being thrown up into the tracks and the driver's face.

As soon as the tank is in working order it is driven back thru the kit shed and equipped. It takes many accessories to insure readiness for any emergency. Into the tanks go cushions, flashlights, helmets, a fire extinguisher, a sledge hammer, a pick, a shovel, tarpaulin, signaling arms, a machine gun, ammunition belts, a tommy gun and clips, first aid supplies, a gas cooker, a two-way radio, and an oil can like those used for locomotives.

Ready for Call.

Fully equipped tanks then are dispersed in the desert and locked, so that when an order arrives from the front for more machines it is only necessary to load them on railway flatcars and haul them off.

When an American built tank is too badly damaged for field repair it is sent back to the base maintenance plant. Here it is towed into the shop behind an American caterpillar tractor and checked over by expert mechanics. Then it is partly dismantled and various pieces sent to the sections of the shop equipped to deal with them. If necessary, two or three tanks are torn down and one good tank built from the parts. New spare parts are on hand when needed, however. These are kept in bins and as carefully cataloged as books in a library.

Parts Dispersed Also.

But only a third of the spare parts are in the bins at any given time. The rest are dispersed in bulk storage, so that no well placed bomb can destroy all of some vital part. No spare parts ever are allowed to remain packed, even for a short time, after arrival for the boxes might contain something urgently needed at the moment.

When a tank is repaired it is sent back to the part of the front where it is most needed to begin a new life cycle. The British commander of a unit equipped with American built tanks told the maintenance officers he had never seen an overhauled tank returned to action during a battle. When he got a number of such American tanks during the first week of the Libyan offensive he could not say enough in praise of the maintenance unit and the American officers who helped so much in creating it.

NORWEGIAN EXECUTED FOR HELPING ESCAPES TO RUSSIA, SAY NAZIS

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP).—The German radio reported today that Harry Jensen of Kirkenes, Norway, had been shot after being convicted by a Nazi military tribunal of working for Russia by spreading propaganda and helping Norwegians escape to the soviet.

Reuters quoted a report in the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter today that Norwegians in the little village where British Commandos landed on Vaagso Island, off the coast of Nazi-held Norway, were fined 10,000 kroner—$2,000—because the German military cables were cut in 35 places.

The Belgian bureau of information said today that Germans in Belgium and France were offering rewards for citizens to turn over to the authorities carrier pigeons bearing messages, and also for parachutes, message containers, and propaganda leaflets dropped by planes of countries at war with the reich.

WARSHIP LOSSES WON'T HURT U. S., SAYS CAPTAIN

[Copyright: 1942: By the New York Times.]

HONOLULU, Hawaii, Jan. 3.—A cruiser captain who fought thru the first World war with the American navy was quoted today by the fleet public relations officer as having told his ship's company following the Pearl Harbor attack that altho the American and British navies had suffered a hard blow at Pearl Harbor and in the sinking of the Prince of Wales and the Repulse, they saved naval weapons which he considered more important. He listed those as aircraft carriers, heavy cruisers, light force ships, and submarines.

"I think that we can safely feel that the temporary loss of these battleships is not going to affect us one iota," he continued. "We are strengthening and perfecting our program for the defeat of the Japanese here and everywhere." He said that if the Japanese come back "they will get what is in store for them."

HURL BACK JAPS IN 10 CHANGSHA CHARGES; 7,000 DIE

CHUNGKING, China, Jan. 3 (AP).—Japanese forces waging a costly and losing battle for Changsha, Hunan province capital, were reported by the Chinese to have lost 7,000 men today for a two day total of 22,000 invaders killed or wounded.

The Chinese central news agency said that since yesterday, when the Japanese were declared to have lost 15,000 killed alone, the invaders have made 10 desperate charges against three of Changsha's gates only to be hurled back bloodily.

Slopes of the nearby Maiokaofeng hill, it added, were littered with Japanese dead after the futile charges, led by a Japanese regimental commander. Japanese planes rained incendiary bombs over crowded sections of Changsha.

[The Japanese have announced that they occupied Changsha Friday night, but a Tokio military spokesman said they "may not occupy it permanently," allegedly because they had achieved their purpose of smashing Chinese strength there.]

CONTROL PRICES TO AVOID CRASH, SENATE WARNED

Fear Inflation Now, and Depression Later.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—Rising prices during wartime foreshadow an inevitable and precipitate deflation later with attendant depression and suffering, the senate banking and currency committee warned today in its report on the price fixing bill. The measure is scheduled to be the first important legislation at the next session of congress.

Beside being matters of future concern, the committee asserted, prospects of a postwar financial crash are certain to sap the nation's morale and energy now and seriously threaten its war effort.

Before Senate Wednesday.

The price fixing bill, which has been before congress since Aug. 1, is expected to be called up before the senate Wednesday, two days after the start of the session. The house version of the measure was passed Nov. 28.

In neither measure is there any provision for the control of wages, while both measures open the way for sharp increases in farm prices before ceilings based on 110 per cent of parity can be imposed. The only rent regulation provided in the bills is in so-called defense areas designated by the price fixing administrator.

However, the house bill, which was the one being considered by the senate committee, has been amended in many respects.

Amend Bill for War.

"The house bill was enacted before Pearl Harbor," the report stated. "In our judgment that bill must be reconsidered in the light of changed conditions. In amending the house bill, the committee has sought to strengthen it. That bill, when we were not actually at war, might have sufficed.

"If the authority granted had proved inadequate, additional powers might have been sought and there might have been time to do something. But the swiftly moving pace of war, with evidences of inflation already apparent, leaves little time for the luxury of experiment. The need for price stability is urgent. The cost of living must be stabilized.

Why Inflation Is Feared.

"Under normal competitive conditions, supply and demand operate so that higher prices either reduce demand or bring out increased supplies, with consequent readjustments in the price structure. But when as a physical matter supply can no longer be increased or must even be curtailed, and when demand remains insistent, the result is inflation with all its tragic and dangerous consequences."

On Dec. 1, 1941, the committee noted, the bureau of labor statistics index of 28 basic commodities had increased 57 per cent beyond its August, 1939, level, while wholesale prices generally had increased 23 per cent and the cost of living 12 per cent. More alarming than this, however, the report stated, was the sharp rate of the increase, the bulk of which had taken place in the relatively short period of the preceding nine months.

Price Pressure Increases.

"Now that we are engaged in a World war, the pressure on the price structure, already enormous, will be multiplied," the report warned. "Effective price control under these circumstances must no longer be delayed. If we fail in this sector of the domestic front, whatever our success in the field, on the sea or in the air, victory will be bitter. Rising prices now foreshadow an inevitable and precipitate deflation later with attendant depression and suffering. Such prospects and fears now are not matters of future concern only. They sap energy and morale now."

Altho wholly acceptable to its proponents, the senate bill has been criticized in other quarters for its failure to meet the problem of wage control. Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of President Woodrow Wilson's War Industries board, and other economic authorities long have insisted that both farm prices and wages must be controled to prevent ruinous inflation.

May Control Wages Later.

Legislation for the control of wages may ultimately be necessary, the committee admitted. The senators asserted, however, that if it does become necessary as an emergency measure, there are strong reasons why such control should not be exercised by the same agency as that which is charged with the control over prices.

"The problems of wage control are totally dissimilar from those of price control and are extraordinarily complex," the report insisted. "Wage rates are closely associated with problems of working conditions, the proper evaluation and classification of skills, the functioning of collective bargaining processes, and many other factors peculiar to the labor market."

Talk of Other Controls.

Fixing of wage rates, the report continued, implies the specific determination of the income of labor and could never be acceptable unless coupled with determination of salaries of management, the dividends of stockholders, interest received by bondholders, and incomes of farmers, merchants, professional people and others.

"Such controls are not yet necessary to prevent inflation," said the committee. "They would require a huge administrative staff badly needed for necessary and urgent tasks in other quarters. Such controls might breed widespread resentment and seriously disrupt the mobilization of resources for prosecution of the war."

The house and senate bills also differ in the matter of price fixing administration. The house, in the face of strong objections from the White House, adopted a provision for a five man board of review, independent of the administrator, with power to affirm, modify or set aside his orders.

Follow Leon Hnderson.

The senate bill follows the recommendations of Leon Henderson, price fixer and civilian supply administrator. It provides for the creation of an office of price control under the direction of a price administrator to be appointed by the President. It also provides for an emergency court of appeals, consisting of three or more judges to be designated by the chief justice of the United States, which would have the authority to review and set aside all or any part of the administrator's regulations.

"Such separation of authority and responsibility would undermine the position of the administrator without substituting any clear cut responsibility in its place," said the senate committee referring to the board of review set up in the house bill. "Under the house bill, the board would be required either to duplicate the staff and the investigations of the administrator or else to substitute its judgment for that of the administrator on the basis of inadequate information and understanding."

The committee recommended an annual salary of $12,000 a year for the price administrator. Henderson now draws $10,000 a year.

Trapped by Cupid

HELEN JACOBSON.

Marriage was always a touchy subject with Helen Jacobson, Northwest Airlines instructor of stewardesses. Matrimony was forever depleting the ranks of her prettiest stewardesses. Last year, for example, the girls were marrying so rapidly that she was running out of stewardesses. She finally hit on an idea to stop Cupid's inroads.

Miss Jacobson made each new stewardess pledge that she would not marry until she had been with the air line at least a year.

Yesterday Miss Jacobson was blushing. She had good reason. She announced that she herself was going to get married Jan. 6. Her husband-to-be is Lieut. Robert Joseph Richardson of the medical division of the air corps. The ceremony will be held in St. Paul, Minn.

BOYS FIND NUDE BODY OF WOMAN BESIDE TRACKS

New Kensington, Pa., Jan. 3 (AP).—Police Chief Dan J. Zeloyle reported today that the nude body of Mrs. William Dean, 61 years old, of Arnold, Pa., had been found along the railroad tracks here.

"This woman undoubtedly was murdered," Zeloyle said, adding that the body bore marks of a beating.

The body was discovered by two boys. Near by was a woman's purse containing two nickels. A dress and coat was found in the Allegheny river, a few feet from where the body was found.

ALLIES' SUPPLY LEADERS CONFER AT WHITE HOUSE

Roosevelt Drafts Annual Message to Congress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—After spending nearly the entire day working on the budget and his annual message to congress on the state of the Union, President Roosevelt resumed his conferences this afternoon with allied leaders in the White House.

In addition to the President and Winston Churchill, British prime minister, the conferees included Lord Beaverbrook, minister of supply in Churchill's war cabinet; Vice President Henry A. Wallace, chairman of the Supply Priorities and Allocations board; William S. Knudsen, director general of the Office of Production Management; Donald M. Nelson, priorities chief of the OPM, and Harry Hopkins, special lend-lease assistant to Mr. Roosevelt.

There were no official pronouncements on the nature of the discussions, but it was evident to observers that this particular group of Anglo-American officials would concern themselves with maintenance of supply lines for the allied onslaught on Hitlerism in Europe and Asia.

Gives Message This Week.

Earlier in the day Mr. Roosevelt had turned his face from the vast international problems to begin preparation of the two messages which will be submitted to congress next week. The President is expected to appear in person before a joint session Tuesday or Wednesday to deliver his message on the state of the Union with the budget message scheduled to be sent to Capitol hill the next day.

The only White House appointment scheduled for today was with Harold Smith, director of the budget, which lasted several hours. On Monday the President is to discuss his messages with congressional leaders.

When the budget for the next fiscal year, expected to be approximately 50 billion dollars, is transmitted to congress, the nation will learn for the first time what financial burdens it faces because of active participation in the war. In the following weeks Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau will be called upon to explain before the house ways and means committee how much of this sum the administration wants to collect in war taxes during the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

18 Billions Taxes Seen.

With the full impact of the new taxes imposed at the last session of congress yet to be felt by taxpayers scheduled to file income tax returns March 15, informed sources are already estimating that the new tax bill will increase the total burden to between 18 and 20 billions. The total is now approximately 13 billions, having been increased by nearly 4 billions thru new taxes.

President Roosevelt recently disclosed that he envisioned a war program which would devote 50 per cent of an estimated national income of 100 billions to armament activities by July 1, 1943. Other income estimates have ranged as high as 110 billions which, under the President's proposal, would bring the goal of arms expenditures to 55 billion dollars.

BRITISH DRIVE AGAINST GERMANS PREDICTED IF THEY STRIKE IN RUSSIA

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP).—A British offensive in western Europe timed to strike when the Germans attempt a new drive in Russia was predicted today by observers as a likely development next spring. They pointed out that British and Russian strategy are closely integrated and that some parts of Nazi occupied France possess these characteristics deemed necessary for creating a "third front:"

A friendly civilian population to harass the Nazi rear with sabotage and guerrilla attacks; accessibility for combined naval and air operations supporting invasion forces; nearness to Britain for economy of shipping and naval power, and limited transport facilities available to the defense.

BRITISH DEFENSES TESTED IN GRAND SCALE 'INVASION'

Weaknesses Discovered in Civilian Units.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Britain's island defenses were tested recently in what were described as the largest and most complete invasion exercises ever held in this country.

Twenty thousand "enemy paratroops," and tens of thousands of seaborne "invaders" descended on the southern half of England without warning, and all civil and military forces sprang to the defense in the 24 hour war game.

"Fifth columnists" spreading false rumors and sabotaging bridges and communications, a proclamation stuck up by the advancing "enemy," and the questioning of civilians by "gestapo [secret police] men," all were part of a grand scale test not only of the defense system, but also of the civil population's preparedness.

Half of Paratroops Captured.

More than half of the hostile paratroops were rounded up in one day and the home guards did good work capturing the headquarters staff of two armored units. One fourth of the airfields were "captured," while others would have been seriously damaged. Valuable information given away by civilians helped the invaders, while the civil defense units often accepted false reports as genuine. One town's whole fire fighting service was sent away in response to a bogus appeal for help and in their absence the town was badly blitzed.

Commenting editorially on the lessons learned, the Evening Standard said:

"A large army would not save us, any more than our large navy, if we were negligent in the defense of the essential passes—the air bases. Hitler may have abandoned any notion of a full scale invasion—we cannot know. But it is certain that the idea of destructive raids on this island which would weaken our fighting power all over the world has never been abandoned."

Calls for Enforcement.

The enforcement of the lessons learned must be tackled in a matter of days, not months, the paper added. The Evening News said:

"We cannot afford to run risks in the air at home, where at any time we may have to withstand a furious assault by bombers striving to prepare the way for an invading army."

Edgar Granville, Liberal member of parliament, in a speech today pointed out that it has been a long time since civilians have been told what to do in an invasion.

"Do the civilians know if they have to follow the scorched earth policy or the stay put policy?" he asked.

Critical of Radio.

Hitler still has invasion forces across the channel, he said, and the British Broadcasting corporation and the ministry of information could give better service in this vital necessity, "instead of trying to convince us that Hitler is nearly finished."

With all these signs of returning invasion consciousness, reports are reaching London by way of Stockholm, Sweden, of major military preparations all along Hitler's western front, from Narvik, Norway, to Bordeaux, France. Large numbers of picked troops, parachutists, and amphibious tanks are said to be assembling on the Norwegian coast, and huge, new, bombproof submarine docks and air bases are reported near completion.

Coastal Residents Removed.

Arrivals of strong air reënforcements, including troop carriers, are reported from many other points in Belgium, Denmark, and France, and thousands of persons in coastal areas have been ordered to find homes elsewhere.

These reports are reproduced here without comment. Whether the enemy preparations are meant for offensive or defensive purposes is not even guessed at.

FOUR ARMY FLYERS KILLED IN FORT KNOX CRASH; ONE INJURED

Fort Knox, Ky., Jan. 3 (AP).—Four army officers were killed in two separate plane crashes here today. They were:

Second Lieut. Roy L. Drew, Rothschild, Wis.

First Lieut. Addie J. Hogan, Ruston, La.

Second Lieut. Wilbur Camp Jr., Lafayette, La.

First. Lieut. Robert W. Harner, Fairdale, Ky.

Post authorities said the planes were making routine training flights and were attempting to land when the accidents occurred. The plane in which Lieut. Drew and Lieut. Harner died struck a power line.

Cause of the crash of the second plane has not been determined. It apparently went out of control as it was approaching the field.

NAZI SEAMEN OFF BISMARCK PLACED IN ONTARIO CAMP

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Jan. 3 (AP).—German seamen from the sunken battleship Bismarck were among 1,000 Nazis brought across the Atlantic in the latest batch of war prisoners consigned to Canadian internment camps, it was disclosed today.

Authorities failed to say how many Bismarck survivors were included, but disclosed that these sailors and others from captured or sunken U-boats made up about half the contingent.

BUSINESS GIRLS VOLUNTEER FOR RED CROSS AID

Women of Leisure Shun Nursing Service.

BY JUANITA DALY.

A national emergency brings forth startling inconsistencies, Mrs. Irene Sidley, chairman of the Red Cross Volunteer Nurses' Aid corps, said yesterday when surveying her application list. "Persons who have been considered pillars of our way of life just remain pillars and do not come to life," she added. "Others, who seem far overburdened, do a great deal more."

Twice as many business girls as women of leisure are volunteering for the nurse's aid corps. A year and a half ago many young office women offered their services in the evening. The Red Cross sent a questionnaire to the hospitals asking if they would be interested in a service known as "evening care." Five hospitals accepted and others soon will be wanting the service, Mrs. Sidley said.

Work 300 Hours a Year.

After 80 hours of instructions which has been speeded to demand three evenings a week, the aids are prepared to serve in hospitals from 6:30 to 9:30 p. m. for a minimum of 300 hours a year. They see that patients are comfortable for the night, serve liquid nourishments, put rooms in order, answer a light, do an errand for a busy nurse or speed a departing patient and see that the room is prepared for the next patient.

Likewise they are trained to answer an emergency call in time of disaster, which frequently comes at night.

Twelve hospitals are using nurse's aids during the day and six other hospitals are on the waiting list. Altho classes are filled until February, Mrs. Sidley urges volunteers to apply immediately at the corps office, 616 South Michigan avenue, for a personal interview.

A volunteer must be a citizen of the United States, between 18 and 50 years old, have had a high school education or its equivalent, offer three references, be examined by her physician, and have had a smallpox vaccination within the last seven years.

100,000 Aids Needed.

"The national office of the Red Cross has issued a call for 100,000 nurse's aids," said Mrs. Sidley, "and Chicago is expected to make quite a dent in this total. At present, we have 372 aids on active duty or in class in the practice field, 66 doing class work and hospital practice, and 375 applications, most of them for evening service."

Many aids also have indicated that they would be able to answer an emergency call for duty inside or outside the hospital, accept an assignment for active duty outside the Chicago chapter and even give all their time to the nurse's aid corps in time of disaster, Mrs. Sidley reported.

"Volunteers don't have to do all that to be acceptable," she explained, "but we must know if they would be available in an emergency."

The Red Cross unit in the Surf hotel, 501 Surf street, will give a benefit luncheon Jan. 24 in the hotel. Marion Claire and Jan Peerce, W-G-N radio singers, bought the first tickets yesterday. Mrs. Lois Schraeger is chairman and Mrs. Josephine Spungin, co-chairman.

Cripps Seen as Britain's War Minister to Allies

LIST INSPECTION STATIONS FOR ALL WHO SEEK TIRES

Prospective Buyers Must Prove Need.

Michael F. Mulcahy, metropolitan tire rationing administrator, yesterday announced the dozen stations at which applicants for certificates must have their tires tested. The testing stations will determine whether tires are wore sufficiently to warrant replacement.

Rationing of the city's January quota of 2,523 passenger and 5,003 truck tires will begin tomorrow morning. Mulcahy said disposition of the tires will be spread proportionately over the month to prevent depletion of the allotment in the first or second week.

Locations of Stations.

The stations follow:

Mohawk Tire company, 1617 South Michigan avenue.

United States Rubber company, 440 West Washington street.

Firestone Tire and Rubber company, 26 East 16th street.

Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, 1903 West Pershing road.

Goodrich company, 333 West Lake street.

General Tire and Rubber company, 2247 Cottage Grove avenue.

Kelly-Springfield Tire company, 616 South Michigan avenue.

Seiberling Rubber company, 2249 South Calumet avenue.

Inland Rubber corporation, 146 West 27th street.

Norwalk Rubber company, 752 North Ogden avenue.

Montgomery Ward & Co., 618 Chicago avenue.

Sears Roebuck & Co., Arlington street and Homan avenue.

"Motorists who believe they are eligible to receive new tires should go to a rationing board first, all open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.," Mulcahy said. "If the board finds that they fall into a class essential to civilian defense, they will be given an application to fill out. Then the motorist may take it to any testing station, where careful inspection will be made.

Must Buy Within 30 Days.

"If it is found that a new tire is needed, the inspector will so state on the application and the board may then grant a certificate," Mulcahy continued. "Motorists can then buy the tire at any dealer, but must do so within 30 days after the certificate is issued."

No fees will be charged for the inspection, except for a 50 cent charge if it is necessary to remove a tire from the rim. The inspectors, who will be sworn in at Mulcahy's office in the city hall this morning, will be experienced testers employed by the various rubber and tire companies.

Appeals from the board rulings may be taken to Mulcahy and in all cases where an application is refused the reasons for the refusal must be given by the board.

Boards for Northern Illinois.

Tire rationing boards for 31 northern Illinois counties were selected at a meeting of mayors, chairmen, and members of county and local councils of defense in the La Salle hotel yesterday. Henry Pope Jr., state tire administrator, and Carter Jenkins, coordinator of the Illinois council on defense, outlined duties of the board members.

"You are going to have to learn to say 'No' to many of the people in your communities," Pope warned the men. "Your task is an important one and in carrying it out you are all supporting the fighting men of the nation."

Boards for the central part of the state will be chosen in Springfield today and those for the southern sector in Mount Vernon tomorrow.

FUR COATS STOLEN FROM HOME.

Two fur coats valued at $2,000 were stolen from the home of Alex Wallace, 1122 Pratt boulevard. They belonged to his wife. Wallace is a furrier.

New York Departments Put on Seven Day Week

New York, Jan. 3 (AP).—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia said today that all city departments would be placed on a seven day week beginning Monday, because of the war. The mayor declined to elaborate, telling reporters to wait until tomorrow for a formal statement.

STRING OF JULY 4TH FIREWORKS URGED AS SIGNAL OF AIR RAIDS

New York, Jan. 3 (AP).—Booming fireworks would signal the approach of air raiders to American cities under a plan proposed by a group of sound engineers. Aerial bombs of the type used in Independence day celebrations would give warning in cities with high buildings, better than sirens of the kind employed in low-ceilinged London, these engineers believe.

The bombs would produce red flashes as well as loud explosions audible over wide areas, and at night would send up clouds of red smoke. Shorter explosions, accompanied by green flashes or green smoke, would mean "all clear."

Dr. Miller Reese Hutchison, former chief engineer for the Thomas A. Edison laboratories, suggested that rows of the bombs be placed on roofs of tall buildings at scattered points and touched off at intervals by electric circuits connected to switches at police or fire headquarters.

4 AUTO OWNERS REPORT THEFTS OF TIRES, WHEELS

Four automobile owners reported to police yesterday that thieves had stolen tires and wheels from their cars, parked in Chicago's streets. The Interior Finish company, at 7501 Greenwood avenue, lost two wheels. The other victims, from each of whom a spare wheel was taken, are: Patsy Bartusch, 1261 Cabrini street; Emil Southmit, 4135 West 21st place, and Frank Moore, 4349 Greenwood avenue.

Guest House for Officers Started at Camp Forrest

Camp Forrest, Tenn., Jan. 3 (AP).—A Red Cross headquarters and a guest house for visiting high ranking officers are under construction in the camp headquarters area, Capt. William P. Moore, camp adjutant, announced today. The Red Cross building will contain a reception room and four offices. No special facilities for visiting officers have been available.

100 MILLION FUND FOR LA GUARDIA FOUGHT IN HOUSE

Mayor's Handling of OCD Called 'Disgrace.'

Rep. M. J. Kennedy.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 (AP).—A battle for a 100 million dollar fund to ready the nation's municipalities against enemy air attack shaped up today in congress with Fiorello La Guardia, civilian defense chief, as the issue.

House consideration of the appropriation may provide the first fireworks of the 77th congress' second session. A senate approved version of the bill would leave expenditure of the fund up to the Office of Civilian Defense. But critics of Manhattan's mayor already have demanded on the house floor that he be ousted from his defense post.

Bill Snagged in House.

The 100 million dollar allotment, primarily for purchase of fire fighting equipment and first aid supplies which would be needed in the event of an air attack, was whisked thru the senate with little opposition. But an identical measure ran into a snag in the house military affairs committee which specified that the spending should be done by the war department.

Chairman Andrew J. May [D., Ky.] of the committee said he would attempt to obtain house action on the revamped bill without debate under suspension of rules. If this is done, a senate-house committee probably will be appointed to settle the issue, and its report may bring extensive debate in house or senate.

Administration a "Disgrace."

Latest criticism of the New York mayor came yesterday from Rep. Martin J. Kennedy [D., N. Y.], who declared La Guardia's administration of the defense job was a "disgrace" which might lead to a "national catastrophe."

La Guardia has replied with the assertion that "great preparations have been made, altho some defeatists, some people with old alliances, seek to belittle the effort, seek to destroy confidence."

TRAVEL MONEY TO SPEED NAVAL AIR RECRUITING

Applicants for enlistment as naval aviation cadets may receive transportation at the navy's expense from recruiting substations to the nearest selection board, naval reserve aviation officials announced yesterday.

Substations which will provide transportation to the Chicago board are in Aurora, Rockford, Rock Island, Ill.; Indianapolis, Lafayette, South Bend, and Kokomo, Ind.; Green Bay, Milwaukee, and Oshkosh, Wis.; Cedar Rapids, Davenport, and Dubuque, Ia.

Another recent ruling provides that college sophomores, juniors, and seniors may enlist for pilot training, but will be deferred from active duty until completion of their present college year.

Any Bonds Today?

Charles Bush, 57 years old, a bookkeeper, died of heart disease yesterday in front of his home at 4134 North Ashland avenue.

DOTTY LAMOUR SELLS SARONG FULL OF BONDS

Ex-Elevator Girl Back in City as U. S. Saleslady.

Dorothy Lamour, the movie star who used to run an elevator in a loop department store, dropped in on Chicago yesterday in a new rôle. Wearing a mink coat and a mink trimmed hat, she appeared as a traveling salesgirl for defense bonds and stamps.

At the Tribune Public Service office in Tribune Tower, Miss Lamour did a brisk business in selling and autographing stamp albums. Clerks kept no tally of her sales but estimated that altogether she sold a sarong full of stamps. Miss Lamour is touring the nation for the treasury department.

$5,147 at Both Offices.

At the close of the day sales in the public service offices in Tribune Tower and 1 South Dearborn street totaled $5,147.

One of the day's best customers at the Public Service office was 2 year old Adolph Durpetti, 733 North Wells street, and his grandfather for whom he is named. He toddled in with a 20 inch bottle filled with pennies. His grandfather and Mrs. Mary Durpetti, his mother, were carrying several sacks containing silver money.

Little Adolph told the clerks, "I wanna 'fense stamp."

Half an Hour to Count It.

For half an hour the clerks counted the money. They found that there were $70 in pennies in the bottle and another $130 in quarters, half dollars and dimes in the bags.

As the family departed, Mrs. Durpetti took the empty bottle. "We're going to fill it up again. This time it'll be for my six month old baby."

Coroner A. L. Brodie yesterday urged the 47 members of his staff to deduct 10 per cent from their salaries for the purchase of bonds and stamps. The monthly pay roll of the office is $11,000.

ARMY SAYS 'WAIT' TO WOMEN EAGER TO GET IN SERVICE

Women eager to put on a uniform and serve their country beside the men in the armed forces have swamped the army recruiting office with telephone calls and letters, Col. Edward F. Shaifer, chief recruiting officer, said yesterday.

"These women read of the discussions taking place in Washington in which the subject of a woman's army has come up," Col. Shaifer said. "But this plan is still in the 'talking stage.' While their enthusiasm is commendable, it is at present misplaced. There is much to do in civilian defense. But America has no uniformed women's army yet."

Mrs. Robert L. Mellin, co-chairman of the women's coördinating committee of the Chicago Commission on Civilian Defense, agreed with Col. Shaifer.

"Our plans are completed and will be announced as soon as they are approved in Washington," Mrs. Mellin said. "There will be a job for every woman. All I can say now is that we will be working with the consumer's division disseminating material, and coöperating with the Red Cross in their unit work."

90,000 CIVILIAN PILOTS TO BE PUT IN WAR HARNESS

Whole Program Outlined to Aviation Writers.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Maj. Gen. Curry.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—Each of the 90,000 certificated civilian pilots in the United States will be given a job to do for national defense. So said Maj. Gen. John F. Curry of the air corps, who heads the newly organized civil air patrol, today at a meeting of aviation writers called here from coast to coast.

The purpose of the civil air patrol, organized under the Office of Civilian Defense, Gen. Curry explained, is to utilize civilian aviation personnel and facilities not employed in commercial service or in the war effort.

Jobs will be assigned thru the air patrol, and will vary according to the capabilities of the airmen themselves, the general said.

Asks Flyers Be Patient.

"The first step in this program is being taken in every community in the nation, thru the enlistment of private flyers," Gen. Curry said. "This will take time, and I ask the airmen of the country to have faith in us and give us time to get organized.

"Once this is done, there is no limit to the type of work and the kind of flying they can do—with full army approval and coöperation.

"The program might take the form of patrols of the entire coast of the United States, and extending 50 miles to sea. It might include ferrying of military planes from factories to squadrons. It might mean the towing of targets, the transportation of vital papers, or even officials from one point to another."

Discuss Pacific Patrol.

Gen. Curry said the army has discussed the establishment of civil air patrols along the Pacific coast, where all civilian flying has been grounded. All except military or air line flying was halted after the air raid alarms caused blackouts in coastal cities and Japanese submarines had sunk American freighters within sight of the California shore. The prohibited belt extends 150 miles inland along the entire west coast.

Maj. Reed Landis and Capt. Gill Robb Wilson, who are chief civil official and the civil operations officer of the patrol, respectively, said a number of missions already have been carried out by small units of the organization. These included flying and ground jobs, they declared.

Asked to Push Program.

The aviation writers were called to Washington, Gen. Curry said, so they could be informed directly concerning the purposes of the organization, so they could encourage its growth and activities in their home communities. He said plans for the unit had not been completed when the Japanese attacked Honolulu, and that this had forced the announcement of its formation before the proper groundwork for its establishment was ready.

"The air corps believes that the light plane pilots of the country can do a real job of work," Gen. Curry concluded. "We know that among the pilots of these planes are men who could perform any military mission, and also men who are able to get into the air and down again only by the grace of Providence.

Three Weeks Needed.

"It is going to take at least three weeks to sift the qualifications of all the private flyers and get jobs assigned.

"Lieut. Gen. Henry Arnold, who heads the air corps, has asked me for lists of men with various qualifications. As soon as they are identified he will call them for many different jobs. Before this is over every pilot will be given some kind of a job to do."

VISCOUNT CECIL URGES LEAGUE OF NATIONS REVIVAL

LONDON, Jan. 13 (AP).—Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, close associate of President Wilson in establishing the league of nations, urged today that nations try once more to form a solid organization of states united against aggression but otherwise maintaining independence.

The winner of the 1937 Nobel peace prize told the National Union of Students that the "broad principle" of this proposal was the only one of such post-war suggestions which could succeed.

He said the end of the present war might afford the last chance "of setting up a really rational and moral international system" and said it was "extremely unlikely" that civilization could continue to survive wars.

WAR STIRS REDS TO ACTION SINCE IT OPENS PURSES

Cease Some Practices —for the Duration.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 3.—New York City's Reds and Pinks, swarming about the national headquarters of the communist party here, are busier than ever as a result of the entry of the United States into the war.

Fund raising, not the least of the communists' activities, is much easier today than it was several months ago when Hitler and Stalin were embraced in their nonaggression pact. But today some of the best people have been persuaded to take the rubber band off their bank rolls and peel off a few bills to help the soviet ally.

Check Some Activities.

Communists have clamped the lid on—for the duration—some of their revolutionary practices, such as sabotage, rioting and striking because some of the American made arms are destined for the Russian army, but the party leaders are moving forward on the propaganda front.

New Yorkers are being urged to educate themselves on the blessings of the soviet government by taking courses in the "workers' school."

The classes are conducted by avowed communist leaders in the cubicles of their building near Union square in the city. The subjects taught include: Marxism and the war, soviet policy and world affairs, principles of communism, Marxism-Leninism, dialectical materialism, labor journalism, seminar in Marx's "capital" and the history of the communist party in the soviet union.

Seek to Free Browder.

A major goal of the communists is the freeing of Earl Browder, general secretary of the Red party in this country, who is in the Atlanta federal penitentiary serving a four year sentence for passport fraud.

Every day the Daily Worker, morning newspaper and official organ of the party, devotes considerable space to the "free Browder" campaign. Browder is always on the front page and sometimes crowds war news inside. His release is urged on the grounds of national unity.

Tom Mooney, who was called a martyr by communists and finally released from his California prison, is chairman of the Citizens' Committee to Free Earl Browder. Rep. Vito Marcantonio of New York recently presented petitions for Browder's freedom to Attorney General Francis Biddle.

Voted Against Defense.

Marcantonio, it is recalled, was the sole congressman who voted against defense appropriations when the soviet-Nazi pact was operative. In those days the American branch of the party dubbed it an "imperialist war" and the policy line slogan was "The Yanks Aren't Coming!"

On the day after the Pearl Harbor debacle, William Z. Foster, communist national chairman, pronounced it a "just war" and attacked senators and other prominent persons in the nointerventionist cause as "appeasers" and "traitors."

Meanwhile, Russian War Relief, Inc., has collected more than $500,000 in its current drive for 3 million dollars, it was learned from the national officers here.

Union Won't Contribute.

The International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, headed by David Dubinsky, refused to make contributions to Russian war relief on the grounds that some of its officials were known followers of the communist party line. The union had a bitter internecine battle for control with the Reds several years ago.

It was charged by the ILGWU that Edward C. Carter, national chairman of Russian War Relief, and Harriett L. Moore, secretary, had been opposed to aid to Great Britain before the Nazi invasion of the soviet. This was denied by Carter.

A fund raising drive has also been started by the American Council on Soviet Relations. Corliss Lamont, Pink symathizing son of Thomas Lamont, senior partner of the J. P. Morgan banking house, is national chairman of the council.

In a recent letter urging contributions, the younger Lamont said the drive would help clear up confusion about the soviet union "spread by years of a hostile, appeaser-sponsored, anti-soviet campaign." Officers at the council headquarters here said today no figures on how much money the drive has netted are yet available.

'Can Stop Bullet or Repair Man Who Has'—Doctor, 72

Herrin, Ill., Jan. 3 (AP).—"I'm good for stopping one bullet or repairing a person who has stopped two or more." That was the recommendation Dr. A. W. Springs, 72 year old colored physician gave here today as he made application for army service in answer to the call for registration of doctors over 44 years of age. Dr. Springs has been a Boy Scoutmaster for 22 years.

ARMY, NAVY JOLT EDUCATORS WITH CALL FOR YOUTH

Commissions Are Offered to College Trained.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 3.—The war and navy departments jarred scholarly deliberations of 1,000 college and university presidents here today with a call to arms for the lusty youths of American campuses.

The educators' war conference was guided to adopt a policy of discouraging voluntary enlistments by teachers and students on a theory that higher learning might better serve the country than more violent pursuits.

But the army, navy, and marine corps, thru two spokesmen, told the presidents of heretofore unannounced requirements for college trained fighters. The speakers were Col. Benjamin W. Venable of the war department general staff, and Joseph W. Barker, special assistant to the secretary of the navy. They told of opportunities for battle leadership open to the fit and willing students.

Officer Material Sought.

Barker, former dean of engineering at Columbia university, charged the educators with a duty of helping to recruit red blooded college men as candidates for commissions. He announced for the first time the numbers that will be taken from campuses for the two ocean navy and also announced a "V-7 reserve midshipman" program for college students.

For the marines, who last month added to the glories of their history by their defense of Wake Island, Barker said it is intended to enlist from accredited colleges and universities approximately 3,000 seniors, 2,000 juniors, and 500 sophomores to be trained thru an agency known as the candidates' class for commision. Successful completion of that class will qualify candidates for commissions as second lieutenant.

Need 30,000 a Year.

For "V-5 aviation cadets," open to men with two years of college, the requirement was placed at 2,500 a month, or 30,000 a year. The "V-7 reserve midshipmen," Barker said, needs 7,000 seniors and 7,000 juniors.

Those who enlist in V-7 may complete their college work before being ordered to active duty. Barker repeated "may" for emphasis. Candidates will first receive 30 days' training at some navy activity, usually at a naval training center. If they make good they are appointed midshipmen, naval reserve, and ordered to one of the naval reserve midshipmen schools for three months of intensive training to become reserve ensigns. They are paid while on active duty only.

"These are the navy requirements most directly affecting your undergraduate engineers in mechanical, electrical, and marine architecture to fill specialized positions in certain staff corps of bureaus, such as aeronautics, ships, yards, docks, and ordnance," he said.

Drop Old War Plan.

Col. Venable told of army requirements of the institutions of higher learning. He announced that the student army training corps of the World war will not be renewed, as experience showed it interfered with studies and didn't make soldiers.

The reserve officers training corps, respected by the army, is expected to produce 10,000 officers a year. The summer ROTC training camps are to be extended this year from 6 to 10 weeks, with encampments near military centers where the students can see and operate new fighting equipment.

"The ROTC," said Col. Venable, "has furnished the bulk of the reserve officers to date, but with the army mobilized, men from the ranks are to be put into officer candidate schools that will produce 14,000 commissions a year. The college man who enlists or who is drafted is given this opportunity to rise to leadership.

"We'll be calling upon your institutions for special short course training of enlisted men and officers," he said. "We'll be calling upon you to help rehabiliate the wounded. We're now calling upon you to promote patriotism, physical fitness and training in subjects required by the military."

Disputed by Hershey.

He was followed to the rostrum and disputed by Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the draft. In an impromptu rebuttal, he pleaded against "the hysteria of drum beating" and urged that the public be taught to respect essential civilian as well as military duties.

His arguments for intelligent draft deferments were warmly applauded by the college and university executives here from all parts of the country.

Show Novelties

Betty Metcalf wears bracelet and necklace of plastic included in Merchandise Mart show.

The midwinter markets at the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart will open tomorrow and continue thru Jan. 17. With new pieces in furniture reduced from the usual 500 to 5 because of the war, manufacturers are stressing durability.

Substitutes for metals essential to defense are various. Pottery, glass, and wood bases are used on table lamps. Plastics replace metal sockets, metal on furniture, and also are used in the kitchen. Common woods take the place of metal and rubber.

Among the plastic novelties are a juice extractor, a grater for cheese, vegetables, or bread, and jewelry. With stove production curtailed 42 per cent, one firm is reissuing the familiar black iron model of years ago.

OWN AIR FIELD WITH U. S. HELP OFFERED U. OF I.

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 3 (AP).—The University of Illinois may build its own air field costing at least $100,000 under plans drawn up today by Illini officials and members of the State Aeronautical commisison.

Ben Regan, commission chairman, recommended that university trustees seek an appropriation from the legislature of $60,000 to $100,000 for the land. Federal funds for improving the air field already are available, Regan said.

State Sen. E. R. Peters of St. Joseph, chairman of the Senate Aviation and Military Affairs committee, attended today's meeting and said he would sponsor the legislation if the university trustees approve. Plans will be presented to them at their Chicago session, Jan. 15.

The twin cities of Champaign-Urbana now have only two small, private landing fields. The school has been asked to give ground training to 2,500 naval air cadets.

GEAR EDUCATION TO FIT NATION'S WARTIME NEED

Schools in Central West Speed Graduations.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Universities and colleges of the great central west are in the midst of a vast program of expansion and acceleration that is outdoing by far the corresponding war effort of 1917-1918, a survey in five states showed yesterday.

Schools large and small are gearing their courses to national needs and in some cases are anticipating the government's requirements. The few that have not taken concrete action merely are awaiting a statement of specific requirements.

At a number of schools night classes have been started and some which are near ordnance works, arsenals, and other military establishments are training men for specific requirements in the area.

Teachers Are Scarce.

One of the major problems encountered in the speed-up program has been the shortage of teachers, the survey showed.

Because war demands are cutting into the normal supply of teacher material many schools are adding refresher courses for former teachers who are able to return to the profession. Instructors in engineering and other technical courses are particularly scarce.

A number of schools have arranged to give generously in scholastic credits to students who are enlisted or are drafted. One or two will refund tuition fees to those who are called. Following are the individual schools' contributions to the national war effort as shown by The Tribune survey:

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS NORMAL UNIVERSITY—Special short courses for the Illinois ordnance plant near Carbondale have been instituted along with a large vocational program for defense industries, including special radio and chemical courses. Study courses have been streamlined and emphasis is placed on civilian aeronautics training.

Make Plan This Week.

BRADLEY POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE—School officials will take steps in Peoria this week toward formulating a wartime schedule of activities.

WESTERN ILLINOIS STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE — Special courses are being arranged for those who expect to enter the army or navy. Courses already have been streamlined so students may complete a four year course in three years. Refresher courses are emphasized to meet the shortage of teachers. Civilian aeronautics instruction is offered.

EASTERN ILLINOIS STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE—Courses allied directly with the war effort will be taught in the summer school.

STATE NORMAL UNIVERSITY—To meet the unprecedented demand for instructors the summer course will emphasize work enabling former teachers to meet present certificate requirements. Red Cross first aid courses will be offered next semester.

CARTHAGE COLLEGE—Attention will be given to policy changes in a short time.

Night Classes Conducted.

JAMES MILLIKIN UNIVERSITY—Night defense courses are in progress with more than 200 studying shop mathematics, mechanics problems, drafting, and elements of engineering. Finances have been obtained for expansion in industrial science, while a shortening of the second semester and a year round program are being considered. Year round civil aeronautics instruction is offered.

AUGUSTANA COLLEGE—Streamlining is planned in courses in physics of machines and materials and in the national defense engineering course. Civilian pilot training is offered.

MONMOUTH COLLEGE—Wartime policy will be determined by government requests made at the Association of American Colleges conference in Baltimore.

NORTH CENTRAL COLLEGE—Plans are under way to expand the primary and secondary civil aviation courses offered. The four year college course has been compressed into three years.

Full Course in Three Years.

INDIANA UNIVERSITY — Year round courses permit graduation in three years. The medical school has increased the entering class by 8 per cent and law seniors will be graduated March 1. Men leaving for the armed forces between Dec. 7 and the end of this semester will receive full semester credits.

INDIANA STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE—The four year course has been compressed into three and vacations ordered cut to a minimum. Students called to military service before the midway point in a term will get a refund of tuition fees and will receive their full credits when they return to school. Special courses have been started to train men for the mammoth Wabash valley ordnance plant near by.

WABASH COLLEGE — Courses have been added to prepare men for specialized branches of the armed forces and the scholastic schedule has been remolded to operate the year round.

Adopts 12 Month Schedule.

HANOVER COLLEGE — Full 12 month schedules will be inaugurated soon, it is expected, shortening the four year course by a year. Civil aviation is taught to upper classmen.

BUTLER UNIVERSITY — A faculty-student war emergency council will consider further changes in curriculum after the AAC meeting in Baltimore. Two defense courses, civilian flying, and volunteer military training are offered.

UNIVERSITY OF IOWA—Courses will be shortened during the second semester. Several courses designed to assist the nation's war effort have been added.

Many Already Graduated.

IOWA STATE COLLEGE—Schedule speed-ups in anticipation of the emergency were begun last summer and many students have been graduated ahead of time. Special defense courses have been available for months.

UNIVERSITY OF DUBUQUE — Saturday classes will shorten the second semester by three weeks and plans are being formulated to go a full year round basis.

IOWA STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE—A full, 12 month policy already is in effect and civilian pilot training is offered.

DRAKE UNIVERSITY — The four year course is being shortened to 2 years 7 months, enabling freshmen entering the liberal arts, commerce, pharmacy, education, and fine arts colleges next month to obtain bachelors' degrees in August, 1944.

Second Semester Shortened.

CORNELL COLLEGE—The second semester will be shortened three weeks and summer school will be lengthened to form a link in a year round educational program. Civilian pilot training is offered.

BELOIT COLLEGE — On recommendation of the faculty defense committee, the curriculum has been broadened by additional courses in physics, chemistry, biology, pre-engineering, government, economics, psychology, geology, languages, and arts and has received approval and compliments of the selective service administration. Beloit also offers aeronautics and gives full college credit for the course.

MARQUETTE UNIVERSITY — Eleven defense courses in engineering are being offered and additions will be made soon in other subjects. The school offers naval ROTC and aeronautics.

RIPON COLLEGE—More than 300 Ripon ROTC graduates are on active duty as reserve officers and the course is being continued.

Awaits Government's Wishes.

LAWRENCE COLLEGE — This school is prepared to make any adjustments the government may desire.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA—Special engineering courses for off-campus persons are being offered in coöperation with the government. Aeronautics and ground school and army and navy ROTC basic courses are offered. Under Minnesota's quarterly semester policy with two summer sessions, four year courses may be completed in three.

ILLINOIS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY—The institute has been turning out defense workers for 12 months, and is teaching 50 courses designed for war effort. The school turned out 7,000 defense special students in 1941, is training 3,200 more, and will enroll 1,800 more Jan. 19, and perhaps 3,000 in February.

Northwestern university, Chicago, announced yesterday it will offer special mathematics courses and refreshers for men planning to enter naval officers schools and who want to qualify for gunnery. Loyola university is awaiting the outcome of the AAC conference before formulating speed-up plans.

POISON TRAGEDY CLEW TRACED IN LETTER AND CALL

Victim Feared Wife Knew of Chicago Romance.

Clare S. McArdle was haunted by the fear that his wife had discovered his romance with a Chicago divorcée when he came here to the night club rendezvous that cost his life and that of the woman.

This was revealed last night by letters written over a period of several months to the divorcée by McArdle. Almost every one mentioned his fear that his wife knew of his visits to Chicago and his meetings with her.

McArdle, a resident of Clayton, a fashionable St. Louis suburb, was 50 years old and vice president and sales manager of the Missouri Portland Cement company. He was found dead early yesterday in a private dining room of L'Aiglon restaurant, 22 East Ontario street, with Mrs. Nancy La Motte Wassman, 39, of 1419 Hollywood avenue.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Clyde McArdle (right) and Coroner A. L. Brodie at poison deaths inquest yesterday.

Poison Dregs in Glasses.

Traces of a poison which kills in 5 seconds were detected in the glasses from which the couple had drunk champagne. A supply of the poison crystals was found in the rouge container of a woman's vanity case found in the dining room.

Cororer A. L. Brodie heard brief testimony regarding the mystery in the undertaking rooms at 25 East Erie street, and then continued the inquest until Jan. 16 to give the police time to investigate further.

The couple took the secluded red and blue private dining room about 9:30 o'clock Friday night, and ordered a pheasant dinner with champagne. When their meal was finished about 11:30, they told their waiter, Gino Moresi, not to disturb them. He nevertheless went to the room about 12:45 yesterday morning to see if they wished anything more.

McArdle lay dead on the floor, his back against a bench. Mrs. Wassman, in a gay red suit, lay with one arm over him.

Letters in Purse.

Letters from McArdle told of their romance, which acquaintances said had extended over five years. One, dated last April, accompanied a check for $150, which he indicated was to pay for a dress and hat which he was eager to see.

Thru the whole series of letters ran a thread of fear that his wife knew a great deal about his affair with the Chicago woman and might be able to make trouble for him. One message said he went home with lipstick on his collar and was given silent treatment by his wife.

He indicated plainly that while he was playing a double game his wife was busy promoting charity shows. He was much disturbed, apparently, when he learned that Mrs. McArdle was planning to follow him to Chicago to find out what great attraction the city held for him. He was fearful that perhaps his wife had seen them together in some night spots.

Urges Her to Meet Him.

Other letters urged on Mrs. Wassman invitations to meet him in Kansas City or even in St. Louis, and there was evidence that on one occasion at least they actually met in his home town.

One letter stated that he was sending his sweetheart two defense bonds for Christmas, and one dated last Monday that he would come to Chicago on Friday for the week-end.

He was apologetic over his inability to spend New Year's eve here, as his wife had insisted on his being home for that holiday.

Another time McArdle had written that he believed his wife had subjected women's belongings found in his luggage to a finger print test. Again he wrote that he suspected his wife would take the same train or plane when he came to Chicago.

His latest letter, regarding the trip to Chicago that cost his life, commented that "something must have happened at home." Mrs. McArdle, he said, had tried to persuade him to postpone the journey for a week until she could accompany him.

Doubt was cast on the suicide pact theory at the inquest by the disclosure that McArdle had made reservation to return on the midnight train after arriving here.

Maid Hears Phone Call.

Police said they are investigating the possibility that he had come to Chicago to end their affair.

Dollie Anderson, a colored maid at the restaurant, testified that Mrs. Wassman made a telephone call to some point in Missouri while McArdle was temporarily absent. The maid did not know whether it was to McArdle's home, but recalled hearing Mrs. Wassman repeat several times: "I'm terribly sorry, but I can't do it." And "I'm awfully sorry, but I can't."

Mrs. Wassman's background was sketched at the inquest by her sister's husband, Walter Prill, a tool and die maker. Mrs. Wassman lived with the Prills and operated a beauty shop at 7031 Sheridan road.

Native of Hungary.

Prill said Mrs. Wassman was born in Hungary and came here 19 years ago. She was inclined to moodiness, he added.

Prill emphasized the strong odor of the poison that killed the couple and said he doubted that any one could have unintentionally swallowed a potion in which it was mixed.

Prill said that McArdle had visited Chicago frequently and that the Prills had gone out occasionally with him and Mrs. Wassman.

Court records revealed that Mrs. Wassman was divorced on Feb. 16, 1938, from George Wassman, a baker. She charged that he had deserted her in 1925.

McArdle's brother, Clyde, 433 South Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, an electrician for an automobile company, testified that he had never heard of his brother's romance with Mrs. Wassman.

Murder? Wife Asks.

The St. Louis business executive's wife, Lucille, asked if her husband had been killed upon learning of his death, and volunteered to help track down the killer if there were any suspicion of murder. She collapsed after learning the details and was placed under a physician's care.

Mrs. McArdle is a church work leader. She is the mother of a daughter, Dorothy Ann, 16.

McArdle was a member of the Missouri Chamber of Commerce and of several St. Louis clubs. When found he had in his pocket a salary check for an unstated period in the amount of $1,207.33.

Neighbors said he apparently was a quiet, home loving man, devoted to his family and his business.

The inquest will be resumed in the East Chicago avenue police station after the police have pieced together their information about his romance with the Chicago woman.

HAWAIIAN SENATOR WILLS HIS ALL TO HIS WIFE IN BIT OF POETRY

HONOLULU, Hawaii, Jan. 3 (AP).—In a one-stanza poetic will, opened yesterday, Territorial Sen. Ambrose J. Wirtz briefly disposed of his property. The poem said:

"To my dear wife I leave forevermore.
"I freely give—no limit do I fix;
"This is my last will, and she the executrix.

Senator Wirtz died Dec. 9, two days after the Japanese attack on Hawaii. He was 62 years old.

1942 Will Reward Fighters

WHEN THE NAVY CHASED A RAINBOW.

Twenty years ago, when he had just finished his term as secretary of the navy, Josephus Daniels wrote an article for the Saturday Evening Post. It was published March 19, 1921, and was called "Building the World's Most Powerful Warships." Mr. Daniels was a big navy man, and, above all, an advocate of bigger and better battleships. During his World war term as secretary Franklin D. Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy. Mr. Roosevelt was also a big navy man, and, above all, a battleship man.

Before Mr. Daniels left office 12 American capital ships were under construction. At the moment the United States has 15 battleships in service, two on the bottom of the sea, and 17 others in various stages of building, from blueprint planning to virtual readiness. One battleship which was sunk and one which was capsized Dec. 7 at Pearl Harbor were the victims of Japanese bombing and torpedo carrying planes, so it is revealing to look back now on what Mr. Roosevelt's mentor had to say about planes versus battleships 20 years ago.

"What will be the character of naval ships to be built in the future?" Mr. Daniels asked. "In every navy department in every nation, in gatherings of engineers and constructors, the uppermost topic of discussion is: Are dreadnoughts thru with supremacy—have they had their day and will they soon cease to be?

"Not long before his death Lord Fisher of the British navy startled the British admiralty by declaring that no more money should be wasted on building giant armored fighting ships. He went further and said, 'Scrap the lot.' In 1919 he wrote: 'Air fighting dominates future wars, both by land and by sea. It is not my business to discuss the land, but by sea the only way to avoid the air is to get under the water. So you are driven to the internal combustion engine and oil. That's why I keep on emphasizing that the whole navy has to be scrapped.' Airships and submersibles would take their place, he declared.

"To the same effect is raised the voice of Adm. Sir Percy Scott, who in a recent article in the London Times declares, what he substantially said in 1914, that 'the submarine and aeroplane have revolutionized naval warfare; that battleships on the ocean are in great danger; that when not on the ocean they must be in a hermetically sealed harbor; that you cannot hide a fleet from the eye of the aeroplane; that enemies' submarines will come to our shores and destroy everything.

"After accepting the fact for a score of years that the big gun ship is the backbone of the navy," continues Mr. Daniels, "what if, after all, the naval authorities are wrong and these mighty floating offensives are not the sure defenders we have long believed them to be? Only a few days ago, in conversation with a distinguished diplomat from Europe, he declared that the real reason Great Britain did not complete the [three] great ships of the Hood type was because the opinion was widely entertained abroad that no more millions should be invested in dreadnoughts."

Mr. Daniels, after an excursion to demonstrate that he was not blinded by tradition, then began to marshal his arguments in defense of the battleship. He obtained support from statements of Walter Long, then first lord of the British admiralty, whose concessions to planes and submarines were limited to this assertion: "'The capital ship remains the unit on which sea power is built. It is possible that the present battleship will change to one of semisubmersible type or even flying type, but such types are visions of the far future, not practical propositions for the moment.' And he added: 'It is vital to this empire that it should not be carried away by hasty proposals into the belief that air power is already a substitute for sea power. That day may come, but it is not at present in sight.'"

Mr. Daniels, in résumé, says, "If the battleship is to continue to be the backbone, we show wisdom. If future construction and program make new types of air and small sea craft so efficient that they can displace the capital ship, then, when that time comes, we shall say good-by to the dreadnough as we did to the old ships of the line. But we are from Missouri; we must be shown.

"Take the case of the torpedo plane, for instance. That is a wonderful idea. Instead of the torpedo boat destroyer and submarine, which after painstaking developments of years were a disappointment as regards results achieved against battleships during the World war, we shall have a swarm of aeroplanes materializing out of the air, swooping down upon the devoted capital ship, discharging their torpedoes unerringly, with nothing more to do except watch the sinking of their victim. We heard the same kind of thing when the torpedo craft were in the early stages of their development more than 30 years ago, and the adoption of such theories of the 'Jeune Ecole' in France at that time marked the beginning of the decline of the French navy to an inferior rank.

"There are still rainbow chasers, headed by Sir Percy Scott in England, who claim loudly that the submarine has sounded the knell of the big gun ship. Others are equally loud in proclaiming that aircraft have rendered obsolete the ship with the big guns."

But Mr. Daniels dismissed these theories for what he pleased to term them—rainbow chasing. He thought that, as the submarine was most vulnerable to the plane, "one enemy of the ship with the big guns will kill off another enemy." Aircraft would not be neglected, but all the purpose it would serve would be to "expand the battleship's powers" by increasing the effective range at which a battleship might fight by 10,000 yards. The plane would be used for observation and fire direction. Mr. Daniels did not see it as having independent striking power.

Mr. Daniels wasn't chasing any rainbows. He'd stand by the ships with the big guns. When Mr. Roosevelt got the chance to realize his dream of the biggest navy of all time, he, too, let the others chase rainbows. He went ahead building the ships with the big guns, and, if there had been no planes, he might eventually have had a collection of 34 first line ships. In this program he has the enthusiastic support of his secretary of the navy—like Mr. Daniels, a layman and a newspaper publisher. The British admiralty also left others to chase the rainbows. It disregarded the counsels of Lord Fisher and Sir Percy Scott and built the ships with the big guns.

Meanwhile, the British battle cruiser Hood, the biggest warship of Mr. Daniels' day, is sunk by the first salvo of the new German battleship Bismarck. The Bismarck in turn is tracked down by a seaplane and rendered helpless by a torpedo carrying planes. The British naval commander will not let the planes finish her off. He insists that surface craft are entitled to a last fling, and, after a long and messy session of target practice, the Bismarck finally goes down.

At Pearl Harbor the Japanese dive bombers and torpedo carriers, based on aircraft carriers, sink the Arizona and capsize the Oklahoma. A couple of days later the British battleship Prince of Wales and the battle cruiser Repulse venture to sea without air protection and are also sent to the bottom by Japanese planes. Then American planes sink the Japanese battleship Haruna and seriously damage a second battleship of the Kongo class.

In all this, what becomes of the "ship with the big guns"? Who was chasing rainbows? And who will insist on continuing to chase them down to the last and deepest cavern of the sea?

MORE MONEY.

The amount of money now in circulation exceeds 11 billion dollars, an all time record. The increase in a year has been more than 2½ billion dollars. Since October there has been an expansion of a billion dollars. At the crest of the boom in 1929 the total was 4½ billions, and there had not been much variation for more than a decade.

The increase in our money supply is a result of the expansion in government spending of borrowed money. When the government borrows, the treasury turns over bonds and receives a credit on the books of the bank. When the government pays for some airplanes upon delivery the company which gets a check from the government proceeds to withdraw cash to meet pay rolls. Factory pay rolls which were running at the rate of 180 million dollars per month two years ago, now amount to over 300 million dollars per month. Less of this money gets back to the banks than formerly because there are fewer banks and the interest on savings has been cut in two.

Right after the war started in 1939 there was a demand for American money for hoarding, both abroad and among the nationals of other countries here. That was reflected in the issues of bills of large denominations, that is $1,000, $5,000, and $10,000 bills. Perhaps because of the requirement that Germans, Italians, and Japanese register their assets here, circulation of such currency has now been declining for more than a year, while that of $500 and $1,000 has remained stationary and all other kinds of money have been expanding. Hoarding may still be going on, but it's the little fellow who is hiding his money, or at least it is being salted away in the form of chicken feed.

If the large expansion in currency had represented withdrawals from banks, had been accompanied by a flight of prices, or had occurred while business was stagnant, it would be a cause for deep concern. But bank deposits are rising more rapidly than money in circulation. The increase in bank deposits in a year amounts to about 7 billion dollars. The expanding currency is not by itself inflationary. It is only a phase of a general expanded condition, created by government spending in excess of income.

MARRIAGE AND GIN MILLS.

The judge of a Chicago divorce court in denying a petition to annul a gin marriage contracted at Canton, Mo., properly took occasion to criticize Missouri laws which make hasty and sodden marriages easy. Illinois has done a great deal to reduce divorce by requiring physical examinations and filing of notice of intention to wed, but it has always had a divorce problem thru no fault of its own. Neighboring states, eager to pick up a few dollars from the tourists who have fallen in love after the first pint, have frequently tolerated lax marriage laws.

For a time Waukegan was a thriving Gretna Green, but the new Illinois laws put it out of business. It is to the credit of Indiana that it tightened up its requirements and substantially reduced the number of couples running from Chicago to Crown Point and Valparaiso. As the judge observed in the Canton case, recent marriage reforms have wiped out all of the nearby marriage mills except those of Missouri. As long as foolish couples have access to a neighboring state that winks at ill considered marriages, just that long will there be business that never should come to our divorce courts. It is high time for Missouri to get respectable.

THE AMERICAN HERITAGE.

Five out of six persons asked by THE TRIBUNE'S Inquiring Camera Girl what event in American history they considered most important named some episode associated with the acquisition of the freedoms Americans enjoy. Two named the signing of the Declaration of Independence, one the Emancipation Proclamation, another the drafting of the Constitution, and still another the drafting of the Bill of Rights. These Americans were not concerned with material progress, which has brought wealth and physical comfort to most of the nation. Their concern was with the things of the spirit, without which all the other advantages Americans enjoy would be meaningless. It is reassuring to know that Americans appreciate the things for which they are fighting.

ADVANCE NOTICE.

A tender little ceremony occurred at the grand shrine of Ise, 250 miles from Tokio. Premier General Hideki Tojo flew over to notify Amaterasu O Mi Kami, the sun goddess, that the big new war was on. This represents a departure in breaking the news. To the dull western mind, it would have seemed more appropriate if Tojo had first sent two gentlemen named Nomura and Kurusu to engage the goddess in idle conversation. The bombers would then have come over and brought the facts home by unloading a cargo of eggs on the shrine. Amaterasu O Mi Kami would then have been privileged to express her astonishment by ejaculating "O Mi!"

HEY, RUBE!

Show business offers "Hey, Rube!" the traditional circus call to arms, as the battle cry for the entire nation. The William Morris agency, which represents many performers, has advanced the slogan in an advertisment placed with the trade papers of show business. The advertisment points out that "Hey, Rube!" is a call to action. It means: Take your places, grab the best weapon at hand, and come out fighting." As the ad says, "The Big Show has been attacked."

ONE KIND OF UNION NOW

From the New York News.

Union Now talk is rife in the press, and among many international minded Americans, and there may be some of such talk in the White House.

As we see it, an out-and-out federal union between the United States and Great Britain would not be feasible for reasons having to do with human nature and various differing traditions of the two countries.

It would be most ungracious, for example, for us to insist that King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth, who have conducted themselves so splendidly thruout this war, should become plain Mr. and Mrs. Windsor as a concession to American objections to titles. The dukes, earls, lords, marquesses, etc. of Britain are of the very warp and woof of the British social and economic system. To obliterate their titles and perquisites over night would produce an earthquake in the United Kingdom, and one whose tremors would shake the whole empire.

Yet, to repeat what has been said often, our ancestors came over to this country to get away from that sort of thing. Lord Baltimore was a British peer, and a few other noblemen had big land grants in the American colonies from the British crown. But for the most part the founders of this country were plain people, and eventually they wrote their ideas into the United States Constitution.

The dominion of Canada, however, is a different proposition from Great Britain.

Two peoples could hardly be more akin in outlook, economic interests and military position than the people of Canada and the people of the United States. True, our population is much larger than Canada's—130,000,000 as against a little more than 11,000,000—but Canada's land area is much greater than ours. The figures: United States, 2,973,776 square miles; Canada, 3,466,556. Canada's middle western and northern provinces — Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, Northwest Territory, Yukon—are thinly populated, but so is our big northwestern territory of Alaska.

We think Messrs. Churchill and Roosevelt, and Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King might well consider the possibility of a merger of Canada and the United States. The resulting nation, from the Rio Grande to the Arctic, could be a close associate of Great Britain, but under a separate government.

Should the leaders of the three commonwealths —Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill, King—consider that there is any possibility of a merger, the mechanics thereof would best be handled, we think, thru a plebiscite of Canadian citizens, on the question whether they wanted to join the United States.

If the verdict were yes, Canada's provinces could be admitted as states, Canadian citizens to become United States citizens automatically. Yukon and the Northwest Territory might come in as territories, to spare the feelings of Alaska; or the three areas might come in as three new states.

There would be frictions here and there. Some of our border states might growl about invasion of their markets on the knocking down of tariff barriers. Quebec, which has a state church, would have to be allowed to keep it, if England's long failure to remold Irish religious and political habits is any guide.

But those wrinkles could be ironed out. The net result would be a huge and integrated North American nation, which could organize its own defenses on a continental scale without political stumbling blocks—and which might be expected to concern itself with its own problems while the mother country concerned itself with such problems as the Danzig corridor and Czecho-Slovakia.

After this war we are likely to find Russia the most powerful nation in Europe. To the west of us we may face some powerful Asiatic coalition run either by Japan or by China. In the new world which we all hope for it will be a fine piece of insurance to have Canada and the United States lined up side by side in a close union for defense of the North American way of life.

Editorials of the Day

QUITE DIFFERENT FROM THE DAYS OF '98.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

German and Japanese submarines are operating off our Atlantic and Pacific coasts, as was to be expected. The news has been taken as it should be, with calmness and the firm belief that the raiders will be dealt with by the United States navy ships, planes, and blimps. In the past some of the many books dealing with war between Japan and the United States have said that the appearance of Jap submarines—and even a cruiser or aircraft carrier—with possible bombardment of a city or town, would result in a wave of fear and demands from every port and coastline settlement for our navy ships to stand guard.

Much of that thought goes back to the early days of the Spanish-American war, when the whole Atlantic seaboard verged on panic for days as rumors spread that Adm. Cervera's ships were steaming for every port from Bar Harbor to Tampa. To quote from Sprouts' "The Rise of American Naval Power": "Only with the greatest difficulty did the navy prevent the unreasoning and preposterous panic from forcing a disruption of the fleet and the scattering of its units to guard 2,000 miles of coastline against wholly improbable, if not utterly impossible, raids by Cervera's decrepit cruisers." Pressure exerted by senators, mayors, and other influential persons and groups did cause temporary withholding of some of our best ships for guard duty.

Thus far, altho the United States is confronted on two coasts instead of one and by two first class powers instead of a decadent one, and by the new dangers from airplanes and from submarines, there has been no sign of the unreason and the fear that hampered the navy in '98. That is an excellent sign of the strength of this nation, of the fact that the people realize this strength and trust in it, and that morale is good. There is no more of the ignorance of '98. The newspapers, the magazines, and the radio have educated the people to understand the dangers that face them, to weigh them, and to evaluate them correctly.

NEW PROPELLERS UNDER TEST.

[Des Moines Register.]

Contra-rotating airplane propellers with variable pitch blades are now being tested by the royal air force for substratosphere flying. The contra-rotating airscrew consists of two propellers, one mounted directly behind the other, whirling in opposite directions at identical speeds. Both are powered by the same engine.

A number of Italian speed records were set by seaplanes equipped with contra-rotating propellers. Those, however, did not have the variable pitch blades regarded as essential for high altitude flying.

It is agreed that the maneuverability of both fighters and bombers would be greatly enhanced by the elimination of the "twisting" of the slipstream of air behind the single propeller. This "twist" has been aggravated by the addition of blades to the original two-bladed propeller as motor power was stepped up. The contra-rotation, it is contended, will not only straighten the slipstream of air but will permit the addition of more and shorter blades to the propeller.

This, in its turn, would permit construction of planes with lower undercarriages, which must now be high enough to keep the blade tips from striking the ground or the decks of carriers. Thus, with less tendency to "swing" on takeoff or landing and with less vertical clearance required for storage, planes could more safely operate from carriers and more of them could be stored on a single vessel.

Contra-rotating propellers weighing no more than the single propellers they would replace, and with equipment to prevent icing incorporated in the design, are reported being tested in the present experiments.

How to Keep Well

GOOD HYGIENE, A PERSONAL DEFENSE MEASURE.

FEW of us realize the importance of maintaining well being as insurance against a breakdown or some disabling malady. If we wish to steer clear of illness, there is one main objective—to keep the system in a state of readiness so that attacks from within or without may be repelled with ease.

In other words, every one can develop a reasonable sense of self-preservation. We use our eyes to avoid stumbles and falls. Why not utilize intelligence to sidestep disease? This means the consistent observance of good hygiene, which may be neglected because we lapse into habits of indifference.

But some one will say, "What rubbish! I know people who have broken every law in the catalog [the decalog likewise] of health. Nevertheless, they flourish like green bay trees." Yes, there are exceptions, but they prove the rule. I have in mind a character of just this type. He had freighted across the plains in the sixties, and he fractured all precepts pertaining to diet and alcohol. I would hesitate to estimate the amount of liquor which he consumed daily, but he experienced no severe illness until pneumonia carried him off at 84.

Thanks to our mothers and fathers, some of us possess an unusual amount of vital rubber. We are able, in consequence, to throw off ailments with comparative ease. But no one has a right to assume—regardless of his apparent strength—that he can defy indefinitely exposure, abysmal fatigue, or nerve racking experiences. Many a stalwart, athletic individual, seemingly without a vulnerable spot, has crashed under a mild infection—one that would be resisted by the average person. Permit all our people to follow a heedless "hit or miss" course of body neglect, and the death rate would mount to new heights.

Proper breathing is essential. While we never empty the lungs completely, we must recall that if we do not employ them—providing adequate oxygen to the blood—nutrition will suffer. Listless respirations may lead the apparatus to form bad habits. If the circulation is normal, with the "bellows" functioning at par, we need not fear the growth of germs within the chest. This is one reason why we exercise with the head erect and the shoulders squared.

But we must have clean air, so that we will escape bacteria which float about on raftlike dust particles. While the nasal passages will endeavor to filter out noxious elements, nevertheless, if they are present in great profusion, some may reach the bronchi or even the lungs.

Sleep is nature's restorer. Twenty hours of wakefulness out of 24 is just too much. When circumstances permit, at the first wave of drowsiness, we should retire—otherwise the impulse may pass if too much time is spent in getting ready for bed. It is not difficult to set on edge the chemical mechanism which defeats slumber.

A program which calls for five or ten minutes of setting up exercises is always in order. This can be indulged in either before or after the morning bath. Some will substitute a walk around the block, which is equally effective. With the lungs filled with fresh air, the circulation is well started for the day.

SIEGE OF BOILS.

Mrs. P. S. writes: During the past year my three children and myself have been afflicted with boils periodically. Have you any suggestions?

REPLY.

Boils are skin infections. Treat yourself and each youngster to a bath daily, with plenty of hot water and soapsuds. Each should don fresh underclothing which has been boiled. Reinforce the diet with plenty of vitamins, which means fruit juices, milk, and fresh vegetables, particularly carrots. The hands should be washed whenever they become soiled. This may be 20 times daily. With persistence, new crops will not appear.

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

DON'T SACRIFICE THE GARDENS.

Hinsdale, Ill., Dec. 30.—The article in this morning's Tribune, "Censure Funds for Flowers in '42 Budget" is an illustration that the same hysteria which existed in 1917 is again at work. One of the regrets of many after the last war was the fact that in the rush to produce food in quantity in home and community gardens, many of our valuable horticultural treasures—old, established lawns, ornamental plantings, and shrubbery—were destroyed in the mad rush to make way for poor vegetable gardens. This time we won't have even the excuse of preparing the way for the growing of food—instead we are going to destroy our parks and public gardens by straight neglect.

Even the department of agriculture, at the national committee meeting on defense gardens in Washington last week, urged that ornamental plantings be continued, that the morale-building values of such plantings be protected from the destructive hand of well-meaning economists. In 1940, the Men's Garden Clubs of America, with a long look to the future, urged that immediate steps be taken to establish defense gardens, so that last-minute hysteria would not result in destroying the type of public assets which the Civic federation proposes to allow to perish for lack of funds.

In Great Britain, where there is far more excuse for the abandoning of nonessential services, the great horticultural establishments, from the world-famous Kew gardens down to the humblest public park, continue to operate at near prewar level. Since the heaviest blow in the elimination of the funds in question would fall on the great Garfield Park conservatory, we would do well to study what might be lost thru such lack of financial support. At present, the Garfield Park conservatory, according to the director of Kew gardens in London, contains the finest collection of plants in any public park in the world. Its flower shows hold undisputed leadership in their field.

Instead of paring the budget, thought should be given to what might be done to increase it. At a time when the vital needs of defense will destroy the jobs of thousands of men in the Chicago area because raw materials cannot be allotted to the companies which have employed them, we need to expand those services which can utilize man power without consuming defense materials. Our park system might easily expand its facilities by the publishing of horticultural pamphlets and other printed matter, the one feature of our park system which compares unfavorably with the programs of public conservatories and gardens in Brooklyn, St. Louis, and other cities.

The recommendations of the Civic federation are certainly those of penny wise and pound foolish individuals who may live in the minds of Chicagoans of post-war days only because they destroyed what will take years to replace. Let's keep flowers growing in Chicago's parks!

A FAMILY NEWSPAPER.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—I and my half sister, Mabel Wisdom, wish to thank you, your reporter, and officials at the missing persons bureau for the valuable space in THE TRIBUNE that today helped reunite us after a separation of 40 years. Born in Chicago, in between I've wandered 150,000 miles of the world, returning to my home town three months ago with no idea that my sister was here too. Also I now know where another half sister and brother are.

NOEL WISDOM.

WORK FOR AMERICA FIRST.

Decatur, Ill., Dec. 30.—I also regret the disbanding of America First. It either ought to continue as a potential group for concerted action when and if needed, or be reorganized under a new name. We need a militant organization at the 1942 elections. We will need an organization when peace finally comes to see that American ideals are made effective at the peace table. We need an organization right now to fight the Union Now group.

THE ARMY'S FINE.

Fort Knox, Ky., Dec. 27.—I am a Chicagoan in khaki in Fort Knox. I am sure some of the folks might like to know how a fast moving city boy reacts to this new army life. The food, treatment, and companions are supreme. The food is plain but wholesome, and we get plenty to eat. We have a very fine library here, surpassing some in Chicago. The recreation hall for our barracks opened recently and hits the spot. Our instructing officers are well trained, in my opinion, and are giving a good military education to the selectees. I for one am obtaining an added education that I did not receive after graduating from high school.

The Service club has a dance arranged for the draftees every Friday, and a host of girls are brought in by bus from Louisville. We had a gigantic holiday festival, including turkey dinner and all the trimmings. I am still recuperating. Our lieutenant gave us food for thought at Christmas dinner when at grace prayers were offered for our fighting heroes in the islands. May my fellow Chicagoans grasp the spirit of Americanism and do their part.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People].—My real estate agent and I have had an argument over decorating service. 1. I have withheld my rent on account of this.

2. He has presented me with a five-day notice dated Nov. 24. We also have a lease on the apartment dated from Oct. 1, 1941 thru Sept. 30, 1942.

3. Does this mean that we should move out?

4. Does he have to take further action against us before we can take that step?

5. If we move out can we be made to pay the rent for the year under the terms of the lease? H. V.

1. There are practically no exceptions to the rule that a tenant must pay rent as long as he remains in possession.

2. This is within his rights.

3. We would say rather that it means that you should pay your rent.

4. His next step would be a suit for possession.

5. Yes. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CONTRACT BY MINOR.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is a lease for an apartment legal and binding if the lessee is under 21 at the time of signing?

2. Could the lease become legal and binding if the lessee becomes 21 four months after signing? The lease reads from the 21st of June, 1941, to 30th of June, 1942. We previously paid the rent from the 21st to the 21st but have changed to the 1st at the manager's request.

3. Do these facts have any bearing on the legality of the lease? G. A.

1. No, in the sense that the lessee can repudiate the contract unless he has ratified it since coming of age. Yes, in the sense that it is binding upon the landlord.

2. Yes, if he continues in possession.

3. No.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MISSING HEIR.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People].—I am one of three heirs to an estate. The whereabouts of one heir has not been known since 1914.

An administrator has been appointed and I should like to know [1] what procedure is necessary to declare the missing heir dead legally.

2. Will an extensive search have to be made for the missing heir before we can proceed to declare her dead legally?

3. Is this an unusual situation in law? E. E.

1. There is no separate procedure for declaring a person dead, but you could probate the estate of the missing heir in reliance on the presumption of death.

2. No. See 1.

3. No. We advise you to employ an attorney. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

GREEN NAMES 3 TO COOK COUNTY SUPERROAD UNIT

R. A. Gardner Appointed Board Chairman.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 3 (AP).—Gov. Green today appointed a broker, an attorney, and a professor to serve on the board of the Cook county highway authority which was created by the general assembly to build and operate toll superhighways.

Named as chairman of the board was Robert A. Gardner, president of the Chicago community fund and member of the brokerage firm of Mitchell, Hutchins, and company.

The others named are John J. Schommer, director of athletics of the Illinois Institute of Technology, well known official in college and professional athletics, and A. H. Veeder, a lawyer and member of the Chicago planning commission. All are Chicagoans.

Two Others to Complete Board.

George A. Quinlan, Cook county superintendent of highways, and a fifth person to be appointed by Mayor Kelly of Chicago, also will be on the board.

The superhighway act was passed by the 62d general assembly last year after a partisan fight in the legislature in which Republican forces amended the legislation to give Gov. Green control of the authority.

Democratic sponsors of the plan, sought as a means of creating such a network of toll superhighways including one in Congress street in Chicago, said passage of the amended bill killed local control of planning for the Congress street improvement.

Urges Congress Street Study.

Gov. Green wrote to the three new appointees, however, asking them to make a careful study of the Congress street project at their "earliest opportunity" and report their findings to him.

The board has power to issue bonds or otherwise borrow money to construct and operate as toll roads whatever superhighway it deems necessary, subject to approval of the state director of public works and buildings.

The tolls would be used to repay bond issues or loans.

ROB SALESMAN OF $900 IN CLOTHING.

Thieves yesterday broke into the parked automobile of Homer S. Barner, a salesman, near his home, 152 East Superior street, and stole $900 worth of men's suits and topcoats and women's dresses.

DEDICATE WIDER RAIL UNDERPASS IN PARK RIDGE

The $319,000 Touhy avenue underpass in Park Ridge beneath the North Western railroad crossing was dedicated yesterday at a ceremony attended by county, village and railroad officials.

Construction of the underpass, which was widened from 18 to 42 feet, was started on March 1, 1941, after nearly 10 years' agitation by Park Ridge civic groups, who asserted Touhy avenue and Busse highway were bottlenecked at the underpass. The county financed the construction with motor fuel tax funds.

Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, and James Tierney, mayor of Park Ridge, were among the speakers at the dedication.

Medal Awarded Soldier for Rescue of Comrade

Corp. Alfred A. Frasch of Stevens Point, Wis., was awarded the soldier's medal for heroism yesterday for his rescue of a comrade in danger of drowning in Stillwell Creek, at Camp McCoy, Wis., Aug. 16, 1940. The announcement was made by Maj. Gen. J. M. Cummins, commander of the 6th corps area. Frasch is now stationed at Camp Livingston, La.

ASK STATE TO ACT FOR 50 FAMILIES AS WELLS GO DRY

A telegram was sent yesterday to the Illinois department of health in Springfield, appealing for assistance for 50 families whose water supplies have been cut off by a deep well at the Buick airplane engine plant adjacent to Melrose Park.

The families live in an unincorporated area just north of Melrose Park, between Mannheim road and Scott street. In all there are 75 houses in the district, most of them less than two years old. All depend on individual wells for water supplies.

About six weeks ago some of the wells started going dry. Each week others also went dry, until now two-thirds are dry and the remainder are said to be drying up. The cause, according to Frank J. Carr, an artist, and spokesman for the affected families, is the 600 foot well dug at the nearby Buick plant.

CONSIDER FISHES! SHEDD AQUARIUM IS PLACE TO DO IT

Strange, Beautiful World Made Easy to See.

> "And God said, Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life. . . . And God blessed them, saying, Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas. . . ."
> —Genesis i., 20 and 22.

BY MARCIA WINN.

The fascination of a world beyond the compass of man draws a million and a quarter visitors a year thru the white Doric columns of the Shedd aquarium.

Rising a stately mass of white marble beside the shores of Lake Michigan, the aquarium brings into illuminating proximity the waters of the earth and all that is in them, from microscopic silver minnow to man nibbling tiger fish. Not only is it the largest and most fully equipped aquarium in the world but it also holds the world's record for visitors, 6,480,000 persons having crowded its galleries in 1931.

A Fish—It's Different.

Walter H. Chute, director, offers a simple explanation for this amazing interest: A fish is entirely different. Man can understand the animal kingdom and bird life because he is near both. Moreover, they breathe as he. But the life and environment of a fish have the lure of the unknown.

Many of the world's proverbs touch on fish and most of them wrongfully so. Consider the saying, "He swims like a fish." Few humans do. Some fish swim with their fins, but many, as the mackerel and the swordfish, swim with their tails; like torpedoes, their propulsion is from the tail. Others, as the eel, long, slithery and ominous, and here found in every color variation from sage green to zebra stripes, swim by ambulations of the body, turning over and over.

The wall-eyed pike uses its fins like oars, as does the catfish. The only Amazonian red tailed catfish in America is right here, a long, plump gentleman with an armored head and a coral tail whom the attendants call "Sport" in homely disregard of its august name of phractocephalus hemiliopterus.

Swim in Straight Line.

Moreover, fish invariably swim in a straight line. This is why they are caught in circular traps. And fish do drown. They drown just as man drowns, by the intake of water thru the mouth. The man-eating shark, a coward at heart, drowns himself when captured.

The adjective fishy-eyed, usually applied to the possessor of cold expressionless eyes, doubtless arose from seeing the eyes of dead fish, which always are exposed. Fish have no eye lids. But the eyes of a living fish are bright with expression, as one quick glance here at the toadfish, a desperate character with a steel-trap mouth, will convince you; as you shudder, his eyes veer from alarm to disdain to pure malevolence.

Fish eyes are as variegated as fish colorations. The tiny curled seahorse, most popular exhibit in the aquarium, can look east with one eye and west with the other. Next to a tank of little blind fish which lost both sight and pigmentation during centuries in a Mexican cave frolic a tank of four eyed fish. These have two section eyes. They swim always on the surface and, while the bulbous upper eye skims the world of man, the pinpoint lower eye probes the world of water.

Sleep Most of the Time.

Visitors, confused by the fishes' open eyed stare, ask when does a fish sleep? The answer is three-fourths of the time. The only way one knows it is that, when awakened, a fish's first reaction is a dart. Living close to danger, he jumps first and looks later. One, the slippery dick, formidably known as halichoeres bivittata, burrows into the sand at the first darkening of dusk and sleeps all night. He is one of the few not to sleep suspended in water.

Nor is the saying, "as addled as a fish out of water," entirely true. Many fish subsist agreeably out of water until their eyes get dry; dry eyes are blind eyes. One gay little rascal, the mud springer, can run, leap, hop, jump, and chase insects on land, and does. His eyes are rewatered from a well which, like Jupiter's pitcher, always flows.

Many a fish belies its face. The cherubic countenance of the angel fish, with its wistful mouth, dreamy eyes, and exotic colors, disguises a determined belligerent, so well armored that it even has scales on its fins.

Only Dangerous Fish.

By a similar paradox the aquarium's most beautiful inhabitant, the lion fish—is its only dangerous one. The long delicate projections on its spine, the nearest semblance to feathers in the marine world, contain a deadly poison.

The fighting fish scar each other so severely that the aquarium tries to solve the problem by putting fighters together; each then fears the other. But if there is one bully in a tank of humble fish and the bully is removed, peace rarely comes; another aspires to take the bully's place. Circumstance also affects amiability; the meek little stickleback becomes a demon of ferocity when he has a nest of eggs to guard.

Some Are Gregarious.

As with the human race, some fish are gregarious; others swim in cold, aloof splendor. Sociability is best evidenced here by the scardinius erythropthalmus, a little European fish known as the pearl roach, which has scales like silver mirrors and fins of scarlet. The aquarium had 40 on display and 400 in a reserve tank.

The 400 suddenly one day took up the ancient piscine practice of schooling, in which fish wheel and drill as one. This phenomenon often is seen in the ocean, but infrequently in captivity. It soon will go on display here.

Name your fish, and if you can't find him here, you can find his near relative. Many of the fish in the 203 exhibition tanks are rare in captivity, as is the alligator gar, armored primitive survival with a long spearlike snout, and the tiny neon tetra, a flashing inch of scintillant red, green, and blue.

Here, burrowing in a tank with their soberly hued brethren, are four crabs with shells of a startling blue, a freak of nature as phenomenal as the pale blue lobster Director Chute once had in Boston. Nearby, fresh from the Pacific coast, is a noisy tank of Baribaldi or ocean gold. When they eat, they click their teeth and emit a sound like rattling pebbles.

Here, too, are fish of fabled story—the Danube wels, reviled for gobbling children alive, which in four years here have grown from a length of seven inches to four feet; the long, sooty Mississippi paddle fish which merely opens its giant maw like a big bag and ladles up food when hungry; the humu humu eleele, exotic Hawaiian trigger fish, and two Galapagos penguin.

For the comfort of its thousands of inhabitants the aquarium has waters for every taste—salt or fresh, hot, cold, natural or warm. Occasionally it has to replace some of its 1,000,000 gallons of salt water. This it does synthetically. To make 100,000 gallons of fresh water into usable ocean water requires 16 tons of dry chemicals, most of it common salt.

Free On Three Days.

The aquarium is free on Thursday, Saturday and Sunday and open always from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Children under 12, service men in uniform and those on official business always are admitted free, but on pay days adults are charged 25 cents plus the 3 cent federal tax.

As visitors leave, their minds whirling with visions of strange writhing shapes, they often ask, "Has a fish intelligence?" This is an unhappy question. Ichthyologists fight over it.

Director Chute used to claim a fish's intelligence lies in its stomach, but a little red South sea fish which made its home in a sea anemone, that beautiful invertebrate which looks like a drooping giant chrysanthemum, upset him. When the fish came up for food, it took its first load back to the anemone on the simulated ocean floor. Then it returned for its own.

"There!" Chute cried. "Take it or leave it. Was that intelligence?"

3 BOY SCOUTS FOUND DEAD IN DRIFTING BOAT

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 3 (AP).—Three Washington, D. C., Boy Scouts were found dead today adrift in an open boat near Tilghman's Island in Chesapeake bay. Capt. Randolph Harrison, skipper of a fishing boat, found the bodies while naval planes, launches, and Coast Guard patrol boats were searching the area.

The dead were Billy Merryman, 14 years old; Carroll Baker, 15, and Earl Edwards, 14. Louis Marryman, 32, assistant scoutmaster and brother of Billy, said the boys died of exposure.

The boat was found almost directly across the bay from Camp Roosevelt, near Breezy Point, where a scout party had been camping for the weekend. The bay is about 12 miles wide at this point. The boys had been missing since yesterday afternoon when a high wind blew them offshore in rough water.

Nurse Dies and 8 Injured in Rooming House Blaze

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 3 (AP).—A nurse died and eight persons, including four nurses and a fireman, were injured today when fire swept a rooming house near Western Pennsylvania hospital. The nurse who lost her life was Marie Gabriel, 40 years old. Fourteen persons escaped by leaping from windows and thru rescue efforts by firemen and volunteers.

BRITISH DANCING GIRLS DANCE TO AVOID WAR JOBS

Tour Army Camps as Chorus Girls.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON [By Air Mail].—Thousands of English girls with no stage training but who have a craze for dancing are trying to become chorus girls because Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin has not compelled dancing girls to enter war work or the services. They do not want to spoil their hands at a factory job, so they are touring the country entertaining troops in camps in order to be able to tell labor ministry officials that they are chorus girls in important jobs. Some of the girls are offering to entertain the troops as members of revue choruses.

"We have made no ruling at all about chorus girls," said labor ministry officials. "So far we have allowed girls with contracts to carry on with their work. We have not disturbed others who could prove they were in employment, but if we think any of these girls should be directed to war work or the services we will certainly do so."

Japanese Pose as Chinese.

Another section of the theatrical community affected by the extension of the war are the Japanese variety actors, including conjurors and acrobats. Some of the most famous actors in the British Isles are Japanese, but they are now excluded from the British stage.

Some Japanese vaudeville performers are naturalized. One prominent juggler is naturalized. He has two sons in the British army. Another actor served in the British army in the last war and has given up the stage to make munitions.

But vaudeville directors are taking no chances. They know that some Japanese have changed their names and are masquerading as Chinese. They are picked out by genuine Chinese.

Ever since the war started, Chinese restaurants in London, Liverpool, Glasgow, and other cities have been carrying notices: "No Japanese served here."

Viscountess Still in London.

One of the last of the "pure Japs" still in London is Viscountess Sachiko Kano, second wife of Hisao Kano, manager of the London branch of the Yokohama Specie Bank. She is the only Japanese woman of the "inner circle of pure Japanese" left in Britain. All the others were sent to Japan last June.

The viscountess and her husband live in Japanese fashion in their six roomed apartment at Prince's Gate, Kensington. They have no radio. The police took it away. They cannot use a camera, and must not move farther than 15 miles from the central point of Charing Cross station.

But the viscountess, who had a good time until her country declared war, still goes to the theater. She and her husband still have their ration cards for food and clothes, and the porter at the entrance to their apartment block still tips his hat to them as they go out. Passers by take them for Chinese.

WOMAN WHO SHOT SELF MAY LIVE; EXPECTING CHILD

Physicians at the Ravenswood hospital said last night they were hopeful that Mrs. Catherine Orth, 23 years old, who shot herself near the heart Thursday in her home at 3651 North Damen avenue, would recover. Mrs. Orth is to become a mother in a few weeks and Dr. Samuel Filippo expressed the belief that the life of the unborn child would be saved. Before shooting herself Mrs. Orth wrote a note to her husband, John, informing him she was despondent.

COLD WAVE PERILS ORANGE AND LEMON CROPS ON WEST COAST

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3 (AP).—The coldest spell of the winter chilled southern California today, and citrus sources admitted the possibility of damage to the rich orange and lemon crops. Clouds of black smoke spread over Los Angeles from millions of heaters in groves to the south and east, indicating the heaviest firing in several years.

The weather bureau, operating under wartime restrictions, did not announce minimum temperatures, but approved use of the statement: "Temperatures generally were in the low twenties."

A cold wave will strike northeastern and north central Nevada, Idaho, and eastern Oregon tonight and Sunday, with temperatures dropping to zero or even 15 below on Sunday morning, the weather bureau warned.

MANGANO MAKES BOND ON CHARGE OF WIRE TAPPING

Lawrence [Dago] Mangano, gambling leader recently arrested with two of his employés in a "nerve center" at 59 East Chicago avenue, gave bail along with the other two yesterday on indictments returned against them on Friday charging them with conspiracy to tap telephone wires. His co-defendants are Tom Stapleton and Henry Phillips. Each furnished $2,500 bond before Judge Julius H. Miner, acting chief justice of the Criminal court.

Meanwhile State's Attorney Courtney said the grand jury investigation of protected gambling in the city and county would be resumed after a new jury is impaneled tomorrow.

Late in the afternoon police raiding squads struck at two alleged handbooks and four policy joints, arresting a total of 40 persons who were charged with gambling and will be arraigned in the Racket court tomorrow.

Of those arrested 38 colored men and women were seized at 3350 Prairie avenue, 140 North Oakley boulevard, 1921 Lake street, and 1153 Washburne avenue, all said to be policy racket stations. The other two men were arrested at 503 North State street on the second floor and at 3646 Southport avenue. Both rooms were elaborately furnished as handbooks.

CIVILIAN GIVES COMMAND; JUDGE ISSUES ORDERS

A civilian who badgered two enlisted men in a downtown bar by posing as an army officer and compelling them to salute, face right and left, and go thru other rountine paces was ordered to the Bridewell for 30 days yesterday by Judge J. M. Braude in Police court.

The civilian is Alton Taylor, 31 years old, 940 Eastwood avenue. Policemen Donald S. Keevers and Royal B. Laufter of the Central station said Taylor, posing as an officer, had hazed the privates for nearly 30 minutes, altho not in uniform.

Taylor pleaded that he was under the influence of liquor. Judge Braude fined him $50 and $10 costs, and when Taylor was unable to pay ordered him to the Bridewell with the comment, "Now you can take orders for 30 days."

ONLY 3 SKIPPED CRIMINAL BONDS IN '41; 2 CAUGHT

Forfeitures at New Low Under Courtney.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

That Criminal court bond forfeitures have been cut to the minimum is shown in the annual report of the state's attorney's bond department, made yesterday by Prosecutor Melvin Starkel Rembe. Out of 711 bonds approved in 1941 for criminals awaiting trial, only three of them skipped their bond, according to Rembe, and two of these were subsequently apprehended, leaving only one fugitive.

State's Attorney Courtney said he was pleased with the work of his bond department, which he said has been steadily improving since he took over the prosecutor's office in December, 1932.

It Used to Be Different.

Prior to that time, the prosecutor said, bond forfeitures were a common scandal in the Criminal courts. On many bonds, he pointed out, the county could not collect or force the bondsmen to put up the funds to search for the missing criminals.

"In the old days the bondsmen might just as well have scheduled street cars or freight trains on bonds for all the chance the authorities had to collect on them," said Courtney. "Now a bond is a bond in the Criminal court. The property scheduled on bonds since I have taken office must be in such condition that it is amply worth the amount of the bond and easily collectable in case the criminal should flee."

These figures show the bond situation from 1916:

1916 to 1928 [Hoyne and Crowe period]—Total forfeitures, 4,855.

1929 to 1932 [Swanson period]—Total forfeitures, 628.

1932 to 1941 [Courtney period]—Total forfeitures, 140.

Harry Brown No. 1 on List.

During the last nine years the bond department, according to the report, handled a total of 8,045 bonds, with only the 140 forfeitures. All but 19 of these fugitives were apprehended and put to trial, the report shows. The only outstanding fugitive bond skipper during Courtney's régime is Harry Brown, alleged head of the arson ring of years ago, who skipped in 1934 and never has been apprehended.

Of the three criminals who skipped during 1941, two are now in the penitentiary. Henry Moses, convicted of embezzlement, who forfeited his appeal bond in January, 1941, was later apprehended in Philadelphia and returned to Chicago at the expense of the surety, Leo Rose. He is now in the state penitentiary for 1 to 10 years. John Connors, charged with robbery, who fled in August, was surrendered in October by his mother, who stood bond, and he now is in the penitentiary under a one year to life sentence.

The One Fugitive Left.

The only fugitive is Charles Pasquale, who was indicted for extortion and fled his bond in March. His bondsmen now have word of him in an eastern city, Rembe reported, and expect to bring about his arrest soon.

Under the rules of the Criminal court now in existence, Prosecutor Rembe is virtually czar over the bond situation. Unless his office recommends to the judges that a bond is good and sufficient, and can be collected on in case the defendant skips, the judges will not accept the schedule.

RESCUE RESCUERS OF DUCK WHO GOT DUCKING IN LAKE

Two rescuers had to be rescued yesterday from the ice crusted waters of Belmont harbor and a duck was responsible for their ducking.

Park Policemen Peter Leppa and Henry Rhein were cruising in their squad car when they spotted a wild duck frozen in the ice of the harbor about 60 feet off Melrose street. Leppa alighted and with John Wuest, an assistant harbor master, started out in a boat.

Leppa freed the bird and set it on solid ice. Leppa and Wuest leaned over the same side of the boat to coax the duck to fly. The duck waddled away. Leppa and Wuest leaned farther and the boat capsized. Rhein jumped from the car and tossed a life preserver to Leppa, who had started to swim ashore, and pulled his partner in. Meanwhile the fire department arrived and a fireman, accompanied by Cecil Burwell, the harbor master, put out in another boat and rescued Wuest who was clinging to the overturned boat. Leppa and Wuest were treated at the American hospital for exposure.

The duck, meanwhile, had flown away.

HOME SHORTAGE AND HIGHER CITY RENTS FORECAST

War Restricts All Except Defense Building.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Chicago's real estate market, which maintained a surprising virility during 1941, faces entirely new conditions in 1942, brought about by various restrictions influenced by the war. Purchase of home and business sites may slacken as all types of construction except defense work gradually stop. With less home building, occupancy in present structures will increase until an acute housing shortage may result, realty men believe.

Such a shortage, unless federal control intervenes, will automatically boost rents. If higher rents come, a definite step has been taken toward increased values, better returns to owners, and an incentive to builders. These steps, of course, all lead to a more active building and realty market. They are all problematical, but possible.

During 1941 real estate sales continued, in the face of war threats and finally war itself, in much larger volume than in 1940, and brokers generally are optimistic about 1942.

Foreclosures Fall Steadily.

Foreclosures of mortgages slowed up until the November total of $710,361 was the smallest in amount of any month since the Chicago Title and Trust company began keeping foreclosure records. In November, 1931, the total was 52 million dollars.

Residential occupancy neared the 100 per cent mark, the highest in many years. As a result rental conditions were firmer than in several years.

Office building occupancy, for the last decade a headache to loop building owners, increased steadily. The year ended with a note of cheer as the federal government prepared to move several Washington bureaus to Chicago.

Priorities Halt Advances.

Building began 1941 at a brisk pace and steadily increased until it bumped into the priorities situation. Curbs applied by the Office of Production Management and the Supply Priorities and Allocation board slowed up practically all building except types which could obtain priorities.

But even with war handicaps Chicago's building was larger than in 1940 by several million dollars. Home building in the higher brackets declined, but defense homes costing $6,000 and under continued to be built on a fairly large scale.

Chicago suburban building, which thruout 1941 with the exception of one month, surpassed construction in the city, gradually slowed up. Industrial building was active.

Government building was confined mostly to the big Ida B. Wells housing project for colored families on the south side. This $8,385,000 investment was completed during the year by the Chicago Housing authority, and is occupied by 1,662 families. CHA started work during the year on the Frances Cabrini homes, on the north side, to cost nearly 3 million dollars.

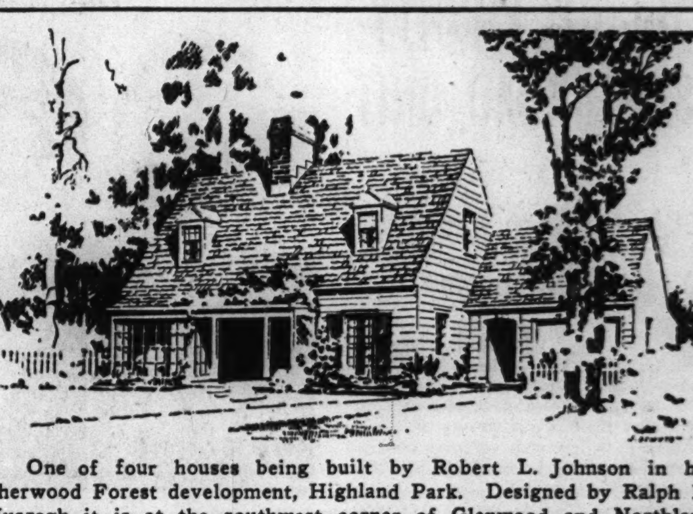
New Highland Park Home



One of four houses being built by Robert L. Johnson in his Sherwood Forest development, Highland Park. Designed by Ralph D. Huszagh, it is at the southwest corner of Glenwood and Northland avenues, four blocks west of the Briergate station of the North Shore Skokie line. It has six rooms and attached garage, occupies a 75 by 150 foot lot, and has gas heat.

Asks Defense Bond as Home Down Payment

Down payments in defense stamps or bonds are the wartime initial financing requirements in the newly started defense home building program of Joseph B. Ford & Co. The remainder of the construction costs will be financed with Federal Housing administration insured mortgages.

John and Margaret McMahon made the first payment under the new financial setup by turning in $1,050 in defense savings securities to Ford for a bungalow at 4842 West Polk street. Gael Sullivan, FHA director for Illinois, assisted in the transaction.

Plans Six Units Immediately.

The first six units in the Ford defense home program, which he expects gradually to speed up into large proportions, are to be built at 1813 to 1829 South Kostner avenue. They will be of brick, with four rooms and an unfinished attic which can be made into bedrooms when needed. They will stand on lots 30 by 100 feet.

All will sell for $6,000 for house and lot and as they are convenient to several big defense plants [they are approximately four miles east of the naval torpedo plant to be built at Roosevelt road and Des Plaines avenues, Forest Park], they are expected to qualify for priority ratings in building materials. Ford already has made applications for priorities for the first six homes.

Completion Set for July.

Actual construction is expected to be started April 1 with completion set for the middle of July. The financing will be with a $600 down payment of defense stamps and bonds and a $5,400 FHA 25 year loan. Monthly payments on the mortgage will be $32.20.

Ford said yesterday that since last June he has started construction of 27 residences on the west side. When war was declared he had 16 under way and took out permits for six more and later for five. Ford is a former president of the West Side Real Estate board.

Land Under Elks Building Sold by Louisville Group

The land under the 14 story Elks building, 174-76 West Washington street, 40x101 feet, was sold by William S. The building was built in 1917 by Chicago lodge No. 4 of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks at a reported cost of $400,000. At present it is occupied in part as a service men's center, operated by the Chicago Commission on National Defense. The land was owned by the Speed family since 1888.

Robert L. Johnson yesterday announced that he has four homes under constuction, all priced near $16,000, on his 200 acre Sherwood Forest development, Highland Park. This project, south of Berkeley road and west of the North Shore Skokie Line, had been dormant for several years. All improvements are in. The property has been replatted with no lots smaller than 75 feet frontage, he said. Johnson has opened an office at the southwest corner of Berkeley road and Arbor avenue. Fourteen homesites recently were sold and several homes are expected to be built shortly, he said.

Realty Miscellany

The firm of Draper & Kramer has established a new bonus system. In addition to receiving a bonus of one month's salary [a plan in operation for the last six years] employés last week received an additional amount based on length of service according to four classifications: two or three years, three to five, five to seven years, and more than seven. The last group received a bonus of 20 per cent of a year's salary.

Dividends and interest paid in cash during 1941 by reorganized properties originally financed by Greenebaum Investment company totaled $2,234,968, Edgar N. Greenebaum, president, reported yesterday. This is an increase of 12 per cent over the 1940 total of $1,992,652. In addition to dividends and interest approximately $700,000 was given security holders in 1941 from sale of properties.

Manuel Seideman, in the automobile finance business for 15 years, yesterday announced that owing to the curtailment in the production of cars he has turned to the realty field. He has formed the Bankers Mortgage company and will specialize in second mortgages on homes, apartments, and hotels in the Chicago area. His offices are in the Insurance Exchange building.

J. Beidler Camp and Harold H. Egan have dissolved the firm of Camp, Egan & Co. Camp has resumed the firm name of J. Beidler Camp & Co., with offices at 166 West Jackson, and Egan has resumed the firm name of Harold H. Egan & Co., with offices in the same building.

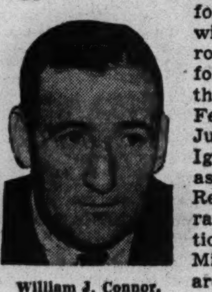
MEXICAN TIMBER FRAUD TRIAL WILL OPEN TOMORROW

Investors Said to Have Lost Millions.



William J. Connor.

Trial of what is charged to be the biggest mail and securities fraud ever found in Chicago will begin tomorrow morning before a jury in the courtroom of Federal District Judge Michael L. Igoe. Nine men associated with Resources Corporation International, 333 North Michigan avenue, are accused in the indictment of defrauding midwest investors of between 7 and 9 million dollars.

William J. Connor, first assistant United States attorney who will head the government counsel in the trial, said yesterday the trial will take from six weeks to two months and that at least 65 government witnesses will be called. Many of these witnesses will be expert accountants who will seek to unravel the complex business dealings of the company for the jury. Others will be investors.

Background of Company.

The company was organized by Harper S. Hoover in 1928 supposedly to purchase Mexican timberlands to be leased later to contractors for cutting. It was called the International Syndicate and it had a capital of $1,500,000 subscribed by small investors. In 1931 Hoover and his associates reorganized the company and named it the Resources Corporation International.

In hearings before the Securities and Exchange commission it was alleged that this company held timberlands for which Hoover had paid only $152,919. These lands, it was charged, were represented to investors to be worth $9,000,000. Hundreds of investors bought the stock—some of them at artificially high prices created by Hoover's manipulation of the market.

Promoter an Auto Victim.

Hoover died in an automobile accident several months before the indictment was voted on Dec. 13, 1940. Other officials who were indicted are: W. L. Kellogg, 594 Hickory road, Glen Ellyn, a former president of the company; Arnold Joerns, 50, 519 Barry avenue, also a former president; George E. Howard, 45, 190 East Hoover, a nephew of the promoter who lives in San Antonio, Tex., and Mexico City; William D. Durland, New Orleans, La.; Attorney Leonard L. Cowan, 10 South La Salle street; Ray Solwell, auditor of the company; John J. Jennings, a stock broker from Detroit, and Franklin A. Hofheins, one of the cutting contractors.

STORY OF BRITISH BEAUTY WHO WED SHEIK REVEALED

Carried Victorian Era Into Moroccan Palace.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON [By Air Mail]. — News just received here of the death at Tangier of the Grand Sharifa of Wazzan [Morocco] at the age of 94 brought to light the romance of the 68 years of happy married life of Emily Keen, an Englishwoman who became the wife of an Arab sheik. She died in her palace by the sea at Tangier surrounded by Arab sons and grandsons. Yet all her life, as the wife of a distinguished Arab leader, she had been the authoritative Victorian Englishwoman, even wearing clothes of the Victorian days.

Emily Keen, daughter of an English prison governor and who came from the county of Surrey and was, therefore, almost a Londoner, went to wild Tangier in the seventies as governess for an English family. She was a pretty girl, with blue eyes and fair hair. The Grand Sharif of the holy city of Wazzan—leader of a family once so powerful that sultans could not be appointed without its sanction—fell in love with her and sought to marry her. Miss Keen admired him, but refused.

The sheik persisted, offering to divorce his three wives. Altho her parents fought hard to prevent it, Miss Keen had a change of heart and was married to the powerful sheik at the British consulate at Tangier in 1873.

Shunned by Her Own People.

At first she "lost caste." Her own people shunned her. The Arabs resented the Christian woman. Yet within a few years she became the most revered woman among North Africa's Arabs. She traveled with the sharif on his war embassies, rode far distances on peace missions into the Sahara, worked for the natives, introduced vaccination, wiped out smallpox in north Morocco, and reared Arab sons.

However, the sheik did not keep faith. Altho he divorced his wives he later took others—including one of his slaves. Despite this his ex-wives became Emily's best friends. When he lay dying she nursed him.

An Englishman who interviewed Emily Keen at her Tangier palace just before the war wrote this story in the Sunday Dispatch:

"She sat huddled in an anti-macassared armchair, swathed in shawls, still wearing her flowing Victorian skirts, in a room furnished with a strange mixture of Arab gorgeousness and Victorian solidarity. Her youngest grandson, a grave-eyed boy of 14, bowed me into her presence and left us to talk. Her eyes were still blue, her wrinkled, aged face still full of life, tho her body was old and feeble.

"Would Go Thru It Again."

"When we talked . . . 'I would go thru it all over again,' she said. 'I had no more unhappiness than a million other Englishwomen who marry their own kind. I found romance, and tragedy, joy and misery—like all women. And my greatest joy was in helping my Arabs. Isn't that enough?'

"She was so frank that she encouraged frankness, and I asked her what her feelings were when she 'lost caste' by marrying a Moslem—a grave sin in those days.

Proud of Her Arab Sons.

"'What does it matter if you lose—for a time—a few so-called friends and in return gain thousands?' she said. 'I knew I was doing wrong—conventionally. But I knew I was doing right in obeying the instinct which told me I should gain the power to aid people who were suffering thru lack of guidance and ignorance.'

"I asked about her sons and grandsons. She leaned forward in her chair to point to an array of photographs of Arabs on an ancient English piano. 'Wonderful boys,' she said. 'Look at them. Such fine boys. They have never failed me—not one.'

"When I left the house, ushered out by a smiling Negress, and passed thru the crimson hibiscus in the garden, a magnificent bearded Arab in flowing robes, was pacing up and down in silent meditation. He was the present Grand Sharif of Holy Wazzan, descendant [like all sharifs] of the prophet Mahomet—and son of Emily Keen, of Surrey, England."

FIRE IN HOTEL GREASE CHUTE.

Slight damage was caused by a fire which last night brought firemen to the Drake hotel, Lake Shore drive and Michigan avenue. The flames were in a grease chute.

BOTH MAJOR PARTIES PAY OUT MORE THAN THEIR 1941 INCOMES

Washington, D. UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE
1900
1942
BEGINS IT'S 10th YEAR
Medicine Marches On !

SCORING one amazing triumph after another . . . Medicine marches on in its magnificent conquest of disease. The greatest miracle of the age is the evolution of the little "black bag" into powers of steel and concrete which are necessary to house the scientific apparatus used in routine medical practices of today. There is not a living man, woman or child whose life has not been profoundly affected by this development. One killing disease after another . . . conquered, either by total elimination, or a control which impedes their progress. The average span of life has been increased 20 years or more as a direct result. Despite these outstanding victories over disease the average human being receives but a fraction of the medical protection that is available . . . and to which he is entitled. High costs are mostly responsible for this condition . . . for as medicine advanced the costs also advanced until they were available only to the well-to-do. To average persons these medical miracles were a myth . . . just beyond their ability to pay.

This was the problem confronting the public and the medical profession a decade ago . . . the problem that prompted the founding of this outstanding medical organization, A United Medical Service. Not only has it the distinction of being Chicago's first fixed fee, low cost medical service, but the first effort of its kind in the country to attack the high cost of medical care. It was put into operation going on 10 years ago by a group of physicians and lay persons . . . who felt that lower costs were possible only through the organization of all medical facilities and services under one roof, properly managed and directed. Its success during the past nine years proves the wisdom of their foresight and courage. When the doors were first thrown open to the public patients came in such numbers as to almost overtax the service. Thousands have come each succeeding year, not only from Chicago but from all parts of the country. In our case history files are names of patients from every State of the Nation. Not all patients are attracted by low fees alone . . . many are interested in our complete modern facilities, so conveniently located under one roof. X-ray, medical laboratory and other scientific equipment occupies four entire floors in the Finchley Building . . . where it started originally. Many new services have been added, but the direction and management are the same minds who conceived and organized it in the beginning.

A United Medical Service is now more fully equipped and modern in all of its facilities . . . more widely experienced . . . more efficiently staffed . . . more adequately prepared to provide friendly, competent medical and surgical care than ever before. Those who feel that it is a patriotic duty to guard their health at this time, as well as those who wish to escape the consequences of disease and disability are cordially invited to inspect our facilities and services.

Nervous, Ankles Swollen, Backache, Kidneys Strained?

If you're feeling out o'sorts, Get Up Nights or suffer from Burning Passages, Backache, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes and feel worn-out, the cause may be non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles.

Worry, Colds, working too hard, or over-eating or drinking may create an excess of Acids and overload your Kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Remove Acids

Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess Acids. The Kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters through which the heart pumps blood about 200 times an hour, night and day, so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down when overloaded.

Fourteen years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three simple ways: 1. Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2. To palliate burning and smarting of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3. Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, which may easily make you feel years younger.

Money Back Guarantee

Usually, in non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder disorders the very first dose of Cystex goes right to work helping the Kidneys flush out excess Acids, poisons and wastes. And this cleansing, purifying Kidney action, in just a day or so, may easily make you feel younger, stronger and better than in years. A printed guarantee with each package of Cystex insures an immediate refund of all your money unless you are completely satisfied. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose, under this positive money back guarantee. Don't take chances on any Kidney medicine that isn't guaranteed. BAN ON PARKING AUTOS ALL NIGHT STIRS AUTOISTS

Not Enough Garages, Says Motor Club Head.

At least half of the city's 587,000 passenger car owners, already upset by the tire rationing order, were excited yesterday over Mayor Kelly's edict that the ban on night parking will be enforced. Public garages can hold only 80,000 cars and private garages can shelter approximately 200,000 more.

As in the past, when the threat of forbidding all-night parking was raised, the main objection is that there is not enough room to house all cars. This was expressed by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club.

"No doubt, enforcement of the present night parking ban thruout the city would be a worthwhile project," Hayes said. "It is questionable, however, whether such a procedure is practical. We all know of neighborhoods where there are not enough garages nor parking lots to accommodate all cars."

Aid to Snow Removal.

One effect of the mayor's statement was that it lessened aldermanic opposition to a proposed ordinance banning wintertime night parking on 14 thru traffic routes. The purpose of this ordinance, which comes up for a vote tomorrow in the city council, is to facilitate snow removal by the city, county, state, and street car and bus companies.

"The passage of this ordinance would be extremely helpful," the motor club president said. "It would be helpful not only to automobile traffic but to persons using buses and street cars, and to local merchants."

The present ordinance, enforcement of which would cover all streets, prohibits parking for longer than 30 minutes between the hours of 2 and 6 a. m. The so-called "snow removal" ordinance would not permit parking for any length of time on selected thorofares between midnight and 7 a. m.

Ald. Frank Keenan [49th] said his objection to the snow removal parking ban proposal was that it was handed to the aldermen without prior notice. Now that there has been opportunity to study it, he said it is "not bad at all."

No Room Near Apartments.

"But as to the ban on night parking everywhere: In my Rogers Park-Edgewater district there certainly is not garage room for all cars," Keenan said. "Big apartment buildings predominate, and there are few vacant lots to supplement the garages. The garages themselves, of which some have been turned into bowling alleys, wouldn't hold 10 per cent of the cars."

Mayor Kelly added yesterday to his previous statement the remark that he did not intend for police to tow parked cars away immediately. The dormant ordinance he proposes to enforce permits police to take possession of night parked cars, take them to garages, and require motorists to pay towing and storage charges to get their cars back.

The Chicago Plan commission will attempt to ascertain the total garage storage capacity this week.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 3—At the risk of revealing valuable military information to the yellow Aryans of Tokio we are obliged to report that the boys from the eastern part of the United States don't like that color.

The West's team came out for today's transplanted Shrine charity game attired in jerseys with yellow shoulders. The Easterners almost ran them out of Tulane's stadium until the mud obliterated all color combinations. Thereafter the fury of the East's attack abated and the 17th annual East-West contest resulted in a 6 to 6 score.

The game, shifted to New Orleans from San Francisco after the ban on sports crowds in California, drew only 25,000 due to the weather. Officials estimated a crowd of 40,000 would be necessary to meet expenses.

Bierman to Report to Marines.

Shortly before the game began Bernie Bierman, who collaborated with Andy Kerr of Colgate in the development of the East squad, was ordered to report to Quantico Va., by Jan. 15 for service with the marines. He holds the rank of major in the reserves. Maj. Biff Jones of Nebraska, one of the West's coaches, is expecting an immediate call to army service.

The East, which had a decided advantage in the first half because of its superior running attack, wasn't able to put across a touchdown until the third quarter when Bill Dudley of Virginia, the highest scoring back in 1941 football, whipped a short pass to Bill Geyer of Colgate, who ran 18 yards to the goal.

It was a screen pass into the left flat zone from a double wing formation. Geyer was aided by excellent blocking after catching the ball, but he had to do some nifty running to dodge his way thru the West's defenses. Dudley's attempted kick from placement was wide.

West Takes to Air.

The West team, co-coached by Babe Hollingbery of Washington State, unable to gain consistently thru the East line, relied on forward passes almost exclusively in the fourth quarter. A fumble by Bob Glass of Tulane which was recovered by Bradley Sheafe of St. Mary's on the East's 22 yard line put the Westerners in position for the tying touchdown.

Jack Jacobs of Oklahoma, a full blooded Indian, passed to Vike Francis of Nebraska for 10 yards. Jacobs, who almost was trapped for a big loss after fading deep, hurled a pass to Bob Robertson of Southern California, who slipped behind Bob Westfall of Michigan, the East defending back and offensive star, to take the ball on the goal line for a touchdown. Frankie Albert of Stanford attempted to win the game by a kick from placement, but Ralph

A City and a Sports Department

(The Tribune Grows Up with Chicago)

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[This is the first of a series of articles on the highlights of the development of sports in Chicago, with especial reference to the part played by the Tribune sports department in reporting them from pre-Civil war days to the present time.]

ON June 10, 1847, in the third story of a building at Lake and La Salle streets, the first issue of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE was published. One room was adequate for all the requirements of its limited circulation. There is no mention in various histories of the time that the staff included a sports reporter, altho sports already had a definite place in the life of the young city.

As proof of this latter, consider that A. T. Andreas' "History of Chicago, 1670-1885," records the establishment of the first billiard room in Chicago. What's more, it had TWO tables. It was located in Couch's hotel, at the northwest corner of Lake and Dearborn streets, later to become famous as the site of the old Tremont House. Among the present day descendants of the proprietor of this hostelry is Ira L. Couch, former Chicago District Golf association champion and twice runnerup for the western amateur golf title. Those tables were somewhat before the era of the Hoppes and Greenleafs, for they were installed in 1836.

Other Evidences of Sports Activity.

And there are other evidences of sports activity in the town before the founding of THE TRIBUNE. There was the first race course, laid out by one W. F. Myrick in 1844 on the prairie bounded by 26th and 31st streets and Indiana and Vincennes avenues. In 1845, John Dickey opened the first gymnasium in Harmon's buildings, and in the same year the Ladies of The Lake House launched the Rob Roy, the first pleasure boat built here.

The late '40s and the '50s reveal that the most popular pastimes of athletic-minded Chicagoans were trotting races, pigeon shooting, cricket, and racing around the public square. No times were recorded for those early Greg Rices and Glenn Cunninghams, but it is suspected that they were not racing for fancy watches or medals, since many of the brief accounts of some mentioned purses of from $100 to $500.

North-South Side Rivalry in Cricket.

No living Chicagoan of our times can escape the fact that there is a definite sports rivalry between the north and south sides during the present day. The city series between the Sox and the Cubs answers that in one respect. Then there was the tug-of-war golf match conducted in recent years by the Chicago Park district for players between folks living north or south of Madison street. And come to think of it, we recall the late and long lamented series of football battles between Northwestern and the school that made the game in these parts nationally prominent—the University of Chicago. Yet, in October of 1850, there was a sectional civil war between the Kentish cricket club members residing north of Washington street and an all-Chicago squad from south of that line. There is no record of that in THE TRIBUNE of that day. Possibly, the sports department, himself in person, was out covering the first meeting of the Chicago Trotting Park, which was offering a magnificent total purse of $400.

Our Mr. Bob Becker will doubtless be interested to know that in 1852, the Audubon club was formed here, "for the protection of game and the enforcement of game laws." There was no mention in THE TRIBUNE, beyond the founding of the association, about such 1942 woods and waters appurtenances as refuges, sanctuaries; Ducks Unlimited, or the Izaak Walton league. Mention of the last named reminds us that it was founded here in the early 20's and that L. H. Barkhausen, a Chicagoan, has served as president of Ducks Unlimited, which has been voted the outstanding conservation plan of the country in recent years.

New York, Jan. 3.—The end to the greatest season of National league football will be written into history tomorrow afternoon in the Polo Grounds with the final appearance of Chicago's Bears, the greatest team of this greatest season. The league champions from the west will meet an all-star professional squad directed by Steve Owen, burly New York coach, whose Giants won the eastern division title before losing to the Bears two weeks ago.

With a 24 hour reprieve from the winter rigors of other sections of the nation, Tim Mara, Giants' owner who is promoting tomorrow's game, expects 40,000 fans to buy $4.40 tickets. They will come for the valedictory of the Bears and to contribute to the Navy Relief society, since Mara will donate one-half of the gross receipts before he pays the expenses of the promotion, the transportation of the contenders, and their salaries. So it is likely the genial Irishman will finish his accounts with red ink.

Played for Charity 11 Years Ago.

Mara did the same thing 11 years ago when he pitted the Giants against the Rockne All-Stars for New York's unemployment fund. From that game he turned over more than $115,000 to charity. The Navy Relief society fund, which cares for wives and children of our sailors, currently totals less than $8,000, so tomorrow's football game and the profits of the Joe Louis-Buddy Baer fight Friday night are badly needed.

The Bears enter their final game in a season that started with victory last August in Soldiers' field over the Collegiate All-Stars, universally recognized as the finest football team of all time. Beaten once in league competition, they erased that 16 to 14 defeat by a satisfying triumph over

De Paul and Loyola Lose in Coliseum

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Southern California and Colorado, a pair of smart, strong and resourceful basketball teams, outplayed De Paul and Loyola, respectively, in last night's double header in the Coliseum.

Showing scoring ability at decisive moments, U. S. C. beat De Paul, 54 to 48, after which the other western quintet took the floor and conquered Loyola, 57 to 43. Both games were closely fought. Despite the Colorado boys' comfortable margin at the finish it was only in the closing minutes that they were able to draw away.

After taking a 6 to 5 lead in the first few minutes of play Southern California held the advantage over its Chicago rival thruout the remainder of the engagement. There were times, however, when the Trojans were called upon to deliver with speed and accuracy to defend their position.

Wozny Closes Gap.

The most critical of these episodes occurred midway in the second half when Bob Wozny of De Paul flipped in two baskets in quick succession and his teammate, James Cominsky, hooked in another fast one to cut Southern California's lead to one point at 33 to 32.

Here a free throw by Jim Seminoff relieved the situation for the Trojans. Then John Luber went in fast to score from close up and Alex Omalev followed with a brilliant one hand shot. He added a free throw a moment later and then Bob Ormsby, racing under the basket, swished one in with a backward toss over his head. This made it 41 to 32 for U. S. C. and De Paul's strongest threat was disposed of.

Trojans Protect Lead.

By cool headed control of the ball and careful shooting, the Trojans protected a fairly comfortable margin thereafter.

This was De Paul's second defeat in nine games, the previous loss having occurred at Purdue. Omalev topped the Southern California scoring with five baskets and three free throws but Cominsky of De Paul was close behind him with five baskets and two free throws.

Lead Shifts and Shifts.

Colorado and Loyola ended the first half of their game in a 21 to 21 deadlock and the lead shifted repeatedly as the second half progressed. The score was tied again at 31 to 31, but presently the visitors went ahead at 35 to 34 and never again relinquished their advantage.

The supremacy of the Colorado boys in the late stages was all the more remarkable because three of their best men, George Hamburg, Bob Doll and Heath Nuckolls went out on personal fouls.

Short Passes Foil Loyola.

A particularly effective defense kept Loyola's sharpshooters tied up during most of the game. The Chicago boys had to either flip them in on the run or else toss them from far out. This bothered every one except Jack Dwan, who made eight field goals for Loyola with nearly every variety of shot in the books. Meanwhile, Mickey Rottner was held to only one basket.

Colorado showed an excellent short passing technique. With Loyola's 6 foot 7 inch Mike Dougherty leaping up above the level of the basket to block long shots, the visitors were forced to work their way in close

ILLINI CRUSH 1941 CHAMPIONS, 55-40; MINNESOTA BEATS OHIO

Madison, Wis., Jan. 3 [Special].—A fast breaking Illinois basketball team defeated Wisconsin, defending Western conference titleholder, 55 to 40, before 7,000 in the fieldhouse tonight. The Illini held a 33 to 21 advantage at the end of the first period, slowed down somewhat early in the second half and then poured in 10 points during the last six minutes to clinch the victory.

The Badgers led during the first five minutes and were back in front, 12 to 11, before Illinois took the lead on a basket by Gene Vance and held it to the end of the game.

Illini Take 80 Shots.

Wisconsin took an even 50 shots for its 14 field goals, while Illinois made 80 attempts to get its 24 baskets.

Andy Phillip, Illinois guard, led the winning attack with 14 points on six field goals and a brace of free throws. Illinois displayed exceptional speed with its sophomore combination, which tonight revolved about Forward Ken Menke.

The Badgers, who had had their 19 game winning streak broken by Dartmouth Wednesday night, were ragged at times during the second half and finally fell apart during the last minutes, after they had climbed twice to within seven points of the winners. Lineups:

MINNESOTA WINS, 56-42

Coumbus, O., Jan. 3 [Special].—Minnesota piled up a lead of 21 to 5 in the first 10 minutes and then coasted to a 56 to 42 victory over Ohio State in the opening Western conference basketball game for both before a crowd of 2,950 in the Coliseum here tonight.

The Buckeyes, after their slow start, trailed at the half, 32 to 17, but came back strongly in the first few minutes of the second half to reduce the gap to 32 to 25. This represented the limit of Ohio State's effort, however, and Minnesota once again began to draw away.

Capt. Don Smith, Minnesota forward, was high individual scorer with four baskets and seven free throws for 15 points. Dick Fisher of Ohio State was right behind him with six baskets and one free throw for 13 points.

Minnesota outscored Ohio State from the field, 19 to 16, and made good on 18 of 21 free throw attempts while Ohio converted 10 of 17. Lineup:

IOWA, 40; MICHIGAN, 34

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 3 [Special].—After a first half in which the lead changed five times, the Iowa basketball team settled down and fashioned a 40 to 34 victory over Michigan tonight.

Following the intermission, which saw the Hawkeyes holding a five point advantage, the Wolverines, paced by Guard Leo Doyle, turned on a scoring barrage which represented the maize and blue's only major threat of the final period and crept within one point of the victors.

Then the Hawkeyes regained command and pulled away to a 10 point margin. After that they stalled until the final minute of play when Doyle and Bob Antle broke thru for a pair of field goals for Michigan's final scores of the evening.

Hawkeyes Have Tight Defense.

Michigan found difficulty piercing a closely woven Iowa defense which held the Wolverines to midcourt for the majority of their shots. So close was the defense that 10 of Michigan's 14 field goals came from far out and only four times were the Wolverines able to break under the basket for shots.

The Wolverines, tho playing the Iowans even thru the first stages of the game lapsed into listlessness and it wasn't until near the end that they could muster the speed necessary to make sustained assaults on the Iowa basket. Iowa on the other hand, made most of its shots from close in and found little difficulty in finding the mark.

Brilliant co-Capt. Vic Siegel paced the victors with 10 points, while Doyle got 11 for the Wolverines.

WILDCAT FIVE DEALS INDIANA 50-40 BEATING

Purdue Rolls Over Chicago, 64 to 19.

Northwestern's basketball team matched Indiana at its own speedy style of attack to open its Big Ten conference campaign with a 50 to 40 triumph at the Evanston High school gym last night.

Otto Graham, sophomore forward, paced a blistering second half charge which saw the Wildcats rally in the closing minutes to run up a comfortable lead.

After being held to a single free throw in the first half, Graham scored four baskets and seven free throws in the final period to run his evening's total to 16 points. Russ Wendland, with 14 points, and Capt. Hank Clason with 10 were other key men in Northwestern's attack.

Zimmer Ties Up Graham.

Capt. Andy Zimmer was the big gun for the Hoosiers with nine points besides doing a first class job of tying up Graham in the first period. Until the lanky Hoosier was removed on four personal fouls midway in the final period, the visitors were trailing by only 40 to 36.

The first half was a seesaw affair in which the lead changed hands four times and found the Wildcats clinging to a 20 to 19 lead at the gun.

After Wendland sent Northwestern into a 22 to 19 lead at the start of the final period, the Hoosiers again went in front on Zimmer's rebound shot, followed by two free throws by Logan on Graham's foul.

Hoosiers Bounce Back.

Successive baskets by Graham put the Purple in front, but again Indiana bounced back to tie the score on Hamilton's sleeper goal and Denton's free throw. Graham added two more free throws but Whittenbraker tied the score at 28-all when he drove underneath for a basket.

Northwestern pulled away on a basket by Clason and three free throws by Graham. Altho Indiana pulled up within one point, 36 to 35, midway in the period, the Wildcats turned loose a driving finish to widen the lead. With Graham and Wendland scoring in rapid succession, the Purple rolled up 14 points while the Hoosiers were collecting two on a basket by Roy Kilby. Lineups:

PURDUE, 64; MAROONS, 19

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 3 [Special].—Chicago provided a proving ground for Purdue's reserves here tonight as the Boilermakers opened their Big Ten basketball campaign with a 64 to 19 victory over the Maroons. It was the sixth straight collegiate victory of the season for the Boilermakers, who continue their conference bid against Michigan here Monday night.

The inept Maroons were never in the running, altho a makeshift Purdue quintet was in the game most of the time and the regulars were kept on the sidelines at least half of the time. The Boilermakers used 17 players, 13 of whom broke into the field goal column.

The Maroons were unable to halt Purdue's scoring drives, and had considerable trouble maintaining control of the ball when they did manage to get hold of it. They lost it 28 times on Boilermaker interceptions. Purdue led, 30 to 5, after the first half.

Easy All the Way.

After the first few minutes the only interest of the crowd was in the size of the score.

The Boilermakers started out fast. A brand new starting five was supplemented midway of the first half by the regulars, who fairly loped out into a big lead. Forrest [Frosty] Sprowl hit for six field goals and two free throws in the period, and Capt. Don Blanken picked up four field goals in the first half drive before they were removed from the game with 3 minutes of the half left to play.

With the exception of Mickey Tierney, an entire Purdue reserve combination started the second half. Sprowl and Blanken, the scoring aces, did not reënter the game until only 4 minutes was left to play and Purdue was leading, 53 to 17.

COLLAPSE FORCES BABE RUTH TO ENTER HOSPITAL

Physician Says Condition Is Not Serious.

New York, Jan. 3 [Special].—The air of mystery which enveloped the sudden illness of Babe Ruth began clearing late today when Dr. Philip McDonald, his personal physician, disclosed that the retired home run king was confined in a private hospital recovering from an "upset nervous condition," brought on, he believed, by a recent automobile accident.

Dr. McDonald, however, insisted that Ruth's condition was not serious and that he doubtless would be released within a few days. He said he knew of no reason why Babe would not be able to leave for California in three weeks to begin work on the Lou Gehrig motion picture in which Ruth has contracted to appear as himself.

Orders Him to Hospital.

"Ruth," said the physician, who has attended Babe a long time, "has not been looking quite right for several weeks. Then came that auto smashup which shocked his nervous system badly. When I was called late last night and found he was not feeling well, I advised that he be removed at once to a hospital."

"I am sure that, with a few days of complete rest and proper diet, we'll have him all right again. Friends calling at his home during the holidays simply were making it impossible for him to get the rest which I considered absolutely necessary for him."

Keeps It a Secret.

Dr. McDonald declined to reveal the hospital where Ruth is confined. He said that to do so would mean deluging the institution with calls and inquiries on the Babe's condition.

The first report of Ruth's illness came shortly after Friday midnight when it was learned he had been taken from his apartment in a private ambulance. He was carried on a stretcher and, according to one eye witness, "looked like a very sick man."

With that, all further information ceased and all efforts to reach Mrs. Ruth or their daughter, Dorothea, proved unavailing. It was not until late in the afternoon that Dr. McDonald finally broke the silence.

He Escapes Injury.

Ruth's auto crackup was said to have taken place a few days ago just outside of Tuxedo Park, N. Y. According to a friend, he was forced off the road when he swerved to avoid hitting another car and his car was wrecked. Ruth apparently suffered no physical injuries.

Last Tuesday, Ruth attended a cocktail party given to the press in honor of Mrs. Gehrig, Ruth, and Paul Gallico, who has written the script for the Gehrig film. At the time Babe appeared in excellent spirits and condition.

He admitted that a course of dieting had enabled him to take off about 47 pounds. He said he weighed 220.

The Babe, baseball's greatest home-run slugger of all time and at one stage the highest salaried player in the history of the game—drawing $80,000 a season for two years—will be 47 years old on Feb. 6.

Visiting Fives Take Lead in Bowling Meet

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

St. Louis and Detroit teams took the early lead in the four game bowling sweepstakes at Schalk's Evergreen Towers and Gold Coast Recreation, respectively, last night, the Budweisers of St. Louis topping a 24 team squad with a 3,771 total at Schalk's and Joe Norris' Stroh's Bohemians of Detroit knocking down 4,106 pins at Gold Coast. A total of 120 teams are entered in the event at Evergreen Towers and 27 at Gold Coast. Both finish tonight.

The Budweisers accumulated their aggregate on games of 853, 999, 965, and 954. Fred Taff was their leading scorer with a 234 game and 794 series. The team fired one 1,044 game in which Scott got 251.

Sluggers in the Headlines

Babe Ruth, undisputed all-time champion slugger of baseball, is in a New York hospital suffering from a nervous collapse as a result of an auto accident. His physician says Babe's condition is not serious.

Ted Williams Is Happy Over Call to Army

Princeton, Minn., Jan. 3 (AP).—Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox slugger, cut loose with a burst of boyish enthusiasm today when he learned that he had been ordered by his draft board to report for preliminary physical examination in Minneapolis Jan. 8.

"Say," he shouted, "I just hope I get in Hank Greenberg's company! Boy, would we have a hitting club! We'd just blast 'em right out of the league."

Williams notified the Red Sox of the order from here where he has been hunting and fishing, his annual winter custom.

It 's Been Changed.

"I had been classified previously in 3-A," Williams said, "since I am the sole support of my mother. But I guess that's been changed. Naturally, I have no number yet and might not be called for a couple of months or longer, but it's all right with me whatever happens. No, I've made no plans to enlist in any other branch of the service yet.

"Maybe they'll put me in Company B. That would be swell you know—B there when they go and B there when they come back."

He notified Red Sox officials of his orders by telephone.

STURM GETS HIS ORDERS.

New York, Jan. 3 [Special].—Johnny Sturm, regular first baseman of the New York Yankees, informed Ed Barrow, president of the club, today that he is to be inducted into the army on Feb. 1. He thus becomes the first of the Yankee regulars to be lost to the team for the 1942 season. Sturm is in St. Louis, his home town, and will remain there until he enters the service.

Sturm was put on first base early last season after the experiment of converting Second Baseman Joe Gordon proved a failure. Sturm played in 124 games and batted .239. He hit 17 doubles, three triples, and three home runs.

TOLEDO PITCHER ENLISTS.

Toledo, O., Jan. 3 (AP).—Lester Wirkkala, Toledo Mud Hen pitcher, enlisted here today in the air corps ground crew.

LUNDAY IS ON HIS WAY.

Miami, Okla., Jan. 3 (AP).—Kenneth Lunday, 225 pound guard for the New York Giants of the National Football league, said today he would go to Oklahoma City next Saturday for his final physical examination preparatory to induction into the army air corps as a mechanic. The former University of Arkansas star has just completed his fifth season with the Giants.

LONG ISLAND U. BEATS CREIGHTON QUINTET, 40-35

New York, Jan. 3 (AP).—A 10 point first half lead stood Long Island university in good stead tonight as it staved off a last half rally to defeat Creighton's Missouri Valley champions, 40 to 35, in the second game of a basketball double header in Madison Square Garden.

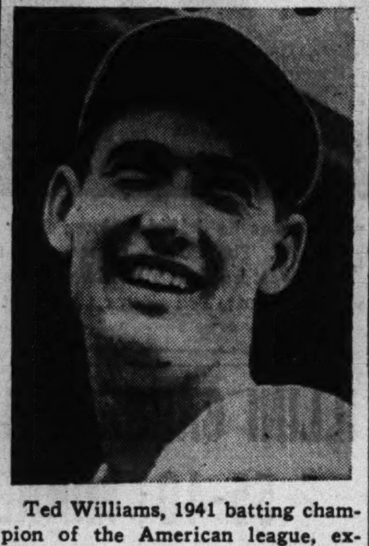
The first half was a drab affair in comparison with the first game, in which Rhode Island outpointed Fordham, 60 to 55, in overtime before a crowd of 17,076. From a 19 to 9 deficit at the intermission, Creighton, however, came back to make a ball game of the affair. The margin of victory was from free throws as each team chalked up 15 field goals.

After scoring only two baskets in the first period, both by Joe Loisel and widely spaced, the midwesterners rallied at the start of the final session with four goals in three minutes to narrow the lead to one point.

Long Island answered the rally with one of its own and held command thru the remainder of the game with margins of two to seven points. Creighton had the shots but the ball refused to drop, and then lost a valuable asset when Big Ed Beisser was forced out of play on fouls with five minutes to go.

COLLEGE HOCKEY.

Dartmouth, 5; Minnesota, 3.



Ted Williams, 1941 batting champion of the American league, expressed joy when notified that he had been placed in Class 1-A in the draft yesterday. He will report for examination Thursday.

Great Lakes Whips Butler Five, 51 to 40

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 3 [Special].—Dick Klein, former Northwestern star, scored 17 points for the second straight night as Great Lakes continued its invasion thru the heart of Hoosierland's basketball region and the sailors defeated Butler university before 7,500 in the Butler fieldhouse here tonight, 51 to 40.

Wilbur Schumacher, Butler forward, was high man of the evening among basketball giants, however, scoring 19 points.

Butler Has Early Lead.

Schumacher tallied twice and Ed Norris added a free throw to give Butler a 5 to 4 early lead. Then Klein poured in four field goals, John Lobsiger and Ernie Andres two each, and Forrest Anderson one, to put the sailors in front, 18 to 6. Great Lakes led at the half, 30 to 11.

Late in the second half with the score 44 to 25, Schumacher added six more points. Sailor shooting accuracy counted, however, and most fans went home convinced they had seen the greatest team ever to play in the Butler fieldhouse.

Play Again Tomorrow.

The sailors will continue their road trip Monday night when they invade Jeffersonville, Ind., to meet the Western Kentucky Normal quintet.

NOTRE DAME WINS OVER HARVARD IN SLOW GAME, 39-31

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 3 [Special].—Notre Dame defeated Harvard, 39 to 31, in a slow basketball game here tonight. It was Notre Dame's fourth victory in six starts and Harvard's fifth straight victory on a road trip which concluded tonight.

The contest brought together Earl Brown Jr., Harvard coach, and George E. Keogan, veteran Irish coach, Brown having captained the 1938-'39 Notre Dame quintet.

Irish Lead at Half.

The Irish held an 18 to 14 margin after a slow motion first half. Harvard had led three times during the period and the score was tied twice.

The Crimson never led in the second period, altho it pulled up to a 23 to 22 deficit after eight minutes had elapsed. Here John [Buster] Hiller entered the game for Notre Dame and scored two quick baskets to spark an Irish drive that made it 32 to 23 with five minutes left.

Buckley Leads Scoring.

Ed Buckley, Harvard guard hook shot artist, led scoring with nine points. Charlie Butler, junior forward, paced Notre Dame with seven points, altho he was on the bench much of the evening. Notre Dame will face Washington University of St. Louis here next Wednesday.

SOONER STAR'S STATUS PUT UP TO BIG 6 RULERS

Norman, Okla., Jan. 3 (AP).—The full faculty committee of the Big Six conference will be asked to rule on the disputed eligibility of Gerald Tucker, outstanding University of Oklahoma basketball player.

Walter Kraft, Oklahoma's faculty committee representative, said Dr. H. H. King, Kansas State college, chairman of the conference eligibility committee, had agreed to call the full faculty committee to hear an appeal. The eligibility committee last night ruled Tucker ineligible to play in conference games because it found the University of Oklahoma failed to request from Kansas State college approval of Tucker's transfer to Oklahoma in the fall of 1940. The appeal hearing will be held Monday in Kansas City.

The 19 year old Tucker, whose home is in Winfield, Kas., is regarded as one of the country's best players. In five games this season he has averaged 15 points to lead the Sooner scoring.

REDS (3D PLACE) MISSED PENNANT BY TEN BASE HITS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Gabriel Paul, who toots the publicity horn for the Cincinnati Reds, has in one way or another, discovered that a mere matter of 10 base hits was all that kept Bill McKechnie's entry from its third straight pennant last season.

Paul insists his research shows that those 10 hits, if exploded at the right moment in 10 different games, would have turned the battles into victories and also turned the top of the final club standing over to the Reds.

Brightens Cincinnati Life.

Of course, Paul didn't come up with this data with the idea of casting any reflections on the pennant winning job of the Brooklyn Dodgers. He merely went in quest of something with which he could brighten the lives of the Rhineland constituents who, as the result of the Reds' third place finish, are experiencing a tough winter.

The first to react to the Paul discovery was Paul himself. Having found out about those 10 base hits that never appeared, the genial horn tooter is viewing 1942 thru rose colored glasses.

The Reds didn't have a .300 hitter last season for the first time since 1914. Three of their regulars were among the top seven in the 1940 batting averages. Paul doesn't think that same kind of a flop can happen two years in a row.

To prove that there is some reason for his bubbling over about the prospects of the return of the .300 hitters, Paul cites the case of the Yankees. The latter, after four straight world championships, plumped into last place in team batting in 1940 but bounced up to third as well as into another world title last fall. If the Yanks could do it why not the Reds, is Paul's argument.

Rookies Cause Enthusiasm.

Possibly some of Paul's winter enthusiasm may be traced to his perusal of batting marks fashioned in the minors by some of the Red's prospective rookies. Bert Haas, an American association graduate, is expected to lend a hand as a hitter and as a third baseman as well. And additional power on attack is expected to be uncovered in Hank Sauer, who was called up from Birmingham late in the season. He batted .303 in nine games.

Sauer is a first baseman by profession but the Reds have Frank McCormick for that spot and are shy on outfielders so that's where the freshman will be put to work. At least he'll be tutored in the fly chasing art during spring training and what happens after that will depend on him. They hadn't better let him know about the jinx that has hounded the left field department in Cincinnati the past two years.

Dartmouth Hockey Team Whips Minnesota, 5 to 3

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 3 (AP).—Minnesota's hockey team tried every trick in the book to stop Dartmouth in an overtime game at the Minneapolis arena tonight, but Bill Harrison, Indiana wingman, scored two points in the overtime to give the easterners their second victory in the series, 5 to 3. Ten penalties were registered and two men were ousted for fighting in the second period. They were Fischer of Minnesota and Dishame of Dartmouth.

WAR CONDITIONS MAY DIM LIGHTS OF NIGHT GAMES

Fate of Sport on the West Coast in Doubt.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

There's been considerable speculation as to the fate of night baseball under war conditions. It started before this country got into war, on the basis of defense conservation of electricity and lighting accessories, but has become much more acute with the possibility of actual bombings.

While many have expressed the belief that a concerted aerial attack on this country is a matter of the distant future, the nuisance or token technique displayed by the Japs in their submarine activties just off the California coast has increased the belief the enemy, provided with a target like an illuminated ball park, might be tempted to shower a few bombs for terrorizing purposes, even tho an attack on a baseball crowd would be of little strategic account.

Baseball Awaits Developments.

Baseball folk, after assuring the government that the game is eager to coöperate in every possible way and without the necessity of official ukases of any kind, calmly are waiting developments. Weather, even in southern California, makes night games inadvisable until May or later, and the attitude is that there's no need to plan now for conditions that will apply so many weeks hence.

It is entirely possible that in the Pacific Coast league, where it appears night baseball would be the most hazardous, they will not need night baseball to support the enterprise. The many war industries on the west coast are operating three shifts, and two of these will be available from which to draw patronage during the afternoon. This would be an agreeable situation for all concerned. Night baseball under normal circumstances is much more expensive to produce than sunlit baseball, and the players greatly prefer the daytime brand, as do the spectators, if their hours of leisure are compatible.

May Hit Spring Training.

It is not likely that baseball on the west coast will be affected by the same anxieties that brought transfer of the Rose bowl football game from Pasadena or the postponement of the Santa Anita race meeting at Arcadia. Crowds of 10,000 are considered all right by the military authorities and other officials and there's not a coast league official who wouldn't be delighted with a maximum of 10,000 spectators.

More imminent than the night baseball problem in so far as California conditions are concerned is the spring training limitations in southern California. Four major league clubs, the Cubs and the White Sox, the Philadelphia Athletics, and the Pittsburgh Pirates, are scheduled to train in southern California and so are the eight Pacific Coast league teams.

Cubs May Be Hard Hit.

The four major league teams, including the Cubs, who appear to be facing the greatest interruption to their training plans in view of their island base, continue to take things in stride. None has admitted activities toward switching to Arizona or Texas training headquarters.

We are quite sure we aren't keen to enter the bomb zone unless we are serving some military purpose and, as a survivor of the 1933 earthquake, we recall that the baseball temperament is readily upset by violence. San Antonio, Tex., is a town we always liked and still fancy, tho it is now a military objective, what with all those flying fields, etc.

GIANTS ARRANGE 33 GAMES FOR SPRING TRAINING

New York, Jan. 3 (AP).—The New York Giants today announced a 33 game spring training schedule with 15 of them against the Cleveland Indians, the team they have met for several years on their swing north.

Memphis of the Southern association is the only minor league club on the schedule. The Chicks will be met twice in General Manager Bill Terry's home town, April 4 and 5. The Giants and Indians will meet March 18 in Clearwater and 10 days later will open a 14 game series, ending in Cleveland, with the stop at Memphis the only break.

The schedule:

Feb. 28 and March 1, Brooklyn at Havana; March 7 and 8, Boston Red Sox at Miami; March 13, 14, and 15, Brooklyn at Miami; March 16, Red Sox at Sarasota; March 17, Cincinnati at Tampa; March 18, Cleveland at Clearwater; March 19, Washington at Orlando; March 21 and 22, Washington at Miami; March 24, Philadelphia Phillies at Miami Beach; March 25, Phillies at Miami; March 26, Brooklyn at Daytona Beach; March 27, Boston Braves at Sanford, Fla.; March 28 and 29, Cleveland at Miami; March 20, Cleveland at Jacksonville; March 31, Cleveland at Hattiesburg, Miss.; April 1, Cleveland at Alexandria, La.; April 2, Cleveland at Houston, Tex.; April 3, Cleveland at Dallas; April 4 and 5, Memphis at Memphis; April 6, Cleveland at Greenville, Miss.; April 7, Cleveland at Oklahoma City; April 8, Cleveland at Wichita; April 9, Cleveland at Springfield, Mo.; April 10, Cleveland at Evansville, Ind.; April 11 and 12, Cleveland at Cleveland.

SILVER SKATES ARE A JINX TO LEO FREISINGER

Rivalry Is Keen, Even for World Champion.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Leo Freisinger, former Olympic ice skating star, knows how it feels to win United States and international championships, but the mention of Silver Skates reminds him of four unsuccessful attempts to win the senior men's title in these Derbies, which this winter will be held in Garfield park on Jan. 17 and 18 under the sponsorship of Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Freisinger, winner of six national championships, three North American titles, and high point scorer for the United States team in the 1936 winter Olympics at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, has given up racing to become coach of the Catholic Youth organization squad. As director of the CYO team's training, Freisinger has cited his own career to every pupil, emphasizing the fact that skaters can expect to meet the keenest competition of the world in the Silver Skates Derbies.

Great Skaters in Chicagoland.

Freisinger has visited Europe's ice skating capitals and traveled to the most important meets in the United States since he started his victory string in 1932 as a Schurz High school representative. He broke nine world records, too, during that nine year racing period. He was awarded many medals and trophies, but he failed to gain the Silver Skates senior championship which he eyed covetously for four years. How come? Here's Freisinger talking:

"The Silver Skates Derbies were somewhat of a jinx to me. I won races in Germany, Norway, Switzerland, and France, beating the best skaters in the world. But something always happened in the Silver Skates. Finishing second three times and sixth once in four attempts in the senior class proved to me that Chicagoans don't have to travel very far to watch the greatest skaters in the world. I found that out."

Freisinger's first attempt to win the senior title was frustrated by his close pal and teammate, Vic Ronchetti, in 1937. Two years later he finished second again, this time a few yards behind Armin Massin. Freisinger made his last effort to capture the championship last winter, and on this occasion it was Bernie Cannata who showed him the way to the finish line.

Starts Triumphs in 1932.

Freisinger, in addition to his ice skating activities, was regular left half back on the Schurz football team and played in the outfield for the baseball line. He began collecting national skating titles in 1932 when he won the United States outdoor junior championship. In 1933 he added the North American and Silver Skates intermediate titles. The following winter he took the North American outdoor and indoor crowns, but in 1935 he was inactive because of a broken leg suffered in a freak accident.

LEO FREISINGER.

He received a special trial and, after brilliant performances, was placed on the American Olympic team in 1936. He formed many friendships at the winter Olympic games, and he still corresponds with Norway's Ivar Ballangrud. He returned to Europe two years later on a tour with other American skaters after he had won the national indoor title in 1937.

His most successful efforts on the trip occurred in Norway, where he established 15 new rink records, and in Davos, Switzerland, where he won 5 out of 11 events. Freisinger still holds the European records at 500 meters and 3,000 meters, and the American marks of :41.9 for 500 meters, 1:29.4 for 1,000 meters, and 2:18.3 for 1,500 meters.

1940 National Champion.

Freisinger finished second in the United States meet in 1939 and again last year, despite the fact that his activities were curtailed because of illness in each of those years. He won his last national crown at La Crosse, Wis., and the North American championship at Schnectady, N. Y., in 1940.

The former skating champion believes the CYO team will win several titles in the Chicago district this winter. He lists the brightest pupils for the Silver Skates as Don Lasser and Jack Carney in the juvenile division; Jerry Fahrenbach and Buddy Solem in the junior class; Donald Fahrenbach and Frank Berlando in the intermediate; Joe Wallace, Lowell Miller, Steve Gadus, and Art Winkler in the seniors; Mary Allen, Virginia Muzzetta, and Doretta Du Mez in the girls' junior; Dorothy Welter in the girls' intermediate, and Ann Vitaska in the senior women's competition.

Altho Freisinger has abandoned racing he has few moments of leisure. He is a physical education instructor at Portage park, 4100 North Long avenue, in addition to his duties as coach of the CYO squad. He doesn't care for idleness in the summer months as one would suspect from an ice skater and coach. He has served as a lifeguard on Chicago beaches for the last five years.

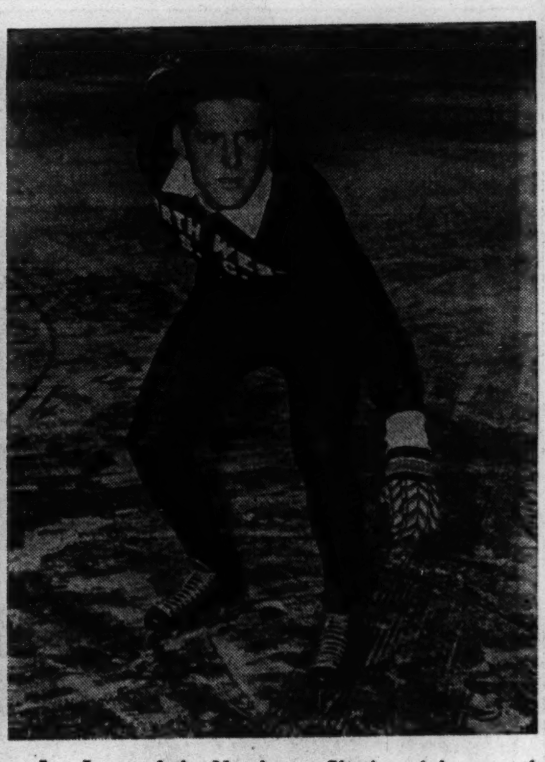
SKATERS SEEK STATE TITLES TODAY—PARK DISTRICT CROWNS SETTLED

Bob Heckenbach of the Northwest Skating club skates into first place in the men's Class A mile race during Illinois Skating association meet in Waveland Park yesterday. Heckenbach is followed across line by Steve Gadus of the CYO. The Catholic Youth organization won this division of the meet.

Allen Becker of the Barrett club leads the field across finish line in 220 yard midget class of the Illinois Skating association meet, race followed by Tom Dilden of the Glen Ellyn A. A. and Roy Parker of Pierce playground, third.

In the Chicago park district meet held in conjunction with the Skating association meet Jack Costell of Columbus park captures the senior men's 880 yard race. In second place is Joe Fitzgerald of Shedd park.

Mrs. Elaine Bodga Gordon, city senior women's champion, is a prominent contender in the Illinois Skating association's annual state meet today on Lake Ellyn, sponsored by the Glen Ellyn A. A.



Joe Janet of the Northwest Skating club, a youthful newcomer in class A, is entered in the state championship meet today and also in The Tribune's Silver Skates Derbies on Jan. 17 and 18.

Vic Ronchetti, city senior men's champion, is a favorite to win in the state meet. Ronchetti won the senior Silver Skates event of 1937 and the 1938 national title.

GAMES THIS WEEK.

Tonight—Indianapolis at Sheboygan; Fort Wayne at Toledo; Oshkosh vs. Philadelphia Sphas [exhibition] in Cleveland.

Tuesday—Oshkosh at Fort Wayne.

Wednesday—Akron at Chicago; Oshkosh at Toledo.

Saturday, Jan. 10.—Fort Wayne at Oshkosh; Indianapolis at Akron.

Sunday, Jan. 11—Indianapolis at Toledo.

The Chicago Bruins, last place team in the National Basketball league, yesterday started a shakeup in personnel by releasing Ed Sachs, formerly of De Paul, and George Wenskus, former Loyola star. The Bruins meet the Akron Goodyears in the Coliseum on Wednesday, and hope to hit a winning streak after losing seven of their first eight league games.

Indianapolis beat the Bruins, 37 to 33, in the Chicagoans' last engagement.

The current problem of Coach Jack Tierney is to improve the Bruins' defense for Wednesday's game. Among the Akron stars are George Glamach, Ben Stephens, and Lee Huber, who rank among the 10 leading scorers of the league. Last year, while playing for the University of North Carolina, Glamach scored 580 points in 26 games. In the first nine Akron games this season he counted 104, helping the Goodyears average 44 per game.

Exclusive of last night's contests, Chuck Chuckovits of Toledo was the league's leading scorer with 131 points in seven games. Ralph Vaughn of Chicago rated temporarily in fifth place in individual scoring, with 82 in eight contests. Wibs Kautz of the Bruins counted 77 in seven games to rate eighth.

Unbeaten Kosciuzko Faces Troop 220 in League Game

water race in the world, we might advise local yachtsmen that in August, 1853, the Pioneer boat club was founded and members conducted their first event, a race against time, over a four mile course on Lake Michigan. In spite of constant bailing out, they won.

On Feb. 25, 1855, there was a line published regarding a foot race at North's amphitheater. In that same year, from June 19 to 23, horses ran at the newly opened Brighton course, which had been preceded the year before by the Garden City track. In those days, contests among thorobred steeds apparently was not enough. By 1856, both the Garden City and Brighton tracks were conducting tests between Indian runners and horses, a race between a bear and a horse, and a fight between a bear and a buffalo.

Sports News Buried, but It Emerges!

The variety of sports recorded in those days would put many of our modern programs to shame. There was April 14, 1856, when Fireman John Tierney of Engine Company No. 6 won a silver trumpet by outdistancing his competitors in a foot race. There was Charley Curtis, a champion pedestrian who preceded Dan O'Leary and Edward Weston by some years, who strolled away with a purse of $2,000 by walking 1,056 miles in as many half hours. There were the gymnastic training schools opened for ladies, exclusively, by two female athletes, at No. 218 Wabash and at the corner of State and Randolph streets. There was a baseball game between the Printers' and Editors' nines, won, much to the amazement of all, by the Editors, who scored 32 runs in the last inning.

Most of these happenings were set down in the early TRIBUNES, but not in such form as we try to report the nation's sports in these pages of today. They generally were buried amid news of a general character—local, national, amusements. Bylines in the modern manner, which precede the story to indicate the writer, were not in existence. Only evidences of authorship were infrequent finishing signatures that more than often were pseudonyms. The typography of newspaper publishing of that time was such that a magnifying glass would be required by a present day reader, and sports were decades away from attaining the status of a separate column, let alone section. Yet, as the years went on, public interest in sports gradually demanded daily reports. Trotting races and pedestrianism, with occasional reports of prize fights [which were outlawed at that time] occupied most of the regular space accorded to sports, but it was baseball that eventually gave sports a definite place in a daily newspaper. A. G. Spalding, Cap Anson, and the Chicago White Stockings were prime examples of this insofar as THE TRIBUNE was concerned.

PEBBLE BEACH TO FIGHT TRANSFER OF GOLF TOURNEY

Vigorous opposition to the request of the Tam o' Shanter Country club for transfer of the national amateur golf tournament from Pebble Beach, Cal., to be held in conjunction with Tam o' Shanter's $15,000 September Open will be made by the California course, it was learned yesterday.

Samuel F. B. Morse, president of the Del Monte Properties corporation, controling the Pebble Beach course, indicated yesterday that the Chicago club's proposal will be fought by Pebble Beach at the annual meeting of the United States Golf association in New York next Saturday.

Queried last night, Mr. May said that Tam o' Shanter would continue to press its invitation to the USGA to transfer the event to Chicago. He said that one of his representatives, Merle Macbain, will leave Tuesday for New York to present the bid in person Saturday, when the USGA holds its annual meeting.

"Mr. Morse is entitled to his opinion," May said. "Naturally, since Pebble Beach was awarded the tournament originally, he and his friends should want to retain the tournament, but the situation in the Pacific is such that anything might happen up to the day before the amateur begins, not to mention what might happen during the tournament itself. We are still going to try and bring the amateur to Chicago."

Veteran Names 8 Winners at Tropical Park

Miami, Fla., Jan. 3 (AP).—Dave Wilson, race editor of the Boston American, picked all eight winners at Tropical Park today. Wilson's first place choices in the second and eighth races were scratched, but in each case his second selection romped home.

His choices included Red Rock, a $25.60, $6.20, and $3.80 for $2 shot in the featured sixth event.

Had Wilson played his selections straight thru he now would be pretty well fixed. A $2 parlay on his eight winners would have brought in $35,448,80 if the odds had remained the same.

The Illinois division of the American Fencers League of America will hold its men's open individual foil meet in Bartlett gymnasium today, starting at 11 a. m.

Many of the country's outstanding foil handlers will compete. Among them are Frank Righeimer Jr. of the Olympic fencing squad; Herbert Strauss Jr., former Big Ten foils champion; and Oscar Barab, ranked second in the midwest.

The leading junior entries are Armondo Stella and Paul Basso of Northwestern university; Bernard Fishman of the University of Illinois; and Arthur Cohen of the University of Chicago. All are college freshmen.

NEW HAVEN MAN IS RATED NO. 1 '41 MARKSMAN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 (AP).—The National Rifle association today ranked Dave Carlson of New Haven, Conn., its No. 1 small bore marksman for 1941 and placed Harry W. Reeves of Detroit, Mich., first among the country's pistol shots.

Carlson gained top ranking for the second straight year despite his loss of the national rifle championship to Ransford D. Triggs of Madison, N. J., at Camp Perry, O., last September. Carlson competed in every major rifle meet in the east during 1941.

Runner-up for Years

Reeves went to the top in the pistol field after many years as runner-up to Sergt. Al Hemming of the Detroit police department, who slumped to fourth place in the 1942 rankings. Reeves was undefeated in all-around competition during 1940 and 1941.

Bill Woodring of East Alton, Ill., former national rifle titleholder and top ranking rifleman in 1936, was second to Carlson by the association. Charles Hamby, Atlanta veteran, was ranked third and Triggs, the national champion, fourth. Jack Lacy of New Haven wound up fifth.

Minneapolis Woman First.

Other high ranking riflemen on the association's list are Mrs. John W. Cole, Minneapolis, national woman's champion and only woman among the first 10, who finished sixth; William P. Schweitzer, Hillside, N. J., seventh; Paul E. Poe, Rock Island, Ill., eighth; Bud Wickersham, San Francisco, ninth, and Samuel C. Lear, Vallejo, Cal., tenth.

Two army marksmen gained second and third rankings on the pistol list. Sergt. Huelet L. Benner of Fort Knox, Ky., was runner-up to Reeves and Lieut. G. W. Curo, Camp McQuaide, Cal., was third. Hemming was fourth and Sergt. Thurman Barrier, a Marine from Annapolis, Md., was fifth.

Other high ranking pistol shots on the association's listing are Walter R. Walsh, Arlington, Va., sixth; Garfield Huddleston, Kansas City, Mo., seventh; Francis O'Connor, Kansas City, Mo., eighth; Melton R. Rogers, Oroville, Wash., ninth, and Maurice Lalonde, Detroit, tenth.

ARMY MAY LIFT BAN, SANTA ANITA MANAGER SAYS

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3 (AP).—General Manager Charles H. Strub of Santa Anita Park sounded a note of optimism today when he told horsemen that racing may be given the go-ahead signal by army authorities within the near future.

"Present conditions warrant the belief that we will receive word by the first part of next week that plans for the resumption of racing may be approved," Strub said.

Strub said he could go no further in commenting on the prospects, but his words brought cheers from the hundreds of horse owners and employés who are virtually stranded at the vast Arcadia plant.

BEARS END GREAT SEASON AGAINST PRO STARS TODAY

Green Bay in the playoff battle for western honors.

Bears Have Power to Spare.

Normally the sports public would not look on this game as full stop to a glorious record, but the certainty that several of the younger stars of George Halas' squad will be playing for Uncle Sam in the future means that the 1942 Bears eleven cannot approach this team in effectiveness.

It may be argued that the Georgia Tech eleven which whipped Cumberland, 222 to 0, or the professional Bulldogs of Canton, O., or even Notre Dame's great team of 1924 could play on equal terms with the champion Bears. No one will deny, however, that the Bears' squad has more power, and certainly more material than any of these predecessors. When George McAfee, the shiftiest runner in the league, merely shares right half back with Hugh Gallarneau, and when Norm Standlee, Bill Osmanski, and Joe Maniaci have relegated Gary Famiglietti to No. 4 full back, you have unassailable evidence of the strength of the squad.

All-Stars Have Skill.

No rival team in National league football could stop the Bears' title drive, but this composite professional squad of 28 men, which finished training today in Garden City, N. Y., may have the skill and required strength. Even this, however, presumes that the Bears will not be at the peak they reached for the third battle with Green Bay and the championship fray with the Giants.

The Bears have shown, on occasion, that if they have a defensive weakness it is against short and medium length forward passes. The Packers, with Cecil Isbell pitching to Don Hutson, accounted for the sole conquest of the champions. Sammy Baugh, whose accuracy on short passes is unsurpassed even by Isbell, will have Hutson and Dick Humbert of Philadelphia as receivers. From this attack may be manufactured an upset of the champions.

Owen Has Two Teams.

Coach Owen has two well rounded teams, and it is apparent from the tentative lineup that he will start his more powerful defensive combination. Bruiser Kinard of Brooklyn and Wee Willie Wilkin of Washington are the tackles. Nello Falaschi, New York blocking back; Pug Manders, Brooklyn full back; Art Jones, Pittsburgh's right half, and Baugh comprise the back field.

Hutson and Humbert are the ends on the second group, and the back field of Larry Craig, Packers' blocking back; Isbell, Ward Cuff, and Tuffy Leemans of the Giants, is geared for action.

The Bears drilled for the last time this morning at the Polo Grounds. They are staying at the Lincoln hotel. Elmer Layden, commissioner of the National league, arrived today for the game.

The contest will be broadcast exclusively by W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

HAWKS DRILL AND MANAGER LEAVES TO SCOUT MINORS

Manager Paul Thompson sent the Chicago Blackhawks thru a one hour scrimmage in the Arena yesterday for the game with the Bruins next Tuesday in Boston. Next Thursday the Hawks will meet the Canadiens in the Stadium.

Because of the dismal performances of the Hawks in absorbing five straight defeats, Thompson is convinced that some changes may be necessary in the team's makeup. Last night Thompson and Coach Helge Bostrom left to look over American association prospects in Minneapolis and St. Paul today. This afternoon they will watch the Kansas City Americans meet the Millers in Minneapolis. Tonight they will scout the St. Paul Saints and Dallas Texans in St. Paul.

The Hawks' manager did not mention the player or players who might be sent to the minors or who might be exchanged for players or cash.

PEORIA STARTS GOLDEN GLOVES TRAINING SCHOOL

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 3 [Special].—One reason why the caliber of fighting in the Peoria Journal-Transcript's Golden Gloves tournaments has been improving, year by year, is Eddie Manning, the official trainer.

For the last six years Eddie, a former Golden Glover, has taken the novices in hand at the annual training classes, putting them thru an intensive course of instruction for several weeks prior to the tourney. He will be back on the job next week for the seventh successive year.

Peoria's 13th annual meet will be held Feb. 2, 3, and 16 in the Majestic theater.

FOUR QUINTETS PLAY SATURDAY IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 3 [Special].—Double-header collegiate basketball, which has proved successful here in the past and particularly on New Year's eves, will be featured again next Saturday night in the Milwaukee Auditorium. Marquette will oppose Butler after the Milwaukee Teachers meet Carroll.

Marquette-Butler battles usually are thrillers. Marquette won here last year, 41 to 37, and lost at Butler, 40 to 38. Since their first meeting in 1922 Butler was won 11 games and Marquette five.

FEW CHANGES IN PROSPECT FOR FOOTBALL RULES

Committee Studies Code at Phoenix Meeting.

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 3 (AP).—The chances are 10 to 1 there will be little change in the 1942 college football rules.

That was the general impression from a nation-wide survey as the National Collegiate Athletic association's official rules committee prepared to go into session in Camelback inn tomorrow.

In Detroit last week the advisory rules committee of the American Football Coaches association handed down its recommendations.

Suggest only Minor Changes.

Often a hatching ground for new ideas, some revolutionary in style, the coaches group advanced only minor suggestions for revisions.

Up for discussion, and possible continuation, will be 1941's most controversial rule, permitting unlimited substitutions. Several groups believe clauses governing substitutions in the last two minutes of a half should be clarified.

Eastern officials asked that the ball, when deliberately kicked out of bounds, be placed in play on the 50 yard line, instead of the 35.

Pacific Coast conference coaches suggested that no yardage penalty be enforced which puts the ball more than half way to a goal line from the point of play.

Ask Limitation on Penalty.

The coast delegation also thinks a player could be sent in as a sub without having to gain recognition from his captain on the field. The national coaches group recommended a sub could report to any official instead of just the referee.

The coaches also suggested that a team scored upon be given a chance to switch goals, if desired.

A lateral pass law revision was advocated. At present a downfield lateral illegally tossed forward nullifies the entire gain of the play. The coaches seek a five yard penalty from the point of infraction, instead of returning the ball to the line of scrimmage.

Bierman's Loss Proves Shock to Minnesota

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 3 (AP).—News that Coach Bernie Bierman of the University of Minnesota had been ordered to report to the United States marine headquarters at Quantico, Va., by Jan. 15 created a sensation at the university today, but officials withheld a formal statement.

President Walter C. Coffey declared he would have to withhold opinion until confirmation of Bierman's status had been received from Frank McCormick, athletic director and Bierman's direct superior. McCormick is expected to return here Sunday.

It's Up to McCormick.

"The news, of course, comes as a shock to us," explained Coffey. "If there is to be a recommendation for a successor to Bierman, however temporary, it would have to come from Mr. McCormick. If the recommendation is approved, I would then take it before the board of regents, which would have final jurisdiction."

Coffey said he and McCormick had met recently to discuss the inroads the war might have on intercollegiate athletics at Minnesota. The possibility that Bierman might be called to active service was not considered, because it seemed remote at the moment.

Hauser May Get Post.

University sources meanwhile were debating the effect of Bierman's recall on the coaching situation. If Bierman goes on active duty, the general opinion was that the rule of succession would find Dr. George Hauser, next in football command and head line coach, carrying on until Bierman's return.

Dr. Hauser is in the medical reserve after serving in the last war, but is not believed available for immediate call. Bert Baston, end coach and collaborator with Bierman and Dr. Hauser in direct command of the Gophers, no longer is in the marine reserve corps after a brilliant war record as a captain at Chateau Thiery and Belleau Wood.

FILM STARS WILL AID GOLF SERIES FOR RED CROSS

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 3 (AP).—Bing Crosby and Bob Hope joined with the Professional Golfers association today in a plan to stage links matches for the benefit of the Red Cross and the war relief program.

Fred Corcoran, PGA tournament manager, said the film stars had volunteered and a schedule of dates and locations would be arranged to fit in with their motion picture commitments.

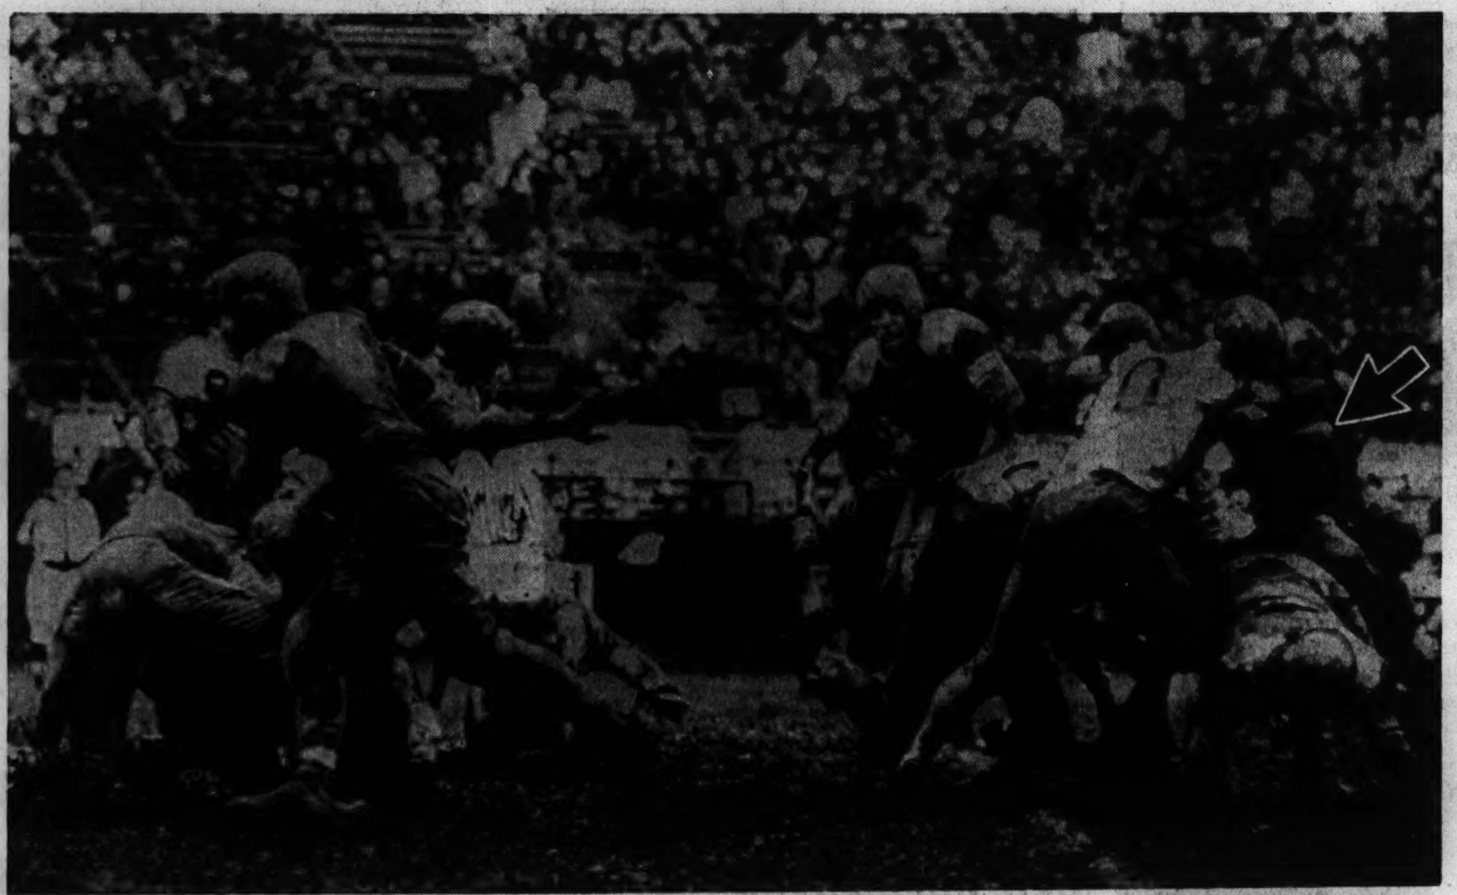
"The PGA helped raise more than $100,000 last year and aims to double the figure this year," Corcoran said. He added that the duke of Windsor, who collaborated in a benefit series last year, had promised his coöperation for 1942.

Ed Dudley, president of the association, and ranking stars of the sport, including the Ryder cup team, will be used in the series.

Bowman First Cub to Return Signed Contract

Pitcher Bob Bowman, acquired by the Cubs from the Giants in a deal sending Hank Leiber to New York, is the first Cub to return his signed contract for the 1942 season. The contract was received by the Cubs yesterday.

THAT EASTERN LINE KEEPS ON ITS TOES



Bill Sewell of Washington State college (right) is swamped by East players and thrown for three yard loss in yesterday's East-West game played in New Orleans. Sewell tried to spin thru line on a fake pass play. The teams battled to a 6 to 6 tie before a crowd held to 25,000 by the weather.

WEST'S FOURTH QUARTER PASS TIES EAST, 6-6

Fife of Pittsburgh blocked the ball.

The star of stars in the Eastern galaxy was Westfall, whose plunging has caused Western conference rivals no end of trouble the last three years. He carried the ball 20 times for an average gain of approximately five yards. Dudley of Virginia deserves a bow for his versatility, because he did most of the punting and passing for the East team as well as handling his share of the ball carrying.

East's Line Is Stronger.

The East's line was much stronger than the West's, altho there was no better performer on the field than California's Bob Reinhard. Bernie Crimmins of Notre Dame, Jim Daniell of Ohio State, Bob Ingalls of Michigan, Endicott Peabody of Harvard, and Urban Odson and Charles Ringer of Minnesota were standouts on the East's scrimmage strip.

Sharing line honors with Reinhard for the West was Vic Lindskog, Stanford center. Mal Kutner of Texas and Henry Stanton of Arizona turned in a brilliant job at end.

The West had the better backs. Bill Sewell of Washington State did magnificent punting and expert passing. Bob Robertson of U. S. C. not only scored the West's touchdown, but he was the best ground gainer of the game, using statistics as a barometer. He averaged 14.5 yards in his two trips with the ball. Jacobs, who averaged five yards per try, was the West's second most successful stepper.

Smith Receives Cup.

Bruce Smith, Minnesota's mighty half back who didn't get into the game because of injury was presented a trophy by a national football board. Christy Walsh made the presentation. It was the second time a Minnesota player had won the cup. Notre Dame and Stanford are the only other schools whose players have won it twice.

The cold arithmetic gives added evidence of the equality of competition today. The West made 11 first downs and the East 10. The West had a marked advantage in the air and the East about the same margin on the ground. The statistics follow:

	East.	West.
Running and passing plays	52	62
Yards gained running net	141	57
Yards gained passing	49	118
Total yards gained net	190	175

MARINES CALL HANLEY, BOSTON FOOTBALL COACH

Boston, Mass., Jan. 3 (AP).—L. B. [Pat] Hanley, head coach of football at Boston university since 1934, was called to active service tonight with the United States marine corps.

Hanley, who served with the marines in the last war and now holds a major's commission in the marine reserve, was instructed by Washington officials to report to the marine station at Quantico, Va., by Jan. 15.

"I am happy for the opportunity to serve my country," was Hanley's only statement.

OFFICIALS MEET.

Members of the Athletic Officials' association will resume their basketball rules interpretation meetings tomorrow night in the Atlantic hotel. Ernie Lieberson will serve as interpreter. High school coaches are invited.

Bernie Bierman of Minnesota (right), an east coach, sits with Co-Coach Andy Kerr of Colgate (center) on bench during game. Bierman, a major in the Marine reserves was ordered to report to the Quantico, Va., base by Jan. 15. Maj. Biff Jones of Nebraska, one of the west's coaches, also expects an immediate call for army service.

Petersen Classic Tourney Entries Close Tomorrow.

Two dates are significant to individuals and teams who haven't yet filed entries for events in which they intend to bowl. One is Jan. 5 [tomorrow]. Individuals who plan to bowl in Louis P. Petersen's singles classic must have their entries postmarked before midnight tomorrow. The classic opens Jan. 24 and runs for nine nights. The second date is Tuesday, Jan. 6. Teams planning to bowl in the American Bowling congress event at Columbus, O., must protect their reservations before Tuesday, otherwise teams on the waiting list will be assigned their dates. The final date for entering the ABC event is Feb. 1.

Johnny Crimmins of Detroit, 1942 challenger for Ned Day's national match game championship, will give an exhibition at 11 o'clock tomorrow night at the Congress arcade, 2047 Milwaukee avenue. Crimmins is en route to the Pacific coast, where he will give a series of exhibitions.

The West Side Tavern league has eight teams, but only four games separate the two teams tied for the lead and the three teams tied for last place. MacGaskill and McGorry and the Arcade Tavern each have won 19 and lost 14 games. The two teams tied for third are two games back, the fifth place team is another game behind and the last three have won 15 and lost 18 each. The league bowls at Bennett's Ace arcade. . . . And in the 20th Battalion Firemen's league at the Lawrence bowl, the All Fives and Pin Streams lead, each with 24 won and 21 lost, and six of the other eight teams are a game behind at 23-22. That's competition.

W. D. Fowler of Kenilworth tried a variation of the ordinary manner of celebrating New Year's Eve. He bowled. And afterward he celebrated—a 300 game, fired at the Bensinger Adams-Wabash center. . . . George Powers put in a plug for the sunshine vitamin while bowling on the Vitamin D team in the Borden Wieland league at Marigold arcade. It was a 280 game.

Hayes Scores 715 Series in South Shore League.

Scores, both team and individual, ran high in the South Shore Major league last week. Atlas Pragers opened with an ordinary 957, tacked on 1,042, then really found the range to finish with 1,121 and a 3,120 series. Claude Gordon's 674 was high in that match, but not for the evening. Bob Hayes of Victor Cartage came up with 715, including therein a 256 and a 234. His team, likewise marked up a 3,082 total. . . . Six more men have joined the "250" club at Lawrence bowl, bringing the total of sharpshooters at the center to 14 for the season. The new members: A. Decola, 253; C. Sweeney, 253; F. Ryman, 252; A. C. David, 252; J. Anderson, 251, and Ed Kominski, 251.

Greene's Restaurant won three games from Pepsi-Cola with Joe Fliger shooting 658 in the Beverly Major Friday night. Atlas scored twice over the league leading Strachan Coals and the Gordon Clothiers rolled high game, 1,093, and series, 3,065, in winning two games from the Smith Candies. Individual scores:

Al Fritz, 683; Art Mueller, 670; Glenn Gersch, 634; Jay Tanner, 630; Ray Fliger, 622; Al Ludwig, 620.

Barney Corsiatti of Coal City won South Shore's third annual handicap singles sweepstakes, scoring 972 for the four games across eight alleys. He won $150. William Ladany's 942 won him second money, $100, and Stanley Conrad took third, $75, on a 933 total. . . . Jack Russell of the Mineralites won Cole Lenzi's jackpot sweeper, his 923 score giving him a prize check of $123. Andrew Melant's 877 took second prize, $102.50, and Warren Beattie and Jake Lenzen, who tied for third with 871, each won $75.85.

RED DOCK WINS TROPICAL PARK'S FEATURE EVENT

Miami, Fla., Jan. 3 (AP).—Wexler and Shagrin's Red Dock, a long shot at $25.60 for $2, won the featured winter handicap at Tropical Park today, beating R. W. Collins' favored Sweet Willow by a nose.

Red Dock covered the six furlongs in 1:10 3-5 to earn the winner's share of the $2,500 purse. Sweet Willow, a 3 to 5 favorite, didn't shake off Doublrab, Liberty Franc, and Skin Deep until rounding out of the back stretch. Then she opened up an advantage of several lengths, but Red Dock came from fifth place at the last turn and wore down Sweet Willow on the wire. Doublrab tired chasing the favorite and barely saved the show position.

The day saw the return to action of the veteran jockey, Eddie Arcaro, for the first time since his four months' suspension for rough riding in the Hopeful stakes at Saratoga. Arcaro had three mounts and won with one of them, American Wolf.

US WINS AT FAIR GROUNDS.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 3 (AP).—Us, 5 year old mare, carried the colors of Mrs. S. Orr to victory in the feature race, an allowance contest at six furlongs, at Fair Grounds here today.

Altho headed by Maihigh soon after the start, Jockey H. Mora rated the favorite well, came on in the stretch and won by a length at odds of $3.40 for $2. Happy Home came in third in the field of five.

The next best race was the third, another six furlong allowance dash for 3 year olds, when Suprine of the F. P. Letellier stable, with Jockey Jimmy George, scored her second triumph of the meeting. Suprine won by a wide margin over Silver Grail and Pairzetta in a field of seven and paid $6.80 for $2.

FOHR DEFENDS LEAD TONIGHT IN MIDGET RACING

Chicago drivers will have to beat Myron Fohr of Milwaukee and Pete Nielsen of Los Angeles in the midget auto races tonight in the International amphitheater to regain the lead in the point standing for the season championship. The visitors are one-two in the ratings in the order named, with Ray Richards of Chicago occupying third place.

Fohr went into the lead by winning in the amphitheater on Dec. 21. It was his second 100 lap victory of the season, the other being achieved in Detroit two weeks previously.

Wally Zale, who recently returned to competition after an absence of five months, tonight will drive the fast No. 3 Offenhauser which he drove to fourth place in the last Chicago race. Zale will be pitted against Cowboy O'Rourke in a five lap match race as an added feature. O'Rourke also is back in competition after having been on the injured list since last May.

Others entered in tonight's program are Ted Duncan, Bob Muhlke, Jimmy Caris, Mike O'Halloran, Emil Andres, Pete Romcevich, Dan Kladis, Al Cummings, Warren Erwin, Al Sprang, Shorty Sorenson, Frank Perrone, Paul Blokell, Byron Fisher, Harlow Hunt, Don Hanley, Swede Johnson, Art Hartsfeld, Carl Forberg, Frank Buraney, Gus Klingbiel, Ted Hartley, and Harry Turner.

PERRY TO PLAY WITH PROS IN STADIUM JAN. 14

The professional tennis troupe will reach Chicago Stadium at full strength on Wednesday night, Jan. 14. Fred Perry, whose right arm was injured in the troupe's première in New York's Madison Square Garden, recently returned to action in Syracuse, N. Y.

With Perry will be Don Budge, Frank Kovacs, and Bobby Riggs, the 1941 national amateur champion. The quartet will clash in two three-set singles matches and a windup doubles. The singles lineup has not yet been announced, since the players are engaged in a round robin and their schedule will be determined by the number of intervening matches.

GHEZZI PREDICTS GOLF WILL DO ITS SHARE FOR WAR

Expect No Immediate Ball Shortage.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

American golf professionals will have to join with everybody else in making a sacrifice under the present world condition. Where a majority of the leading stars always have used new golf balls for practice, the custom now will be to play used pellets, not only in practice, but even in competition.

The likelihood of a national requisition of private automobiles will be no deterrent to the game. Every real golfer will get to his favorite course if he has to take a train to the point nearest it, and then either walk or take a bus, or perchance a horse and buggy, to reach the course.

Vic Will Aid Red Cross.

The above are conversational divots taken yesterday during a verbal round with handsome Victor Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., national professional champion. The tall Victor last night headed for Los Angeles in company with Jimmy Hines of New York, national PGA tournament chairman, after having spent the holidays in his eastern home. Interspersed with his tournament play, Ghezzi plans a sustained program of Red Cross matches, such as he already has been playing. He expects to play the first of these tomorrow in Santa Barbara, Cal.

"The golf ball situation, in view of the rubber priority," Ghezzi said, "should not have any serious effect on play in 1942. It's just a case of all of us adjusting ourselves to the whole picture. It's said that only about one-third of the number of balls used last year will be available this coming season, but there's no reason why we can't stop being spoiled and cut down on our heretofore extravagant use of new balls.

Predicts Increase in Play.

"As far as private cars go, any one genuinely in love with golf will make the most of it, if they are commandeered by the government. As a result, there should be more golf played, rather than less. The game is too much a part of morale building to do away with it because we can't roll our own cars right up to the clubhouse door."

Ghezzi himself, 30 years old last October, is ready to join the armed forces. Long before the present emergency arose, Vic was in contact with Lieut. Comm. Gene Tunney with a view to becoming an athletic instructor at the naval base in Norfolk, Va.

Vic recently conferred with his local draft board in Red Bank, N. J., and learned his 1-A classification will not call for his induction until June or July. By that time, if the situation calls for it, he hopes to be enrolled in some branch of the service.

He Keeps Busy.

Ghezzi has been a right busy gent since his stirring 38 hole victory over Byron Nelson last summer in the PGA final in Denver. He played 24 matches in 30 days on an autumnal tour of the Pacific northwest, several of them against Marvin [Bud] Ward, the national amateur champion, who now is stationed at Fort George Wright, near Spokane, Wash. Vic's largest gallery on that tour occurred during a match for the Queen's fund in Vancouver, B. C. That was played against Fred Wood, whom Vic thinks is quite some shakes as a golfer. Vic shot a 68, but lost, 2 and 1. Frederick is the lad who beat Vic in the quarter-finals of the San Francisco match play tournament last winter, and finished in the money in all four California tournaments.

The PGA champion had at least two long trips canceled by the war. He and his old time pal, Craig Wood, the national open title holder, were to have played in Havana, but the Cuban government called off all sports events for the duration. He also was to have played in the Philippine Open and in a couple of exhibition matches in Hawaii, but Emperor [Fair Play] Hirohito and his jolly little yellow men, stymied those. No, Ghezzi did not refer to them as jolly little yellow men, either.

May Cancel Title Play.

Ghezzi has no idea of where the 1942 PGA championship tournament will go, but Detroit or a Texas site, with the former leading, are the main candidates. There is even a chance that the tournament may be canceled altogether, depending on whatever action the USGA takes in New York next Saturday, relative to its Open, Amateur, and Women's events.

CANCEL CHICAGO BOAT AND SPORTS SHOW DUE TO WAR

Cancellation of the Chicago National Boat and Sports show, scheduled for April 4-12 in the Coliseum, was announced yesterday by Leonard Zimmerman, assistant to Hubbard Erickson, manager of the annual exposition since its inception more than a decade ago.

American yacht yards are busy with small craft, submarine chasers, mine layers, and motor torpedo boats. Zimmerman said, as they were in the last war. Inasmuch as few if any new yachts can be built, he explained, the show must be canceled for the first time since its origin.

The New York boat show, held annually at the Grand Central Palace for more than 30 years, already has been canceled, also for the first time.

Two Golfers Crack Par in Los Angeles Open Drill

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3 (AP).—Sam Snead, Johnny Bulla, Tony Penna, and Herman Barron arrived on the scene of the $10,000 Los Angeles Open tournament yesterday and two of them proceeded to fire sub-par golf in practice rounds. Penna treated himself to a 67, four under par, and Snead had a 68. Bulla, last year's winner, turned in a 75. Another arrival was Fred Corcoran, PGA tournament manager. The tourney opens Friday.

Prepared for Golf or War

Victor Ghezzi, National P. G. A. champion, packs his clubs in the La Salle hotel for a trip to the Pacific coast and winter competition in several big tournaments. At the same time, Vic, like all other golfers, is planning to do his bit for his country in the war. He will play a number of matches for the Red Cross and expects to be called into active service before summer.

DU SABLE QUINTET RETAINS TITLE IN MIDWAY TOURNEY

Beats Marshall, 49 to 32; Von Steuben Third.

Tourney Facts

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

Final.

Du Sable, 49; Marshall, 32.

Third Place.

Von Steuben, 52; Austin, 34.

Too much Nathaniel Clifton.

That sums up Marshall High's story in looking back on the 24th annual University of Chicago invitational basketball tournament, which was climaxed before 3,500 in the Midway fieldhouse yesterday afternoon when Du Sable, defending champion, turned back the west side quintet, 49 to 32, to capture the tourney title for the second straight year.

Clifton, Du Sable's six foot, six inch center, scored 45 points against Austin on Saturday night in the semifinals to almost double the previous tourney scoring record of 24 set by Joe Stampf, then of Calumet and later of the Maroons, in 1936.

Does It Again.

Then, just to prove how easy it is for him to turn the trick, Clifton went out against Marshall yesterday and casually dropped in 10 field goals and five free throws to amass 25 points, almost enough to beat the west siders by himself, to again shatter Stampf's old record.

Du Sable's triumph was the first time any team had succeeded in winning the tournament twice since it was limited to Chicago public high schools in 1935. Lane Tech, however, won two straight titles in 1933 and 1934.

Clifton, in the six games his team played in the tournament, piled up 131 points, averaging a fraction over 21 points per game against fairly representative Chicago prep competition. In his last five games he scored 112, easily winning individual scoring honors from Marshall's Israel Acker, who aggregated 84 after his team had drawn a preliminary round bye.

Von Steuben Is Third.

Preceding the final, Von Steuben captured third place in the tourney by whipping Austin, somewhat demoralized after absorbing a 78 to 27 beating by Du Sable in the semifinals Saturday night, 52 to 34. Von Steuben had been beaten by Marshall in the other semi-final, 39 to 32.

With Clifton giving Du Sable ball control thru most of the contest, Du Sable had little trouble in outclassing the west side team in ball handling, floor play and marksmanship, and except for a brief spurt by Marshall at the start of the game, held a lead it never relinquished and which was never even remotely threatened by the strong but much smaller west side quintet.

Marshall took the opening jump, but Clifton opened the scoring with a pair of free throws. Hyman Tadelman looped a basket from the side to tie the count. Clifton and Acker made free throws. Julian Gross and Tadelman dropped in baskets to put Marshall in the lead. Then Clifton scored twice and Wilson once for Du Sable while Marshall made a single free throw, and at the quarter the defending champions led, 9 to 8.

Tyree Wilson scored three baskets and Clifton one in the opening minutes of the second period while Marshall's only score was by Irving Mazer. Then, trailing by seven points, Marshall rallied on Gross' free throw and a shot by Mazer. Wilson hooked a shot from under the loop, and Clifton scored another and Du Sable led at the half, 21 to 13.

Du Sable Increases Lead.

Du Sable moved ahead in the third period on baskets by Clifton, Wilson, and Rufus Randolph before Marshall got its first score after four minutes, a free throw by Irving Mazer. Randolph missed a free throw and Clifton tipped in the rebound.

Then Acker got his first basket—21 minutes after the game began—and followed with a free throw. Randolph, Clifton and Walter Morris dropped in baskets and Clifton added another for Du Sable. A long shot by Acker cut Du Sable's lead to 37 to 19 at the end of the third period.

Tuchow and Gross made baskets on two Marshall thrusts, but Morris offset it with a score for Du Sable. Acker scored with two minutes remaining, Randolph looped one in, and Clifton's free throw ended the champions' scoring. A final basket was pushed in by Goldberg for Marshall. Lineups:

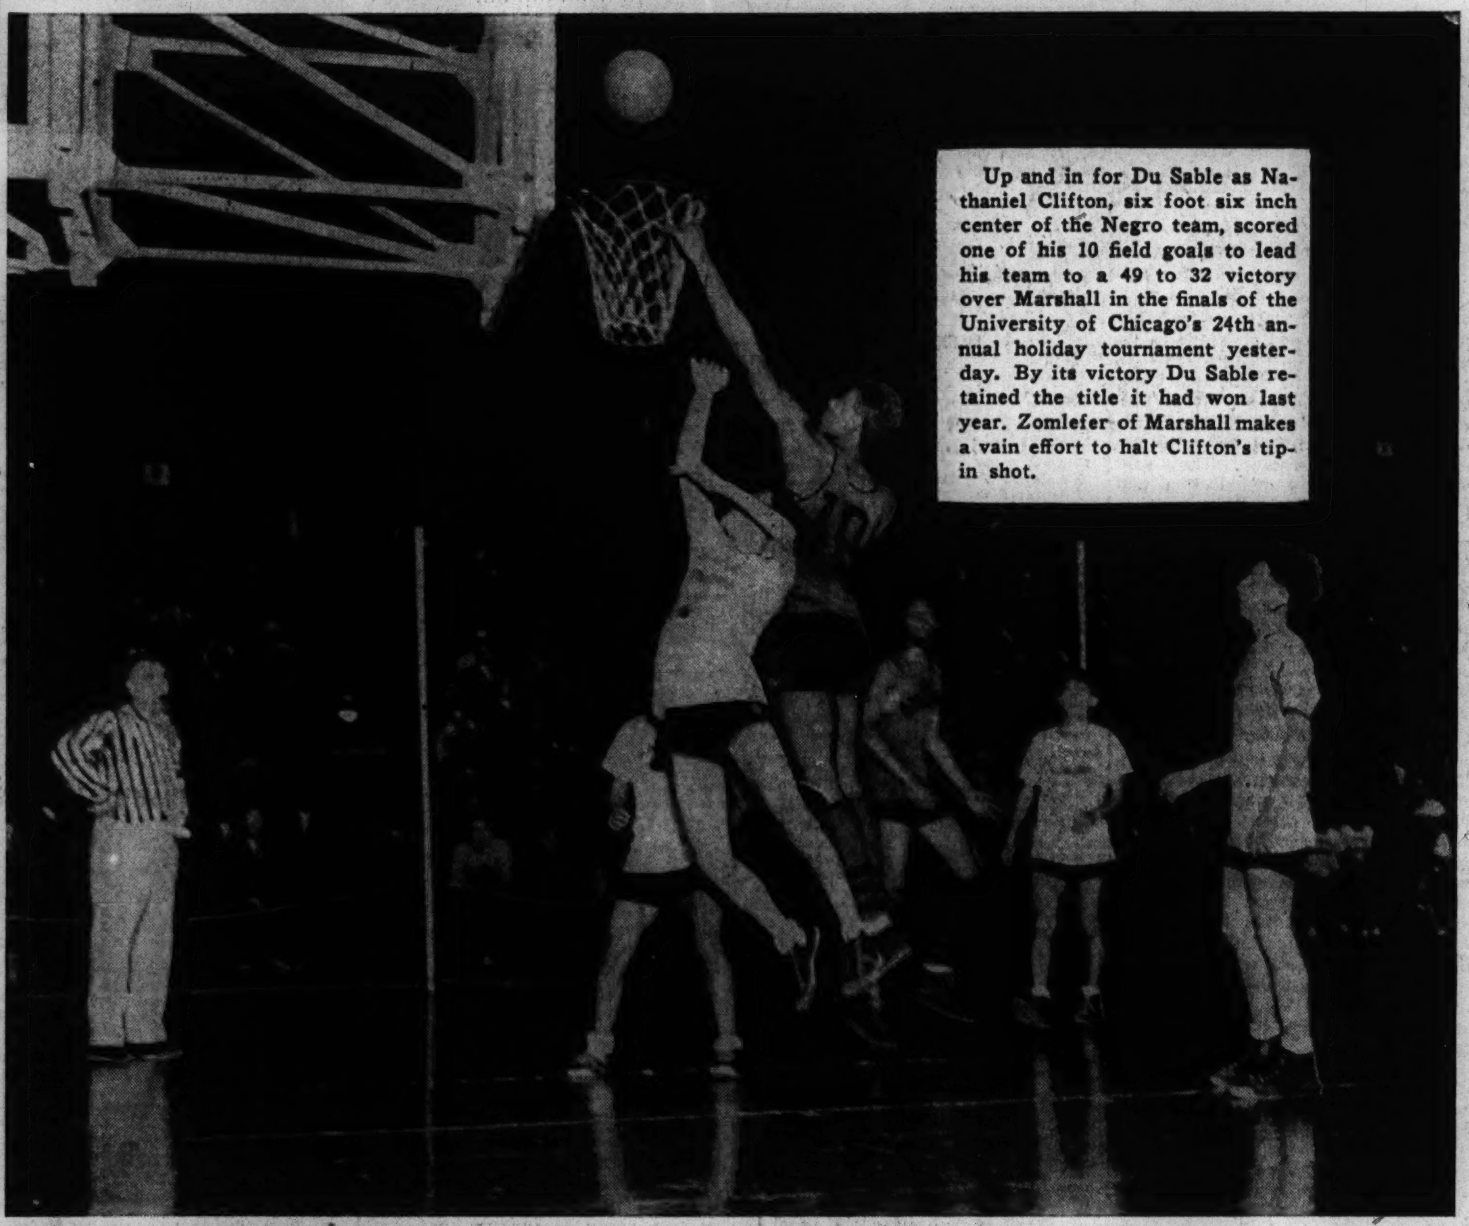
CATHOLIC PREPS RESUME STATE RACE TUESDAY

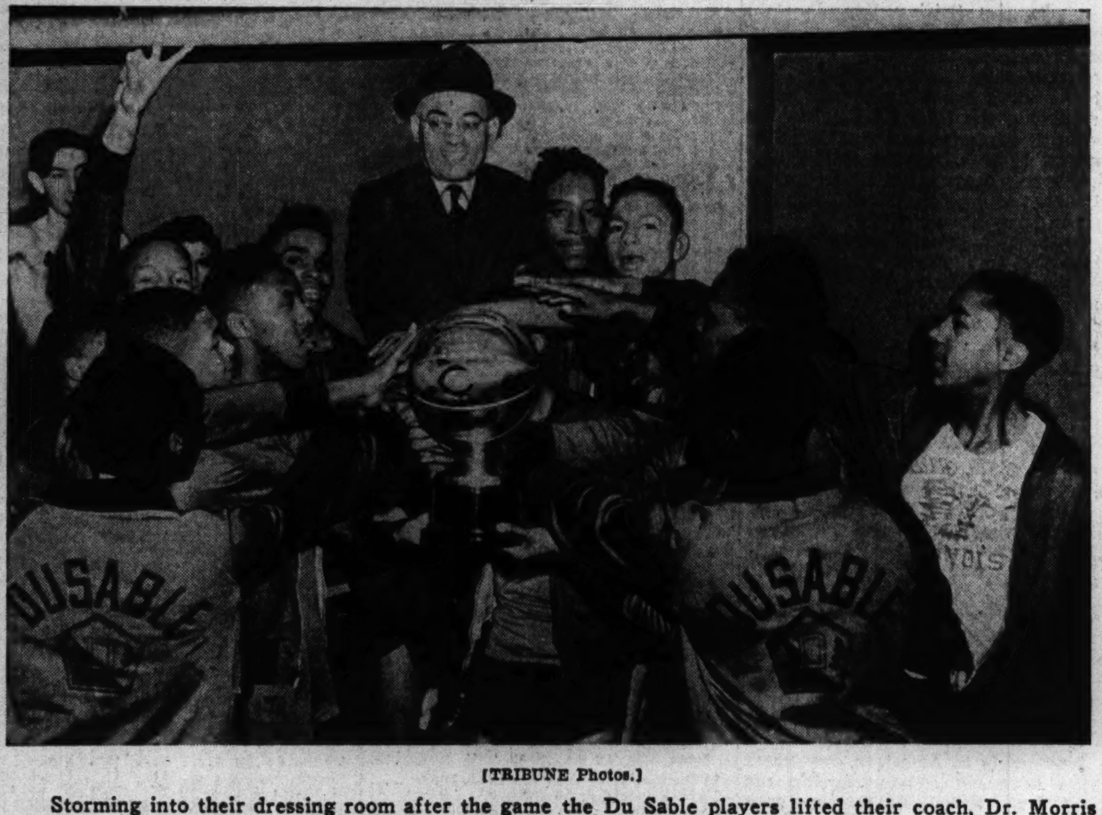
Peoria, Ill., Jan. 3 [Special].—Spalding institute will invade Springfield to meet Cathedral, and Routt of Jacksonville opposes Notre Dame at Quincy in league games Tuesday which reopen downstate Catholic high school conference basketball activity. St. James of Springfield plays at Farmersville in a nonconference contest.

St. Teresa of Decatur plays at Kincaid Wesdnesday before entertaining Routt in a league game Friday.

DU SABLE RETAINS ITS MIDWAY CROWN



Up and in for Du Sable as Nathaniel Clifton, six foot six inch center of the Negro team, scored one of his 10 field goals to lead his team to a 49 to 32 victory over Marshall in the finals of the University of Chicago's 24th annual holiday tournament yesterday. By its victory Du Sable retained the title it had won last year. Zomlefer of Marshall makes a vain effort to halt Clifton's tip-in shot.



[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Storming into their dressing room after the game the Du Sable players lifted their coach, Dr. Morris Berk, to their shoulders and held their trophy aloft for the benefit of photographers. To the reader's right of Dr. Berk, alongside the latter's left shoulder, is Clifton. Hilarious confusion reigned in the Du Sable quarters as the players congratulated their coach and each other.

CAMP GRANT WILL BOX MADISON A. C. TEAM WEDNESDAY

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Camp Grant, Milwaukee, and Ashland representatives, all of whom have been idle during the holidays, will return to action in two Chicagoland Amateur Boxing league shows this week. Camp Grant will meet the Madison A. C. team in Service Men's club at Camp Grant Wednesday, and Ashland A. C. will encounter a Milwaukee delegation in the West Allis [Wisconsin] High school gymnasium Thursday. A third match may be held between Fort Sheridan and Madison A. C. fighters in the Madison arena Friday. Maj. William S. Alleson, morale officer at Fort Sheridan, yesterday indicated the army boxers will be able to go thru with a postponed match against the Madison club squad on that date.

CYO Holds First Place.

Two other league shows scheduled for Wednesday have been canceled. There were to bring together Savoy A. C. and West Suburban club in Cicero stadium, and Catholic Youth organization and Illinois A. C. in IAC gymnasium also on Wednesday. When the Suburban club boxers defaulted to Madison A. C. last Friday Coach Fred Caserio said his club would withdraw from the league. Thus, the Savoys will be given the scheduled match against the Cicero boys by default. Bob Howard, IAC trainer, said his fighters also will forfeit their match against the CYO.

In addition to its default victory realized at the expense of the West Suburban club, the Madison A. C. scored a 5 to 3 decision over the Savoys. These conquests lifted the west siders from last place to the No. 4 spot. Despite their inactivity Camp Grant's color bearers retained second place, since they have a record of three victories and two draws against one defeat. Ashland A. C. held third position with three victories and one deadlock verdict against two setbacks. CYO remains in the lead with four triumphs and two ties and no defeats.

Season Will End Jan. 17.

If Fort Sheridan is unable to make the trip to the Madison arena on Friday a nonleague show will be offered there on that date, Alexander Baim, Madison team manager, said last night. There also will be a nonleague card in Social Turner hall on Wednesday, said Charles Lavine, director of the Ashland club, which makes its headquarters there.

The league season ends Jan. 17 with a show between IAC and Milwaukee standard bearers in West Allis High school gymnasium. At the conclusion of the event the leading team in the league will be awarded a trophy by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., under whose auspices the Golden Glove tournament is held.

BRADLEY RELIES ON SPEED AGAINST TALL TEXAS FIVE

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 3 [Special].—Speed versus height will be the theme as the Bradley Braves meet West Texas State, the nation's tallest basketball team, here next Tuesday. The Braves, altho averaging 6 feet 1 inch, will be dwarfed by the Texans, whose starting lineup averages 6 feet 6 inches and who have won their first 12 games this season.

Chris Hansen, 6 foot 4 inch center and holder of Bradley's all-time game and season scoring records, will be facing Charles Halbert, the Texans' 6 foot 10 inch center. The most interesting individual dual, however, will probably be between Price Brookfield, the Buffaloes' 6 foot 4 inch forward, and Paul McCall, Bradley's star guard, who undoubtedly will draw the assignment of covering him.

BAER BELIEVES HE'S READY FOR LOUIS THIS TIME

New York, Jan. 3 (AP).—Buddy Baer, dripping confidence and sweat from every pore, argued today that his chances of whipping Joe Louis in Madison Square Garden next Friday night are better on three counts than they were last May, when he dumped his foe before being stopped.

"I'll have two good hands, my weight will be better, and I'll have a sharper left," predicted Bud as he grimaced at the scales which showed his poundage was down to a mere 245.

Naval Society Benefits.

Virtually all the receipts from this fight will go to the Naval Relief society. Louis has donated his 40 per cent cut, and Promoter Mike Jacobs is working without profit. Baer is giving 2½ per cent from his challenging fee to the organization.

The two time challenger said that in the Washington bout last spring his right was virtually worthless because of a training injury and that at 237½ pounds he was too weak to do his best.

Even with those handicaps, Baer bopped Louis out of the ring in an early round, and lost when his manager, Ancil Hoffman, refused to let him come out for the seventh round after Louis had landed a crushing blow after the bell closing the sixth.

Veteran observers at Buddy's Lakewood, N. J., camp were willing to string along with him on his theories about the value of two good hands being better than one, and also that at his present weight he probably was stronger than he was last spring, but they could see little improvement in Baer's left.

At Louis' Greenwood Lake, N. Y., training site, the champion's weight was the major discussion, altho there wasn't a worry in the entire household. Joe, who displaced 201¾ for Baer in May, will likely spread the ropes Friday some four to seven pounds heavier.

"Joe is no boy no more," explained the veteran trainer Jack Blackburn. "Take weight off now and you take off muscle."

Louis came to camp at approximately 210 and now is somewhere in the neighborhood of 208.

Boxers Await CYO Tourney Bouts Tuesday

Everything is ready for the semifinals and finals of the 11th annual Catholic Youth organization amateur boxing tournament in CYO center, 31 East Congress street, Tuesday night. Open champions will be crowned in eight weight classes. Earlier titleholders were determined in the novice and beginners' divisions.

Thirty-two experienced fighters will appear in 24 bouts Tuesday, 16 in the semi-final round, and eight in the championship bracket.

Noto Defends Title.

Al Noto and Kenny Madsen are among the outstanding contestants. Noto will be defending his flyweight title, while Madsen aspires to win the welterweight championship, left vacant when Harry Sparrow left on Dec. 26 for training with a Naval Coast guard unit.

Noto's challengers are Robert Simmons, Salvador Melendez, and Richard Kinebrew, each of whom is capable of dethroning Al. Madsen's rivals are Joe Dugo, last year's novice 147 pound champion; James Martin, and James Hunt, also a former novice titleholder.

Report at 2 O'Clock.

Fighters will report to be weighed and examined at CYO center gymnasium Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Dr. James Russell will be the examining physician. Drawings will be held later in the day.

A sellout crowd of more than 1,000 is expected to attend. Tickets, priced at 75 cents, still remain unsold. These can be purchased at the CYO gymnasium the night of the event, proceeds of which will go to the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil's Needy Youth fund.

Louisville Signs Young Tobin, St. Mary's Star

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 3 (AP).—John Tobin, 20 year old brother of Pitcher Jim Tobin of the Boston Braves, has been signed by the Louisville Colonels and the American Association. President Bruce Dudley, in announcing the signing of the young third baseman today said he was the outstanding player on the St. Mary's college team in California. He is a native of Oakland, Cal.

SECREET, NYBERG BOX IN MARIGOLD BOUT TOMORROW

Ten round bouts between Sammy Secreet and George Nyberg and Booker Beckwith and Joe Maxin will have the boxing spotlight in Chicago this week. Secreet, Cannonsburg, Pa., welterweight, will meet Nyberg in Marigold Gardens tomorrow night. Maxin, Cleveland light heavyweight, will oppose Beckwith in the Coliseum on Friday.

Nate Bolden, Chicago light heavyweight, is paired with Vince Calzaretto in a six round semi-windup on the Marigold card. Joey Davis, welterweight, and George Feltes, middleweight, both of the Great Lakes Naval Training station, will appear in two preliminary matches of four rounds, the former against Jimmy Crow of Danville, Ill., and Feltes against George McFarland of the south side. An additional four round encounter tomorrow inolves George Mitchell, Hammond 160 pounder, and Luther Brent.

NBA Ranking at Stake.

The Maxin-Beckwith contest on Friday has taken on added importance as a result of the quarterly ratings recently released by the National Boxing association. The NBA named Beckwith third leading 175 pound contender and listed Maxin as the No. 7 challenger. Thus, Joe will be fighting to better his position at the expense of Beckwith. His chances of doing that appear excellent, chiefly because of his conquest of Red Burman in Cleveland last Dec. 1.

Beckwith was recognized as the No. 2 contender in the last previous ratings of the NBA, issued in September. Booker's defeat at the hands of Bob Pastor in Chicago Stadium on Nov. 7 is responsible for his demotion, despite the fact Pastor is a heavyweight and the setback was Booker's first in 18 professional fights.

Beckwith Drills Today.

Beckwith will continue boxing drills in Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon, but he will do only light exercises tomorrow. He will resume sparring Tuesday and complete this phase of his conditioning program Wednesday. On Thursday only rope skipping, bag punching, and calisthenics are on his schedule.

FEEDING STATION FOR BIRDS OFFERS OUTDOOR ACTIVITY

Helps Fill Winter Gap in Hunting, Fishing.

BY BOB BECKER.

With the wild game seasons closed until the fall of 1942 and no fishing thru the ice permitted in Illinois and other states, the outdoor fan in the snow belt still has one very entertaining hobby to follow if he will set up a feeding station for the winter birds.

There is no doubt but what winter feeding of the birds is amusing at a time when outdoor activity is rather limited. And you can count on the feathered "boarders" to do something different nearly every time they come to the feeding station. We thought we had seen just about every kind of a show that cardinals, chickadees, and bluejays could stage around a feeding station, but a few days ago a nuthatch showed us something new.

A Smart Bird.

This particular nuthatch grabbed a sunflower seed from our feeding station and immediately flew about 20 feet to our garage. It clung to the white brick face of the garage for just a second. Then it gave us a quick glance, dismissed us as harmless, and went about its business.

This bird wanted to cache the sunflower seed but we couldn't see how it was going to operate on the brick wall of the garage to do it. Suddenly the smart little nuthatch went to work. It thrust the sunflower seed in a tiny crevice between two bricks. That was surprising enough.

But quick as a flash it went for some "packing" to put over the seed. The bird reached up under the narrow eave, got a mouthful of cobwebs, and neatly tamped them down to hold the seed. Then it flew back to the feeding station for more seeds.

Cache Is Surprising.

This food cache in the brick wall of a garage surprised us. We have seen birds stow away food in some unusual spots but never have we had the chance to see a nuthatch use part of our house as a storage place for tidbits that will come in handy later in the winter.

Our problem right now in our program of feeding the birds is how to decoy three redheaded woodpeckers to our food counter. This is the first time in 9 or 10 winters that the redheads have stayed within 500 feet of our home.

They are spending their time in a growth of oaks which matured bushels of acorns last fall, so the birds have plenty to eat. Without doubt the woodpeckers have felt the urge to stay north this winter because of the big acorn crop.

Still Are Shy.

But so far we haven't seen them around our feeding station, altho we are supplying an excellent suet and seed ration for woodpeckers, chickadees, and nuthatches.

Since Christmas we have added a second feeding station fortified by our discarded Christmas tree, which has become a useful and decorative part of the counter. How a simple feeding station can be made and set up [either with or without an old Christmas tree] is explained in the Tribune's handbook, "Birds and Birdhouses," which is sold by the Tribune public service offices for 32 cents by mail. Chapters in this book tell what and how to feed all species of winter birds.

Little 19 Title Race to Start on Thursday

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 3 [Special].—The race for the Little 19 conference basketball championship opens next Thursday when Charleston plays at Macomb. The only other league game of the week is scheduled for Friday, with Charleston playing at De Kalb.

Illinois Normal, which shared the title with DeKalb last year, does not enter the race until Jan. 12.

Macomb has played only one game this winter, defeating Illinois College, 51 to 56. Bill Bishop, only regular to return from last season's Macomb quintet.

6 Foot 4 Inch Sophomore.

Bert Moore of Lake Forest, a junior, probably will be Bishop's teammate at forward against Charleston. Bill Will, 6 foot 4 inch sophomore, is the leading center candidate. Larry Kerker and James Clark, both juniors, are expected to handle the guard berths.

Other Macomb players likely to perform include Paul Dennis, George Cousins, Ray Page, Clarence Warren, Phil Clary, and Ed Lewis, all juniors; Robert Peck, Jim Lewis, Harold Bowen, and Homer Zumwalt, all sophomores.

One Charleston Veteran.

Coach Ted Carson of Charleston has only one letter man, Larry Walker, sophomore forward. Junior Phipps, a southpaw, probably will be the other starting forward. Jim Sullivan, a freshman, will open at center. The guard assignments rest between Randell Montgomery, Reuben Wade, and John Lewis, sophomores, and Tommy Burton, a freshman.

Three of last year's championship five at De Kalb will be ready for Charleston on Friday. These are Capt. Ed Hall and Toimi Jarvi, guards, and Ray Peppler, center. George Gibson, a letter man reserve last season, has captured one forward position, but the other is a tossup among three freshmen—Roger Swan, Dick Johnson, and Amos Jurgenson, and a sophomore, Gabriel Orvino. Next week's games:

Monday—Ball State [Muncie, Ind.] at Illinois Normal.
Tuesday—De Kalb at Joliet.
Wednesday—Carbondale at Cape Girardeau, Mo.
Thursday—*Charleston at Macomb; Chanute Field at Illinois Normal.
Friday—*Charleston at De Kalb; Eureka at Chicago Teachers; Scott Field at Carbondale.
*Conference games.

HOLD UP SOCCER CUP CONTEST AS ICE MARS FIELD

The Slovaks, who will oppose the Milwaukee Verhovys in a third round National cup match next Sunday, will play Sam Reda in an exhibition today at 2:30 o'clock in Sam Reda stadium, 2600 West Grand avenue.

Tickets Still Available for Hoosier-Badger Game

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 3 [Special].—Indiana university ticket officials said today that plenty of choice seats are available for Indiana's first home Big Ten basketball contest Monday night with Wisconsin's defending champion.

THREE CUSHION BILLIARD MEET TO OPEN FRIDAY

New Streamlined Game to Make Debut.

Following the example set by football in dropping the limited substitution rule, and basketball in eliminating the center jump, billiards, too, has gone streamlined, as the faithful addicts who are expected to flock to the Terrace Casino in the Morrison hotel Friday night for the opening of the 1942 world championship three cushion tournament, will discover.

Gone are the days of boresome safety play and the impossible leave, for, as announced some months ago, the 10 contestants in this field, which, by the way, also is streamlined from the 12 of other years, will have their choice of cue balls. If you think the so-called "firewagon" basketball is fast, wait until you see Champion Willie Hoppe go to town under the new rule.

Old Records Discarded.

Present high run and other scoring records will be ancient history from now on. Competent commentators are predicting that Hoppe, Welker, Cochran, and Jake Schaefer, all of whom became cushion stars after holding balkline championships, may well hit runs of 25 to 35 without undue exertion. Compare that with the accepted record of 17 for title tournament play and you'll get the idea.

Altho the balkline trio is expected to introduce the 1942 champion, there are other contenders in this select field who may upset all predictions. Veterans in this last category are Otto Reiselt, the smiling Dutchman from Philadelphia, who slumped in last winter's tournament and never could make up the lost ground; Art Thurnblad of Chicago and Kenosha, and Earl Lookabaugh of the IAC.

Comparative newcomers include John Fitzpatrick, the Los Angeles department store executive, and Arthur Rubin, the smiling Jewish boy from Brooklyn. Last but not least on the list of stars who have competed in previous world tournaments is Joe Chamaco, the Mexican machine gun, who, under the new system of play, well may establish all sorts of records for shortest game. Chamaco, who won the national round robin tournament in 1939, is also a trick shot of note and his comedy, south of the border variety, makes him an outstanding attraction.

Ralph Greenleaf's Debut.

No. 10 on the roster of title hunters has been saved for the last for a special reason. He deserves a paragraph, a long one, for himself. The gent, in case you havn't guessed already, is Ralph Greenleaf of New York, by way of Monmouth, Ill., and Chicago. Greenleaf has been in the last two decades to pocket billiards what Willie Hoppe is to balkline and three cushion. Starting, even as Willie did, as a knickerbockered youngster, with a special midget cue, he developed into a wizard before he was out of high school and has been at or near the top of the pocket rankings ever since, winning the world title 17 times.

Fans who have watched Greenleaf in practice compare his style with that of Johnny Layton. If you ever have seen the red faced carpenter from Sedalia in action, and most billiard enthusiasts have, you need no further description.

It's a Whole New Game.

Reverting to the change in the rules which allows choice of cue balls, Charley [Show Me a Shot I Can't Make] Peterson, director of the tournament, predicts an entirely new style of game and one which, in these days of streamlined action, should prove popular even with those casual patrons who know litle of the intricacies of the pastime.

The tournament will run thru Friday night, Jan. 23. Each player will play nine games. Two games will be played each Saturday afternoon but there will be no Sunday competition. From Monday thru Friday of the two title weeks, two afternoon and two evening games will be run off daily, except for the final Friday night, when a single contest to decide the championship is scheduled.

The new champion will receive $2,500 of the $10,750 total prize money, all of which will be invested in defense bonds by the management. The bonds will be awarded to the players. A $25 bond will be allotted for the daily high run and contestants who make tournament high runs and best game marks will receive a $100 defense bond apiece.

TIGERS TO REPORT AT SPRING CAMP A WEEK EARLY

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 3 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers will report for spring training a week earlier than last year, President Walter O. Briggs announced today, and for the first time will meet the world champion New York Yankees in an exhibition series.

Tiger batterymen are ordered to report to Manager Del Baker at Lakeland, Fla., Feb. 22, and the remainder of the squad by March 1.

Two games with the Yanks feature a 30 game exhibition schedule against major league opponents exclusively. The schedule [games at Lakeland unless otherwise designated]:

March 13, St. Louis Cardinals; March 14, Cincinnati Reds at Tampa; March 15, Washington Senators at Orlando; March 16, Cardinals at St. Petersburg; March 17, New York Yankees; March 18, Brooklyn Dodgers; March 19; Cincinnati at Tampa; March 20, Cincinnati; March 21, Cleveland; March 22, Boston Red Sox at Sarasota; March 23, Brooklyn; March 24, Yankees at St. Petersburg; March 25, Cincinnati; March 26, Cleveland at Clearwater; March 27, St. Louis Browns at Deland; March 28, Brooklyn at Daytona Beach; March 29, Boston Red Sox; March 30, Washington, March 31, St. Louis Browns; April 1, Cardinals at St. Petersburg; April 2, Brooklyn at Daytona Beach; April 3, Cardinals; April 4, Cardinals at St. Petersburg; April 5, Cardinals; April 7, Cardinals at Winston-Salem, N. C.; April 8, Cardinals at Durham, N. C.; April 9, Cardinals at Johnson City, Tenn.; April 10, Cincinnati at Ashland, Ky.; April 11, Cincinnati at Dayton; April 12, Reds at Cincinnati.

MOTORS—TRAFFIC—HIGHWAYS

PROLONG LIFE OF TIRES! IT'S A JOB REQUIRING CARE

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—The life of a tire, so important to automobile owners during the war-time rubber shortage, can be prolonged or foreshortened substantially, depending upon care.

Faulty wheel alignment and faulty brake adjustment are murder to tires. A wheel out of line causes a side slide that scrapes rubber onto the pavement. If the brake on one wheel grips faster or firmer than the brakes on the other wheels, one tire is doomed to early death.

The balance of each wheel is also important to the life of a tire. Wheels out of balance cause a pounding that scoops and scallops rubber from the tread.

Inflation Is Important.

Improper inflation is a common fault. Service station pressure gauges are none too good. At a nominal cost, you can buy your own to check against the one at your gas station or public garage.

Under inflation damages side walls and the entire fabric carcass of the casing by excessive flexing. This excessive flexing also develops heat that deteriorates the rubber. Over inflation causes faster wear on the middle of the tread because the load is concentrated upon a smaller area. It also increases the possibility of a blowout.

Bumping into curbs while parking is another common driving fault that cuts the life of tires. Fabric is distorted and broken. Excessively rapid acceleration, braking, and turning also are costly in rubber.

A Test of 30 Cars.

The Aetna Casualty and Surety company of Hartford, Conn., reported the results of a test of 30 cars of the same make and carrying the same make of tire in driving in an eastern city. Five drivers wrote "finis" on their tires between 7,500 and 9,400 miles. Seven others ran out of rubber between 11,800 and 13,700 miles. Another seven increased tire mileage to between 14,300 and 15,800 miles. Six totaled between 16,100 and 18,700 miles while the five most careful with their rubber covered from 20,700 to 27,600 miles.

In open country driving, speed is an important factor in the life of tires. Studies by the Iowa State college indicate that tire wear at 52 miles an hour is 2.7 times as fast as at 33 miles an hour.

The American Automobile association, in a text for school use entitled "How to Drive," gives hints on tire care and tire troubles. The latest revision is dated October, 1941, but the statements have become increasingly pertinent since the country has been placed on a tire ration. Also some of the statements have become picturesque anachronisms with the invocation of rubber quotas.

Beware of Worn Tires.

"Badly worn tires are always trouble brewers," reads the text. "When tires are worn down to the fabric, there is no question about them. They are ready to be discarded. Using them is taking chances. There is a constant threat of a blow out, which means a hazard, not merely to the car driver but to every one near him on the highway.

"Many people believe, with good reason, that enforcement officers should rule off the road cars with tires worn to the fabric, until replacements are made.

"Actually, there is much to recommend the replacement of tires when their treads disappear, especially if one expects to drive fast, as on the open road. On slippery surfaces, the grip provided by good treads is very much greater than that of smooth tires. Punctures and blowouts are more likely with smooth tires, too, for sharp objects can more easily penetrate the thinner material.

Examinations Are Necessary.

"It is a good thing to go over tires from time to time to see if blisters or bruises have developed in the side walls. Examine them for tacks, bits of glass, stones or sharp pieces of metal which sometimes become imbedded in the tread or in weakened spots.

"Second hand and reconditioned tires should generally be avoided. They are liable to have hidden weaknesses and defects. If the carcass of the tire is sound, retreading may possibly prove all right, if it is expertly done. But if the fabric is to any degree worn or broken, retreading is unwise economy and a likely trouble brewer.

"There have been a lot of theories about where the tires that are in the best condition should be placed on the car. A leading scientist at the national bureau of standards has some advice on this. He says that it is much harder to retain control when there is a blowout on a rear tire and, therefore, that the best tires should be on the rear.

All Four Are Needed.

"Without ony doubt, the wisest rule is to maintain good tires with good treads on all four wheels. A few dollars invested in sound tires is first rate insurance. It cannot compare in cost with heavy property losses and personal injuries.

"Tire troubles can be avoided sometimes by noticing just how the tires are wearing in different places. Sometimes, for example, there is a wavy wear on the outer edges of the front tires. This is an important clue, for it indicates a condition in the steering system which needs immediate correction.

"If this faulty steering condition is not corrected, a violent shimmy may develop. Steering will become difficult and the tires will wear out rapidly. If tires are wearing out unevenly, a mechanic should always be consulted to learn the cause, and also the tires should be shifted to other positions. The cause should also be removed."

Studebaker Provides Winter Comfort

Here is the Studebaker version of new type heating system which makes winter driving comfortable. Fresh air admitted at an opening on left side of cowl passes thru air duct to unit where it is filtered, heated and distributed evenly to both front and rear compartments. The heat control is mounted below the instrument board.

Big Splashes of White Paint Reduce Blackout Accidents

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—White paint seems to be the best protection against the hazards of blackouts that have been taking a heavy accident toll in England and, to a lesser degree, on America's Pacific coast. The white paint is recommended by the American Automobile association for use on curbs, pedestrian paths, and even on bumpers and fenders of automobiles in the coastal regions that are taking precautions against enemy air raids.

In the American blackouts to date, vehicular traffic has been halted. This was done in England in the early days of the war but this disrupted defense production too much, so the London traffic now continues to move, with dimmed lights and at reduced speeds, when the air raid alarm screams.

The AAA queried the Royal Automobile club in London for air raid advice.

Here's How in London.

"Measures adopted to reduce traffic accidents in blackouts," said the answering cable, "include: Central white line on roadways; 20 mile per hour speed limit in builtup areas, curbs and road islands painted white, 'starlight' illumination of streets, improved headlamp masks for road vehicles, red rear lights for cyclists, pedestrians wear something white, and front and rear bumpers, mudguard, and running board edges of passenger cars painted white."

The Oregon Motor association reported to AAA national headquarters that the blackout in Portland was carried out without undue trouble.

"There were several traffic deaths," the club reported, "only one of which was caused directly by insufficient lighting. Blackout requirements called for cessation of civilian traffic except persons going to and from work and trucks with defense supplies or with necessities such as milk, gasoline, etc. Limitations on unnecessary civilian traffic practically stopped travel in cities but open highway travel was affected to a lesser extent.

Portland Test Effective.

"Our blackout was effective from midnight to 8 a. m., but street lights were out all night. The period from dusk to midnight with unrestricted headlights but with street lights out was the most dangerous period."

The Automobile Club of Washington reported from Seattle that definite requirements for motor vehicle lights have not yet been fully determined.

"No vehicles except police and emergency cars are allowed on the streets during the blackout," the club stated. "Blue cellophane must be placed over lights and speed is restricted to 15 miles per hour. The accident experience has been remarkable, with only a few fenders nicked. City police, state patrol, and traffic engineers are to meet this week to work out uniform rules covering all phases of traffic handling in blackouts."

With civilian travel prohibited during blackouts, the Inland Automobile association at Spokane, Wash., has advised all motorists to plan their trips in the country carefully so as to be in a place at dark wherever accommodations are available.

Frisco Traffic Ceases.

The California Automobile association, with headquarters in San Francisco, advised that since blackouts will be ordered only under actual threat of air raid, all civilian traffic must cease; at the warning signal, motorists must pull to the curb, extinguish lights, leave automobiles and seek shelter. Authorized emergency vehicles, equipped with headlights meeting army blackout specifications are allowed to operate.

"During the first blackout, a number of accidents occurred due to cars driving without lights, but under the new rules this is prohibited," the Motor club reported.

The Automobile Club of Southern California advised that in Los Angeles all civilian traffic has to stop during blackouts.

"Only emergency vehicles are permitted to operate during the blackout, with the type of operation lights yet to be agreed upon," the club stated. "Experiments with blue cellophane or painted lamps and other types of dimming apparently will not meet requirements and will encourage traffic which beyond question will greatly increase the number of accidents."

VOICE OF TRAFFIC

GLASS ON PAVEMENTS.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Can't the city think up some way to clean the streets after a minor [or major] accident? Driving to work and back I see as many as six or eight intersections that have scattered broken glass in the center. I try to avoid them [who wants flat tires?], but it seems to me that they ought to be removed. After all a flat tire on a speeding ambulance or a squad car rushing to a call wouldn't be fun.

We could equip squad cars with a nice broom and whenever, in their daily "rounds," they come across glass in the street it would only take a minute to push it down near the curb. People parking could avoid it, or the homeowners could remove it. I'm proud of Chicago and like to see it clean and safe.

NEWS AND VIEWS

In building the huge new bomber plant at Willow Run, Mich.—near Ypsilanti—the Ford Motor company is spreading the work of building gauges, fixtures, dies, and tools among many companies. In the Detroit area about 60 independent companies have been given contracts and 12 Ford village plants in Michigan and Ohio have been assigned work. Together they will do about 50 per cent of the work.

It is estimated that about 6 million hours will be required to produce the complex tools designed by the Ford engineers. Most of the 60 suppliers are working two shifts a day to fulfill the Ford orders. At the big tool and die building of the Ford company at Dearborn, about 90 per cent of the facilities are devoted to defense work.

Those who will be able to get the 1942 Chryslers, after the priorities system for car purchases has been arranged, will get cars possessing numerous plastics. The plastic steering wheels harmonize in color with the instrument panel. The 1942 type steering wheel is of the two-spoke variety, which gives the driver clear vision when looking at the road or the instruments.

EUROPE FACING A MEAT FAMINE, SAY STOCKMEN

Expect Britain, Russia to Escape Shortage.

Europe this winter faces probably the most severe food shortage in its history, and the most acute shortage probably will be in meat, live stock men asserted yesterday. They predicted much suffering and possible widespread starvation in countries conquered by Germany. They said that only England and Russia will escape the meat famine.

Altho official data on exports to England are no longer available, the flow of lend-lease food to that country from the United States has been rising for many months. Surveys indicate that English consumers are getting more to eat this winter than last, and the outlook for additional supplies is said to be much brighter than at the beginning of 1941.

Denmark Drained by Germans.

Denmark, formerly one of the principal live stock producing countries of Europe, is kept well drained of supplies by the Germans. The department of agriculture disclosed last week that Denmark's hog population as of Oct. 1 had dropped to 2,013,000 head, 37 per cent below the total on farms at the beginning of the war. The number of sows bred was only 123,000, showing a decrease of 51 per cent since 1939. A shortage of animal feeds, as well as the German drain on breeding herds, has caused the decline.

Denmark's farms are not capable of raising all the needed animal feeds, and since the war live stock feeders have not been able to import feed as they had always done before to maintain production. No dependable figures on animal population are available from other nations overrun by Germany.

America Setting Records.

In contrast to the situation in most of Europe, the output of meats in the United States is setting new all-time records this winter. This country during the immediate future expects to produce more meat than is needed to feed its own people, and anticipates a pork and lard tonnage sufficient to supply most of England's needs as well.

Basing their calculations on surveys conducted by the department of agriculture, market authorities at the Chicago stock yards say that a crop of almost 100 million pigs is likely in America for the period June, 1941 to June, 1942, an output not even remotely approached at any other time.

Lend-lease meat buying for export was stepped up last week to the heaviest volume in a month. The lard purchase, at 13,934,000 pounds, was second heaviest since October. The total pork and lard purchase, at 33,151,556 pounds was the third largest since the government began buying for England early last spring.

Buy Canned Turkey.

Last week's buying also included 12,572,556 pounds of canned pork and 6,645,000 pounds of cured pork. In addition to this the government bought 82,200 pounds of canned chicken and 9,600 pounds of canned turkey.

Meat costs to American consumers have advanced sharply during the first four weeks of the war with Japan, a review of the markets disclosed. Beef prices as a whole have increased approximately 5 per cent in four weeks, while pork costs have gone up about 11 per cent and lamb about 10 per cent. Steers that averaged about $12 a hundred pounds alive before Japan's attack sold at $12.65 last week. The daily hog average rose from $9.95 to $11.10 in the four weeks.

LAWYER FACES PROFIT QUIZ IN MIDLAND CASE

Accused of Speculation as an 'Insider.'

Charges that a New York lawyer speculated in stock of the Midland Utilities company and realized a lush profit while participating in the company's bankruptcy proceedings will be aired Jan. 12 when hearings are resumed before Special Master Daniel O. Hastings in Wilmington, Del.

The resumption of the hearings in the seven year old reorganization of Midland United company, and its subholding company, Midland Utilities, originally was scheduled in Chicago tomorrow. However, testimony which was to have been taken in Chicago will be supplied in Wilmington.

Speculative Activity Observed.

Speculative activity in securities of the Midland companies has been noted in La Salle street from time to time. However, the Chicago regional office of the Securities and Exchange commission has asserted that it has not been apprised of any irregularities in these transactions which might indicate a violation of the SEC laws. SEC accountants have been studying the records of the Midland companies in connection with efforts to facilitate the settlement of creditors' claims.

The New York attorney is expected to testify when hearings are resumed in reply to the charges that he profited personally from his inside knowledge of the proceedings.

Samuel Insull Jr., Chicago insurance executive, is scheduled to continue testimony started earlier. He will describe transactions between the Midland companies and other Chicago utility companies of the Insull system. He was president and later vice chairman of various Insull companies before the collapse of the system in 1932.

Claims Tangle Litigation.

The present phase of the proceedings is concerned with the proof, allowance, and classification of the various claims against the Midland companies. The litigation has been tangled by claims and counterclaims between the companies.

Insull's testimony will be introduced by counsel for Middle West corporation, Commonwealth Edison company units and the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company in answer to a contention made by the trustee for Midland United that their claims should be subordinated to those of publicly held securities. Max Swiren, counsel for the trustee, charged that old Insull managements of the Chicago utility companies dominated Midland United to its detriment.

GENERALLY FAVORABLE.

The beverage and confection industries generally appear to be favorably situated. Sales of soft drink, candy, and chewing gum manufacturers are at high levels and, in some instances, at record peaks because of gains in consumer purchasing power.

In addition, demand for sweets and soft drinks has been stimulated in the past in time of war when large numbers are shifted from civilian life to military service. Supplies of important materials used in the industries such as sugar, cocoa, glass for containers, and paper for wrappings at present are not seriously restricted.

The larger companies hold estimated one to two years' supplies of sugar, chicle, flavoring, and other ingredients purchased at prices under present levels. Repair work carries a high priority rating so scarcity of new machinery and trucks is not expected to have serious effects.

Compared with other industries, labor costs of beverage and confection manufacturers are small. No labor shortages have yet developed because most of the employés are women. There have been pay roll increases, but these have been offset by revenue gains.

Because of substantial supplies of ingredients, profit margins appear to be protected as long as supplies hold out. On the other hand higher prices for sugar, the major raw material, are possible. The price ceiling for raw sugar of 3½ cents a pound is more than ½ cent above a year ago, while the refined ceiling of 5¼ cents is ¾ cent higher. Cocoa has nearly doubled in price.

This suggests that when present supplies are gone earnings will be reduced by higher raw material costs. Shipping priorities threaten transport of cocoa from Africa, but this might be relieved by anticipated larger shipments from Brazil.

Earnings gains have been largest in the soft drink field despite heavier taxes. Gross profit of the Coca-Cola company, for example, was $66,071,000 in the first nine months of 1941, compared with $50,005,000 in the same period the preceding year. Net profit was $23,391,000, against $21,878,000, altho federal taxes rose to $19,857,000 from $11,350,000 in 1940. Improvement among chewing gum and candy companies generally was less pronounced.

Beverage and confection manufacturers have a difficult problem in passing higher operating costs, in part or in whole, to the consumer. Widely advertised 5 and 10 cent prices cannot be increased readily. Companies usually hesitate to reduce the size of a candy bar or amount of a soft drink because of public reaction and severe competition. One solution is to increase the wholesale price and thus eliminate "three for a dime" or "six for a quarter" at retail.

SPEEDING ARMS OUTPUT SOUGHT ALONG 4 LINES

New OPM Program Is Disclosed.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 [Special].—The problem of more than doubling the current war production rate in the quickest possible time is being approached along four different lines, William S. Knudsen, director general, and Sidney Hillman, associate director general, of the Office of Production Management announced today.

First, they asserted, will be the general conversion of durable goods industries from peacetime production to weapons of war. Supplementing this movement will be the placing of more of the existing arms plants on 160 hours a week work basis, the farming out of jobs or parts of jobs that they cannot handle promptly, and the increasing of their output in other ways.

Other Lines of Effort.

The third line, it was explained, was the shifting of more of the capacity of consumer goods industries like textiles and food products from civilian to military use, a program which does not involve, by and large, the conversion of facilities. Expansion of all types of training for workers in war industries is the fourth line of approach.

Tomorrow officials of the OPM will confer with manufacturers of power shovels and construction machinery to see whether they can turn out tanks. Similar conferences will follow with other industries.

Members of the rubber industry, whose total production was ordered curtailed about 53 per cent after the flow from the East Indies was interrupted by the outbreak of war, are conferring with OPM engineers to offset the sharply reduced civilian production by increased war work. About 37½ per cent of the industry's present output is for war use.

Expect Big Gain by June.

By June, it is estimated, military production by the rubber industry will reach 50 per cent of the total. Many of the small companies are shifting to the making of gas masks, of which the Office of Civilian Defense is seeking 50 millions for civilians in areas on and near the east and west coasts.

The possibilities of placing additional war orders with manufacturers of farm equipment are being explored by the OPM, tho it realizes that such production must be limited in order that the demand for farm equipment to maintain food supplies may be met fully.

The pulp and paper industry is nearing completion of a survey of its facilities that may be used for execution of war orders. Additional conversions are under study in other industries.

Seek Freeing of Some Plants.

Exploratory discussions have been held by OPM officials and representatives of manufacturers of cooking appliances and domestic refrigerators as to the advisability of concentrating civilian production in some plants and freeing the remainder for conversion to war work. Makers of radio tubes are seeking substitute materials with which to maintain civilian production until expected increases in military requirements are known more definitely.

Meetings are being held with individual manufacturers with a view to effecting immediate increases in production in existing arms plants. In the machine tool industry, it is explained, some manufacturers are working 160 hours a week. Others, however, are falling much short of that, and they are being urged to man their machines to a maximum.

Because of the shortage of tin, some shifting of output in the food canning industry is contemplated. Canners of "luxury" items, according to present plan, will be urged to switch over the major part of their plants to army rations and foods needed by America's allies. The container industry, it is emphasized, will feel the war's impact increasingly.

Other Defense Actions.

Other actions by defense agencies included the following:

POWER—Donald M. Nelson, director of priorities of the OPM, revoked, effective Monday, the power limitation order which was issued Oct. 30 last, to meet a shortage in the southeast. Heavy rains having brought reservoirs to adequate levels.

WOOL—The Office of Production Management issued an order restricting total consumption of wool by any manufacturer for the first quarter of 1942 to 80 per cent of one-half his consumption of new wool during the first half of 1941. Exception is provided for a manufacturer who devotes his entire output to military requirements.

The amount of new wool available for civilian use is limited to 50 per cent of tops [long staple wool] on the worsted system and to 40 per cent of scoured wool [wool with the grease removed] on the woolen system. The use of carpet wool is cut to 50 per cent and the use of wool on all other systems is reduced to 40 per cent.

War Industries Speed Pace; Others Receive New Blows

War industries last week started the new year with a rush to regain and surpass their preholiday stride. Customary year-end inventory shutdowns were canceled in arms plants, which worked thru the holiday. However, business activity in general receded while merchants and civilian industries took stock and slowed down for usual year-end readjustments.

Last week produced further shocks to the civilian economy undergoing the process of being converted to wartime operations. The automobile industry was told to prepare for early cessation of passenger car production. New car sales were halted pending the shaping of a severe rationing plan.

Plants Retool to Make Arms.

As a result of earlier curtailment orders, automobile production slumped to 18,535 units compared with 24,620 in the preceding week and 76,690 a year earlier. Automotive plants were retooling rapidly for war production. The entire management and technical skill of the industry was organized into a council for war production.

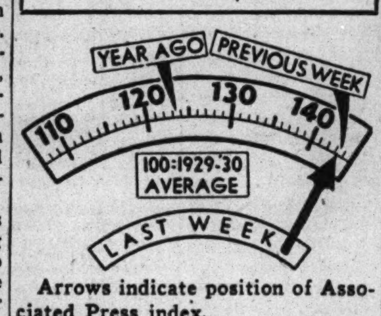
In other actions during the week to conserve materials, the Office of Production Management cut the nonessential use of tin to one-half of 1940 levels and forbade its use entirely after March 31 in 29 novelty or decorative articles. New wool for civilian consumption was scheduled to be restricted to 50 per cent or less of 1941 volume. An expected order cutting output of new farm equipment was issued.

Expect Total Output to Dip.

As the mobilization of industry for war proceeded, analysts said there would be a lag in total industrial production because civilian industry cannot overnight change over to arms production. In addition, the curtailment and conservation orders are hurting merchandising and other activities dependent on the peacetime products.

Reflecting the shrinkage of civilian production, car loadings reported by the railroads for the week ended last Dec. 27 registered a more than seasonal decline of 24 per cent. Less than carlot and miscellaneous loadings, representing movements of manufactured goods, showed sharp drops from the figures of the preceding week.

Trend of Industry



Arrows indicate position of Associated Press index.

Scarcity of scrap and pig iron hindered efforts of the steel industry to regain record production, but ingot operations last week in the nation exceeded those of the Christmas week. Chicago area mills, however, were unable to maintain the record rate of the preceding week.

Power Production Declines.

Electric power production receded from the peak reached in the preceding week. Engineering construction awards gained as compared with the preceding week but slumped from the corresponding 1940 week. Retail sales shrank under the influence of the usual postholiday lull. Business loans by banks were reduced.

The Associated Press weekly index of industrial activity held near the alltime peak of the preceding week, dipping only a shade after six consecutive weekly advances. Comparisons follow:

	Latest week.	Prev. week.	Year ago.
Steel mill activity	138.2	138.3	128.7
Electric pow. prod.	151.4	151.1	137.5
Total car loadings	90.0	90.6	78.3
Composite index	143.3	143.4	123.5

The index is based on 1929-'30 as 100 and is adjusted seasonally.

OIL OPERATORS ASK STATE RULE OF PRODUCTION

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 3 (AP).—The Illinois-Indiana Petroleum association today asked Gov. Green to call a second special session of the general assembly to enact legislation giving the state broad powers to regulate oil well drilling and production during the war emergency.

Lee Mulvihill, secretary of the association, called at the governor's office with a resolution which was adopted, he said, because the operators preferred state regulation of oil production instead of federal control.

Legislation is needed, Mulvihill said, to empower the state to carry out an OPM order limiting well drilling to one well for every 40 acres and to enforce a quota of 386,400 barrels daily ordered for this month by Secretary Harold L. Ickes, federal petroleum coördinator. Petroleum buyers early this week adopted a similar resolution.

RAW CANE SUGAR CEILING PRICE IS RAISED 24 CENTS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 (AP).—The ceiling price on raw cane sugar will be raised 24 cents to $3.74 a hundred pounds on Monday, it was announced tonight. This figure is in line with the terms under which the government is purchasing Cuba's 1942 crop of sugar and molasses.

Leon Henderson, price administrator, said appropriate adjustments would be made in the maximum prices of refined and other "direct" consumption sugar on the basis of studies of refining costs and present stocks. OPA officials said some slight increase in retail prices may be expected eventually, but that there should be none immediately.

FILE CONSENT DECREE IN LUMBER DEALERS' PRICE CONTROL CASE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 (AP).—A consent decree under which the National Retail Lumber Dealers' association and 22 state and regional dealer organizations are enjoined from price fixing and allocations of markets and customers was filed today in the federal District court at Denver.

The justice department announced entry of the decree along with the filing of a civil suit alleging violation of the anti-trust laws thru a program of restricted distribution in the sale of lumber products, cement, and other building materials in 35 states.

The case grew out of two indictments returned by a federal grand jury at Denver last April 14. Some of those indicted, the department said, had pleaded nolo contendere and paid a total of $78,320 in fines.

FIDELITY FIRM GRANTED RIGHT TO REORGANIZE

Insurance-Annuity Setup Planned.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 3 (AP).—Federal Judge Ben Moore, assuming jurisdiction over the involved affairs of the 25 million dollar Fidelity Assurance association, gave it permission today to reorganize as a combination insurance-annuity corporation.

The Wheeling, W. Va., company, formerly known as the Fidelity Investment association, sold between 1911 and 1940 an estimated face value of 600 million dollars in savings contracts in 29 states.

An official said the real value of present contracts is around 25 millions and such value never had exceeded 40 millions because many contracts had not been carried to maturity.

Appeal Held Certain.

The decision permitting reorganization under the federal bankruptcy act almost certainly will be appealed to the Fourth United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Richmond, Va., lawyers said.

At Madison, Wis., where an estimated 2 million dollars worth of Fidelity securities are deposited for the protection of contract holders, Deputy Attorney General J. Ward Rector predicted an appeal would be taken.

Other states which contested the jurisdiction of the southern West Virginia court include Illinois, Ohio, Tennessee, Missouri, Maryland, Alabama, Delaware, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, and Virginia.

Background of Case.

The federal court last June 6 appointed the Central Trust company of Charleston as trustee and ordered all assets turned over to it by the several states and the receivers. This took precedence over the receivership action instituted in a state court last spring.

Judge Moore later rescinded the order for transfer of securities by ordering the states involved to "freeze" them until the hearing ended.

Prolonged hearings on the jurisdictional question were held thru the late summer and fall.

HOW MOVE AFFECTS ILLINOIS.

Attorneys interested in the status of investments of Fidelity contract holders in Illinois said that Judge Moore's ruling does not immediately affect the more than 3¾ million dollars in securities deposited by Fidelity with Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes.

The securities were held as a guarantee against Illinois contracts. At Hughes' request the Circuit court at Springfield impounded the assets pending the disposition of Fidelity's bankruptcy case. Attorneys said the state will try to retain the fund until Illinois contract holders have had an opportunity to vote on the reorganization plan.

NEW BROKERAGE OFFICE AVOIDS 'CLUBROOM' AIR

A new brokerage office, in which designers sought to eliminate the customary "clubroom" atmosphere and substitute the modern air of office efficiency, will be opened tomorrow on the second floor of the Board of Trade building by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane.

Homer P. Hargrave, resident partner of the firm in Chicago, said the office design is the result of a year and a half of study and special research.

The usual arrangement of chairs grouped before a quotations board has been eliminated. Wall partitions have been removed almost entirely and waist high partitions have been substituted. Equipment includes the longest electric stock quotations board in Chicago and electric "traveling belts" for carrying of messages.

Crude Oil Stocks Increase, but Production Is Reduced

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 (AP).—The bureau of mines reported today stocks of crude petroleum at the close of the week ended Dec. 27 totaled 243,990,000 barrels, a net increase of 373,000 barrels from the preceding week. Daily average production for the week was 4,081,000 barrels, a decrease of 233,000.

Nonstop Chicago-Atlanta Flights Are Authorized

The Civil Aeronautics board yesterday authorized Eastern Air Lines to conduct nonstop flights over route No. 10 between Chicago and Atlanta, Ga., to speed up mail and passenger service. Route No. 10 extends from Chicago to Jacksonville, Fla.

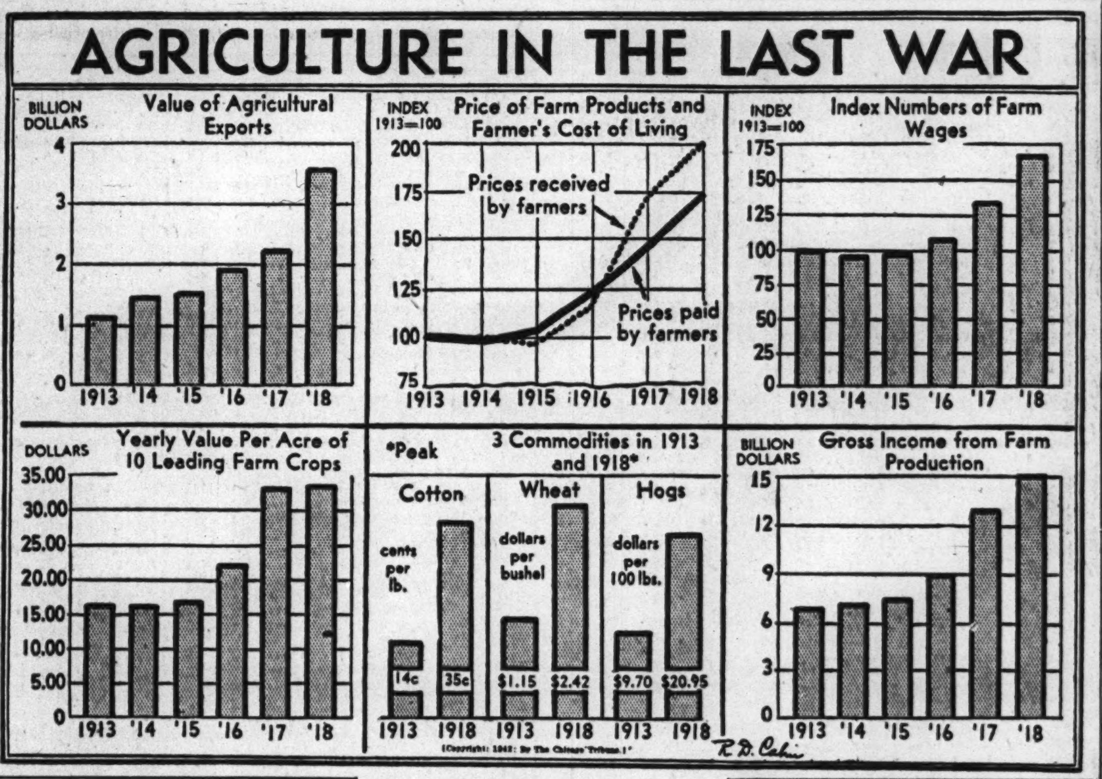
AGRICULTURE IN THE LAST WAR



[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

1941's Freight Volume Soars to 11 Year Top

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 (AP).—The Association of American Railroads reported today that loadings of revenue freight in 1941 totaled 42,284,927 cars. This was an increase of 5,927,073 cars, or 16.3 per cent, compared with the preceding year, and an increase of 8,373,429 cars, or 24.7 per cent, compared with 1939.

The 1941 figure was the highest for any year since 1930. Measured in revenue ton miles, freight volume transported during the year set a new record 5.1 per cent greater than the previous high made in 1929. Roughly 470 billion ton miles were rolled up in 1941.

Comparisons for Year.

Loadings by commodities in 1941 compared with 1940 as follows:

Grain and grain products, 2,022,419 cars and 1,834,593, an increase of 10.2 per cent.

Live stock, 650,490 and 685,282, a decrease of 5.1 per cent.

Coal, 7,590,002 and 6,819,614, an increase of 11.3 per cent.

Coke, 677,634 and 548,686, an increase of 23.5 per cent.

Forest products, 2,184,987 and 1,799,650, an increase of 21.4 per cent.

Merchandise, less than carload, 8,041,367 and 7,679,389, an increase of 4.7 per cent.

Miscellaneous, 18,435,786 and 14,842,212, an increase of 24.2 per cent.

Net income of class 1 roads for the year amounted to an estimated $485,000,000 compared with $189,000,000 in 1940 and the largest for any year since 1930.

Week's Loadings Tumble.

The association reported that 606,526 cars of revenue freight were loaded during the week ended Dec. 27. This was a decrease of 192,171 cars, or 24.1 per cent, compared with the preceding week, but an increase of 61,219 cars, or 11.2 per cent, compared with a year ago.

The report classified the loadings, compared with the preceding week and the corresponding week a year ago, as follows:

	Dec. 27 wk.	Prec. wk.	Year ago.
Miscel. freight	280,275	−85,400	+46,377
Less than carlot merchandise	123,136	−26,902	+ 2,790
Coal	112,909	−43,355	− 709
Grain and grain products	29,386	−12,037	+ 7,403
West. districts	18,479	− 8,083	+ 5,475
Live stock	9,698	− 4,830	+ 1,016
West. districts	7,153	− 3,748	+ 1,079
Forest products	26,487	−16,648	+ 2,296
Ore	11,459	− 2,179	+ 589
Coke	13,176	− 820	+ 1,457

All classes showed declines for the week, particularly miscellaneous freight and coal. The drop in total loadings was of more than seasonal proportions.

FEDERAL SAFETY INSPECTION OF MINES STARTED

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 (AP).—The bureau of mines has started the first federal safety inspection of the nation's 6,000 large coal shafts. The program, authorized by a 1941 act of congress, was designed to cut the 1,300 coal mine accident death toll of 1940.

Dr. R. R. Sayers, mines bureau director, said that 42 inspectors, fresh from an intensive training course at the Pittsburgh experiment station, reported Jan. 1 to their inspection stations thruout the mining states. Another group of 70 inspectors will report to Pittsburgh Monday for special training and in a few weeks will join the 42 now on the job.

Year's Income Soars

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 (AP).—The department of agriculture reported today that preliminary estimates indicated farmers received a total cash income, including government benefit payments, or 11 billion 600 million dollars in 1941, the highest since 1920.

This estimate compares with a 1940 income of 9 billion 120 million dollars and with a depression low of 4 billion 682 million in 1932. Officials have predicted that farm income in 1942 will exceed 13 billions.

Benefit payments in 1941 totaled 600 million dollars, compared with $765,799,000 in 1940 and with $807,065,000 in 1939.

GROUP INSURANCE TOTAL CLIMBS TO ALL-TIME RECORD

Record gains during 1941 increased the total of group life insurance in force in American industry to an all-time high of 18½ billion dollars, Thomas I. Parkinson, president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, disclosed yesterday.

Thomas I. Parkinson.

The increase during the year was about 2¼ billion dollars, he said, and the total was almost double the aggregate of 9 billion 600 million in force at the end of 1929.

These policies, Parkinson said, assured 12½ million individuals employed by 32,000 companies that in event of their death their families will receive, on the average, a year's wages. He said that nearly half of those covered by the group policies carry no other life protection.

ALL-SILK HOSIERY SCARCE IN NEW LINES FOR SPRING

New York, Jan. 3 (AP).—Manufacturers of women's hosiery have started to introduce spring lines, notable for the virtual absence of all-silk stockings, trade quarters said today.

New types of rayons, using finer threads and knitting up into unusually sheer hosiery, were included at prices to fit into the old retail silk-hosiery brackets of $1 and $1.15 a pair. Only a few lines included silk in combination with other fibers.

Nylons were generally unchanged from fall prices but more were offered. Altho all-nylon constructions were available, it was believed in the trade that later there would be a switch to nylons with rayon or cotton tops to conserve the limited supply of nylon yarn.

Lisle stockings also appeared, one type woven from English-spun Egyptian cotton.

Predicts 1942 Food Sales Will Be 15 Billion Dollars

New York, Jan. 3 (AP).—Paul S. Willis, president of the Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America, today predicted food sales would reach 15 billion dollars in 1942, an increase of 2 billion 225 million over last year. Total retail food store volume in 1941, Willis estimated, was 12 billion 750 million, or 250 million above the record high of 1929.

Lower Priced Homes Lead in U. S. Building

BY AL CHASE.

Eighty per cent of the residential construction in the principal cities of the United States during the last six months of 1941 was in the $6,000 bracket, or under that ceiling imposed by the government on defense homes. This was revealed in the 38th semiannual survey of the real estate market of the country by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, published yesterday.

In one out of every 12 cities of the 248 cities covered in the survey, homes costing $3,000 or less are the commonest type now being built. The under $3,000 house is eight times as prevalent in defense as in nondefense areas.

Activity in Defense Areas.

For the country as a whole, the commonest price range at which new homes were being built as the war opened was the $4,500 to $6,000 range. Close contender was the $3,000 to $4,500 house.

Of all the houses built during the last six months of 1941 in the cities surveyed, 90 per cent were in defense areas.

Homesites purchased were approximately one-third greater in number than single family dwellings built, an indication, it was pointed out, that to the degree that materials can be had demand for new buildings will continue.

Home Building Needed.

Need for civilian home building to avert housing shortage was reported by three-fourths of the largest cities. Shortages are developing most rapidly in the cheaper price ranges.

What amount of direct government building to expect in the community is a factor affecting private construction to a marked degree, the survey declares.

Underwear Manufacturer Accused of Wage Violation

A criminal information charging "wilful and flagrant" violation of the fair labor standards act was filed against the Roseman Garment company, women's underwear manufacturer at 307 Van Buren street, in federal District court yesterday by United States Attorney J. Albert Woll. The information alleged that the company paid less than 30 cents an hour to 85 employés, mostly women, and forced them to report less hours than they actually worked.

NAB 'LOST' WAR GOODS VALUED AT 200 MILLION

Part Stored by Axis to Thwart Allies.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. announced today that the treasury had turned over to Vice President Henry Wallace an inventory of 200 million dollars worth of materials useful in wartime which are held in storage places in this country for foreign owners.

Wallace received the inventory as chairman of the Supply Priorities and Allocations board. The items were located thru a still incomplete inventory of foreign property.

Morgenthau said much of the material uncovered had been "lost" either thru accident or design. The treasury chief explained that in many cases the foreign owner either could not communicate with this country or had fallen victim to axis invasion.

Axis Uses Dummies.

"In still other instances," he added, "the axis powers, thru 'dummies,' actually had bought up the stocks for their own use before the war or had acquired them later for the express purpose of preventing their use in the allied war machine."

As an example of how equipment was held, he reported this material was in a New York warehouse for a single "unknown" owner:

Eighty-nine boxes of aluminum, 3,092 pieces of aluminum, 396 crates of brass, 3 pieces of forgings, 117 tons of rough forgings, 49 crates of auto parts, 25 boxes of auto parts, 2 crates of tractor implements, 3 crates of pneumatic tools, a box of link belting, 14 packages of Diesel equipment, and 138 crates of machinery.

Tractors and Tires Found.

Among the other materials ferreted out were $1,395,321 worth of tractors, tires, motor accessories, and barley held for Greek accounts; $268,000 of machines, aluminum, and molybdenite for Fiat, the Italian motor car company; $157,775 of automobile equipment intended for use in Greece; $67,213 of tire fabric; $475,984 of materials intended for a French engine manufacturer; $35,114 of automobiles for a Finnish account, and $92,000 of steel and $88,063 of leather for French accounts.

Morgenthau said that the material was stored under 10,000 names and that 500,000 inventory reports were being studied.

STOCKS EXTEND PRICE UPTURNS ON BROAD FRONT

Recent Sellers Return to Buying Side.

New York, Jan. 3 (AP).—The stock market ended today its best week in more than two years with a wide assortment of advances ranging from fractions to about 2 points. The trade lacked the benefit of much good news and brokers credited the rising trend mainly to the reinstatement of commitments by sold-out shareholders who had liquidated their holdings at the year-end in order to establish losses for income tax purposes.

Battle bulletins from the Philippines and far east were far from bullish, but bidders, for the most part, ignored these, as well as fears of mounting taxes and spreading governmental controls over industry.

Gain Best Since 1939.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks added .5 of a point at 38.5 to Friday's run-up of .9 and on the week showed a net gain of 2.8 points, widest for any week since mid-September, 1939. Altho the turnover was only 516,840 shares against 1,162,110 last Saturday, it was larger than most short sessions of 1941. The market was unusually broad for a week-end as 689 individual issues were traded.

Prominent among the gainers were American Telephone, Union Pacific, Woolworth, J. C. Penney, Westinghouse, Owens-Illinois, Douglas Aircraft, J. I. Case, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Chrysler, Western Union, Fajardo Sugar, South Porto Rico Sugar, and Loew's.

Recover Despite Adversities.

The recovery of the market during the week came in the face of generally adverse developments both at home and abroad. On the domestic front the list had to contend with drastic tire rationing, cessation of automobile sales to civilian consumers, and a wide batch of price ceilings. The market took the fall of Manila and Cavite in stride.

Monday's session was the liveliest since May, 1940, with the averages up slightly. The sharpest rally of the week came Tuesday. There was a minor letdown Wednesday inspired by a last minute burst of tax selling. The upswing was resumed Friday on substantially lower volume.

CHICAGO LIST HIGHER.

Prices on the Chicago Stock exchange closed higher again yesterday in transactions totaling 19,000 shares. Of 82 issues traded, 68 advanced, 5 declined, and 9 closed unchanged.

Commonwealth Edison, which was unchanged at 27⅞, was the volume leader with 1,450 shares traded. Of other heavily traded stocks, Central & South West was unchanged, Swift International advanced 2⅛, and Borg-Warner advanced ⅜.

In the half hour after the New York close Anaconda advanced ¼, Bendix ½, and Stewart Warner and Borg-Warner ⅛. Butler Brothers, Commonwealth Edison, Standard Oil of Indiana, and United States Steel declined ⅛.

COTTON HIGHEST IN 11 YEARS AFTER 60 CENT UPTURN

Most Commodities Rise as Week Closes.

Most commodities extended recent gains yesterday at the close of a week which saw them enter the new year at the highest levels, on the average, since April, 1937. Cotton futures closed 40 to 60 cents a bale higher for the day to establish an 11 year peak, after hedge selling and profit taking had cut into early advances of as much as $1.45 a bale.

Cottonseed oil scurried up a cent a pound, the limit allowed in one day's operations, in the first trading in nearly three weeks. Trading had been suspended since Dec. 13, except for a few minutes Dec. 15, when temporary ceilings were announced. Closing prices were within 0.24 to 0.33 cent a pound of the new price ceilings made effective last Friday.

Santos and Rio coffee gained a few hundredths of a cent a pound. Dealers reported that fire loss of 30,000 bags on board ship at Brooklyn had reduced the immediate supply. Cocoa closed 0.02 to 0.03 cent higher. Wool tops, going against the trend, dropped 0.7 to one cent.

BIG USERS BUY GRAIN; PRICES PUSHED HIGHER

Some Futures Reach New Peaks for Season.

Industries that use vast quantities of grain in their manufacturing operations went into the markets yesterday for substantial supplies. As a result prices on the Chicago Board of Trade closed near the highest levels of the season, new peaks being set on some deliveries in futures trading.

Mills revealed they had made large sales of flour and entered the wheat market as buyers late in the session. Prices closed 1 to 1¼ cents higher, culminating an advance of almost 3 cents for the week. May contracts closed at $1.29⅛, while the September delivery, at $1.31⅞, was at a new high mark.

Corn Joins in Rise.

Corn advanced ¼ cent to a new high since early in October. The major feed grain was up more than a cent for the week. May contracts closing at 85⅝ cents. No. 2 yellow corn sold in the cash market at 82¼ cents.

Grain men reported large sales of oats to eastern buyers, the day's sales being estimated at more than 113,000 bushels. Prices advanced ⅜ to ⅝ cent. Cash oats sold at 59¼ cents a bushel, equaling the highest price paid for the commodity since 1935. Futures prices closed within a fraction of the seasonal peaks.

Soy Beans Are Mixed.

Rye advanced ⅜ to 1½ cents, while soy beans encountered pressure on May contracts and closed ¼ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher. Lard was unchanged to 5 cents a hundredweight lower.

Shippers reported the sale of more than 93,000 bushels of wheat and 87,000 bushels of corn, a big business for the final day of the week, according to grain men. The grain buyers paid $1.76¾ cents for No. 3 yellow soy beans, the highest price in several weeks.

LABOR OPPOSES LONGER HOURS IN WOMEN'S WORK

Two labor leaders challenged yesterday the authority of Francis B. Murphy, state labor director, to exempt certain employers engaged in arms work from the state law limiting women's work to eight hours a day and six days a week.

Murphy, who announced the plan Thursday, said that until a definite policy is outlined by state or federal governments the order will stand. He said similar moves had been made by other leading industrial states and that the policy was in line with federal government requests to speed war goods production.

Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, described the move as "either nonsensical or sinister" and asserted "the legislature has never conferred any such irresponsible power upon the director."

Miss Agnes Nestor, president of the Women's Trade Union League of Chicago, said lengthening of working hours for women would impair efficiency and production.

STOCKYARD SALE TO UNITED GETS COURT APPROVAL

David F. Hunt, president of United Stockyards corporation, announced yesterday that court approval had been granted for acquisition of controlling interest in the St. Joseph [Mo.] Stockyards company.

The deal was consummated principally by purchase from Swift & Co. of its holdings in the St. Joseph property for approximately $325,000. The United States District court at Washington, D. C., approved the sale on petition of Swift & Co., acting under the packers consent decree.

John Holmes, president of Swift, said the company's packing plant and other parts of Swift's business in St. Joseph are not affected by the transaction. Swift sold its major holdings in public stockyards in 1936 to United Stockyards, there being seven yards involved in that transaction. Hunt said no new financing by United Stockyards was involved in the St. Joseph purchase.

CHANGE PAYMENT RULES TO SPEED ARMS MAKING

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 [Special].—Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson announced today he had authorized advance payments up to 30 per cent on contracts under 5 million dollars to speed production thru decentralization of army procurement.

Direct advance payments to prime contractors will be limited generally to 30 per cent of the contract totals, but when subcontractors need additional financial assistance, this total will be increased to 50 per cent, of which 20 per cent will be advanced to the subcontractors, the announcement said.

FORECLOSURES DROP.

Mortgage foreclosures on nonfarm real estate dropped to 4,204 cases in November, the lowest total in the 15 years for which figures are available, the Federal Home Loan bank board announced. The former low was 4,271 cases in August. The November total was 204 below October and 1,628 under the November, 1940, total.

'41 TAX CHANGES PUT BIGGER LOAD ON HOME OWNERS

Must Pay 71% of County Bill This Year.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The year 1941 added millions of dollars in local taxes onto the backs of home owners and other real estate property holders in Cook county. This development stood out in a review of local tax events for last year.

Prior to 1941 realty taxpayers were being soaked for 70 per cent of the county's 220 million dollar yearly tax bill and were paying more than 85 per cent of the amount billed, compared with 60 per cent of billings paid by personal property owners.

Two state Supreme court decisions last year, however, exempted certain classes of personal property with an assessed value of more than 50 million dollars. Consequently, 3 millions in taxes formerly charged to this personal property will be saddled on real estate owners. In addition, the county's total tax bill to be paid this year, as a result of 1941 appropriations by county governments, shows a jump of 4 million dollars, of which 71.2 per cent will be charged to real estate, 23.9 per cent to personal property, and 4.9 per cent to railroads.

The Sheriff Goes Collecting.

Last year saw a quick start in tax activity when Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien became the first sheriff in the history of the county to go out after personal property owners who had been nonchalantly ignoring court judgments for taxes gathering dust in the files since 1932.

The sheriff organized three collection squads, which appeared on tax delinquents' premises and demanded that the owners either pay the tax judgments or have their properties sold at auction by the county. By the end of the year this practice had brought more than 1 million dollars into the county treasury.

County Treasurer John Toman soon took the cue and sent squads from his office to collect unpaid personal property taxes that had not been reduced to judgments. Toman's deputies also threatened to auction the delinquents' goods to satisfy the tax bills. The effort produced $257,000 during the year.

Threats Bring in the Cash.

Altho neither O'Brien nor Toman actually went thru with the threatened auctions, the threat was in most cases enough to bring in the taxes.

Real estate tax collections were also spurred thru a foreclosure program by State's Attorney Courtney's office and Treasurer Toman's instalment tax bureau. Foreclosure sales of real estate produced 8 million dollars in back taxes. Home owners, permitted to pay up back tax bills over a two year period under Toman's instalment plan, paid 1 million dollars and still owed $700,000 at the year end. More than 14,000 participated in the instalment program.

Total tax collections on all bills, current and past, for 1941 exceeded 200 million dollars for the first time in a decade, and were 14 millions higher than in 1940, but were still 20 millions below the 221 millions billed to taxpayers in 1941. The unpaid tax load totaled 420 millions at the end of the year.

Plans for Changes Fail.

Several attempts to change tax procedures, in some cases to help taxpayers, were started but missed fire. Philip Collins, newly appointed chairman of the state tax commission, announced the commission would start proceedings to prevent the courts from cutting the commission's assessments on intangible personal property to 10 per cent, but nothing came of it.

Gov. Green appointed a special committee to study Cook county's huge tax delinquency and make proposals to reduce it. As a result a number of bills were introduced into the general assembly, including a provision making mandatory foreclosure sales of delinquent properties, but they were killed by the legislators.

A tax preadjudication bill, designed to permit all taxpayers to participate in refunds resulting from illegal tax levies, was passed for the third time by the general assembly, but was killed by Gov. Green's veto on advice from the attorney general that it was unconstitutional.

Fewer Sales for Taxes.

The interest of tax buyers lagged in 1941, with the result that tax sales produced only $683,909 on 5,634 parcels, compared with $855,357 on 7,961 parcels in 1940.

A drop in property valuations, with higher appropriations by the government, combined to produce a 1940 tax rate of $9.52, equalling the previous peak rate of 1936. The Civic Federation predicted that the 1941 tax rate, which will determine taxpayers' bills this year, will be at least $9.69, a new all time high. Since the federation's prediction, reductions in assessments have brought estimates by county officials that the rate will soar even higher and will approach the $10 mark.

GOSSARD PROFIT REACHES HIGHEST LEVEL IN 11 YEARS

Earnings of H. W. Gossard company, Chicago manufacturer of women's foundation garments, in the fiscal year ended Nov. 30 were the largest in 11 years, R. C. Stirton, president, disclosed yesterday in a report to stockholders.

The company's net income for the year was $462,294, or $2.13 a share, compared with $386,937, or $1.78 a share, in the preceding fiscal year. Stirton said foreign subsidiaries, located in countries at war, have maintained business volume and earnings comparative with the preceding year.

Patterson-Sargent company, paint maker with plants at Cleveland, O., and New York, reported its earnings for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 were $338,818, or $1.63 a share, compared with $191,401, or 90 cents a share, in the preceding year.

Day by Day on the Farm

By BOB BECKER

Snow Comes to the Farm.

Jan. 3, 1942.

THE snow which fell in Chicagoland this week not only gave the farm a typical winter appearance, but it also was an incentive to one of the boys who lives on the farm. Eager to try his luck at trapping, this youngster has been asking for a snow that will record the footprints of all the furbearers on the farm.

Before the recent storm was over the boy was hiking thru the woods in the hope of seeing some animal tracks. Santa Claus overlooked his order for traps, but his older brother gave him two used ones. We gave him a tip on a possible trapping spot in the northwest corner of the farm where some opossum tracks were observed several days ago.

Bird Food Supplies.

The birds that frequent the briar patches, weed thickets, and woods around the big pond probably will think that good times have returned when they find several food supply centers in this part of the farm. There are no regular feeding stations around the pond. But this area was heavily baited a few days ago as the first move toward operating several bird banding traps.

When we were toting a sack of mixed grain and sunflower seeds around the north side of the pond to distribute meals for the birds, a big cock pheasant ran ahead of us for many yards. If this bird retraced his steps after we left he found plenty to eat in the thickets.

This is the first winter attempt to trap small birds on the farm for the purpose of banding them. During the last few years we have trapped and released many species between April and October. Cardinals, song sparrows, catbirds, brown thrashers, and other species were caught and banded. Whether we will be able to lure any of the winter birds now on the farm into a trap is a question. At any rate it probably will take a week or so for them to get in the habit of coming to the new sources of food, and thus give us a chance to trap and band them.

The Noisy Turkeys.

The turkeys again are loafing around the barnyard clamoring for handouts of corn and at night are roosting in a tree in the barnyard. The lone peacock is glad to join the gobblers on this roost every night. Pheasants are looking for every bit of available cover to hide their excursions to and from their feeding and roosting places.

An occasional sparrow hawk looms up conspicuously in the air as it looks for mice in the grassy fields, and the chipmunks and ground hogs have denned up for the winter. These are just a few of the more typical signs which tell us that it's January, the month when animal and bird life on the farm is at its lowest ebb.

Nice Life, for Chipmunks.

We can't remember a year when the chipmunks stayed out of their winter hideouts so late. The very mild weather in December permitted this. These animals store up supplies early in the fall and are glad to go into their long comfortable sleep underground as soon as it gets cold.

Theirs is a pretty ideal winter life among mammals. A snug place to sleep, plenty to eat when they wake up and raid one of their "pantries," and no need to worry about predators or zero waves.

"You'll Come Back!"

HE was going away, and he couldn't tell her where or why. No one was to know that he had left.

"Delia, I love you," he said. "I couldn't go without seeing you. I shan't be able to write. And there mustn't be any talk about it. When they ask, just say: 'Antony and I are not friends any longer.'"

She clung to him.

"Antony, you'll come back, you'll come back!"

A thrilling story of love and a soldier in the British Intelligence Service.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE

HERE'S HOW THE STORY BEGINS:

The first interview took place in Berlin.

Cornelius Rossiter, sometimes called Cornelius Roos, walked into the inner office and swung up his hand in the universal salute.

"Heil Hitler!"

The door closed at his back.

"Heil Hitler!" said the man behind the desk. The eyes beneath the arched brows were of a dark intensity beyond belief. They were as powerful and impersonal as an arc light, and a good deal more intelligent. They rested for a moment upon Cornelius, whilst the right hand moved among a pile of papers, then a smooth voice said: "Ah—Cornelius Roos——"

"At your orders, sir."

He watched the moving hand. It picked up one paper and rejected another. It was as if the fingertips could see. The eyes had not left his face. A voice said, honeysmooth:

"I wonder——"

Cornelius said nothing. He stood a yard inside the door. His expression of simple stolidity had served him well in the past. It served him now. He took refuge behind it, and waited for the other man to break the silence left by that "I wonder——"

The silence was a long one. Some men crack under a silence like that. The eyes which looked at Cornelius had seen many men break.

Cornelius stood there, respectful and stolid.

The voice said at last, low and quietly, entering the silence rather than breaking it.

"I wonder whether you are at my orders—or at those of someone else." On the last words there was hardly any sound at all.

Cornelius said, "I am at your orders."

At once a liveliness leaped into the voice, the features, the hands. There was a flashing gesticulation, a jerk of anger.

"Two masters, and I'm one of them—is that what you are going to say? Something for each of us, and pay for both? It's done, you know, and it's been done with me—but not for long." The hand with the paper was thrust forward as if it held a weapon. "Do you think I use people and don't check up on them? This information has been tested, and it is false. Do you think you can get away with it?"

Cornelius moved for the first time and stretched out his hand for the paper. After a glance he laid it down.

"To the best of my knowledge and belief it was accurate—at the time."

"What was your source of information?"

"Confidential of course. If I give it away I shall have killed the goose that lays the golden eggs."

The white womanish hand came out and took the paper again.

"You've played a game with me. Nobody gets away with that. You're done."

The hand went out towards an electric bell.

Cornelius went back and stood against the door.

"Stop!" he said.

The hand remained poised, the eyes watchful. The voice said:

"Why?"

"Because you'd better," said Cornelius grimly. "No I'm not armed. I'm not a fool, to come in here with arms on me. But I've got something to say, and it's going to be worth your while to listen. I know as well as you that I can't get out of here alive unless you say so. But it's going to be worth your while to say so—I only want you to listen. I'll put my hands up and keep them up if you like."

The hand that had played with the paper now held a little pistol like a toy—small, ornate, deadly. The smooth voice said:

"It will not be necessary. What have you to say?"

Why was the Gestapo chief deadly afraid of his agent? What hold did Cornelius have over him? Find out in the exciting first chapter of "PURSUIT OF A PARCEL," by Patricia Wentworth, starting tomorrow in the Chicago Tribune.

THE TEENIE WEENIES
BY WM. DONAHEY
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.: Copyright 1942 by News Syndicate Co. Inc.
CUT ME OUT
FOLD HERE
FOLD HERE.

THE COWBOY WAS AN EXPERT MOUSE-BACK RIDER.

A SLED RIDE

THE WEATHER had turned cold. Deep snow had drifted nearly to the top of the shoe house windows. Some of the Teenie Weenies ventured out on their tiny skis and snowshoes, but most of the little people crowded around the Teenie Weenie fireplace. It was warm there and pleasant to watch the lead pencil logs blaze in the tiny fireplace. Still, after a day or so, the Teenie Weenies became restless.

"Jinks!" exploded the Dunce. "Let's do something."

"How about a sled ride?" suggested the Cowboy. "We could get a couple of mice to pull the sled and have a lot of fun."

The Teenie Weenies were delighted with the idea of a sled ride. They set to work at once making arrangements. The Cowboy went off on his skis to hire a couple of mice. Some of the Teenie Weenie men dug the sled out of the deep snow and made it ready for the trip. The Teenie Weenie women brought out many Teenie Weenie pillows and blankets. Everybody was wearing his warmest clothes, his galoshes and his mittens.

When the two mice arrived they were hitched to the sled. The Cowboy, an expert mouse-back rider, took charge of the team. The mice were a spirited pair of Teenie Weenie horses and they fairly made the sled fly over the snow.

The Teenie Weenies had a delightful ride. Everything went smoothly until they were nearly home on the return trip, then they had an accident. It was a very sudden accident, too, for the first thing the Teenie Weenies knew the mice had scampered up a tree, upsetting the sled. The little people found themselves dumped into the snow.

"W-w-what's the matter?" asked the General, popping his head out of the drift into which he had fallen.

The mice set up a loud chattering, but the General could not understand a single word. The Teenie Weenies can talk to most birds and animals, but it is very hard for them to understand mice. However, the Chinaman, who usually can understand them, began to translate their chatter into the Teenie Weenie language.

"Micee say they muchie flightened," the Chinaman reported. " They say they smell cat."

The General climbed a nearby bush and looked about.

"There is not a cat in sight," he reported to the shivering mice, who were too excited to look for themselves.

"Anyway, you are not safe up there because a cat can climb a tree quick as a wink," argued the Dunce.

Everybody said sh-h-h to the Dunce because he made the mice even more afraid, if that was possible.

The mice refused to come down from the tree, so the Teenie Weenies were forced to walk to the shoe house. There they all toasted their tiny toes before the fire and laughed a great deal over the accident while they supped hot chocolate, which the Teenie Weenie Cook had made for them.

It was a long time before the mice appeared at the shoe house for their pay. They were still quite nervous, but the Teenie Weenies gave each of them three grains of corn for their work and they seemed well pleased.

Pattern for SPIES!

HOW THEY WORK—AND HOW THEY ARE TRAPPED!

Foreword Behind the armies and navies locked in battle over world-wide fronts are other troops, great in number and embattled with equal fierceness and determination. They are the armies of spies, the secret agents who precede the soldiers into areas of danger, who remain behind in enemy country to wreak destruction when the hour to strike arrives.

The Axis powers, by past performance, have demonstrated that they are masters of the art of spying. In many countries, belligerent and neutral, their agents are at work, forwarding information, fomenting despair and division, planning their campaigns of sabotage and terror. Their handiwork has been seen in France, Belgium, Norway, China, and Manchuria. A few of their dupes have been caught and convicted in the western hemisphere.

The pattern for spying is much the same the world over ever since Wilhelm Stieber, the famous German spymaster, wrecked France in 1871 with his hordes of secret operatives. How the spies operate, how the war against them proceeds, how patriotic citizens may help combat the spy menace, is described in the following article, the first of a series.

THE handsome Russian gentlewoman was new to the social set of Honolulu, but she didn't suffer long for lack of escorts. She was stunning even among the smartly gowned American tourists, and her languorous, somewhat oriental manner caused a stir of masculine excitement wherever she appeared. When she took a house up in the Nuuanu valley a growing coterie of important people came daily for tea or cocktails, and the conversation fairly sparkled. For the daughter of Colonel Miasoyedoff was an intelligent as well as beautiful woman. She evinced a flattering interest in the chief preoccupation of the Big Island, the military establishment. Her questions were so adroit they hardly seemed to be questions.

It was not until after many weeks that some one suggested that Mlle. Miasoyedoff lived remarkably well for one who claimed to have been ruined by the Russian revolution. Then suspicious persons took an interest in the visits the Japanese woman barbers in the shops about Schofield barracks were paying to the house in Nuuanu valley. Surely not even the lovely Mlle. Miasoyedoff should be coifed by different hairdressers six days a week.

When an investigation was started Mlle. Miasoyedoff had gone. A radiogram from Tokio had placed a fishing boat at her disposal. The fact was not generally known.

• • •

Some days later the Shiriya, oil tanker of the Japanese imperial navy, put into the harbor of San Pedro after a meeting at sea with a fishing vessel. The customs examination was perfunctory, for the crew of the tanker was entitled to the same courtesies which would be extended to that of a visiting warship. It was not even observed at the time that one of the smartly dressed officers had slightly feminine contours.

Three automobiles waited at the dock. They sped swiftly to San Diego and continued on across the border to Tia Juana, just a few miles from the San Diego naval and air base. At a rambling wooden building, surmounted by a huge windmill, the automobiles halted and the passengers emerged. They were met by So Yasahura, proprietor of Tia Juana's notorious bar, brothel, and dance hall called the Red Mill. They were hastily ushered inside.

The girls of the establishment had been ordered to their rooms for the afternoon. Those who peeked saw the newcomers bow deferentially to So Yasahura, and then, to their surprise, one of the trim young officers uncapped and revealed glistening coils of blue-black hair. The men stood stiffly at attention while this woman in an officer's uniform was escorted to a place near the head of the table by So Yasahura himself, an honor rarely accorded their women by orientals. What transpired at the meeting the inmates of the Red Mill did not discover. They only knew that it was similar to many other secret conferences So Yasahura had arranged for visiting Japanese officers and diplomats.

A week later in Washington, D. C., an exotic "countess" came to town. Her father, she said, had been an officer of the czar, and no one was inclined to question her. She was taken up immediately by the Japanese embassy, and she met important people. She had a project in mind: the establishment of an employment bureau to supply house servants to the families of the capital. She described the extreme aptitude of orientals for such work and noted that they had been widely used as servants in her homeland. Since there were many in Washington eager to employ serving people personally trained by a genuine scion of the nobility, the plan appeared certain of success.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation thought the scheme ingenious, too. But when agents went to visit the countess in her apartment she had suddenly and mysteriously disappeared. It was thought that the friendly Japanese embassy might have afforded her refuge, but Japan and the United States were at peace, and at the particular time the United States was anxious not to offend Tokio. So no embarrassing questions were asked at the embassy.

No one outside Tokio knows whether pretty Mlle. Miasoyedoff ever gathered sufficient information to repay Col. Kenji Doihara, the spymaster of Japan, for the years of careful training he lavished upon her after she had been recruited into the Japanese intelligence service from a brothel in Manchukuo. But America has cause to remember the secret service organization Spymaster Doihara has built up. In reporting on the disastrous Japanese attack upon the United States fleet in Pearl Harbor a high government official has commented:

"It was the most perfect example of fifth column activity the world has seen, with the possible exception of the German invasion of Norway."

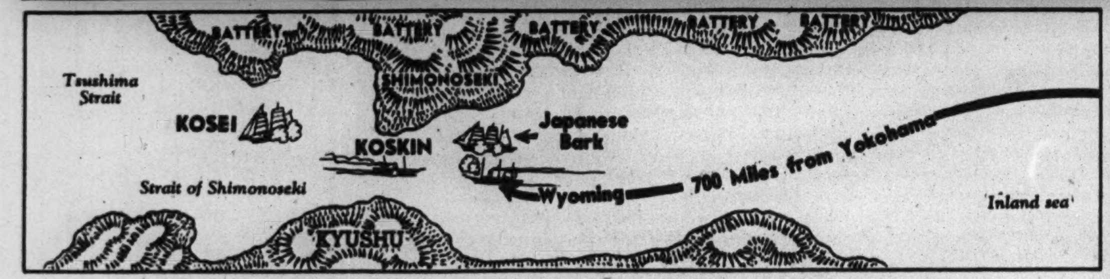
• • •

Colonel Doihara's spy army has been busy in the United States, American possessions, and neighboring American countries for at least 10 years. Japanese fishing boats, provided with powerful radio apparatus, photographic equipment, and sounding and mapping devices, have assiduously charted the entire American west coast from the Gulf of California to Bristol bay in Alaska, and they have covered most of the Caribbean and much of the South American coastline as well. Japanese naval officers and reservists have formed part of the crews of these boats, getting personal experience in American waters.

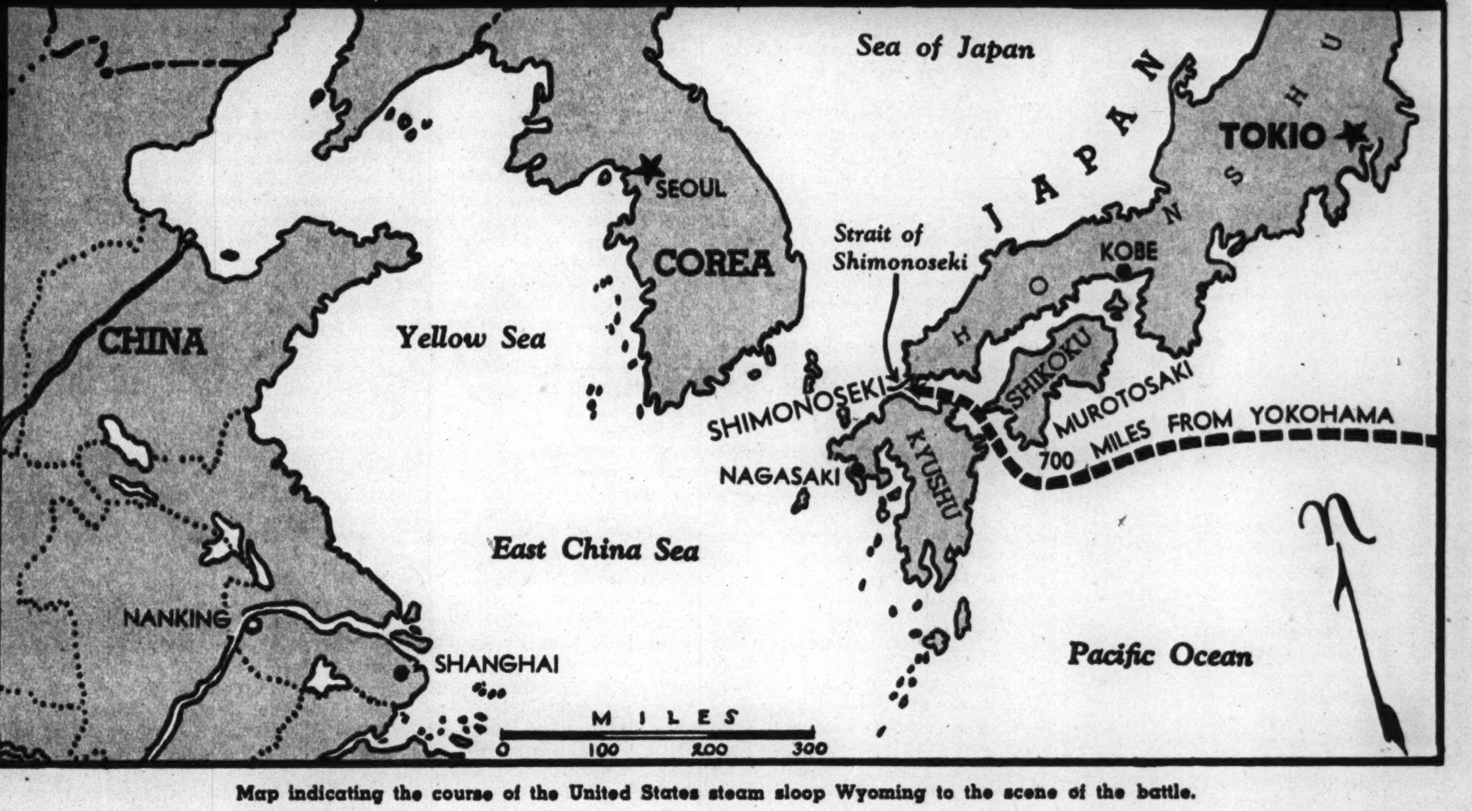
Japanese expatriates have settled by the thousands in South and Central America, where they have experimented with cotton and planted rice on wide, level areas ideally suitable for quick conversion to airfields. Their colonies have been planted in Lower California within a few miles of the American naval station (Continued on page five.)

NEXT SUNDAY—A PAGE OF AMERICA'S WAR PLANES IN FULL COLOR!

When America Defeated The Japanese Navy!



Map illustrating the battle of Shimonoseki, in which Japanese were defeated.

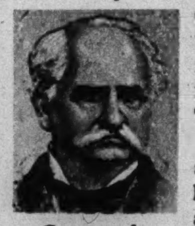


Map indicating the course of the United States steam sloop Wyoming to the scene of the battle.

AMERICA and Japan are at war for the first time in history. This does not mean, however, that Americans never before have fought Japanese. More than 78 years ago a lone United States war craft in an action against Japanese gloriously upheld the traditions of our navy.

It was on July 16, 1863, that an American naval officer, Commander David Stockton McDougal, boldly took his ship into the narrow and shallow Strait of Shimonoseki, fought a slam-bang battle with three Japanese war craft and at least six shore batteries, and steamed away a victor. He had sunk two of the enemy ships, disabled the third, and silenced several of the batteries.

It happened this way: The United States steam sloop Wyoming, under the command of McDougal, was in oriental waters on the lookout for Confederate raiders, including the notorious Alabama. The American Civil war, it should be recalled, was then in progress. In June, 1863, the Wyoming was lying at anchor in Yokohama harbor when word came to its commander that the American merchant ship Pembroke had been fired upon in the Strait of Shimonoseki by orders of the prince of Nagato, a daimio who claimed sovereignty in those waters and who had little or no respect for the treaty not long before concluded between the governments at Washington and Tokio



Commander David Stockton McDougal, U.S.N.

McDougal sailed from Yokohama almost at once, entering the Bungo channel and arriving in sight of the city of Shimonoseki about 11 o'clock in the morning of July 16.

He was facing a risky adventure, for he did not know the strength of the opposition he was soon to encounter. His vessel, the Wyoming, built in the Philadelphia navy yard in 1858 at a cost of $323,527, was not a very formidable craft. Employing both steam and sails (it was bark rigged), it was 198 feet long and displaced 1,457 tons. Its maximum speed was between 10½ and 11 knots. Its armament consisted of six guns, two 11-inch pivoted Dahlgren shell guns and four 32-pounders. The last-named were mounted two to each broadside.

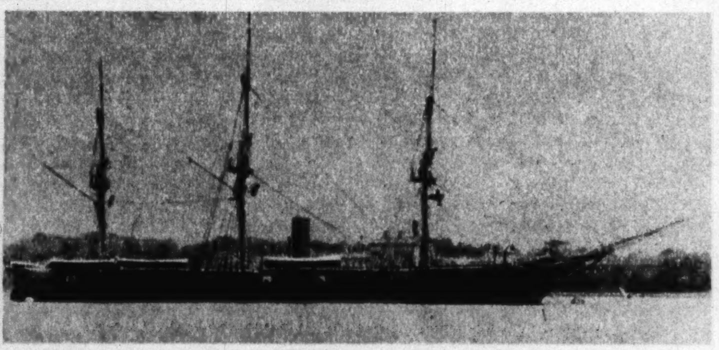
As the Wyoming, its decks cleared for action, came in close to the headland that lay just to the east of Shimonoseki a hidden battery fired at it. Thereupon followed the battle that made the American flag respected in Japanese waters. The engagement was fought not many miles east of the Strait of Tsushima, where nearly 42 years later a Japanese fleet destroyed a war fleet sent out from Russia by way of the Suez canal.

McDougal's own description of the historic fight as entered in his logbook follows in part:

"On the morning of July 16 about 11 a. m., with 14 pounds of steam, sails furled, spare tiller shipped, tide running eastward [against him], all small arms loaded, men at quarters and armed, we entered the strait leading to Shimonoseki. As we passed a headland on the starboard hand a gun was fired from a masked battery, which was repeated by two other batteries to westward.

• • •

"About 11:15, in passing one battery, a shot was fired at us, and then a second. I hoisted colors and opened fire in return with 11-inch shell from pivot guns and with solid shot from starboard battery [two 32-pounders]. We steamed ahead for a bark, a brig, and a steamer, all armed, anchored off Shimonoseki, flying Japanese colors (also those of the prince of Nagato); receiving fire from four batteries consisting of from two to four guns each, and returning it with shell as fast as our guns could be brought to bear. In passing the bark she poured a broadside into us, which we returned. As we passed the brig we exchanged broadsides with her and fired our two port 32-pounders into the steamer. The brig then got under way and made for the southern [Kyushu] shore. We then maneuvered ship so as to bring her about, to head back to eastward."



(Courtesy Lieut. L. S. Perry, U. S. N., and the United States Naval Institute.)
The U. S. steam sloop Wyoming.

The brig mentioned was the Kosei, which a few days earlier had fired upon the steamer Pembroke. The steamer was the Koskin, of 600 tons, the former Lancefield, which had been purchased abroad.

"When we started back the Japanese steamer slipped her cable and went ahead," continues Commander McDougal's account. "As soon as we could come up with her, and our port battery bore, we succeeded in placing two 11-inch shells and some 32-pound shot and shell in the steamer, disabling her. The two 11-inch shells struck in her boilers and machinery, as was proved by the vessel being immediately enveloped in steam and smoke.

"Loud cries issued from the steamer, her machinery stopped, and she drifted ashore. We then steamed past the brig and bark, again firing into them from our port battery, and also landed a few shells in the land batteries.

"At 12:15 we steamed out of the Strait of Shimonoseki into the 'Suwo' channel, having passed and repassed the fire of six batteries, four to eastward and two to westward; also that of the three Japanese vessels mentioned; being under fire 1 hour and 10 minutes.

"Our loss was four killed and seven wounded, one of whom has since died, and we were hulled 11 times. We had several shots thru our smokestack, and our rigging was considerably damaged.

"The shore batteries must have shot over to some extent. We were compelled to haul off, as the strong currents made it difficult to maneuver ship, also because we had no charts of those waters and the channel seemed to be only 300 to 700 feet wide. Our pilot seemed paralyzed, fearing we might ground under fire, which we did once. The shore batteries continued their fire as long as we were within range. This strait is only about three-quarters of a mile wide at this point, and I attribute our damage to the fact that we were always passing in known and expected ranges. These batteries mounted either 24 or 32 pounders, while the steamer carried two guns, the bark six guns, and the brig eight brass 24-pounders. The Japanese used 32-pound shell from the shore, also 24-pound shot, as well as shrapnel and grapeshot."

It was after the Wyoming engaged and disabled the armed brig that it went aground. The vessel's position seemed hopeless, but by means of her engines the commander finally worked her loose. One of the crew of the Wyoming later told how McDougal, fearing capture and knowing what would happen to his men if they were taken, ran a powder train to the magazine with the intention of blowing the ship to pieces in the event she became securely grounded on the shoals and the enemy closed in.

A year later American, French, and Dutch ships landed troops at Shimonoseki, took possession of the batteries, and forced the warlike prince of Nagato to sign an agreement to respect the flags of foreign ships passing thru the strait.

• • •

The Wyoming returned to the United States, was overhauled at Baltimore, and rejoined the Asiatic squadron in 1866. In 1873 it was sent to Santiago de Cuba in connection with the Virginius affair. In 1878 it was assigned to the European station and helped transport exhibits that were sent to the Paris exposition. The vessel remained in European waters until 1881. The next year it became the station ship at the United States naval academy at Annapolis. It was sold in 1892.

THEY WORK AT PLAYING

A picture story of the Goodman theater appears on pages six and seven of this section.

By LLOYD WENDT

THE LEADING LADY is busy with hammer and saw building scenery. The ingénue is selling tickets in the box office. The villain is daubing green paint on an arboreal vista in the workshop, and the hero is washing dishes. Thus the players of the Goodman School of Drama, a division of the School of the Art Institute of Chicago, prepare for next month's production in Goodman Memorial theater on Jackson boulevard just east of Michigan avenue.

The Goodman school is one of the most important of its kind in the country, with graduates now playing in Hollywood, on Broadway, and on the radio. It teaches drama from the bottom up and the top down. The leading woman can't get by merely as an actress; she must be able to plot a scene, run a bandsaw, and drive a nail straight. The juvenile must be capable of changing places with the stage manager on a moment's notice, and the entire cast of any Goodman play may be summoned backstage to sew on costumes any time the instructor so orders. Consequently there is a good deal of democracy around Goodman, a lot of fun, and a terrific load of work.

Yet there is about this interesting school a spirit of friendly relaxation that makes it all seem fun. The impressively titled professors are bulwarked by no lectern — they are out among the pupils, doing Hamlet, an impish Puck, or a startling blackface. Dignity is tossed out the windows, and performance is the thing.

Drop into a class of Prof. David Itkin, formerly of the first studio of the Moscow Art theater. Mr. Itkin uses the improvisation or extempore situation method of teaching drama in Acting Technique I. A group of students are called to the stage. They are given three minutes to think up a situation, or little plot. Then they can act it out so long as they can keep the action going. Some students hold the stage five minutes, others two hours.

The work accomplished by the second year students in the class seems really remarkable to the layman. Today's situation concerns a group of Americans caught in a Tokio hotel when Japan abruptly declared war. Each character imagined himself in such a situation, and the plot carried along swiftly for twenty minutes. Improvisation, once done for the public by traveling companies of players, is now almost a lost art in the English-speaking theater, but it's still splendid training. An actor so trained will never have difficulty "ad-libbing" when there is an emergency on the stage.

Georgia Segal works on a set.

While Mr. Itkin is busy with his classes Dr. Maurice Gnesin, head of the school, rehearses advanced students in the next play for the public, and other classes receive instruction in voice and diction, makeup, costume design, stage plan, and scenery construction, and even theater management.

The Goodman faculty believes the students ought to learn by doing. That is why every student is required to do every job a theater may provide.

Students are admitted to the Goodman School of Drama if they are high school graduates or have taken college work. The course is three years, altho advanced work may be taken, leading to a master of fine arts degree. There is no public appearance for a student his first year, but during the sophomore year he may appear in the Studio theater plays, and in the Children's theater, directed by Charlotte B. Chorpenning, which presents plays for children every Saturday of the school term. During the third year the advanced students play in the Goodman theater productions, which are open to the public. Last year 83,827 persons saw the latter products, 2,850 attended the Studio theater performances, and 24,212 attended the Children's theater.

Outstanding students in the radio classes are given opportunity to appear on the "Great Artist" series which is broadcast by the Goodman school each Tuesday afternoon at 2:15 over station W-G-N. In these appearances the students are directed by one of the professional producers from the radio station.

Among Goodman graduates who have won success on stage, screen, and radio are John Hubbard, who plays juvenile leads in Hollywood, and Tom Collins, Bob Brower, and Annadell Kiger, Hollywood bit players; Karl Malden, Margaret Randall, Aubrey Hines, and Sydna Scott, known on the New York and Chicago legitimate stage; and Hughie Rolland, Alice Hill, Roy Johnson, and Irene Wicker, well known in radio. Many famous stars, when they are appearing in Chicago, take a few hours off each day for work in the Goodman theater, to correct faults or bring their training up to date.

"IDEAL" AIRMAN ONCE A SKINNY BOY

REMEMBER "SKINNY"? Well, even a scrawny little fellow can grow up to be a top notch flyer, and you know how strict air service requirements are. Fortunately for their future careers, many youngsters take Scott's Emulsion to supplement a deficient diet. This world-known tonic is recommended by many doctors because it is rich in vital elements every child needs — Vitamins A and D — that aid in promoting proper growth, strong bones and sound teeth. Hollywood Takes War in Stride, Except that it Gets Up Earlier

By John Chapman

Hollywood.

THE CHIEF difference between wartime Hollywood and peacetime Hollywood is that people get up earlier. Within a few days after Pearl Harbor, studios anticipated any general move to revert to daylight saving time by starting operations at 8 a. m. and ending them at 5 p. m.—an hour ahead of the usual schedule.

This seems to have affected executives even more than actors—for screen actors, unlike those of the stage, are not children of the night and are used to getting up early.

Jeanette MacDonald, for instance, has been wearing elaborate costumes and coiffures in "I Married an Angel," and befo' de wah she used to check in at the studio at 6:30 a. m. Several days a week, since the emergency, she has been reporting at 5:30—and so, of course, have the wardrobe, makeup, and hairdressing staffs. This means that Jeanette must roll out of her bed around 4:45 a. m.—while Husband Gene Raymond snoozes on.

John Alexander, who came out from Broadway to play "Teddy Roosevelt" in the film version of "Arsenic and Old Lace," told me he was having a tough time getting used to working business man's hours. "I never knew before," he moaned, "how many hours there were in a day."

Wartime protection for studios and studio workers has been perfected. Precautions have been thoro, for the roofs of the great sound stages might look like factories or hangars from the air. The studios were better protected than the actors' homes even before trouble began, for they all have big, sturdy buildings and commodious basements. And they all had fire departments of metropolitan efficiency. Most of them have tanks—concrete pools sometimes covering an acre or more—for use in marine process shots, and these tanks have been filled to provide an immense extra water supply.

You never know what you miss until you need it, and the movie colony suddenly found itself needing things it didn't have. General air raid precaution instructions included the advice to have hose and a ladder handy around the house—and practically nobody has hose or a ladder. In the first place, Hollywoodians' lawns are watered by a network of underground pipes and ground-level sprays, and in the second place, hose for washing down sidewalks and porches belongs to the Japanese gardener who comes around in his jalopy twice a week. (The gardeners, incidentally, are practically all back at work after investigation by the FBI.)

Let's hop around to a few lots and see what we can pick up. We can't bust right in the way we used to, but it's almost as easy. Even tho the cop on guard knows us well and would ordinarily wave us past, we must stop until he can write out a pass—because there are going to be a lot more cops inside who may not know us and who will challenge any stranger.

Directors

AT TWENTIETH CENTURY-FOX the press gate is closed, but we get in the main gate all right and make for the all-star, six-episode "Tales of Manhattan" set. Here we hear a yarn about Boris Morros, the co-producer.

Boris Morros

Boris, a round and colorful Russian, composed Balieff's memorable "Chauv Souris" revue, conducted opera in Russia, France, Italy, and Egypt, was musical director of New York's Rivoli theater in its heyday, and for years was musical director at Paramount. He is noted for wearing the loudest shirts, neckties, and even suits in all of Hollywood.

Well, Boris' son Richard, a U. C. L. A. student, visited his pop's set the other day. He was wearing a collegiate sweater that outshone his old man's purple shirt.

"Dick," scolded the parent, "where did you get that sweater? It's too loud." The boy left, mumbling apologies.

Next day Morros appeared on the set wearing his son's sweater. Rita Hayworth kidded him.

"Yes, I know, I know," said Morros, "but the kid's too young for such nonsense."

On the United Artists lot is one of the best shows in town—the sight of Ernst Lubitsch directing—or acting, rather. He's just as quiet as a mouse when he is directing, of course—but before he lets actors do their stuff he must show all of them how to do it, men and women alike. Carole Lombard likes the performance so well that she even comes to the studio when she isn't scheduled to work, just to kibitz.

Ernst Lubitsch

The picture is "To Be or Not to Be," starring Carole L. and Jack Benny. Lubitsch, an old Max Reinhardt grad from Berlin, is a unique kind of triple-threat man—people laugh at him, people like him, and people respect him.

Extras call Lubitsch the extras' director, because he takes as much pains with them as he does with his principals. Jack Benny says:

"Working for him is an education. The only trouble is no actor can play his rôle quite as well as can Lubitsch!"

Rudy Mate, the cameraman, joins the chorus.

"He's a cameraman's director. When he comes on the set in the morning you don't have to wait around while he figures out where to put the camera. He figures it out ahead of time and is ready to shoot."

Lubitsch can scream—but never at anybody in particular. The one thing that will make him yell is noise during a rehearsal or take. He's a fine dialectician and a witty man, and it's always a pleasure to visit him.

Cagney

AT WARNERS', Jim Cagney, playing George M. Cohan in "Yankee Doodle Dandy," is having lunch in his little portable dressing room with his sister Jean. Jean is playing George M.'s sister and is acting with her big brother for the first time. Says she likes it, because he's a wonderful guy.

• • •

Cagney wants to know if we've heard about the beggar who asked the fellow for a quarter.

"Sorry," said the prospect, "but I haven't got a quarter."

"Well, twenty cents?"

"Sorry, haven't got twenty cents."

"Fifteen?"

"Nope."

"How about a dime?"

"Haven't got a dime."

"A nickel, then?"

"Nope."

"Well, I'll take even a penny."

"Sorry, old man, but I haven't even got a penny."

"Then carry me for a block?"

At the greenroom in the commissary at lunch time Bette Davis, new president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, is full of plans for making the Academy an important weapon in the war effort.

"It's a great organization," she says. "The public thinks of it only as an outfit that has a dinner once a year and hands out some Oscars, but it does much more than that. Its research council, for instance, has done invaluable work for many years."

At a nearby table Ann Sheridan is having lunch with George Brent. George has given Ann a present—not the fabulous jewels you usually read about in a boy-gives-girl item, but a tractor for Annie's new ranch.

IN "THE ROUNDUP," old-time melodrama which played up and down the country for many years, the sheriff said, "Nobody loves a fat man." It was funny, because everybody loved the sheriff. The early movie fat men like John Bunny and Roscoe Arbuckle played strictly for laughs.

Today there are few fat comedians; most of the big fellas are playing villains. Eugene Pallette is usually funny, and Babe Hardy recently began a new Laurel and Hardy series—but for the most part Hollywood's heavy men are heavies.

Oland as Fu Manchu.

Laughton as Capt. Bligh.

Laird Cregar was a psychopathic detective in "Hot Spot"; he's a cruel Gestapo agent in "Joan of Paris," and now he is playing a high society sharper in "Rings on Her Fingers," with Gene Tierney. The late Warner Oland made his name as Fu Manchu before he became the amiable Charlie Chan. Guy Kibbee's Scattergood Baines character mixes villainy with virtues. Sidney Greenstreet, true, is fairly pleasant as General Scott in "They Died with Their Boots On," but he was infinitely more effective as the malevolent gent in "The Maltese Falcon." My own memory of Charles Laughton is first as the murderer in "Payment Deferred" on Broadway and as Captain Bligh in the films' "Mutiny on the Bounty." Orson Welles, no sylph, was nobody you wanted in your own home in "Citizen Kane."

HAVOC
is right!

JUNE HAVOC . . .
she'll pose for any kind

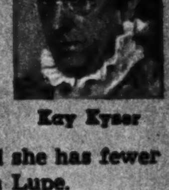
AT RKO WE FIND that Lupe Velez is getting stiff competition from a new source. For years the little Mexican spitfire has been the most colorful character on the lot—volatile, charming, tireless, happy-go-lucky, a little mad, and possessing no more inhibitions than a baby. Well, in the Victor McLaglen-Edmoud O'Brien "Powder Town" there's a new girl; new to Hollywood, that is. Name of June Havoc. Her real name is Hovick, but years ago somebody couldn't spell it right and made it Havoc, and it fits to perfection.

June is widely known as the sister of Gypsy Rose Lee—and she spends every minute of her time working toward the end that some day Gypsy will be known as June Havoc's sister. Not that she's jealous of her G-string kin; she's just a wonderful character all by herself. She has a nimble mind and good wit, and she will do anything for a laugh. The publicity department—she calls it the pub department—adores her because she will pose for any kind of picture stunt. And she has fewer inhibitions than Lupe.



Kay Kyser

Also on the RKO lot we run into Kay Kyser, whose spectacles, southern drawl, and bland expression camouflage one of the shrewdest minds in show business. Kay is playing in a Harold Lloyd production, "My Favorite Spy." Everybody knows that this is a typical Lloyd picture about an innocent looking guy who gets into trouble. We greet Kyser:

"How does it feel to be playing Harold Lloyd?"

Kay almost whinnies in terror and indignation.

"I'm not!" he says. "I wouldn't dream of it. People ask me if I'm going to wear horn-rimmed glasses, and it worries me. I'm wearing my own glasses.

"You can't ape great people or try to follow them; you'd be committing suicide if you did. All you can do is be yourself, however lousy that may be."

VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Mae Tinée: Your review of "The Little Foxes" was the most inadequate one that I have ever read. Here is a picture that is so far above the rank and file of films that the usual writeup fails to convey how truly magnificent this picture really is. Evidently in this case you were a bit tired, because you handled this in a most routine sort of way. Patricia Collinge gave a performance that has seldom been equaled in the history of pictures. Bette Davis proved conclusively that she is one of the great actresses of our time. The story is a masterpiece of construction. Yet Miss Tinée might have been writing about any routine picture. I think you completely failed to present your review in keeping with the magnitude of this film.

In the future, if you can't rise to the occasion to really get your teeth in a review, I suggest that you send Mr. Smith, who did an excellent job when Tallulah Bankhead played Regina in the original stage play. Not one word was mentioned that most of the original cast of the stage play was also in the motion picture version. Then, to be completely interesting, you should have compared the performance of Bette Davis to Tallulah Bankhead. You dismissed this with the word that Miss Bankhead played the original stage part of Regina. I have seen the picture twice and consider it the best acted picture of this or any other year. Very truly yours,

CALDER B. VAUGHAN.

Dear Mr. Vaughan: I'm so sorry you don't like me.

Dear Mae Tinée: I am much interested in moving pictures and the stars. Recently at the Brown Derby in Hollywood I saw George Nolan, Shirley Levi, Julian La Faye, Jack Krantz, and Reginald Dandy. Ernest Brimmer, Arthur Leach, and Joseph Francis came in later with Constance Keane, Mae Green, and Ruby Stevens.

Frederic Bickel

Later on at the fights in the stadium I saw Guadalupe Villalobus with Arlington Brough and Frank Wupperman. Harriet Lake, Joan Brodel, and Lucille Langhanke were also there.

Frederic Bickel and Jane Peters appeared in a technicolor picture entitled "Nothing Sacred," made in 1937 and still being shown in Chicago.

If you care to see my album I will be glad to show it to you. Sincerely, GEORGE G. DUNLAP.

Dear Mr. Dunlap: Oh-h-? Or in other words, "What's in a name?"

Dear Miss Tinée: I have been planning to write you before this but haven't been able to. Please print the addresses of Alan Curtis, Wayne Morris, and Betty Grable. Thank you. JEAN RAMSEY.

Dear Miss Ramsey: The addresses you request are: Alan Curtis, care of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, Culver City, Cal.; Wayne Morris, care of Warners-First National studio, Burbank, Cal.; Betty Grable, care of Twentieth Century Fox studio, Beverly Hills, Cal. You're welcome!

Dear Miss Tinée: Enjoy your column immensely. I never overlook reading it. I wonder if it would be too much trouble to print in your column Henry Fonda's and Ronald Reagan's addresses? Thanks a lot, H. D.

Dear H. D.: To be never overlooked is a great compliment. I'm so happy you like the column. You can write to Mr. Fonda care of Twentieth Century-Fox studio, Beverly Hills, Cal., and to Mr. Reagan care of Warners-First National studio, Burbank, Cal. You're welcome.

SAVE YOUR TEETH FROM THESE CAVITIES
by Changing to Liquid Dentifrice —it Beautifies Teeth Without Abrasives

DENTISTS SEE PATIENT AFTER PATIENT WITH CAVITIES CUT INTO EXPOSED, SOFTER PARTS OF THEIR TEETH BY REGULAR BRUSHING WITH DENTIFRICES CONTAINING ABRASIVES

New Liquid Dentifrice Cannot Injure Your Teeth Because It Contains Absolutely No Abrasives

Yes, you can save your precious teeth from this costly tooth trouble simply by changing to the revolutionary new liquid dentifrice—Teel.

For Teel contains absolutely no abrasives whatever. It works in a different way to cleanse and thereby thrillingly beautify teeth.

Teel uses a new type, patented cleansing agent that bursts into thousands of tiny, cleansing bubbles—actually multiplies over 30 times in the mouth. These bubbles instantly go to work to help remove the daily accumulation of decaying food particles and dulling surface film. Thus your teeth look so much whiter, more thrillingly beautiful.

Also, Teel's action gives your whole mouth a glorious beauty bath—a refreshing, clean "feel." It helps sweeten bad breath. And Teel's new taste sensation makes it a joy for the children—encourages them to brush their teeth regularly.

Start Safe Liquid Way Today

Teel is easy to use and so economical. A bottle lasts and lasts. Get Teel today at any drug, department or 10¢ store and follow this safe, new-day way in tooth cleansing. If you feel that your teeth need an occasional abrasive scouring, follow special directions on the Teel carton. Visit your dentist regularly for professional care. Procter & Gamble.

MAKE THIS TEST
to tell if your dentifrice contains an abrasive

Tonight, put some of your regular dentifrice in a glass of water and stir. Let it stand overnight. When you see a white sediment in the bottom of the glass, you know your dentifrice contains an abrasive. Teel, however, leaves no sediment, proving it contains no abrasives whatever which could injure exposed, softer parts of your teeth.

MILLIONS ARE SLOWLY BRUSHING CAVITIES INTO THEIR TEETH

Science knows that abrasives in dentifrices cause a large percentage of cavities in teeth along the gum line. A clinical study reported in an authoritative scientific journal shows that 8 out of 10 adults examined have the softer part of one or more teeth exposed where there is no hard, protective enamel—a condition often caused by shrinking gums.

Thus, chances can be 4 to 1 you may be slowly cutting cavities in your teeth along the gum line—cavities which gradually become deeper and deeper, often leading to gum-line fillings.

INVASIONS DON'T PAY!

Foreword Invasions for the time being are calamities more dreadful than earthquakes or tidal waves, yet history teaches us that thruout the centuries most invasions have failed, either soon after they have been launched or with the passing of time. Eventually invasions, as history has shown, encounter insurmountable odds. Thus the Japanese in striking at the Philippines and the Germans in penetrating Russia are challenging the long-established rule that invasions do not pay. Fate in the end most likely even may prove to Germany it made a great mistake in overrunning France. The accompanying article recounts the highlights of several of the great invasions, both by land and by sea, which either were outright failures or in the end accomplished nothing.

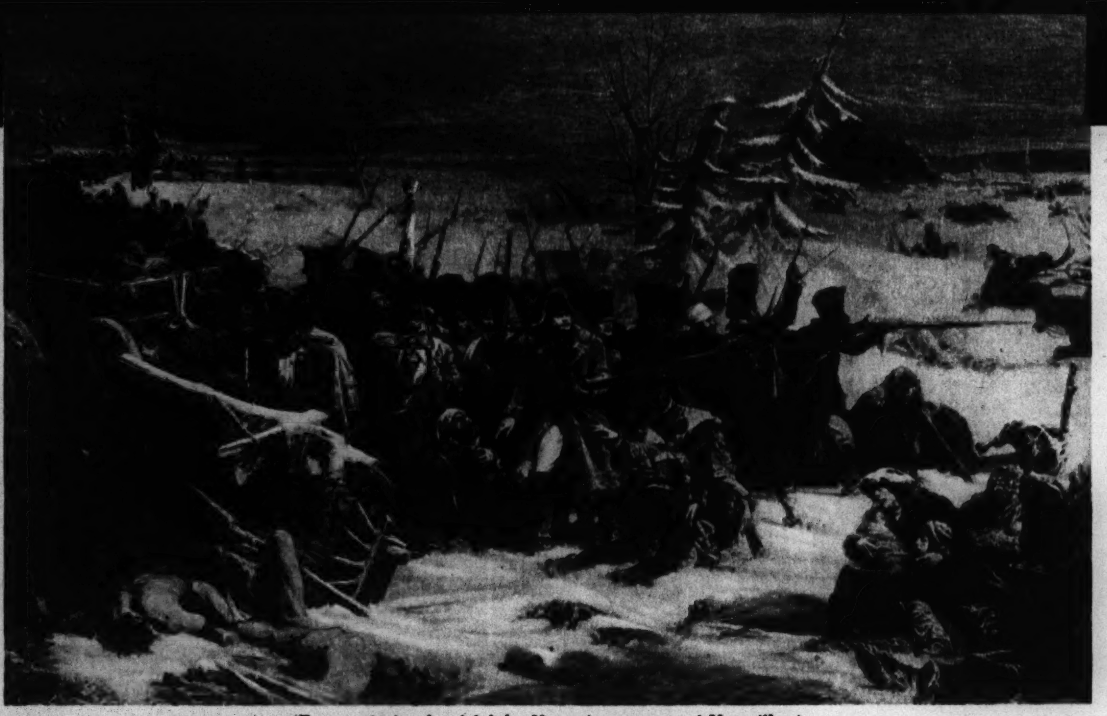
By JOHN A. MENAUGH



(From painting by Adolphe Yvon, in museum of Versailles.)
Marshal Ney sustaining rearguard of Napoleon's retreating grand army.

ONCE upon a time there was a rajah named Porus who ruled over the country that lay between the Rivers Jhelum and Chenab in far-off India.

He was brave and warlike, and possessed not only infantry and cavalry but 200 war elephants as well. When Alexander the Great invaded his land Porus engaged the Macedonian conqueror in battle on the banks of the Jhelum, which then was called the Hydaspes, and was badly whipped. Thereafter Porus became an ally of Alexander and profited immensely therefrom. There was nothing noble in this action of Porus, altho it must be admitted that he perhaps chose the safest if not the wisest course.

The only moral to be found in this episode of ancient history is that invasions do not pay. When Alexander the Great died three years later his conquests in India fell apart. What he had taken at the point of a sword reverted largely in the end to the people whom he had beaten.

Most invasions have not been successful, as history discloses. This is particularly true of imposing naval invasions or military invasions on a large scale across water. Where they have not met with defeat at the onset they generally have petered out from one cause or another. Where the invaders have not been cut off ultimately from their home bases they have lost interest in their original object or have been absorbed by their beaten foes. Witness the numerous early invasions of China. The Chinese in the finish always absorbed their enemies. Let us consider here some of the most famous invasions of the past.

• • •

Take for examples the expeditions of King Darius I. of Persia. He was called " the Great " because he managed his royal affairs on a grand scale. He considered it beneath the dignity of his powerful empire to meddle in the affairs of little Greece, whose states constantly were warring among themselves. When the Grecian cities of Athens and Eretria (now Aletria), however, took sides with the two Persian provinces, Caria and Ionia in Asia Minor, which were in rebellion, Darius decided that it was time to act.

He dispatched a great expedition under Mardonius against the Greeks in 492 B. C., but this was wrecked against the cliffs of Mount Athos. Two years later a still larger Persian expedition under Datis invaded Attica. About 25 miles from Athens the Persians were outwitted and vanquished by 10,000 Greeks under Miltiades. This was the battle of Marathon. Darius was planning a third expedition when he died, and his armies, his throne, and his troubles were inherited by his son Xerxes I., who chose for himself the none too modest title of " King of the World."

Xerxes had two aims. One was to avenge Marathon. The other was to conquer Greece and add it to his empire. In 483 B. C. he began preparing his expedition with great care. He caused a deep and wide channel to be dug thru the isthmus of the peninsula of Mount Athos, saw to it that vast stores of provisions were placed at stations on the roads thru Thrace, and ordered two great bridges erected across the Hellespont. He collected a huge army at Sardis, the capital of Lydia, in Asia Minor — an army which, according to Heredotus, numbered 1,700,000 infantry, 80,000 cavalry, and 20,000 charioteers and camel troops. His fleet consisted of 1,207 vessels, each manned by 200 sailors and carrying 30 soldiers. The expedition left Sardis in the spring of 480 B. C. It took seven days and seven nights for the army to cross the Hellespont bridges.

The Greek fleet was defeated at Artemisium, Thermopylae was stormed by the Persians, Athens was taken, and the Greeks were driven back to their last defense line at the Isthmus of Corinth and the Bay of Salamis. Against the advice of most of his high officers Xerxes sent his fleet against the Greek fleet at Salamis. Conditions there were most unfavorable for the Persians. The battle was fought Sept. 28, 480 B. C., and was a decided defeat for the Persians. Xerxes sat on a hill overlooking the bay and wept as he watched his ships being destroyed. Having now lost his means of communicating by sea with Asia, he was forced to retire to Sardis. The army which he left in Greece under Mardonius was beaten at Plataea in 479 B. C. Then the defeat of the Persians at Mycale roused all of the Greek cities in Asia against Persia. Xerxes was thru.

Success thereafter went to the heads of the Athenians. Sixty-five years after Salamis they collected a large fleet and hundreds of troop transports with the object of taking Syracuse, great city state of Sicily. The fleet, under Nicias, Alcibiades, and Lamachus, rendezvoused at Rhegium in Italy and wasted all of the summer and autumn of 415 B. C. The siege of Syracuse was not begun until the spring of 414.

This delay had given the Syracusans time to erect a number of fortifications around the city, but the Athenians seized commanding heights, and were well on their way toward accomplishing their aim. The Athenian fleet entered the harbor of Syracuse. At this point, however, Nicias blundered in allowing Gylippus, a Spartan general, to enter Syracuse with a small army. It was the skill of Gylippus that enabled the Syracusans to capture some of the Athenian positions and turn the tables on the invaders. The Syracusans attacked by sea and were unsuccessful, but in 413 they won a naval victory over the Athenians.

After the sea victory of the Syracusans a second Athenian fleet, under Demosthenes and Eurymedon, arrived, bringing heavy reinforcements for the besieging army. The grand attack by land, ordered by Demosthenes, failed, and he was ready to lift the siege, but Nicias insisted on not giving up. Late in August, 413, the Syracusans blocked the harbor mouth, thus bottling up the Athenian fleet. In its desperate attempt to escape it was utterly defeated and half of its ships were destroyed. The broken and demoralized Athenian army then began its retreat toward Catania. Harassed on the way, it finally surrendered. Nicias and Demosthenes were put to death.

In its proper chronological order now comes the invasion of India by Alexander the Great. He had taken Asia Minor and Egypt and smashed his way into Persia. He defeated Darius III., king of Persia, in the important battles of Issus and Arbela, and drove the Persian army to the east out of its own land. In his flight Darius was deposed and slain by one of his own provincial officials, Bessus, satrap of Bactria and Sogdiana (Bokhara). Bessus proclaimed himself king and took the name of Artaxerxes, but in the spring of 328 B. C. Alexander caught him in the land beyond the Oxus river and put him to death. Alexander raided as far northeast as the steppes beyond the Jaxartes river, now the Sir Darya. He entered India early in 327. Crossing the Khawak and Kaoshan passes of the Hindu Kush mountains, he advanced by the way of Alexandria and Nicaea, turned eastward thru the Kunar valley, reduced the great stronghold of Aornos, and crossed the Indus river at Ohind.

• • •

It was some time in the year of 326 B. C. that Alexander came upon and defeated Porus.

Porus was wounded in the battle, was won over to Alexander's side, and when the Macedonian army crossed the Chenab river, then called the Acesines, the defeated rajah was plainly an ally of Alexander. After crossing the Ravi river (anciently the Hydraotes) Alexander met with more hostility. When he finally reached the Hyphasis river his troops refused to go farther. Modern maps show this stream as the Beas. For three days Alexander fumed about the attitude of his soldiers, then began retracing his march. He left all of the conquered regions east of the Indus to Porus and other native kings, and all India west of the Indus to Macedonian governors. He explored the Indus to its mouth and then disappeared to the west, dying in 323 B. C. at the age of 32.

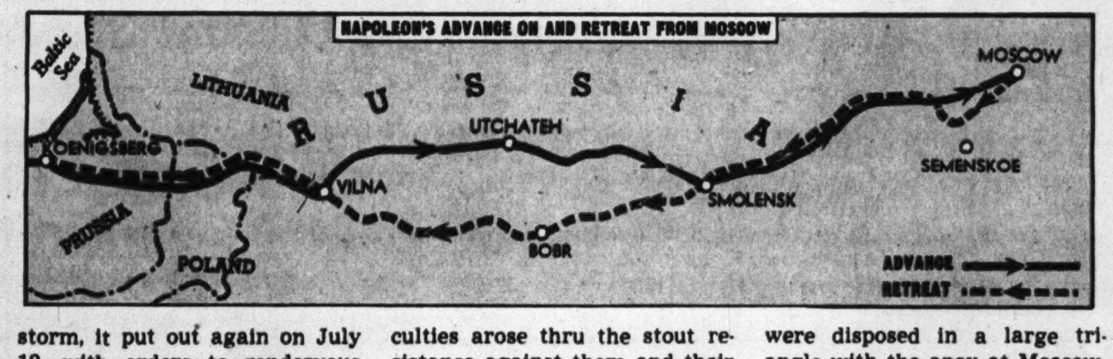
Not unlike the ill-fated expeditions of Xerxes was the unsuccessful naval invasion of England by Spain about 2,000 years later. Spain and England were at war, and Philip II., king of Spain, decided to fit out a grand fleet with which to attack his enemy. This fleet was to be reinforced by one fitted out in Flanders by the duke of Parma. Philip's fleet, known in history as the Spanish Armada, consisted of 130 vessels. It was placed under the command of the duke of Medina-Sidonia, a brave man but plainly not a sailor. Parma's fleet consisted of 74 ships, 150 flat bottomed boats, and 70 river craft. The last named were to carry 17,000 troops that were to be landed in England along with 6,000 directly from the Armada.

For its defenses England possessed a total of 197 vessels, but many were so small as to be of little use in battle. Even the worth-while ships of the English were in the main smaller than those of the Spaniards, altho they carried more guns for their size than did the enemy ships and were more manageable at sea.

The Armada was assembled at Lisbon, and set sail May 18, 1588. Forced into Coruña by a storm, it put out again on July 12, with orders to rendezvous off the Lizard Head, England, proceed up the English channel to the Flemish coast, and there join Parma, who was personally to direct the invasion of England. The Armada was scattered by a gale on July 16 and 17, but on the 19th it sighted the Lizard and reassembled.



The main naval force of the English, under Lord Howard of Effingham, high admiral, and Sir Francis Drake, vice admiral, was caught in an awkward position at Plymouth, with only 54 vessels ready for sea and the wind against them. The English were barely able to beat to sea to avoid being blockaded. The first engagement between the two forces occurred on July 21. Thereafter the Spanish fleet sailed slowly along the southern coast of England, fighting off as best it could the English ships that swarmed about it like hornets. Major actions were fought off Portland and off the Isle of Wight.

On July 27 the Armada anchored in the open sea road off Calais, France, only 20 miles from Parma's nearest base. The British sent fireships down upon the Spanish fleet, causing a panic among its crews and forcing it to scatter. The English then in five squadrons under Drake, Howard, Sir John Hawkins, Sir Martin Frobisher, and Lord Henry Seymour, pursued the Spaniards and engaged them in still another battle. It was not until the day of this action, the 29th, that Parma heard about the Armada reaching Calais. He put 16,000 soldiers aboard vessels at Nieuport and Dunkirk and kept them there for two days, but was unable to take them to sea because of a blockade instituted by the Dutch, who had 150 ships along the coast.

Medina-Sidonia by this time saw that his king's orders could not be carried out and that the Spanish plan to land troops in England could not succeed. His only hope now lay in saving the remnants of his fleet by sailing around the east coast of England and Scotland and the west coast of Ireland and thence home. Of the 130 vessels of the Armada only about half finally reached Spain. Some were sunk in battle, others were lost in storms in the open sea, and still others were wrecked on the hostile coast of Ireland, where their crews were massacred.

Foreign invasions of North America since 1774 have numbered three. These were the British invasions of the Revolutionary war and the War of 1812 and the French, British, and Spanish invasion of Mexico in the 1860s, all described in detail in an article in the Graphic Section of last July 20. Every one of these invasions failed. In the first mentioned two the British had no difficulty in most instances in landing troops on our eastern coast. Their difficulties arose thru the stout resistance against them and their own inability to operate successfully so far from their home bases. In the third invasion of North America, engineered by Napoleon III. of France, who made Maximilian of Hapsburg puppet emperor of Mexico, Great Britain and Spain quickly lost interest. France poured about 40,000 troops into Mexico while the United States was engaged in the Civil war, but when this country restored peace and sent an ultimatum to Napoleon he swiftly withdrew his army, abandoning Maximilian to the wrath of the Mexicans.

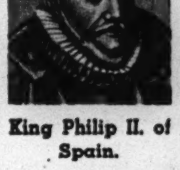
Napoleon I. in his invasion of Russia in 1812 was far less successful than was his nephew years later in his expedition to Mexico. In fact, the invasion of Russia was virtually a 100 per cent failure. From the Mexican invasion most of the French troops returned home safely. From the ill-fated march to Moscow barely a handful got back.

Prating of the liberation of nationalities and sounding once again the battle cry of the revolution, Bonaparte collected for his expedition a vast army made up of troops from 20 nations. By the middle of June, 1812, this grand armée of 444,000, including 80,000 cavalry, was lined up along the Niemen (Nemunas) river in Lithuania, ready for the great adventure. The main part of the force, 220,000 strong, was under the direct command of Napoleon himself.

The Niemen was crossed on June 24. Right from the start misfortune began overtaking the expedition. A third of the mounted troops had perished of colic, sunstroke, and other causes within a couple of weeks after the advance began.

Jerome Bonaparte, Napoleon's brother, commanding a force of about 70,000, reached Grodno on July 5, as the main part of the army was advancing on Vilna (Wilno). Altho he had been ordered by Napoleon to push on, Jerome halted for several days at Grodno, thus permitting two Russian armies under Barclay de Tolly and Prince Bagration to retreat without fighting. Jerome was replaced by Davout, and the invaders pushed on, Cossacks harassing them at every step, but the main Russian forces refusing to stand and accept battle.

On Aug. 16 a general advance guard under Ney and Murat attacked Smolensk and two full days were occupied with the encirclement of the city. But the Russian troops had slipped out of what was intended as a trap here. Altho the czar's forces in this manner were performing in the best possible way under the circumstances, wearing Napoleon's forces down by sudden forays and skirmishes, followed by nocturnal retreats, the Russian government insisted on decisive action. It dispatched Marshal Kutusov to the front as supreme commander, with instructions to choose a favorable site and engage the invading force in a major action to save Moscow.



King Philip II. of Spain.

The battle of Borodino, fought Sept. 7, was indecisive. The Russians lost 38,000; the French, 25,000. Kutusov continued to fall back, and Napoleon entered Moscow. Around the city hovered Russian troops. A great fire in the city almost immediately drove the French troops out to the outskirts.

The forces of Napoleon now were disposed in a large triangle with the apex at Moscow. By this time they had dwindled to 172,000. Opposed to them at various points were about 250,000 Russians. The failure of Murat at Vinkovo on Oct. 18 and the defeat of the main army at Maloyaroslavetz on the 24th persuaded Napoleon that he should retreat. The retreat began in confusion and ended in disaster. Historians agree that it was the utter lack of discipline among the retreating troops more than the cold weather that brought ultimate ruin to the undertaking. Cold weather that year did not set in until well along toward the middle of November.

As Kutusov's cavalry hung on to the rear and the flanks of the retreating columns, the grand armée, now only 50,000 strong, reached Smolensk on Nov. 9, where it rested until the 14th. On the 16th the Russians tried to head off the retreating army near Krasnoi. Napoleon attacked and cleared the way, but at heavy cost. He was forced to leave Ney with a rearguard of 6,000 here, and when this rearguard reunited with the main force at Orcha on the 21st there were only 800 troops left in it.

The Berezina river was crossed by the retreating army on Nov. 26 and 27, under fire of the Russians. Three days later there were only 8,800 men left in the French army who were fit for duty. Thereafter the retreat was nothing more than a headlong flight. At Smorgoni on Dec. 8 Napoleon handed over his command to Murat and set out for Paris. It had been ordered by Napoleon that the army go into winter quarters at Vilna, but when this city was reached it was found to be too dangerous to halt there. Murat, with about 1,000 troops, reached Königsberg on Dec. 19. Finding this place untenable, he fell back to Posen, handing over his command on Jan. 10, 1813, to Eugèn Beauharnais, stepson of Napoleon. Only a relatively few of the grand armée finally straggled home. The great adventure was over.

Equal to the task of turning back a great invasion by land, the Russians 93 years later proved utterly incapable of conducting an invasion by sea. It was in the Russo-Japanese war that Russia's 1st Pacific squadron found it could accomplish nothing without powerful reinforcements from Europe. Many of its vessels already had been sunk and the Japanese were in control of the sea.

On Oct. 15, 1904, the Russian Admiral Rozhestvenski sailed from Libau on the Baltic with the 2d Pacific squadron, seven battleships, five cruisers, eight destroyers, and a number of auxiliary vessels. The craft were either very old or very new, and the crews were untrained. Moreover, Rozhestvenski had a premonition that he was sailing to destruction.

At Tangier the squadron separated, the admiral proceeding around the Cape of Good Hope with the largest portion of it and the rest going thru the Suez canal. It was reunited at Nosse Be, Madagascar, Jan. 9, 1905, where it remained until March 16, having been reinforced in the meantime by two cruisers, five destroyers, and a few small vessels. Counting auxiliaries, the squadron now consisted of 45 vessels. It steamed for 29 days, coaling at sea when weather permitted, until it finally reached Camranh bay in Indo-China.

Rozhestvenski waited at Camranh bay for the 3d Pacific squadron, under Rear Admiral Nebogatov, to catch up with him. This had sailed from Libau Feb. 15 and consisted of one battleship, three coast defense vessels, and four auxiliaries, all of which originally had been rejected by Rozhestvenski. On May 9 the union of the two squadrons raised the morale of the crews. Five days later the fleet set out on its final voyage. The only base beyond in the far east left open to it was Vladivostok, and Rozhestvenski knew that he could not obtain fuel there.

He therefore determined to meet the Japanese fleet as soon as he could and to destroy it if possible. To accomplish this he sailed directly for the Strait of Tsushima. In an effort to cause the Japanese to disperse their forces the Russian admiral detached several destroyers and small craft to show themselves off the east coast of Japan and in the Yellow sea.

On May 27 the Russian fleet encountered the Japanese fleet under Admiral Togo southeast of the island of Tsushima. Togo's fleet consisted of four first class battleships, two inferior battleships, 23 cruisers of various kinds, and 21 destroyers. The Russians here had five first class battleships, three inferior battleships, eight cruisers of various kinds, and nine destroyers. The top speed of the Russians was 10 knots, that of the Japanese 16. The gunnery of the Japanese was fairly accurate; that of the Russians was poor thru lack of target practice.

The battle which followed that day and the next was a complete victory for the Japanese. The whole Russian fleet, with a few exceptions, was sunk or captured. Among the Russian prisoners taken was Admiral Rozhestvenski.

Pattern for Spies!

at San Diego. Published charges that their tankers, supposedly loading oil for Tokio, actually transshipped their cargoes for caches in Lower California were not refuted while Japan was at peace with this country. When the recent blackouts were ordered along the west coast, following the dastardly attack on Hawaii, forest rangers in the state of Washington reported finding fires laid out to form arrows pointing in the direction of Seattle!

The Japanese, in fact, are credited with a spy system second only to that of Nazi Germany. Japanese intelligence is now, of course, collaborating closely with German agents, just as it has for years worked with the Italian spies. Both North and South America are crisscrossed with an Axis spy network that is one of the most formidable the world has ever seen.

The foregoing statements are not made to excite alarm. The American government's counterespionage is of course fully aware of many more facts than have been revealed, and is now free to go into action. The public can best coöperate, not by persecuting enemy nationals who might be suspected of spying, but by avoiding the hysteria on which saboteur and propaganda spies thrive, by providing proper government bureaus with information on suspicious persons, and by refusing to discuss information which is in the nature of defense secrets.

• • •

The Japanese spy system was first effectively organized during the war with Russia in 1904-'05 and was credited by German military writers with causing the defeat of Russia in that conflict. It was developed to its present astounding proportions during the period following the Japanese invasion of Manchuria in 1931-'32, under the leadership of the ingenious Doihara.

John S. Farnsworth, left, former navy officer, during questioning at arraignment for activities as a spy. (Acme photo.)

Doihara, in fact, might be said to have applied the match that touched off the present world conflagration. He is a little, pudgy man, with a Hitler mustache and an imagination not usually found among the hardheaded realists of Nippon. In the summer of 1931 Col. Doihara was in Manchuria (Manchukuo) posing as a salesman of military supplies. He wanted to meet Commander Kaun Yu-heng of the Manchurian infantry at Mukden. He wanted to meet him alone. It was not easy to arrange, for Kaun went nowhere without his military guard.

Doihara is reported to have won the friendship of Kaun thru the aid of a White Russian girl in Mukden, possibly the same who attempted her wiles in America. In any event, Kaun came to meet Doihara in a little Mukden hotel, and he came alone. He was promptly kidnaped.

Later that day Capt. Nikamura of the Japanese forces, sent to Manchuria to guard a Japanese owned railway, was strolling in Mukden. He was jostled by a group of drunken soldiers in Manchurian army uniforms, and a fight started. When it was over Nikamura had been hacked to bits by a dozen knives, and a group of Japanese civilians, who oddly happened to be passing at just the right time, had captured his murderers.

The killers, contrary to oriental custom, spoke freely. They said they had been ordered to kill Capt. Nikamura by Commander Kaun Yu-heng. The Japanese government demanded an immediate explanation. But the commander could not be found. Tokio then accused the Manchurian government of shielding him to forward a diabolical plot against Japan.

Kenji Doihara, creator of the Japanese espionage system.

The Japanese military got into action. On Sept. 18, 1931, it was reported the Manchurian soldiers were blowing up the railroad lines. The Japanese closed in upon Mukden and slaughtered the Chinese troops in their bunks. Posters (printed before the "incidents" occurred, it was discovered later) were distributed, charging that Manchurian forces had plotted the massacre of every Japanese in the country, and the Nikamura killing was cited as proof. The invasion of Manchuria, first of modern aggressions by Japan, was under way.

In 1932 the United States, pursuant to treaty obligations, protested against the invasion of Manchuria, but other nations refused to back up Washington. An era of aggression had arrived. Mussolini, having observed the green light given Japan, moved into Ethiopia. Italy and Germany intervened in Spain, followed by Russia. Adolf Hitler began his march, on the heels of spies and saboteurs and agents provocateur sent on ahead to create necessary incidents.

Wily Kenji Doihara, who had ingeniously got the spark into the powder keg, won a promotion and praise from the mikado. Then he went quietly about the business of organizing the second best spy system in the world. First place was out, for the Japanese, because of their racial characteristics, could never quite hope to equal the effective spy army of the Germans.

Doihara turned his particular attention upon the United States, for the military clique governing Japan has always considered the United States to be Japan's first and formidable enemy. Since Japanese only made themselves ridiculous in attempts personally to spy upon a white nation, Doihara hoped to hire traitorous Americans. The embassy money bags in Washington were opened for the work, and the Japanese consulate in Los Angeles was placed under the direct supervision of Tokio.

In the summer of 1935 Harry Thomas Thompson, ex-sailor, former Maryland farm boy, sat on a park bench in a little, disreputable water front vista in San Francisco. Thompson was broke and hungry. He had been discharged from the United States navy, and had been able to get only occasional jobs as a dishwasher.

A friendly, fat little Japanese who frequently wandered in the park came and sat with Thompson. He was a student in Stanford university, he said. They talked, and Thompson aired his grievances against the navy. Finally the Japanese, who called himself Toshio Miyazaki, invited Thompson to eat with him. They went to a little Japanese restaurant, where a comely, pink-cheeked Japanese waitress was told to be nice to Thompson and to provide him with food when he required it.

Toshio Miyazaki offered Thompson a job, gathering naval statistics for a "thesis" he was preparing. Thompson accepted eagerly. He wanted money, and he didn't care how he got it. When he discovered that he had become a spy in the pay of Japan it was too late to back out.

Thompson bought himself a navy yeoman's uniform, and, posing as a visitor from another crew, he boarded warships at the San Pedro and San Diego bases. He asked questions about gunnery, maneuvers, and technical information, always in the guise of an ambitious young sailor, eager to learn. He stole code books, signal books, photographs, plans, maps, and even naval models. These things he sent to Miyazaki.

Then one day Miyazaki disappeared. He had discovered, thru Doihara's organization, that United States secret agents were on the trail of Thompson. Miyazaki boarded a Japanese fishing boat, one of those found in such numbers along the American west coast, and made his escape.

Thompson was seized when he boarded the battleship New Mexico, garbed as a yeoman. For several days he was held in the Los Angeles county jail on a charge of illegally wearing a uniform, while agents sought to round up the spy ring employing him. They got no one. Several men prominent in the Japanese colony on the west coast left suddenly for Japan. The Japanese embassy, of course, professed to know nothing about the entire matter. Only one Japanese was seized, a girl. "She's just a sweet girl who did for me a few simple acts of kindness," said Thompson. She was not connected with the case.

Thompson was sentenced to 15 years in the federal prison at McNeil Island. Toshio Miyazaki, back in Tokio, was brazenly revealed to be a lieutenant commander in the imperial navy. He was assigned to duty as an instructor in the Tokio naval college, where presumably he was able to impart valuable information to the students.

Over in the Red Mill in Tia Juana, So Yasahura sighed sadly. It takes time to develop a good spy. The work of months had been undone.

How successful Tokio has been in attempts to recruit renegade whites in its spy army is not of course known. Commander John Semer Farnsworth, formerly of the United States navy, was seized in Washington while he was still dickering with the Japanese, seeking $50,000 for the naval secrets he could provide. In Los Angeles, Al Blake tripped up Toraichi Kono and Lieutenant Commander Itaru Tatibana by pretending to turn spy and then apprising the United States secret service of the plot. Blake made two trips to Hawaii for the Japanese, provided them with useless plans and obsolete code books, and then, after receiving several thousand dollars payment, which he accepted at the direction of federal officials, he helped United States agents trap his employers.

A spy does not become known to an enemy power until he fails. And thousands upon thousands of enemy agents in the western hemisphere have not yet failed because they are still patiently waiting their hour to strike. The hour will come according to the spy's particular mission. Some agents wait a lifetime for one treacherous act, the destruction of a factory or bridge, a particular bit of sabotage, the manufacture of harmful rumor at precisely the right psychological moment. If they succeed the long wait and the money spent has been worth while.

What spies have accomplished in Hawaii is now known. Unquestionably Japan would not have moved against Pearl Harbor without knowing exactly, almost hour by hour, the state of the defenses. Unquestionably the attackers were fully supplied with elaborate charts and maps of the Pearl Harbor forts and emplacements. Even a Japanese mistake attests to the efficiency of its spy organization. The yellow airmen bombed the American target ship Utah, a useless mission. But the Utah had just been placed in a berth usually occupied by a modern aircraft carrier!

When the Japanese began the attack on the Philippines false air raid alarms disorganized the defense and light signals on the ground pointed the way to military targets. Known fifth columnists in the island were swiftly rounded up. There were unverified reports in some sectors that Japanese residents had assisted the landing of parachute troops.

In the Philippines are 25,000 Japanese. There are 155,000 in Hawaii, 139,000 on the Pacific coast, at least 5,000 more just over the border in Mexico. By no means are all traitorous. A comparative few are enemy agents, and the job of hunting them down is one for qualified experts, not for the public.

The task is even more difficult in South and Central America. Brazil has 3,000,000 Italians, 200,000 Japanese, and 830,000 Germans. In Peru are 32,000 Japanese, who own all the land around Chimbote, a potential naval base. There are 760 Italians, 420 Japs, and 2,000 Germans in Panama. Altogether there are 1,213,000 Germans in all of South and Central America. It is known that Axis nations have hidden arms, oil, and military chemicals in Costa Rica and, according to published findings of John L. Spivak, author of "Honorable Spy," and "Secret Armies," in Lower California, not far from our vital defense areas. Competent investigators find real danger from fifth column activity in Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Paraguay, Costa Rica, and Peru. Near the Canal Zone recently were many Japanese fishing boats never known to have caught a fish.

Adolf Hitler once said: "Artillery preparation for attack in trench warfare will be replaced in the future by the psychological decomposition of the enemy before the armies get into action." He was outlining one of the most important duties of the modern spy.

Next week—The strange activities of the Japanese fishing fleet in American waters. More about So Yasahura.

"PINAFORE" SAILS AGAIN

ON JAN. 26, 1879, The Chicago Tribune published this cautious announcement: "The nautical comic opera by Arthur Sullivan and W. S. Gilbert entitled 'H. M. S. Pinafore,' which has attained a marked success in Boston and New York, will be produced at Hooley's for the first time here tomorrow evening by a company which comes from Montreal. It has been pronounced a new and amusing musical sensation, and, according to the merits of the company, it will receive a proper recognition from the musical people of Chicago."

Thus was Chicago informed of the arrival of its first Gilbert and Sullivan operetta. On the same page was a description of the eastern enthusiasm for the work and the fads that had been started for Pinafore breakfast cocktails, Pinafore hash, gloves, and paper collars—a craze resembling that for Jenny Lind products in an earlier day and for Mickey Mouse objects in a more recent era.

• • •

The touring company which gave Chicago its first "Pinafore" lured only frowns from the local critics, altho the performance of Digby V. Bell as the Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., proved an exception. The comic opera itself won nothing but praise, however, and earned this terse comment from the Tribune critic: "The performances . . . have been just attractive enough to create a desire to hear this bright little work by some troupe competent to produce it."

For the purposes of the record this much-abused cast included Percy J. J. Cooper as Captain Corcoran, Charles H. Thompson as Ralph Rackstraw, John J. Benitz as Dick Deadeye, Mattie I. Lancaster as Josephine, and Flora E. Barry as Buttercup.

"Pinafore" will be broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system next Saturday evening. Marion Claire, Attilio Baggiore, and the W-G-N Singers will be featured.

"H. M. S. Pinafore; or, The Lass That Loved a Sailor" was the second of Gilbert and Sullivan's full-length works in the comic opera field. The first was "The Sorcerer," which had a moderately successful run in 1877. "Pinafore" was inspired by some of Gilbert's earlier "Bab Ballads," that had been published in a magazine. From these humorous poems the librettist fashioned a book whose fame sprang from its satire on the pomposity of political and naval affairs in England. Today the shafts of wit remain a little too keen, for the musical is banned in the British Isles for the duration of the war.

For its initial run, which began at the Opera Comique in London on May 25, 1878, "Pinafore" chalked up the exact total of 700 performances, the longest engagement any operetta by Gilbert and Sullivan was to have anywhere. An American woman, Emma Howson, played in this fortunate company as Josephine, and her noteworthy colleagues — famous Savoyards all—included George Grossmith, Rutland Barrington, Richard Temple, and Jessie Bond.

The following winter the light opera reached New York's Standard theater on Jan. 15. In this case the outstanding members of the cast were Eugene Clark and Tom Whiffen.

Thru the years the elegant music of Sullivan and the equally elegant lyrics of Gilbert have found successive generations of admirers. In "Pinafore" their combined art is represented by such popular songs as "We Sail the Ocean Blue," "I'm Called Little Buttercup," "I Am the Monarch of the Sea," "Fair Moon, to Thee I Sing," "The Hours Creep On Apace," "Silent Be, It Was the Cat," "I Am an Englishman," and many others.

• • •

Two of the most popular exponens of these tunes in the past have been De Wolf Hopper and Fay Templeton. The former played with much relish the rôle of Dick Deadeye, that awfulest of villains, whose looks were against him. And it was only a few years ago that the late Miss Templeton, at the age of 65, still gave heart-warming pleasure as Buttercup, the bumboat woman, "the rosiest, the roundest, and the reddest beauty in all Spithead."

Chicago's most recent incarnations of "Pinafore" were vouchsafed by the D'Oyly Carte Opera company at the Erlanger theater in 1935 and a colored troupe at the Great Northern theater in 1940. The latter staged an exotic version with dances by Katherine Dunham and called it "Tropical Pinafore." The D'Oyly Carte's more traditional version once again presented such loyal Savoyards as Martyn Green (Porter), Leslie Rands (Corcoran), Charles Goulding (Rackstraw), Darrell Fancourt (Deadeye), Muriel Dickson (Josephine), and Dorothy Gill (Buttercup).

America's Fighting Planes

Another view of the Vought-Sikorsky gull-winged fighter. Notice wells in wing bases for inclosing landing gear during flight.

By WAYNE THOMIS

THE COLOR reproductions of photographs of military airplanes appearing on the first page of today's Picture Section are those of some of the newest American aircraft, soon to be in active combat—probably in Asia, the Philippines, and Africa. Both army and navy airplanes are included in this group, which represents the product of the best American thought upon the special types of aircraft represented.

The Consolidated B-24 bomber shown in a closeup flight photograph across the bottom of the page is one of the world's finest long-range offensive airplanes. According to guarded reports coming out of the manufacturer's plant at San Diego, Cal., the B-24 can carry four tons of bombs for more than 3,000 miles at high speeds. This is a remarkable performance, because the ship is relatively small—with a gross weight of only 45,000 pounds—and because its engines are twin Wasps developing a maximum of 1,250 horsepower each for takeoff.

• • •

The fine performance of this ship has just been considerably enhanced by the development of an acceptable installation for its engines of the new General Electric exhaust-driven (turbo) superchargers. These enable the 14-cylinder air-cooled motors to deliver their full sea-level power to above 25,000 feet and will make it possible for this airplane to reach a ceiling of more than 36,000 feet. Use of the turbos also is expected to increase the top speed from about 335 miles an hour at 16,000 feet to 370 miles an hour at 24,000 feet, where the air is thinner and resistance less.

• • •

Part of the secret of the B-24's qualities lies in the Davis airfoil section used in the 110-foot wing. This section has proved 100 per cent efficient in hundreds of wind tunnel tests, as compared to 90 to 95 per cent efficiency for other types. It is calculated by mathematical formulae for any given size, weight, and characteristics of the airplane upon which it will be used and was introduced by Consolidated in a costly gamble that has paid off in miles an hour of performance.

The Curtiss SB2C navy dive bomber depicted on the page is described by our navy as one of the world's best. It was built to provide twice the range, 100 miles an hour more speed, and 100 per cent increase in bomb load over any other American dive bomber known at the time the navy asked for bids from manufacturers. According to the Curtiss company the ship fulfills each of these requirements with ease.

The foregoing indicates that the SB2C's top speed is more than 300 miles an hour with its 14-cylinder two-row Cyclone engine, 1,700 horsepower. It is equipped with retracting bomb racks, so that its bombs are carried inside the fuselage while cruising. When about to dive on a target the plane's pilot unfolds them so that when bombing they are outside the plane in position for easy release and so that they will clear the machine and its propeller.

Designed for operation from the restricted deck areas of an aircraft carrier at sea, this big plane, which weighs more than 10,000 pounds when loaded, nevertheless has a slow landing speed. Wing tip automatic slots assist the pilot in slow-speed control. The outer wings fold up to save storage space aboard carriers.

The Douglas SBD dive bombers shown in a "V of V's" formation are another navy, marine corps, and army dive bomber type. Derived from a Northrop-Douglas plane now obsolete, they are considered as intermediary training planes rather than first-line dive bombers. Top speed is said to be 250 miles an hour and the bomb load 1,200 pounds. This is the first type of dive bomber ever operated by the army air corps—the first squadrons having been equipped only a few days before the Louisiana maneuvers last fall.

The other plane on the page is the Vought-Sikorsky gull-winged fighter, the F4U1. According to navy leaders, this is the fastest single-seat fighter in the United States today—the speed being delivered chiefly by the double Wasp 2,000-horsepower motor. Unofficial records indicate a top speed of 425 miles an hour for the F4U1 at altitudes above 20,000 feet. At that height the air-cooled motor of this plane still delivers 1,600 horsepower, its manufacturer reported some months ago.

• • •

The F4U1 is a large airplane. Its span is probably 45 feet or more, and its weight is known to approximate that of the Lockheed P-38, which grosses nearly 13,000 pounds. Its size and weight automatically rule the F4U1 out of the class of highly maneuverable fighters, but probably indicate it is intended for long-range escort work. Cannon and heavy-caliber machine guns, plus its high speed, make it a formidable craft.

YOUTH ON THE CAMPUS

By ELEANOR NANGLE

IT CAN NEVER be said that Butler university on the north limits of Indianapolis lacks for lebensraum. The whole school, with an enrollment of about 1,700, is currently housed in one huge building, Jordan hall, set in spacious grandeur on a 246-acre stretch of ground.

There are an athletic plant, a huge fieldhouse, and a nearly completed college of religion building, too, but the all-under-one-roof pattern and the absence of residence halls add up to atmosphere that in a literal sense isn't particularly collegiate. In another sense, however, Butler bubbles over with collegianism as expressed in clothes, in slang, and in spirit.

A good 75 per cent of the enrollment is drawn from the city of Indianapolis or immediate surroundings; these students come to school in automobile, bus, or street car. The remainder board with private families or live in the sorority and fraternity houses across from the campus. Seven national sororities—Alpha Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta, Delta Gamma, Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Pi Beta Phi, and Zeta Tau Alpha—have chapters at Butler. Fraternities are Delta Tau Delta, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Chi, and Sigma Nu. All have attractive houses.

Around these houses, in the school hangout, the Campus club—which substitutes for a union—and in Jelly hall, at the east end of Jordan, the collegiate jibber-jabber is proof that only in its physical structure is Butler different from other universities. The boys are not fashion plates. The girls are if anything more studiedly collegiate in their dress than at many other, larger schools. Traditions are strong, campus politics is a fascinating topic, and athletic rivalry (like every school in Indiana, Butler is mad over basketball) is bitter. Mere mention of Wabash sends the Butler blood pressure up.

One pretty custom at Butler is Christmas caroling by the sorority girls. A few nights before school closes for the holidays the girls, carrying lighted candles, make the rounds of fraternity houses.

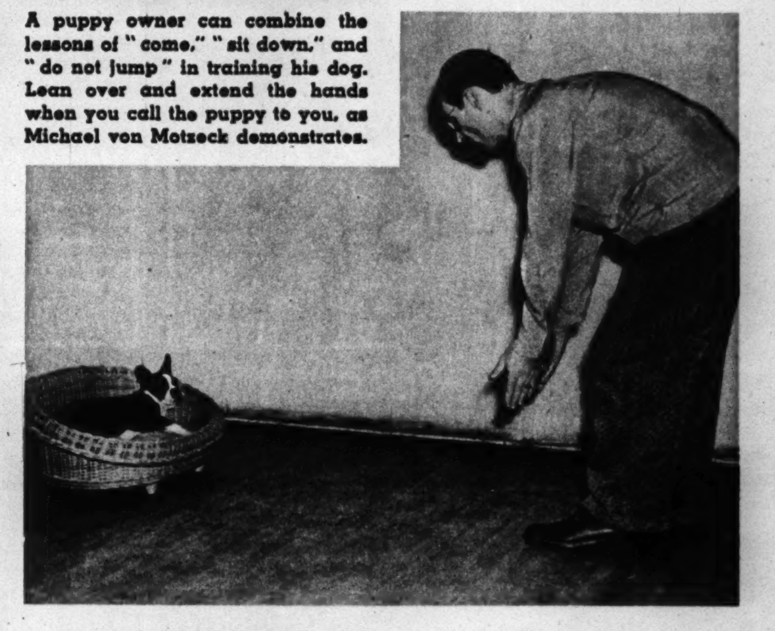
This year it was for many of the boys a final pleasure. Already Butler Bulldog units of both the army and the navy air cadet corps have gone out. Many more boys planned their enlistment with the conclusion of the holiday vacation, during which time they could make their farewells or use their wiles on parents for the necessary consent if they were under age.

Courses in aeronautics jumped in popularity overnight. The boys are champing. And even the girls, between sighs over the loss of their dates, are thinking about the war. Acting, too. Butler Red Cross first aid units are now in formation. Under the direction of the Marion county director units of 40 Butler girls start the middle of this month on full first aid courses, supplemented by training in air raid precautions and other phases of civilian defense. Both boys and girls, curtailing everything but the good Butler sense of humor, are starting war work in earnest.

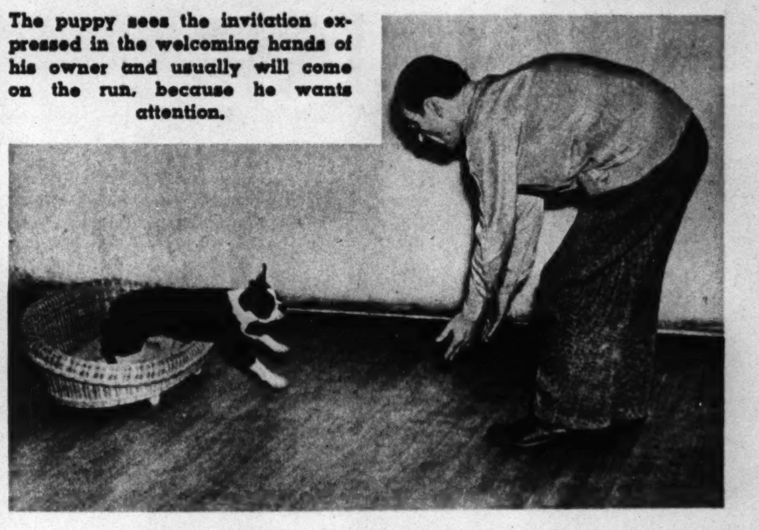
MOSTLY ABOUT DOGS

By BOB BECKER

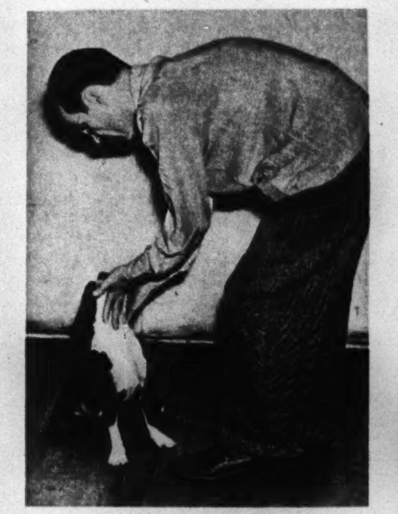
Train That New Puppy Carefully



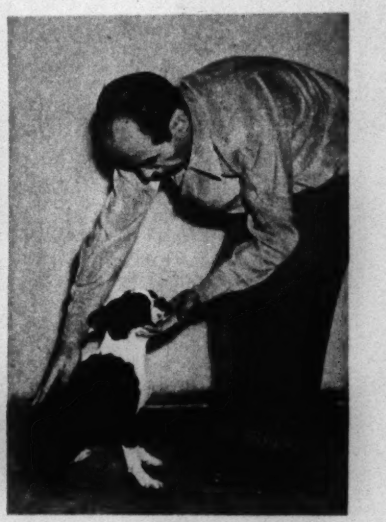
A puppy owner can combine the lessons of "come," "sit down," and "do not jump" in training his dog. Lean over and extend the hands when you call the puppy to you, as Michael von Motzeck demonstrates.



The puppy sees the invitation expressed in the welcoming hands of his owner and usually will come on the run, because he wants attention.



When the puppy comes the owner can place it in a sitting position while giving the command "sit," hold it there for a few seconds, and then release it.



In time the dog learns that when he comes on command he must sit down, because he knows that in that position he is going to be petted and praised.

THOUSANDS of puppies that acquired new homes at Christmas time don't know it but they're now enrolled in school and have quite a course of education ahead of them. They can't escape their kindergarten lessons because every owner has to take the new member of the household in hand and teach him what to do, and at the same time point out the various things that are on the taboo list.

How much the puppy learns in a few months depends upon the owner. What is more important, whether the puppy gets off to the right start in life can be decided in those first few months.

• • •

Altho a six or eight weeks puppy should not be given any extended obedience training because no very young dog has the intelligence to learn much, there are a number of fundamental training routines on which every puppy can be started. For example, as soon as the little fellow has gotten used to his new home, and has gained considerable confidence in himself and the family, the owner takes up such fundamentals as house manners, teaching the puppy to respond to his name, and the meaning of the word "no."

Thus very early in the life of the impressionable little dog he realizes that he must expect supervision of his conduct, that he can't do anything he wants all day long, and there is such a thing as authority. The wise owner is patient, kind, and understanding, yet firm. The idea is to lead the dog's mind but not push it. If the puppy is a bit sluggish mentally this means considerable "leading." However, we doubt if more than 10 per cent of all dogs are really dull. Most of them are quick to learn. The trouble usually is that the dog quickly becomes smarter than his owner and within a short time takes advantage of every slight concession with the result that he may become spoiled.

One educational routine for the fairly young dog that we have tried several times with success combines several training features such as response of the puppy to his name, coming when called, and sitting at your feet on command. A valuable byproduct of this routine is that the puppy is taught not to jump on you. Instead he gets into the habit of coming to you and automatically sitting down.

The idea behind the "come, sit down, and don't jump" routine is this: Many young dogs (old ones, too) get into the habit of jumping up on you simply because they are so affectionate and eager. They want your praise and your hands on them. If you bring your hands down to them, they have little desire to jump on you, which is an annoying habit if not curbed.

The routine of the lesson is this: After the dog has learned his name, call him to you by giving the command sharply. You say "Spot, come here." And make it snap. As he starts toward you on the run, lean over and extend your hands in invitation to him. The pup will rush to your hands and wiggle around, delighted that he is getting attention. That's all right at first. But he next step is to take him by his collar (when he reaches your feet) and with one hand press down his flanks, saying "sit," "sit," and hold him in a sitting position for a few seconds.

Then release him and pet him as you say "all right." If you bend over and keep your hands on him he will have little inclination to jump on you, especially if you always praise him and pet him when he is sitting down.

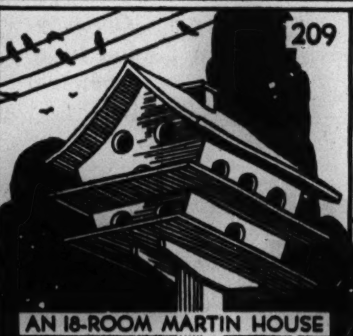
As the owner goes thru this sequence day after day he should gradually make the dog stay in the sit position for longer periods. At first keep your hands on the dog and make him sit still. After a few days you'll be able to take your hands from his body and keep him in the sit position. When you lift your hands from his body keep the palm of the right hand open and above him as you say "sit." In a few days he'll learn that an opened palm above him means "sit down." We have one dog at home now that comes rushing to us when we give her the whistle. She comes at top speed. But every time she gets near us we lift our right hand and down she sits at our feet. There is nothing unusual about this. Any dog will do it if taught correctly.

• • •

In giving the dog a release from the sit position you can say "okay," "all right," or anything you want. We use the word "all right." But you can say "allee-oop," "let's go," "hie on," or "Fourth of July." It doesn't make any difference as long as you teach the dog what he's supposed to do in association with a tone of voice and certain sounds.

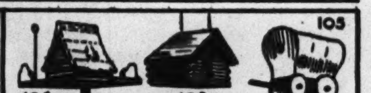
CRAFT PATTERNS

BY A. NEELY HALL



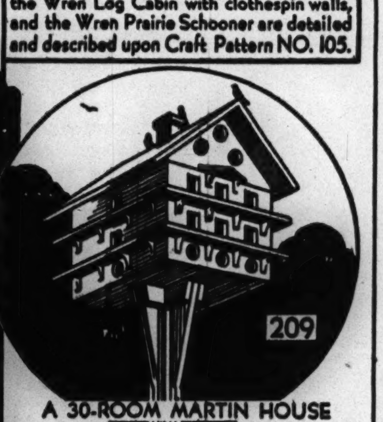
AN 18-ROOM MARTIN HOUSE

• After building a number of wren houses you will want to tackle a martin house. It requires more time and material to build this larger house, but the work is easy with Craft Pattern No. 209. The curved roof and slanted walls give style to the design.



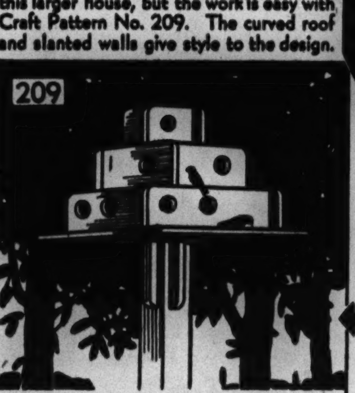
THREE UNIQUE WREN HOUSES

• The Wren Cottage with thatched roof, the Wren Log Cabin with clothespin walls, and the Wren Prairie Schooner are detailed and described upon Craft Pattern NO. 105.



A 30-ROOM MARTIN HOUSE

• Each story is a separate unit, slipped over the post support. With this assembly the house can be taken down easily for cleaning and painting. One story may be omitted for a 22-room house. Craft Pattern No. 209 gives detailed drawings.



A 13-ROOM MARTIN HOUSE

This house is of modern lines. Offsets in the stories provide runways. These and nearby wires attract martins. Craft Pattern No. 209 shows how to build the house, and how to hinge its post for raising.

Even without the planes in the background, well posed silhouettes like these would tell their story unmistakably. The picture was shot from a low angle to place the figures against the bright sky.

PERFECT POEMS

This poem, another in the series being printed each Sunday in the Graphic Section, is from "Fifty Perfect Poems," selected and edited by Charles A. Dana and Rossiter Johnson.

THE DESERTED VILLAGE—By Oliver Goldsmith

(This is the second part of this favorite poem. Last week the auther described his sorrow at finding his beloved old village home in ruins.)

Beside yon straggling fence that skirts the way,
With blossomed furze unprofitably gay,
There, in his noisy mansion, skilled to rule,
The village master taught his little school.
A man severe he was, and stern to view;
I knew him well, and every truant knew:
Well had the boding tremblers learned to trace
The day's disasters in his morning face;
Full well they laughed, with counterfeited glee,
At all his jokes, for many a joke had he;
Full well the busy whisper, circling round,
Conveyed the dismal tidings when he frowned;
Yet he was kind—or, if severe in aught,
The love he bore to learning was in fault.
The village all declared how much he knew;
'Twas certain he could write, and cipher too;
Lands he could measure, terms and tides presage,
And e'en the story ran that he could gauge:
In arguing, too, the parson owned his skill,
For, e'en tho vanquished, he could argue still;
While words of learned length and thundering sound
Amazed the gazing rustics ranged around;
And still they gazed, and still the wonder grew,
That one small head could carry all he knew.
But past is all his fame; the very spot,
Where many a time he triumphed, is forgot.

Near yonder thorn, that lifts its head on high,
Where once the sign-post caught the passing eye,
Low lies that house where nut-brown draughts inspired,
Where gray-beard mirth and smiling toil retired,
Where village statesmen talked with looks profound,
And news much older than their ale went round.
Imagination fondly stoops to trace
The parlor splendors of that festive place:
The whitewashed wall, the nicely sanded floor,
The varnished clock that clicked behind the door,
The chest contrived a double debt to pay—
A bed by night, a chest of drawers by day,
The pictures placed for ornament and use,
The twelve good rules, the royal game of goose;
The hearth, except when winter chilled the day,
With aspen boughs, and flowers and fennel gay;
While broken tea-cups, wisely kept for show,
Ranged o'er the chimney, glistened in a row.

Vain, transitory splendor! could not all
Reprieve the tottering mansion from its fall?
Obscure it sinks, nor shall it more impart
An hour's importance to the poor man's heart.
Thither no more the peasant shall repair
To sweet oblivion of his daily care;
No more the farmer's news, the barber's tale,
No more the woodman's ballad shall prevail;
No more the smith his dusky brow shall clear,
Relax his ponderous strength, and lean to hear;
The host himself no longer shall be found
Careful to see the mantling bliss go round;
Nor the coy maid, half willing to be prest,
Shall kiss the cup to pass it to the rest.

Yes! let the rich deride, the proud disdain,
These simple blessings of the lowly train;
To me more dear, congenial to my heart,
One native charm than all the gloss of art:
Spontaneous joys, where nature has its play,
The soul adopts, and owns their first-born sway;
Lightly they frolic o'er the vacant mind,
Unenvied, unmolested, unconfined;
But the long pomp, the midnight masquerade,
With all the freaks of wanton wealth arrayed—
In these, ere triflers half their wish obtain,
The toiling pleasure sickens into pain;
And, e'en while fashion's brightest arts decoy,
The heart, distrusting, asks if this be joy.

Ye friends to truth, ye statesmen, who survey
The rich man's joys increase, the poor's decay!
'Tis yours to judge how wide the limits stand
Between a splendid and a happy land.
Proud swells the tide with loads of freighted ore,
And shouting folly hails them from her shore;
Hoards, e'en beyond the miser's wish, abound,
And rich men flock from all the world around.
Yet count our gains: this wealth is but a name,
That leaves our useful products still the same.
Not so the loss: the man of wealth and pride
Takes up a space that many poor supplied—
Space for his lake, his park's extended bounds—
Space for his horses, equipage, and hounds;
The robe that wraps his limbs in silken sloth
Has robbed the neighboring fields of half their growth;
His seat, where solitary sports are seen,
Indignant spurns the cottage from the green;
Around the world each needful product flies
For all the luxuries the world supplies;
While thus the land, adorned for pleasure all,
In barren splendor, feebly waits the fall.

As some fair female, unadorned and plain,
Secure to please while youth confirms her reign,
Slights every borrowed charm that dress supplies,
Nor shares with art the triumph of her eyes;
But when those charms are past—for charms are frail—
When time advances, and when lovers fail,
She then shines forth, solicitous to bless,
In all the glaring impotence of dress:
Thus fares the land, by luxury betrayed,
In nature's simplest charms at first arrayed;
But, verging to decline, its splendors rise,
Its vistas strike, its palaces surprise;
While, scourged by famine from the smiling land,
The mournful peasant leads his humble band;
And while he sinks, without one arm to save,
The country blooms—a garden and a grave.

Where then, ah! where, shall poverty reside,
To 'scape the pressure of contiguous pride?
If, to some common's fenceless limits strayed,
He drives his flock to pick the scanty blade,
Those fenceless fields the sons of wealth divide,
And even the bare-worn common is denied.
If to the city sped, what waits him there?
To see profusion that he must not share;
To see ten thousand baneful arts combined
To pamper luxury, and thin mankind;
To see these joys the sons of pleasure know
Extorted from his fellow-creature's woe.
Here while the courtiers glitter in brocade,
There the pale artist plies the sickly trade;
Here while the proud their long-dawn pomps display,
There the black gibbet glooms beside the way.
The dome where Pleasure holds her midnight reign,
Here, richly decked, admits the gorgeous train;
Tumultuous grandeur crowds the blazing square—
The rattling chariots clash, the torches glare.
Sure scenes like these no trouble e'er annoy!
Sure these denote one universal joy!
Are these thy serious thoughts? Ah! turn thine eyes
Where the poor, houseless, shivering female lies.
She once, perhaps, in village plenty blest,
Has wept at tales of innocence distrest;
Her modest looks the cottage might adorn,
Sweet as the primrose peeps beneath the thorn;
Now lost to all—her friends, her virtue fled—
Near her betrayer's door she lays her head;
And, pinched with cold, and shrinking from the shower,
With heavy heart deplores that luckless hour
When, idly first, ambitious of the town,
She left her wheel and robes of country brown.

Do thine, sweet Auburn—thine the loveliest train—
Do thy fair tribes participate her pain?
E'en now, perhaps, by cold and hunger led,
At proud men's doors they ask a little bread.

Ah, no! To distant climes, a dreary scene,
Where half the convex world intrudes between,
Thru torrids tracts with fainting steps they go,
Where wild Altama mumurs to their woe.
Far different there, from all that charmed before,
The various terrors of that horrid shore;
Those blazing suns that dart a downward ray,
And fiercely shed intolerable day;
Those matted woods where birds forget to sing,
But silent bats in drowsy clusters cling;
Those pois'nous fields, with rank luxuriance crowned,
Where the dark scorpion gathers death around;
Where at each step the stranger fears to wake
The rattling terrors of the vengeful snake;
Where crouching tigers wait their hapless prey,
And savage men more murderous still than they;
While oft in whirls the mad tornado flies,
Mingling the ravaged landscape with the skies.
Far different these from every former scene—
The cooling brook, the grassy-vested green,
The breezy covert of the warbling grove,
That only sheltered thefts of harmless love.

Good heaven! what sorrows gloomed that parting day
That called them from their native walks away;
When the poor exiles, every pleasure past,
Hung round the bowers, and fondly looked their last,
And took a long farewell, and wished in vain,
For seats like these beyond the western main;
And, shuddering still to face the distant deep,
Returned and wept, and still returned to weep!
The good old sire the first prepared to go
To new-found worlds, and wept for others' woe;
But for himself, in conscious virtue brave,
He only wished for worlds beyond the grave.
His lovely daughter, lovelier in her tears,
The fond companion of his helpless years,
Silent went next, neglectful of her charms,
And left a lover's for her father's arms.
With louder plaints the mother spoke her woes,
And blessed the cot where every pleasure rose;
And kissed her thoughtless babes with many a tear,
And clasped them close, in sorrow doubly dear;
Whilst her fond husband strove to lend relief
In all the silent manliness of grief.

O Luxury! thou curst by heaven's decree,
How ill exchanged are things like these for thee!
How do thy potions, with insidious joy,
Diffuse their pleasures only to destroy!
Kingdoms by thee, to sickly greatness grown,
Boast of a florid vigor not their own.
At every draught more large and large they grow,
A bloated mass of rank unwieldy woe;
Till sapped their strength, and every part unsound,
Down, down they sink, and spread a ruin round.

Even now the devastation is begun,
And half the business of destruction done;
Even now, methinks, as pondering here I stand,
I see the rural Virtues leave the land.
Down where yon anchoring vessel spreads the sail
That, idly waiting, flaps with every gale—
Downward they move, a melancholy band,
Pass from the shore, and darken all the strand.
Contented toil, and hospitable care,
And kind connubial tenderness are there;
And piety with wishes placed above,
And steady loyalty, and faithful love.
And thou, sweet Poetry, thou loveliest maid,
Still first to fly where sensual joys invade—
Unfit, in these degenerate times of shame,
To catch the heart, or strike for honest fame!
Dear, charming nymph, neglected and decried,
My shame in crowds, my solitary pride!
Thou source of all my bliss and all my woe—
That found'st me poor at first, and keep'st me so!
Thou guide, by which the nobler arts excel!
Thou nurse of every virtue—fare thee well!
Farewell!—and oh! where'er thy voice be tried,
On Torno's cliffs, or Pambamarca's side—
Whether where equinoctial fervors glow,
Or winter wraps the polar world in snow—
Still let thy voice, prevailing over time,
Redress the rigors of the inclement clime;
Aid slighted truth with thy persuasive strain;
Teach erring man to spurn the rage of gain;
Teach him that states, of native strength possest,
Tho very poor, may still be very blest;
That trade's proud empire hastes to swift decay,
As ocean sweeps the labored mole away;
While self-dependent power can time defy,
As rocks resist the billows and the sky.

KNOW YOUR CAMERA

By ANDREW B. HECHT, Ph.D.
Managing Editor, Popular Photography Magazine

THE SIMPLEST way of getting photographic effects that are out of the ordinary is to make silhouettes. There are many methods of making silhouettes and innumerable subjects that lend themselves to this treatment. What is most important to the average amateur is that silhouettes are about the easiest kind of pictures to take.

In a silhouette the main subject appears black against a light background, and so long as the outlines of the subject are clear-cut and sharp, showing sufficient contrast against the background, the picture can be considered a good exposure. Your exposure is governed by only one consideration—by the brightness of the background. If you pose your subject against the sky and want clouds to show, a relatively short exposure will do the trick. If you want a white sky, expose somewhat longer but not long enough to record detail in your figure. The slight overexposure of the sky will make the clouds disappear.

Whether you make your silhouette shots indoors or outdoors, you must ignore the general rule of picture taking and shoot straight into the light. Pose your subject against the setting sun or a brightly illuminated wall. This will give you the necessary contrast to photograph the subject dark (or pitch black) against a light background.

In the case of outdoor silhouettes the figure you photograph should be placed directly between your lens and the sun so that it acts as a shield. No direct rays of the sun should strike the lens, or the picture will be fogged and hopelessly ruined. You can get very effective silhouettes by posing the subject not against the sun but against a bright section of the sky. To lift out the largest possible part of the figure it is good to shoot from a low angle so that the entire subject has sky as background.

The silhouette technique has many applications. You can use it to create the atmosphere of sunrise or sunset. You can show a figure in the foreground of your picture in silhouette to lend depth to the scene; to place a figure in your landscape; to give the picture a subtle local color by using, for example, a native in easily recognizable costume. But the main force of silhouettes is based on the fact that they eliminate a lot of unessential detail from your subject and reduce it to the bare and essential outlines.

• • •

Because the word outlines must be taken literally here, it is important to watch these outlines carefully. Unsightly bulges of clothing should be eliminated, distorting poses corrected. Because the outline must tell the whole story, it is absolutely necessary to have it just right in every detail.

Silhouettes need not be static. True, most such pictures show the subject without motion, but such limitation is not necessary. Striking shots can be made with the subject in motion, even tho you must watch carefully for the right instant to release the shutter. But even if you decide to avoid fast action, the mere outlines of your subject can be made to tell an entire story by having the subject pose some appropriate action.

If you shoot indoors, place the subject several feet from a wall that shows no pattern, illuminate the wall with flood lamps, then shoot. Or fasten a transparent white sheet on a doorway, place a strong light behind it, and pose the subject before the sheet. The subject should shield the lens against direct light, and the sheet should be drawn tightly so that no wrinkles show.

Setups of this kind are best suited for making portraits in silhouette. Naturally such portraits must show the profile of the subject. But even in the case of portraits, in which the background is of no importance, it is essential not to overexpose; otherwise you get a blank, washed out background that gives a nonphotographic effect. If this is what you want you can achieve the effect easily with some retouching. All you have to do is to take the negative and paint around the outlines of the subject with an opaque retouching fluid. This will block out the background completely and will make it appear white in the print. You can get white silhouettes against a black background by making a contact print on film and using this positive print as a negative.

If you are tired of taking straight pictures and are looking for simple-to-achieve new effects, start experimenting with silhouettes.

This famous picture by an Indian photographer uses the silhouette technique to subdue unnecessary detail. It shows excellent composition. The mass of the black camel is counterbalanced by the clouds. Also there is plenty of space ahead of the moving figures so that they stay well within the picture.

Beauty on the Curriculum

By ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

(Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

RECENTLY we attended a forum sponsored by Stephens college, Columbia, Mo., dedicated to the American woman and her responsibilities. While others sat in on open panel discussions about today's world problems as they affect American women and the home, we studied at close range the student body of young women enrolled in the school. What we saw and learned, particularly in connection with their physical training and education, impressed us deeply. To begin with, it has not been our experience to see so large a group of girls so uniformly good looking, so well groomed, so well and appropriately dressed, so unselfconscious, so socially poised, gracious, and charming.

Pauline Crook, right, instructs Evelyn Yarborough, a student from Alabama, on proper use of cosmetics.

• • •

It's no accident that this large aggregation of young women registers such a high standard in the departments just mentioned. Appearance is recognized by the directors of this school as a vitally important thing in a woman's life. Along with good health, good grooming is cultivated in terms of social efficiency. Poise, assurance, ease of manner, a good speaking voice, good posture, clear and unblemished complexion, and normal weight aren't matters of personal vanity as treated at Stephens college, but a distinct social requirement along with well trained minds.

In other words, it is simply the application of the now recognized theory that it serves a young woman ill to be endowed with a whole string of degrees if she is not fortified with the armaments of good health, good grooming, and a high standard of personal hygiene.

Every employment agency confirms the predilection of employers for young woman employés whose appearance is a credit to the organization. In fact, they've said time and time again that the personality and grooming rating of preferred employés is around 60 per cent of their whole job equipment. This naturally is based on the theory that the fair job applicant whose appearance bespeaks efficient personal management is more likely to be efficient in the work for which she is engaged.

And that, we gather, is the progressive principle upon which Stephens college operates its departments devoted to better health, better grooming, better posture, better looks generally—to train the mind, of course, but also to train the body to function at its best and to be presented at its best.

Exercise on unevenly hung rings is designed to correct posture faults.

Take, for instance, the overweight girl or the girl afflicted with that well known inferiority blight, pimples and acne. The sense of inferiority in either case affects the young person's studies, social contacts, wholesome mental growth. The sane and wise educational move is to clear up the basic physical fault, and that is done by the school's directors. Self-consciousness over a remediable ailment, a feeling of being one apart from the rest of one's young group, is no light problem in these supersensitive school years, and we are delighted by the way it is handled at Stephens college.

The overweight girl is committed to the tactful and scientific hands of a physician and dietitian in the division of health education. She is put on a supervised diet and presently emerges to take her place among her fellow students, a person better socially and mentally adapted. An underweight girl, too, is studied, directed, and guided to a better state of health and well being. The skin-troubled student may also be put on a diet, along with a program of hygiene that eventually results not only in a blemish-free skin but in a young woman charged with self-confidence, assurance, poise, to attack her studies with greater promise of success.

• • •

It might be faulty posture that needs correction (it often is!)—faulty feet, droopy head, rounded shoulders. The corrective work done in this department at Stephens college is outstanding. A personal appraisal examination of each student may reveal curvatures, swaybacks, foot troubles, uneven weight distribution, faulty breathing or some other remedial state, for which corrective measures are promptly adopted.

Next week we shall tell more about the methods used in the grooming classes, the posture corrective work, and the voice improvement going on at Stephens college.

THRIFT is going to be the important influence upon our 1942 meals. Thrift which doesn't sacrifice good nutrition, that is.

Pot roast is a good deal cheaper than oven roast meat but just as high in food value. And you can do a lot with pot roast leftovers, so buy a large piece of meat when you go to market.

Well browned pot roast is a savory and economical meat.

The pot roast pictured is from the shoulder or chuck section of beef. You cook it by braising, of course. Dredge the meat with flour and brown it on both sides in a little hot fat. Get it just as brown as you want it in this first operation. Season generously with salt and pepper. Turn the heat very low after browning and add a small amount of liquid—water, tomato juice, sour cream. Cover closely and let cook very gently until tender, several hours. Add more liquid from time to time as it cooks off. You'll get much better flavor by adding the liquid in very small amounts, say one-fourth cup at a time, than you will if you add it all at the beginning of the cooking period.

Corn and a dash of molasses flavor make good waffles.

Here are some suggestions about that leftover pot roast:

1. Slice it for sandwiches with lettuce and mustard or catsup.

2. Reheat slices in barbecue sauce.

3. Chop or grind meat and make into a loaf with cooked rice, leftover gravy, chopped onion, and green pepper—also, perhaps, some chili sauce.

4. Make a meat and potato pie. Diced or sliced meat, potatoes, and onions, in gravy, with a biscuit or pastry topping.

5. Grind meat, add mayonnaise, horseradish, and chopped pickle, also salt and pepper. Good in sandwiches.

6. Scallop the leftover diced meat with potatoes, rice, or noodles, using a medium cream sauce and cheese topping.

A thrifty luncheon dish, and one that's very good for you, too, is corn waffles served with sirup.

CORN WAFFLES

(Four servings)

¾ cup flour
¾ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup canned cream style corn
2 eggs
⅓ cup milk
1 tablespoon molasses
¼ cup melted butter

Sift flour, baking powder, and salt and add to canned corn. Beat egg yolks, combine with milk and molasses, and add to first mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites, then melted butter. Bake in heated waffle iron.

• • •

Speaking of waffles, have you ever tried chocolate waffles, served hot with whipped cream? Or gingerbread waffles, a delicious and economical company dessert? Don't have the iron awfully hot for dessert waffles—molasses and chocolate both scorch easily.

GINGERBREAD WAFFLES

(Four four-section waffles)

2 cups sifted flour
1½ teaspoons soda
1½ teaspoons ginger
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 cup molasses
½ cup sour milk or buttermilk
⅓ cup butter, melted

Sift flour, measure, and resift with soda, spices, and salt. Beat egg yolk, add molasses, sour milk, and butter. Add to flour mixture and beat until smooth. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Bake in greased waffle iron. Serve with whipped cream.

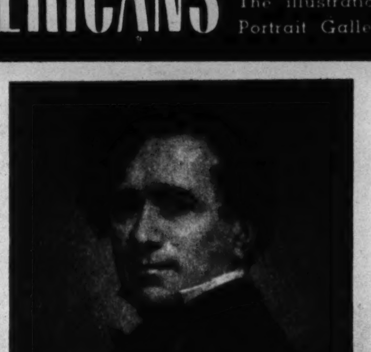
DISTINGUISHED AMERICANS

● This is another in a series of biographical sketches of America's historical celebrities appearing every week in the Graphic Section. The illustrations are taken from a famous work, "The National Portrait Gallery of Distinguished Americans," published in 1865.



Franklin Pierce

FRANKLIN PIERCE, 14th President of the United States, was born in Hillsboro, N. H., Nov. 23, 1804, the son of a Revolutionary soldier who had seen action at the battle of Bunker Hill. Altho two of his elder brothers enlisted for the War of 1812, Franklin during that conflict was too young to serve his country as a soldier.

In 1820 he entered Bowdoin college, from which he was graduated four years later, and in 1827 he was admitted to the bar and began the practice of law in Hillsboro. At the age of 29 he was elected to the national house of representatives, and in 1837, at the age of 33, he was chosen to the United States senate, then containing such distinguished members as Webster, Clay, and Calhoun.

At the outbreak of the Mexican war Pierce enlisted as a private soldier, from which within a short time he was elevated to colonel and given command of the 9th regiment. Still later he was made a brigadier general of volunteers. He was with Gen. Winfield Scott in his advance on Mexico City. At the battle of Contreras he was thrown from his horse and painfully injured.

After the war he returned to his law practice, and in 1852 he became a "dark horse" candidate for the Democratic nomination for President. His name was brought up at the 35th ballot of the party's convention in Baltimore, and on the 49th ballot he received the nomination. In the subsequent election he swept the country, defeating his Whig opponent, General Scott, by an electoral vote of 254 to 42.

Pierce's cabinet represented a coalition of eastern business men and southern planters, his secretary of war being Jefferson Davis, who later was president of the Confederate states. Among the historical highlights of his administration were:

The issuance of the so-called Ostend manifesto by three American ministers to European countries, whereby it was proclaimed that the United States should acquire Cuba, even, if necessary, by forcible seizure.

The establishment by the soldier of fortune William Walker of a dictatorship in Central America, which was recognized by Pierce. The object of this was to bring Central America into the American Union as proslavery territory.

The opening by Commodore Matthew C. Perry of the doors of Japan to American trade. This was in 1853. For nearly 90 years trade relations existed between America and Japan. All relations, however, were severed when Hawaii was treacherously attacked.

During Pierce's administration the great northwest was opened to settlement and preparations were made for the construction of a transcontinental railway. In connection with the latter 50,000 square miles of land was purchased from Mexico for $10,000,000.

To encourage migration to the northwest and to facilitate the project of a central railroad to the far west the Kansas-Nebraska bill was enacted in 1854, with the indorsement of President Pierce. This opened two new regions to settlement, with the slavery issue to be settled in each by popular vote. Pierce's administrative policy with reference to Kansas was pro-southern, and he lost support in the north, which made him unacceptable in that quarter as a candidate for a second term.

Returning to New Hampshire after his single term of office, he dwelt in Concord, except for three years devoted to travel abroad, until his death on Oct. 8, 1869. During the Civil war he supported President Lincoln's policy of preserving the Union.

MEDALS TO REWARD ROTC LEADERS

ELECTION DATA STIRS LAMBENT POLITICAL FIRE

Aspirants Get Facts on Requirements.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

First stirrings of the approaching primary election campaigns came last week as prospective candidates for office began mapping their strategy.

Officials to be nominated in the primaries on April 14 are: All congressmen, all state representatives, and state senators from odd numbered districts.

Officials to be elected [not merely nominated] in the primaries includes state central committeemen, who are picked according to congressional districts, and township committeemen and senatorial committeemen, who are chosen by senatorial districts.

Flynn Tells Dates.

Seekers of these offices were given their starting cues with the publication by County Clerk Michael J. Flynn of his annual election calendar covering the current year. This calendar, besides setting forth all the important political dates for 1942, such as filing and withdrawal deadlines, also lists other vital facts, as for example the number of signatures required on nominatin petitions for both Republican and Democratic candidates.

The number of signatures required on some petitions is based on the most recent vote for governor, or for the party member who received the highest number of votes in the latest previous election. Because neither congressional nor senatorial dictricts follow precinct lines exactly, determination of these percentages calls for thoro delving into election records, a task that is captained by Daniel A. Carey, attorney and chief clerk for Flynn's office.

Carey and his assistants have assembled these figures not only for Cook county, the limit of their official jurisdiction, but as a service also for other counties in Chicagoland. The following information is based on their efforts:

CONGRESSMAN.

Represents his congressional district in the national lower house in Washington, D. C. One is elected from each district for a term of two years.

Minimum number of names required on nominating petitions is one-half of 1 per cent of the total vote cast for representative of his party who received the highest number of votes in his district in the latest general election. The 1942 figures, by districts, are:

Dist.	Signatures req. Dem.	Rep.
1	192	160
2	900	842
3	828	784
4	403	153

8	212	72
9	293	308
10	690	1,101
11	401	669

Districts 1 to 9 are entirely within Cook county. The 10th includes part of Cook county and all of Lake county. The 11th includes McHenry, Kane, DuPage, and Will counties.

STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEEMAN

Represents his congressional district in the state conventions to be held on May 1 this year, at which nominees for university trustees are named and the state party platform is formulated. One is elected for each district for a term of two years.

Minimum number of names required on nominating petitions is 100.

STATE SENATOR

Represents his senatorial district in the upper house of the state legislature in Springfield. One is elected from each district for a term of four years. Odd numbered districts elect one biennium, even numbered districts the next.

Minimum number of names required on nominating petitions is one-half of 1 per cent of total cast for his party's candidate for governor in his district in the most recent general election. These figures, by district, are:

Priest Blesses Homes on Three Kings Day

BLESSING THE FAMILY

The ceremony of blessing the homes on Three Kings day, Jan. 6, is still practiced in parishes in Chicago. Except in a few, the priest no longer blesses each home, but visits only those homes where his blessing has been especially requested. Father Ambrose Ondrak, pastor of St. Michael's church at 48th street and Damen avenue, follows the latter practice. After he finishes blessing the rooms he blesses the family. His acolytes are Robert Duchak, left, and Michael Litviak. Members of the family are Mr. and Mrs. James Trop, 4836 South Damen avenue, and small Mari-Anne. Miss May Novotny is at the extreme right.

BLESSING THE ROOM
MARKING THE DOOR

The blessing of the family, however, follows the prime ceremony—blessing the rooms. When the priest first enters the house he takes out his prayer book and repeating special canticles goes from room to room blessing with holy water. Following that, he blesses with incense. When that ceremony is finished and the prayers are over the priest blesses all present in the house. Then he leaves, marking the door with the year and the names of the Magi. The number of the century comes first and the initial letter of each of the Wise Men's names—Gaspar, Melchior, and Balthazar—are joined by the plus sign and the markings end with the number of the new year.

YULE SEASON IS JUST STARTING FOR THIS GROUP

Russian Faith Marks Christmas Jan. 7.

As the nation closes the holiday season celebrated under the Gregorian calendar, thousands of followers of the Russian orthodox faith are just setting up the evergreen trees, wreaths, and candles that form a part of Christmas. Celebration of the anniversary of the Nativity for those people falls on Wednesday, Jan. 7, which is Dec. 25 on the Julian calendar.

At least 400 southwest side families of Russian descent will attend masses at SS. Peter and Paul church, 53d street and Western avenue, as part of their Christmas observance. The Very Rev. Peter Semkoff, pastor, will say mass at 11 o'clock Tuesday evening. This will be the midnight service ushering in the holy day. The liturgy service will be held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, and at the same hour every morning thereafter until New Year's day, which occurs on Jan. 14 on the Julian calendar.

To Distribute Food.

The parish will see that there are Christmas baskets for all those who might not otherwise partake of the holiday foods. However, the church ceremonies of blessing the baskets, so much a part of the Easter celebration, is not incorporated in the Orthodox Christmas customs.

The 250 families of Russian descent who call the Russian Orthodox St. Michael's at 1706 West 44th street their church home, will attend the services there at 7 o'clock on Christmas eve. Rev. Timon Muliar is the pastor. The Christmas morning service will be at 10 o'clock, and there will be daily masses at the same hour at St. Michael's until New Year's on Jan. 14. St. Panteleimon's Russian Orthodox church in Argo-Summit is expected to follow the other Russian churches in the Chicago area by holding a mass at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

New Church Built.

St. Panteleimon's, a church organized to fill the need of many workers of Russian descent employed in the Clearing district and other far southwest side industries, moved into a new church edifice in time for services a year ago. This year the parish will celebrate the building of a new home for the pastor, the Rev. John Manchuk. This structure is not quite ready for occupancy, but it is near enough to completion to be looked upon as a part of St. Panteleimon's last year's program.

Christmas eve among the Russian groups is a time when no one who calls is turned away from the family board. The Christmas dishes are traditional, and an important one is the kutya, a barley and wheat delicacy which symbolizes the straw of the manger in which the Christ child was born. Every one within the house observes gift giving in its religious significance. Lacking a material offering, a kiss or an embrace carries out the idea.

TOGGI BOGGI HIKE IS OUTDOOR CLUB DIVERSION TODAY

The Englewood Outdoor club, an organization devoted to a year around program of recreation and fellowship, began the new year with an annual meeting Friday evening at Ogden park fieldhouse. The business session over, members will open their 1942 recreation season today with what they call a toggi boggi hike at Palos hills. The bus leaves 63d street and Western avenue at 10 o'clock this morning. Irene Dotzauer and Jean Kaye are hike leaders.

The next important date on the EOC January calendar is Wednesday, the 14th, when there will be an evening roller skating party at the White City rink. Members will meet in the rink lobby, 63d and South Park avenue, between 8 and 9 o'clock. Anthony V. Stelzer, retiring president of the club, will lead an exit president hike on Sunday, Jan. 18. The destination is unannounced, but the hikers' bus will leave the 63d and Western intersection at 9:30 o'clock that morning.

The 1942 officers will be introduced at the inaugural ball Jan. 24 at the Southmoor hotel, 66th place and Stony Island avenue. A plantation party and attendance at a radio broadcast at Merchandise Mart on Jan. 28 will close this month's program.

CATHOLIC WOMEN WILL HOLD FIRST SESSION OF YEAR

The South Side Catholic Woman's club will hold its first meeting of the new year Wednesday in the Southmoor hotel, 6700 Stony Island avenue. The meeting will be dedicated to the club's past presidents. A board meeting at 10:30 o'clock will open the session. At 1:30 o'clock there will be a business meeting which will be followed by a group of vocal selections sung by Mildred W. Joyce and a book review by Mrs. Lillian Browne-Olf. Mrs. E. E. O'Reilly, 7919 May street, is president.

High School Seniors Vote on Class Star

Principals of all the public high schools in Chicago were asked last week to make their nominations for the midyear interviews with outstanding seniors to be published in THE TRIBUNE. Interviews with seniors are a long established custom in The Tribune Metropolitan sections.

These nominations will be made by the principals by next Tuesday, and the lists will be printed in next Sunday's Metropolitan sections. The head of each school will select the ten young men or women whose scholastic, leardership and activity records mark them as best qualified to represent their school in the interviews.

Winner Chosen by Classmates.

From this list of candidates the seniors of each school by popular vote will choose the one person who will represent his school on THE TRIBUNE's honor roll. Pictures of these distinguished students, and interviews setting forth the scholastic careers and future aspirations of each, will appear in the Metropolitan section of Sunday, Jan. 25.

This year's midyear interviews will be the first under THE TRIBUNE's new system, adopted last June, of giving the students the final voice in selecting their own representatives. The method was worked out with the cooperation of James B. McCahey, president of the board of education and Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools.

Reasons for Change.

In previous years the principal of each school selected the three students he regarded as most outstanding, and the pictures and interviews of each were printed. This method brought forth the ranking students but had no provision for an expression of the opinion of classmates.

Brief biographies of each of the list next Sunday. Graduates will have until the following Tuesday [Jan. 13] to cast their ballots.

DEFENSE PLANS TO BE TALKED BY ENGLEWOOD CLUB

The Englewood Woman's club will resume meetings at 10:45 o'clock tomorrow morning in the clubrooms at 6730 Wentworth avenue. The first session after the holiday recess will be devoted to plans for furthering the organization's activities in a defense program. A defense committee was appointed last summer with Mrs. James G. Wishart, 7419 Stewart avenue, as chairman. The committee now needs volunteers. Mrs. Olice W. Winter, home and education chairman, will add a defense program to her department. She is arranging for registrations in first aid, home hygiene, and nutrition.

Kermit Eby, executive secretary of the Chicago Teachers union, will be the speaker tomorrow morning. He will discuss the meaning of democracy. Mrs. Charles J. Tidholm, welfare chairman, will introduce him.

In the afternoon Mrs. Robert W. McKinlay, chairman of fine arts, will present the midwinter musical. The artist will be Mrs. Helen Ryerson, lyric soprano.

SCHOOLS SPEED TRADE COURSES IN DEFENSE WORK

Will Double Facilities for Instruction.

Chicago is preparing to double the rate at which its national defense training program is developing artificers to supply the expanding needs of industry geared to a tremendous war effort, Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, said last week.

Already the trainers of mechanical workers, who are of supreme importance in a war of production, are working around the clock. But even this urgent speed is to be stepped up with more classes as soon as the contemplated demand for new war production workers is felt, Dr. Johnson said.

In the well-equipped vocational training shops of 10 of Chicago's high schools, 267 instructors, half of them from the school staffs and the other half from industry, are imparting new or improved skills to 6,700 or more men, some of whom are already engaged in the fabrication of the machines and weapons that give punching power to the man in the field.

Government Pays Bill.

This program is specifically set up for the purpose it now serves. In fact, it teaches only subjects approved by the Office of Production Management. It is separate and apart from the regular board of education vocational training program, which in its own way is aiding mightily in the race to outbuild the nation's enemies.

The national defense program borrows the buildings and equipment of the board of education during the time they are not in regular use, but other expenses are met from a fund appropriated by congress. The instructors who participate do so in their spare time, and are paid from this special fund as are the teachers hired from industrial establishments.

High schools whose shops are used are Lane on the north side, Schurz on the northwest side, Austin, Crane, and Harrison on the west side, Tilden, Englewood, and Lindblom on the southwest side, and Phillips, and Chicago vocational on the south side.

How the program functions was explained by Philip L. McNamee, industrial coördinator.

Teach Specific Skills.

"This program is concerned with the welfare of industry rather than the individual," McNamee said. "Therefore our purpose is to train the individual as fast as possible in a specific skill, so that he can take his place in the production line. We are not like the vocational school, which teaches several skills to a worker in a leisurely general course.

"When the national defense training program got under way a year ago last July, we drew our participants largely from the work relief rolls. With the decline of WPA, this source has almost dried up, and now our trainees come principally from the Illinois free employment service.

"The trainee when he comes to us selects the subject in which he wants instruction, and is assigned to the class nearest his home. There is no charge for instruction, materials or equipment. He progresses according to his individual ability."

Usually it requires from 8 to 10 weeks to train a man for a place in industry, McNamee said, but this period can be speeded up as soon as the emergency requires.

4,281 Obtain Jobs.

Of the 20,692 persons enrolled since the program began, 4,281 have been placed directly in industrial jobs, McNamee revealed. Many more thousands of which no record could be kept obtained jobs themselves as soon as their training was completed.

Many of the enrollees are individuals now employed who seek to improve themselves, McNamee said. A newcomer to the program must pick one subject and stick to it. A man already employed, however, can take as many subjects as his spare time will allow.

Machine shop work and electric welding are the most popular subjects, and there are long waiting lists for them.

Women Try to Enroll.

The great bulk of the present activity comes from 3 to 10:30 p. m., but classes are in progress in one or more of the 10 schools every hour of the working week. The later classes are chiefly for men employed during earlier hours.

Because industry is still adapting itself to the war effort, the actual outbreak of hostilities has not yet been reflected in the program to any great extent, McNamee said.

One notable result of the war is the increasing demand of women for a share in the program, in which only men can now enroll. Scores of women each day, eager to take active part in war production, try to enroll, but they must be turned down. Officials expressed the hope that soon the rules may be expanded to include women.

Will Wed Air Line Pilot Jan. 24

Miss Barbara Lennertz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lennertz, 205 West 16th place, Chicago Heights, will be married Saturday, Jan. 24, to Alfred F. Sellmeyer, son of Mrs. Frank Sellmeyer of Tulsa, Okla., her parents have announced. Miss Lennertz was graduated from St. Elizabeth's hospital school of nursing. She is a stewardess and her fiance a pilot with American Airlines. The bride will be attended by her four sisters at the wedding, which is to take place in St. Agnes' church in Chicago Heights.

ST. RITA YOUTHS TO BE GUESTS OF 'CITIZENS' SHOW

To Visit W-G-N Studio Next Wednesday.

St. Rita High school, 6312 South Oakley avenue, an institution claiming the distinction of being the largest Catholic boys' school in the middle west, will be the next guest on the W-G-N program, Citizens of Tomorrow. Representative students will come to W-G-N studios at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to record the program which will be aired at 1:30 o'clock next Sunday afternoon.

Principal to Speak.

The Rev. R. P. Fink, principal at St. Rita's, will describe the ideals and achievements of the school in a short address. The Catholic high school was established in 1905. The Rev. James F. Green, described as an Augustinian pioneer from New York, is recorded as the founder. The institution has grown so that now it occupies an entire city block. Four large buildings and ample athletic fields are set up to accommodate the 1,348 students, the largest number ever enrolled.

When Father Fink was made rector of St. Rita's high school in 1934, the enrollment was 387 students. He took his first major step toward increasing that enrollment when he installed a technical course in 1936. The growth of both the prestige and enrollment of St. Rita's is greatly attributed to including the technical subjects on the curriculum.

Chorus to Sing.

Besides Father Fink's talk on the broadcast, there will be three numbers by the school chorus of 45 voices. They will sing under the direction of the Rev. Martin J. O'Neill, school choral director. Philip Maxwell is master of ceremonies and will announce additions to the program's honor roll.

Special guests will be: Thomas J. Courtney, state's attorney, an alumnus of St. Rita's; Mrs. Sylvester Kehl, radio chairman of the Third District Federation of Woman's clubs and mother of an alumnus; Dr. Sylvester Kehl, medical adviser to the athletic association; James Gleason, chief engineer of the maintenance department of the Chicago Fire department; William Luby, treasurer of the Central Scientific company, member of the Northwestern university staff and alumnus of St. Rita, and Eugene Zuber, vice president of an outdoor advertising company and also a St. Rita graduate.

St. Kilian's Altar Society to Elect Officers Tuesday

St. Kilian's Altar and Rosary society will meet at 8 o'clock Tuesday night in the parish hall at 87th and Aberdeen streets. Election of officers will be held and a social hour will follow. Mrs. L. L. Morley will be chairman for the evening. Mrs. Albert Stapleton is president.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, Jan. 5.

Transplant seedlings that are large enough. Seedlings need little plant food because their root system is meager, but when they have developed copiously more food is necessary. The amount of plant food to apply to any kind of plant is often a problem for most gardeners, but the safest amount is too little rather than too much.

Tuesday, Jan. 6.

Keep the Christmas pot plants in as good condition as possible. Chief essentials are plenty of water, the avoidance of drafts, excessively dry atmosphere, and the control of insect pests. Placing pans of water on radiators will aid in keeping some moisture in the air, and an occasional syringing will keep the foliage cleared of all dust.

The grower of pot plants has a regular spraying program but sometimes it is difficult to rid his plants of all insects and if a few are on a plant that ultimately reaches a home gardener these few insects, finding the room congenial, increase at a rapid rate.

Wednesday, Jan. 7.

Transplant the Calla Lily when root bound, for it will need plenty of space and food to produce many flowers. These plants require an abundance of water; in fact, it is a moisture loving plant. Even tho the flowers are few, the foliage is tropical and well worth enjoying.

Thursday, Jan. 8.

If the home gardner has an overgrown plant or one that is not wanted, why not get in touch with the nearest high school—the biology department may like it.

Feed the birds by hanging pieces of suet to the branch of a tree where it can be seen from a window, or arrange a feeding station and see that food is always on hand. Country folk who are aware of pheasants in the vicinity should scatter grains where the birds will find them.

Friday, Jan. 9.

Start fancy leaved Caladium tubers. Tubers can be purchased from supply houses and their beauty is unrivaled by any group of plants. If started in pots, use a soil consisting of leafmold, sand, and soil, with good drainage. They make a nice house plant.

Saturday, Jan. 10.

The period between Christmas and Easter is a good time in which to start woody twigs in flower. The pussy willow and goldenbell, cornelian cherry, shadbush, plum, and others are easy to start and they make fine bouquets in suitable containers.

Prepare flats for sowing seeds of Vinca roses and alba, verbena hybrida, petunia, and other seeds that take a considerable time to develop. Pot up glozinia in soil like that used for the caladiums.

SUBURBAN HOME IS BUILT ALONG GRECIAN LINES

Spacious Residence Has Three Fireplaces.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Chicago has made many claims to early architectural relationship with colonial fashions, but our city's first real architecture over a hundred years ago, began with the Greek revival style. In those far gone days our pioneer carpenter-builders studied their handbooks faithfully and labored to translate their dreams of classic porticos and columns, pilasters and cornices into dwellings for those in the Chicago area.

Now again there is an increased interest in this stimulating native type and we see it reproduced with great beauty in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Baughman, 1216 South Sheridan road, Highland Park.

Green Slate Roof.

The architect, William N. Alderman, 140 South Dearborn street, has carried out the exterior in Lannon stone with dressed Indiana limestone finish and slate roof of unfading green.

It is a house which reflects the classic vigor, grace ,and clear cut purity of line. Inside as well as out we recognize those symbols of the ancient Greek tradition which are the basis of so much of our western decorative expression. [Indeed, this heritage from the Greek is all around us, and in the rooms where we move it is likely we can see motifs from those old days.]

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Baughman faces north and as you enter there's a great center reception hall with marble floor and wide, winding stair to the second floor.

Has Tall Windows.

The living room at the left has ice blue walls, and rose toned drapes at French doors and windows, rug and upholstery of chairs have exquisite shades of rose and blue and deep gold. The windows are tall, eight and one-half feet, and on the fireplace columns the Greek nymphs are hand carved. Moulded plaster cornices and all trim have been designed by the architect.

The fireplace wall in the library is of light walnut, a gem of unusual beauty. The rug is of deep American Beauty shade and the three other walls of the room are covered with a hand blocked scenic wall paper with a Greek revival house pictured on a soft grey background.

There's a large outdoor living room accessible both from the library and the living room.

Another fireplace is found in the dining room, this one a corner type of marble, and the rich blue of the drapes and the border of the beige rug were chosen especially to blend with the border pattern of the blue and white regency paper.

Has Breakfast Bar.

The kitchen is streamlined and modern, a sparkling spot in white with red accessories and decorations and large enough to contain not only a breakfast corner but also a breakfast refreshment bar and counter.

On the second floor there's a master bedroom as spacious as the living room, with French blue carpeting, blue drapes, and French regency beds of walnut with regency plume note. The room has two baths, one very tailored and masculine, with light gray tile wainscot and walls papered in blue. There is a light, capacious dressing room with blue carpeting and rose colored plate glass top dressing table, and a second, very feminine bath in dusty pink and silver and a wall paper which flaunts dusty pink regency plumes.

The two guest rooms are decorated and planned with the same artistry and feeling of esthetic judgement.

Carved Oak Beds.

One room has carved beds of dark oak and a Chinese rug with deep border, light blue papered walls and mirror cornices, deep blue satin drapes and bedspreads. The second guest room has blonde walnut furnishings, pale peach toned wall paper with a lacey pattern, and a beige rug with tiny flowers in deep and dusty tones of pink.

In the basement there's a comfortable recreation room spendidly fitted out with the accessories and necessities of such a spot. There's a deep cobalt blue fireplace wall, while the other walls are painted cream. The floor is linoleum with Mexican rugs, the refreshment bar is finished in Venetian red, and stools are upholstered in green.

Here, too, in this basement there's a large laundry and a utility room with floor of asphalt tile. Also accessible from the basement stairs is a small green house.

Many symbols, nuances, and motifs have been employed to create a background for this home, a traditional, storied background and yet one well adapted to modern America.

CHILDREN AWAIT VISIT OF MAGI TO MEXICAN HOMES

They'll Find Presents on Tuesday Morning.

Mexicans of Chicagoland say that traditionally Christmas day was a holy day in the land of their forefathers. There were no gifts, altho older folks sometimes exchanged small presents—tokens of good will—on New Year's day. The children set out their shoes for gifts on the night of Jan. 5, the eve of Three Kings' day. On the morning of Jan. 6, if they were fortunate, they might find some fruit or sweet left in the little boots by the Magi, of course.

But some of the Mexicans came to the United States. Right now, 3,000 of them live in the Town of Lake, that district sprawling about 47th street and Ashland avenue and known in Chicago and thruout the country as Back o' the Yards. There, wide-eyed Mexican children will rise early Tuesday morning to look into the shoes they'll put outside the doors of their flats tomorrow night.

Expect Visit from Magi.

In South Chicago, there are another 3,000 Mexicans. And children there, like the youngsters in the Town of Lake, will set out their shoes tomorrow night in hopes that the Magi will call.

If they wake up too early Tuesday, there's a great possibility they'll get to the shoes before the "Three Kings" do.

Miss Mary Louise Garibay who lives in the Town of Lake, at 1543 West 46th street, and works at the South Chicago Community center recalls having peeked too early on Three Kings' day. Miss Garibay tells the story of the survival of the Three Kings' day practice which she says flourishes among the Town of Lake Mexicans and within the South Chicago group. As an adult, she says, she finds remembering the children on Jan. 6 an extra strain on a Christmas flattened purse. "But they're so happy," she concludes, "I guess the grownups can manage."

Like Christmas Gifts, Too.

But if any one believes that these modern transplanted Mexican youngsters are content with a few presents in the shoes on Jan. 6—the Mexican parents want him to know that's a big mistake. Small José and Bonita just regard Jan. 6 as an extra dividend after Christmas. The modern Mexican youngster is willing to go to church and observe the holy day services of the Christmas of his forefathers, but he wants to come home to a Christmas tree and presents.

Then on Jan. 6 the little Mexican boys and girls are wholly in favor of sticking to tradition again.

Here in this country, Mexican parents have to be careful not to play Three Kings too early in the morning if there is cold January weather. Then the apples and nuts that mean Three Kings' day presents may be frozen.

THEME OF RADIO IN 1942: 'KEEP 'EM ROLLING!'

War May Restrict, Alter Broadcast Pattern.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

If "Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair" was the theme song for radio in 1941, "Keep 'Em Rolling" is likely to be in 1942. The war will be the preëminent and dominant subject in broadcasting for the year just started.

Nevertheless, broadcasters are going ahead, reassured by the Federal Communications commission that there is no government plan to take over the radio industry, with plans of entertaining 130 million Americans as well as informing them. A few days after Pearl Harbor, Bob Hope, the comedian, announced that he and his troupe would try to keep America laughing in the face of war.

"One of the things that makes us an unbeatable nation," he said, "is our ability to laugh. We may black out our lights but never our sense of humor."

That attitude in broadcasting appears to be widespread and in the serious days ahead Americans do not expect to lose the programs that entertain them.

Radio to Help Win War.

But Americans expect radio to contribute its utmost to win the war and broadcasters are showing responsiveness to their obligations in this regard. Broadcasters are giving liberally of their sustaining time to defense requirements and sponsors in general are devoting substantial portions of time to promoting the sale of bonds and other war requirements.

During the first days of the war many programs waived their commercial talk altogether to make way for the news and presumably they will continue this practice when the magnitude of the news warrants.

Radio blackouts, already introduced on the west coast, may be expected to return there or in any area where there is danger of air attack since radio signals might serve to guide enemy planes to their objectives.

There are reports of the possible introduction of systems of "scrambling" radio signals to prevent the use of stations as plane beacons.

There appears to be some likelihood of reallocation of certain assignments of broadcasting stations. Thought is being given to allocating some of the frequencies at the long end [that is, the short numbers], of the broadcasting portion of the spectrum to the armed services.

Ryan Is Broadcast Censor.

Radio like the press will operate under censorship in 1942. J. Harold Ryan, Toledo radio executive, has accepted the post of broadcast censor. He will serve as assistant to Byron Price, director of censorship. A liaison officer also is to be named to coördinate for radio the work of the FCC, the defense communications board, the director of censorship and other war offices having radio functions.

The war also will affect the production of radio receivers for private use. The war needs of radio are tremendous. A billion dollars worth of defense communications equipment is to be built in 1942. This is more than twice the total of radio equipment manufactured last year.

Fortunately for millions of listeners the life of sets can be extended indefinitely thru expert service and repair.

Operetta Fans

Eleanor Robinson of Hollywood receives a Chicago Theater of the Air club charter from Betty Rhodes, W-G-N-Mutual songstress on the west coast. Many such clubs have been organized.

'UNITED AMERICA LOOKS AHEAD' IS FORUM SUBJECT

The American Forum of the Air will return to W-G-N and the Mutual network tonight after a two week absence. The topic will be, "United America Looks Ahead to 1942?" and nine national leaders from divergent fields will participate in the discussion. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will serve as co-chairman with Moderator Theodore Granik.

Other participants will be William Green, president of the AFL; Philip Murray, president of the CIO; Albert W. Hawkes, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Robert Patterson, undersecretary of war; Ralph A. Bard, assistant secretary of the navy; Donald Nelson, executive director of Supply Priorities and Allocation board; Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, and Nelson A. Rockefeller, coördinator, Office of Inter-American Affairs.

With this broadcast Moderator Granik celebrates his 15th year on the air. Much of the program's success has been attributed to Granik's ability to get opposing factions, usually bitterly opposed, to meet each other in public debate.

'PINAFORE' TO BE GIVEN NEXT ON THEATER OF AIR

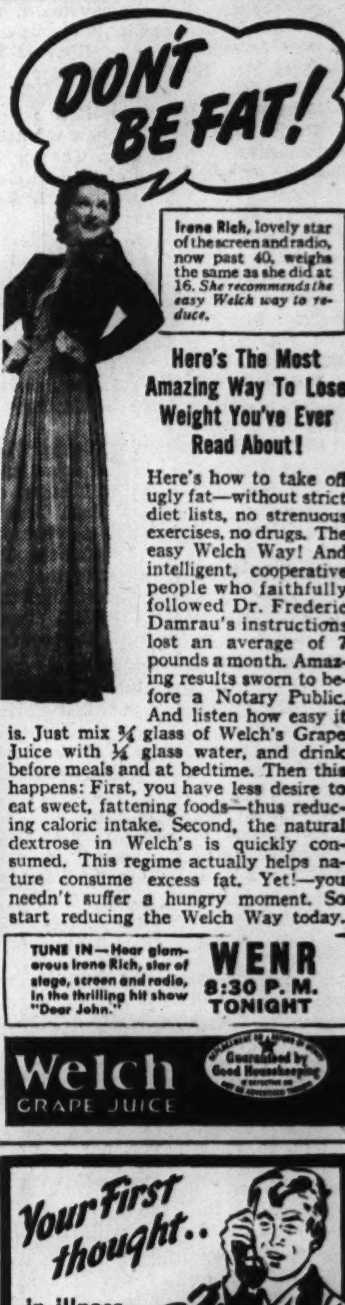
Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta, "H. M. S. Pinafore," will be presented from 8 to 9 p. m. next Saturday on the Chicago Theater of the Air. Marion Claire and Attilo Baggiore will be the stars. The program will be broadcast on W-G-N, W59C and the coast to coast Mutual Broadcasting system.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak.

Musical background will be supplied by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra under the baton of Henry Weber and by the chorus directed by Robert Trendler. Singing in supporting rôles will be Win Strake, Bruce Foote, and Ruth Slater.

Betty Winkler and Bret Morrison will headline the dramatic cast for the operetta. Miss Winkler will portray the part of Josephine, Miss Claire's singing rôle, while Marrison will portray the speaking voice for Ralph Rackstraw, Baggiore's singing rôle.

Others in the dramatic cast include: Bob Jellison, Phil Lord, Marvin Mueller, Hazel Dopheide, Willard Waterman, Bloyce Wright, Rita Ascot, and Marilou Neumayer.



Irene Rich, lovely star of the screen and radio, now past 40, weighs the same as she did at 16. She recommends the easy Welch way to reduce.

Here's The Most Amazing Way To Lose Weight You've Ever Read About!

Here's how to take off ugly fat—without strict diet lists, no strenuous exercises, no drugs. The easy Welch Way! And intelligent, cooperative people who faithfully followed Dr. Frederic Damrau's instructions lost an average of 7 pounds a month. Amazing results sworn to before a Notary Public. And listen how easy it is. Just mix ¾ glass of Welch's Grape Juice with ¼ glass water, and drink before meals and at bedtime. Then this happens: First, you have less desire to eat sweet, fattening foods—thus reducing caloric intake. Second, the natural dextrose in Welch's is quickly consumed. This regime actually helps nature consume excess fat. Yet!—you needn't suffer a hungry moment. So start reducing the Welch Way today.

ELECTION DATA STIRS LAMBENT POLITICAL FIRE

Aspirants Get Facts on Requirements.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

First stirrings of the approaching primary election campaigns came last week as prospective candidates for office began mapping their strategy.

Officials to be nominated in the primaries on April 14 are: All congressmen, all state representatives, and state senators from odd numbered districts.

Officials to be elected [not merely nominated] in the primaries includes state central committeemen, who are picked according to congressional districts, and township committeemen and senatorial committeemen, who are chosen by senatorial districts.

Flynn Tells Dates.

Seekers of these offices were given their starting cues with the publication by County Clerk Michael J. Flynn of his annual election calendar covering the current year. This calendar, besides setting forth all the important political dates for 1942, such as filing and withdrawal deadlines, also lists other vital facts, as for example the number of signatures required on nominatin petitions for both Republican and Democratic candidates.

The number of signatures required on some petitions is based on the most recent vote for governor, or for the party member who received the highest number of votes in the latest previous election. Because neither congressional nor senatorial dictricts follow precinct lines exactly, determination of these percentages calls for thoro delving into election records, a task that is captained by Daniel A. Carey, attorney and chief clerk for Flynn's office.

Carey and his assistants have assembled these figures not only for Cook county, the limit of their official jurisdiction, but as a service also for other counties in Chicagoland. The following information is based on their efforts:

CONGRESSMAN.

Represents his congressional district in the national lower house in Washington, D. C. One is elected from each district for a term of two years.

Minimum number of names required on nominating petitions is one-half of 1 per cent of the total vote cast for representative of his party who received the highest number of votes in his district in the latest general election. The 1942 figures, by districts, are:

Dist.	Signatures req. Dem.	Rep.
1	192	160
2	900	842
3	828	784
4	403	153
5	194	83
6	1,013	831
7	1,334	1,232
8	212	72
9	293	308
10	C90	1,101
11	401	669

Districts 1 to 9 are entirely within Cook county. The 10th includes part of Cook county and all of Lake county. The 11th includes McHenry, Kane, DuPage, and Will counties.

STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEEMAN

Represents his congressional district in the state conventions to be held on May 1 this year, at which nominees for university trustees are named and the state party platform is formulated. One is elected for each district for a term of two years.

Minimum number of names required on nominating petitions is 100.

STATE SENATOR

Represents his senatorial district in the upper house of the state legislature in Springfield. One is elected from each district for a term of four years. Odd numbered districts elect one biennium, even numbered districts the next.

Minimum number of names required on nominating petitions is one-half of 1 per cent of total cast for his party's candidate for governor in his district in the most recent general election. These figures, by district, are:

Dist.	Signatures req. Dem.	Rep.
1	53	45
*2	97	65
3	126	116
*4	264	122

27	88	26
29	64	79
31	309	411
41	218	377

*Elect state representatives only this year.

Districts 1 to 7 and the odd numbered districts 9 to 31, inclusive, are in Cook county, the 7th taking in most of the suburban territory. The 8th district is made up of Boone, McHenry, and Lake counties. The 14th takes in Kane and Kendall counties. The 41st is composed of DuPage and Will counties.

Chopin Park Skaters Prepare for Annual Carnival

Thirteen year old Rita Barcy, 5305 Eddy street, has given up plans to enter the parade which will be held Friday evening, Jan. 16, in conjunction with the ice pageant that will be held on that day at Chopin park, 3420 North Long avenue. She found that the tan and white dog she holds in her arms is far too small to pull the sled—and her. "Maybe," she ponders, "I should pull the dog."

A girl doesn't mind an occasional tumble, thinks Leona Chowanski, 5253 School street, if she has a fellow like Jack Burke, 2615 North Laramie avenue, around to help her. Both young people are preparing for competitive events in the Chopin park ice pageant.

Their skates have been sharpened and now Virginia Glauser (left), 4017 North Kimball avenue, and Mary Burke, 2617 North Laramie avenue, will spend most of their leisure time rehearsing for the pageant. Mary is a member of the Chicago Figure Skating association, and will be presented at the pageant in a series of skating exhibitions. Virginia is wearing one of the popular short plaid skating skirts.

High School Seniors Vote on Class Star

Principals of all the public high schools in Chicago were asked last week to make their nominations for the midyear interviews with outstanding seniors to be published in The Tribune. Interviews with seniors are a long established custom in The Tribune Metropolitan sections.

These nominations will be made by the principals by next Tuesday, and the lists will be printed in next Sunday's Metropolitan sections. The head of each school will select the ten young men or women whose scholastic, leardership and activity records mark them as best qualified to represent their school in the interviews.

Winner Chosen by Classmates.

From this list of candidates the seniors of each school by popular vote will choose the one person who will represent his school on The Tribune's honor roll. Pictures of these distinguished students, and interviews setting forth the scholastic careers and future aspirations of each, will appear in the Metropolitan section of Sunday, Jan. 25.

This year's midyear interviews will be the first under The Tribune's new system, adopted last June, of giving the students the final voice in selecting their own representatives. The method was worked out with the coöperation of James B. McCahey, president of the board of education and Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools.

Reasons for Change.

In previous years the principal of each school selected the three students he regarded as most outstanding, and the pictures and interviews of each were printed. This method brought forth the ranking students but had no provision for an expression of the opinion of classmates.

Brief biographies of each of the ist next Sunday. Graduates will have until the following Tuesday [Jan. 13] to cast their ballots.

TRAINING CAMP NEWS

Second Lieut. Hillard J. Bielawa, 3551 Janssen avenue, was one of 125 soldiers recently graduated from the officers' course of the Camp Lee, Va., quartermaster school. The two month course of instruction covered basic principles of quartermaster corps activities for service command units. The class was composed of regular, reserve, and National Guard officers, many of whom were over the age limit for field duty in their respective grades.

⁂

Two northwest siders were mentioned in special orders at the air corps gunnery school, Las Vegas, Nev., last week. Jack Lubor, son of Mrs. Bessie Lubor, 3312 Eastwood avenue, will be assigned to a civilian flying school for the enlisted men's aviation student training course. He left his post with the 70th air base group for Kelly field, Tex. William L. Beck, son of Harvey Beck, 3535 Melrose street, has been transferred from Lowry field, Denver, Colo., to the gunnery school. He was graduated from Lane Technical High school in 1935 and was a woodworker prior to enlisting in the army air corps last August.

⁂

Corp. Arthur F. Mied, 4533 Hirsch street, has been graduated from the Chanute field branch of the army air corps technical schools.

⁂

Four former northwest side residents now in their country's armed forces have completed their basic training in the cavalry replacement training center at Fort Riley, Kas. They are Joseph S. Chraca, 2536 Haddon avenue; George J. Buhla, 4113 Francisco avenue; Henry Mlynski, 2424 North Lorel avenue, and Edward Palczewski, 2636 Cortez street.

⁂

Allen Lang, 2800 Chicago avenue, was one of 19 graduates last week from the 12 week course in laboratory instruction at the army's school for medical department technicians, Washington, D. C. He will be sent to the base hospital at Barksdale field, La. Approximately 200 men from all components of the army are sent to the school the first of each month, making a total of 600 men under instruction at any one time. Subjects include anatomy, physiology, bacteriology, chemistry, operating room duties, and ward management.

⁂

Among men recently inducted into the army at Fort Sheridan are Walter Gunia, 2646 Potomac avenue, a machinist; Theodore Kledzik, 1608 Erie street, a printing and cutting pressman; Andrew Bluj, 4936 Henderson street, an auto mechanic; Joseph Stusse, 1320 Cleaver street, an electrician; William Ashkinaz, 3118 Lawrence avenue, a postoffice truck driver; Walter Antolec, 964 Chicago avenue, a stock boy, and John Gramer, 954 North Karlov avenue, store clerk.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL AT MAX STRAUS CENTER TO MEET

Members of the Max Straus center Women's council will meet at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the Community hall of the center, 3715 Wilson avenue. Miss Alice Jones of the University of Chicago Home Economic department, will speak on nutrition and its place in the national emergency.

A newly organized English class will meet on Monday and Wednesday evenings at the center, with the first session tomorrow night. Combined with the English instruction will be a course in citizenship. A public speaking class will open at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening, and continue each Monday thereafter.

Thursday evening has been designated as the meeting time of a Red Cross unit. The first session, which will be devoted to sewing, will be called to order at 7 o'clock Thursday evening.

Jewish Youths to Hold Annual Jubilee Tonight

The Crane-Marshall Jewish Youth league, composed of students of those two senior high schools, will hold its third annual JYL jubilee this evening, beginning at 8 o'clock, in the auditorium of Temple Judea, 1227 Independence boulevard.

All's Well That Ends Well, Tho at 1,550 Feet

Residents of Arlington Heights breathed a sigh of relief last week when they learned the new village well which has been growing deeper and deeper since last April will provide an ample supply of water to meet the community's needs.

Pumping tests just completed reveal that the well has more than a 500 gallon per minute capacity. A 24 hour trial failed to lower the static level of the water within the well and its capacity has apparently been more than doubled over previous tests, said Mayor Albert W. Goedke. The increase resulted after 50 and 100 pound charges of explosives were used to blast reservoirs in water bearing strata.

Pump Now Is Problem.

Mayor Goedke also expressed satisfaction in the superior quality of the new supply. "The well is a complete success," he said, "and we will now attempt to penetrate the maze of priorities to purchase a new deep well turbine and connections to put it into actual service."

The recent failure of the deepest of the village's three other wells placed the residents in a precarious position. "An auxiliary connection with the water works of the Arlington Park Jockey club is all that saved us from a serious water shortage," said the mayor.

Thru Two Layers of Sand.

Previous tests, which began as early as last summer, had been disappointing, running as low as 150 gallons per minute. The well was drilled thru two layers of water bearing sand. Its present depth is approximately 1,550 feet.

PLAN TO DOUBLE COURSES AIDING WAR INDUSTRY

6,700 Now Learning Specific Skills.

Chicago is preparing to double the rate at which its national defense training program is developing artificers to supply the expanding needs of industry geared to a tremendous war effort, Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, said last week.

Already the trainers of mechanical workers, who are of supreme importance in a war of production, are working around the clock. But even this urgent speed is to be stepped up with more classes as soon as the contemplated demand for new war production workers is felt, Dr. Johnson said.

In the well-equipped vocational training shops of 10 of Chicago's high schools, 267 instructors, half of them from the school staffs and the other half from industry, are imparting new or improved skills to 6,700 or more men, some of whom are already engaged in the fabrication of the machines and weapons that give punching power to the man in the field.

Government Pays Bill.

This program is specifically set up for the purpose it now serves. In fact, it teaches only subjects approved by the Office of Production Management. It is separate and apart from the regular board of education vocational training program, which in its own way is aiding mightily in the race to outbuild the nation's enemies.

The national defense program borrows the buildings and equipment of the board of education during the time they are not in regular use, but other expenses are met from a fund appropriated by congress. The instructors who participate do so in their spare time, and are paid from this special fund as are the teachers hired from industrial establishments.

High schools whose shops are used are Lane on the north side, Schurz on the northwest side, Austin, Crane, and Harrison on the west side, Tilden, Englewood, and Lindblom on the southwest side, and Phillips, and Chicago vocational on the south side.

How the program functions was explained by Philip L. McNamee, industrial coördinator.

Teach Specific Skills.

"This program is concerned with the welfare of industry rather than the individual," McNamee said. "Therefore our purpose is to train the individual as fast as possible in a specific skill, so that he can take his place in the production line. We are not like the vocational school, which teaches several skills to a worker in a leisurely general course.

"When the national defense training program got under way a year ago last July, we drew our participants largely from the work relief rolls. With the decline of WPA, this source has almost dried up, and now our trainees come principally from the Illinois free employment service.

"The trainee when he comes to us selects the subject in which he wants instruction, and is assigned to the class nearest his home. There is no charge for instruction, materials or equipment. He progresses according to his individual ability."

Usually it requires from 8 to 10 weeks to train a man for a place in industry, McNamee said, but this period can be speeded up as soon as the emergency requires.

4,281 Obtain Jobs.

Of the 20,692 persons enrolled since the program began, 4,281 have been placed directly in industrial jobs, McNamee revealed. Many more thousands of which no record could be kept obtained jobs themselves as soon as their training was completed.

Many of the enrollees are individuals now employed who seek to improve themselves, McNamee said. A newcomer to the program must pick one subject and stick to it. A man already employed, however, can take as many subjects as his spare time will allow.

Machine shop work and electric welding are the most popular subjects, and there are long waiting lists for them.

Women Try to Enroll.

The great bulk of the present activity comes from 3 to 10:30 p. m., but classes are in progress in one or more of the 10 schools every hour of the working week. The later classes are chiefly for men employed during earlier hours.

Because industry is still adapting itself to the war effort, the actual outbreak of hostilities has not yet been reflected in the program to any great extent, McNamee said.

One notable result of the war is the increasing demand of women for a share in the program, in which only men can now enroll. Scores of women each day, eager to take active part in war production, try to enroll, but they must be turned down. Officials expressed the hope that soon the rules may be expanded to include women.

Courses of Study.

Courses are offered in the various operations of aviation building, electrical work, foundry practice, forge shop, and machine shop work, blue print reading and drawing, sheet metal work, tool and die design, marine drafting, ship lofting, ordnance inpsction and industrial chemistry, to mention only a few.

COOKIE BARREL IS SOLDIERS' FRIEND AT KELVYN PARK

Soldiers, sailors, and marines have enjoyed a touch of home life due to efforts of residents in the neighborhood of Kelvyn park, Wrightwood street and Kostner avenue. Walter Schneider, park director, has placed a cookie barrel in the main lobby of the park fieldhouse, and thru the coöperation of residents, two filled containers have been turned over to the Service Men's center, 176 West Washington boulevard.

Schneider reports that approximately 10 days are necessary to fill the barrels. All gifts of eatables are well wrapped, to keep the cookies fresh and to prevent their being crushed.

Miss Elizabeth Kruezer, park cooking instructor, devotes one class period a week to baking cookies for men at the center. "In this manner," Director Schneider said, "the younger members of the community have a chance to help."

Among the northwest associations whose members are coöperating with the park to fill the cookie barrels are: Barry school Parent-Teacher association, Kelvyn Park High school PTA, the Kelvyn Park American Legion auxiliary, the Kelvyn Park Woman's Civic club, the Kelvyn Grove auxiliary, and the Kelvyn Park Community organization.

SUBURBAN HOME IS BUILT ALONG GRECIAN LINES

Spacious Residence Has Three Fireplaces.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Chicago has made many claims to early architectural relationship with colonial fashions, but our city's first real architecture over a hundred years ago began with the Greek revival style. In those far gone days our pioneer carpenter-builders studied their handbooks faithfully and labored to translate their dreams of classic porticos and columns, pilasters and cornices into dwellings for those in the Chicago area.

Now again there is an increased interest in this stimulating native type and we see it reproduced with great beauty in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Baughman, 1216 South Sheridan road, Highland Park.

Green Slate Roof.

The architect, William N. Alderman, 140 South Dearborn street, has carried out the exterior in Lannon stone with dressed Indiana limestone lintels and slate roof of unfading green.

It is a house which reflects the classic vigor, grace, and clearcut purity of line. Inside as well as out we recognize those symbols of the ancient Greek tradition which are the basis of so much of our western decorative expression. [Indeed, this heritage from the Greek is all around us, and in the rooms where we move it is likely we can see motifs from those old days.]

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Baughman faces north and as you enter there's a great center reception hall with marble floor and wide, winding stair to the second floor.

Has Tall Windows.

The living room at the left has ice blue walls, and rose toned drapes at French doors and windows, rug and upholstery of chairs have exquisite shades of rose and blue and deep gold. The windows are tall, eight and one-half feet, and on the fireplace columns the Greek nymphs are hand carved. Molded plaster cornices and all-trim have been designed by the architect.

The fireplace wall in the library is of light walnut, a gem of unusual beauty. The rug is of deep American Beauty shade and the three other walls of the room are covered with a hand blocked scenic wall paper with a Greek revival house pictured on a soft gray background.

There's a large outdoor living room accessible both from the library and the living room.

Another fireplace is found in the dining room, this one a corner type of marble, and the rich blue of the drapes and the border of the beige rug were chosen especially to blend with the border pattern of the blue and white Regency paper.

Has Breakfast Bar.

The kitchen is streamlined and modern, a sparkling spot in white with red accessories and decorations and large enough to contain not only a breakfast corner but also a breakfast refreshment bar and counter.

On the second floor there's a master bedroom as spacious as the living room, with French blue carpeting, blue drapes, and French Regency beds of walnut with Regency plume note. The room has two baths, one very tailored and masculine, with light gray tile wainscot and walls papered in blue. There is a light, capacious dressing room with blue carpeting and rose colored plate glass top dressing table, and a second, very feminine bath in dusty pink and silver and a wall paper which flaunts dusty pink Regency plumes.

The two guest rooms are decorated and planned with the same artistry and feeling of esthetic judgment.

Carved Oak Beds.

One room has carved beds of dark oak and a Chinese rug with deep border, light blue papered walls and mirror cornices, deep blue satin drapes and bedspreads. The second guest room has blond walnut furnishings, pale peach toned wall paper with a lacey pattern, and a beige rug with tiny flowers in deep and dusty tones of pink.

In the basement there's a comfortable recreation room spendidly fitted out with the accessories and necessities of such a spot. There's a deep cobalt blue fireplace wall, while the other walls are painted cream. The floor is linoleum with Mexican rugs, the refreshment bar is finished in Venetian red, and stools are upholstered in green.

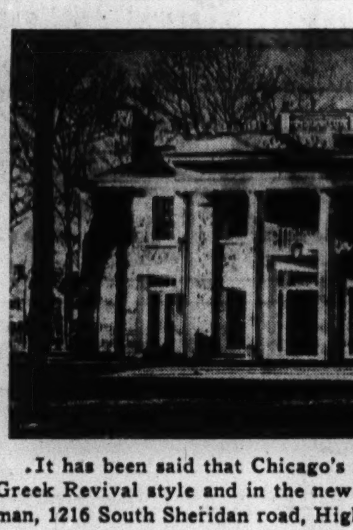
Here, too, in this basement there's a large laundry and a utility room with floor of asphalt tile. Also accessible from the basement stairs is a small green house.

Many symbols, nuances, and motifs have been employed to create a background for this home, a traditional, storied background and yet one well adapted to modern America.

Medical Society Auxiliary to See Motion Picture

Edison will screen the motion picture, "Choose to Live," on Friday afternoon when members of the Northwest branch of the Chicago Medical society gather at 2512 Kimball avenue for a meeting. Alfred F. Gareiss, president of the Woman's auxiliary of the Chicago Medical society, will speak. "Cancer" will be the topic of Dr. J. J. Moore when he addresses the group. All meetings of the auxiliary are open to the public.

New Highland Park Home



.It has been said that Chicago's first real architecture began with the Greek Revival style and in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Baughman, 1216 South Sheridan road, Highland Park, you see a fine example of one of our most beautiful fashions.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, Jan. 5.

Transplant seedlings that are large enough. Seedlings need little plant food because their root system is meager, but when they have developed copiously more food is necessary. The amount of plant food to apply to any kind of plant is often a problem for most gardeners, but the safest amount is too little rather than too much.

Growing house plants need food and it is wise to buy a complete food which is one that contains the essential elements or those that plants need. Fertilizers like bone meal are not complete foods because they contain only a single element and must be supplemented with other foods. It is best to study the general requirements of soil or study the natural conditions under which a plant grew.

As an example, we know that most ferns delight in a woodsy place, somewhat shaded from direct sunlight and with a soil consisting of leaf mold or decayed vegetation. Hence the soil should be similar in character for pot plants.

Tuesday, Jan. 6.

Keep the Christmas pot plants in as good condition as possible. Chief essentials are plenty of water, the avoidance of drafts, excessively dry atmosphere, and the control of insect pests. Placing pans of water on radiators will aid in keeping some moisture in the air, and an occasional syringing will keep the foliage cleared of all dust.

The grower of pot plants has a regular spraying program but sometimes it is difficult to rid his plants of all insects and if a few are on a plant that ultimately reaches a home gardener these few insects, finding the room congenial, increase at a rapid rate.

Spraying materials may be bought at hardware, drug, or seed stores. Use a contact spray, such as Black Leaf 40, on insects that suck the juices from the leaves or tender growths; use a stomach on worms or bugs that eat the leaves. Syringing often will be sufficient to control mealy bugs and red spiders.

Wednesday, Jan. 7.

Transplant the Calla Lily when root bound, for it will need plenty of space and food to produce many flowers. These plants require an abundance of water; in fact, it is a moisture loving plant. Even tho the flowers are few, the foliage is tropical and well worth enjoying.

Examine the soil occasionally by pinching a bit of it between the fingers; if dry, water with an eyedropper or a small sprinkler. In any event, avoid an excess of water.

Thursday, Jan. 8.

If the home gardner has an overgrown plant or one that is not wanted, why not get in touch with the nearest high school—the biology department may like it.

Feed the birds by hanging pieces of suet to the branch of a tree where it can be seen from a window, or arrange a feeding station and see that food is always on hand. Country folk who are aware of pheasants in the vicinity should scatter grains where the birds will find them.

Friday, Jan. 9.

Paint all tools; clean, repair the lawn mower. Those who do gardening on a comparatively large scale can save much time and trouble if all machines are placed under cover and repaired at this time. The occasional practice of allowing farm machinery to rust in the field is certainly indicative of excessive carelessness and neglect.

Start fancy leaved Caladium tubers. Tubers can be purchased from supply houses and their beauty is unrivaled by any group of plants. If started in pots, use a soil consisting of leafmold, sand, and soil, with good drainage. They make a nice house plant.

Saturday, Jan. 10.

The period between Christmas and Easter is a good time in which to start woody twigs in flower. The pussy willow and goldenbell, cornelian cherry, shadbush, plum, and others are easy to start and they make fine bouquets in suitable containers.

Prepare flats for sowing seeds of Vinca rosea and alba, verbena hybrida, petunia, and other seeds that take a considerable time to develop. Pot up gloxinia in soil like that used for the caladiums.

ARTERIAL ROUTE IMPROVEMENT IS SOUGHT FOR '42

Motor Club Lists Plans for Three Avenues.

Completion of work to open or improve three important arterial routes on the northwest side constitutes the primary New Year's resolution of the Northwest Area council of the Chicago Motor club for 1942.

The council's recommendations encompass the improvement of Austin avenue from North avenue to the Northwest highway, including a new viaduct at the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks paralleling the highway, the construction of a new viaduct at Laramie avenue between North and Grand avenues under the tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific railroad and the elimination of the bottleneck in Foster avenue near Milwaukee avenue.

Involves Buying Property.

The latter project involves the purchase of a piece of property now occupied by a gas station. Traffic on Foster avenue now detours one block north before intersecting Milwaukee avenue.

Progress on all these major projects was made during 1941. The council will continue its efforts to have them completed this year.

Several hazards of importance were eliminated on the northwest side last year. Foremost was the opening of the new Central avenue bridge carrying traffic over the yards of the C. M. St. P. & P. R. R. between North and Grand avenues.

Solve Many Traffic Problems.

More than a score of individual street and intersection problems were cleared up at the recommendation of the council. Traffic was facilitated on important thorofares by installation of partial parking bans which prohibited parking on one side of the street in the morning hours and on the other side during the homeward rush hours.

The city's channelization program progressed with installation of pedestrian safety islands in strategic locations on wide, multiple intersections in business districts. Several sets of signal lights were installed and revision of speed laws, installation of stop signs and traffic markers helped eliminate hazards at other locations.

4 NEW SHOWS TO BOW DURING WEEK ON W-G-N

The beginning of the New Year will also bring four new radio programs to W-G-N and the coast-to-coast Mutual Broadcasting system.

The first to be aired will be the Rotary program, "The Americas Speak," from 3:30 to 4 p. m. today.

Starting tomorrow a new series, starring Jerry Wayne, romantic young baritone, and Ted Straeter's orchestra will be heard at 10 p. m. each Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday.

"What's My Name?" quiz show with Arlene Francis and John Reed King, will be heard from 7 to 7:30 beginning Tuesday.

"Treasure Hour of Song," a coast-to-coast series of old and new music, played by Alfredo Antonini's 22 piece orchestra, and sung by a mixed choral group of eight voices and a permanent top-ranking soloist of the Metropolitan Opera company who will be announced shortly, will start over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 8:30 to 9 p. m. today.

New Form of Murder in Bulldog Drummond Show

What starts out to be a bear hunt in the Maine woods turns into a man hunt on the Bulldog Drummond broadcast to be heard over W-G-N-Mutual at 5:30 p. m. today. A brand new form of murder is introduced in the weekly mystery series, entitled "Bells of Death." George Coulouris plays the title rôle of Drummond, assisted by a cast of Mercury Theater players.

Women will be instructed in the use of switchboards so they would be prepared in an emergency to take over operators' duties at the firehouse.

In nearby Des Plaines, Ald. F. A. Loos has suggested to members of the city council that additional protection be given fire fighting apparatus. He suggested the fire truck garage be kept lighted at night and two additional firemen be employed.

BILL OF RIGHTS TO BE TOPIC OF LECTURE SERIES

The first in a series of five lecture and discussion sessions, to be conducted by Dr. Leonard P. Aries, attorney, will be held Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 13, at Maine Township High school.

The meetings, patterned after seminars, are results of requests by members of the student body. After the United States declared itself at war, students began to show an increased interest in the rights and privileges guaranteed by the Bill of Rights. The discussions will be centered on material found in that 150 year old document.

Dr. Aries will open the series with a discussion of "What is an American?" He will begin each session with a 20 minute talk on the subject for the day. Students will spend the rest of the period in discussion.

Topics of following sessions will include: "Refugees," "Propaganda and its Analysis," "Prejudice and Understanding," and "What Can Youth Do in a World Crisis?"

SCHOLARSHIP IS NOW AVAILABLE TO THE CITADEL

High School Seniors in Illinois Eligible.

Illinois high school seniors interested in receiving a four year, all-expense scholarship to The Citadel, the military college of South Carolina, are advised to make application thru their school principals by Gen. Charles P. Summerall, president of the college. The present holder of the Col. Robert R. McCormick scholarship, William J. DeWitt, will be graduated from the school at Charleston, S. C., in June. DeWitt, a graduate of Bowen High school, matriculated at The Citadel in September, 1938.

The scholarship is limited by its donor to boys from Illinois. In addition to meeting the entrance requirements candidates must fulfill the following requirements: [a] general worth and personality; [b] exhibition of moral force of character; [c] physical vigor; and [d] scholastic preparation.

Principal Picks Candidate.

Other things being equal, Gen. Summerall said preference would be shown the candidate who otherwise would be unable to attend college.

From the applications received at any high school the principal will select that candidate who best fulfills the requirements and send his record to The Citadel.

The Citadel committee on scholarships will make the final selection from the candidates selected by the principals of the various public and private high schools of Illinois.

Age Limit, 16 to 22.

No boy is admitted to the freshman class at The Citadel unless he is between the ages of 16 and 22 at the time the college session begins and possesses no physical defects which would make military training dangerous to him.

All records of candidates must be submitted not later than June 30, 1942.

'UNITED AMERICA LOOKS AHEAD' IS FORUM SUBJECT

The American Forum of the Air will return to W-G-N and the Mutual network tonight after a two week absence. The topic will be, "United America Looks Ahead to 1942" and nine national leaders from divergent fields will participate in the discussion. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will serve as co-chairman with Moderator Theodore Granik.

Other participants will be William Green, president of the AFL; Philip Murray, president of the CIO; Albert W. Hawkes, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Robert Patterson, undersecretary of war; Ralph A. Bard, assistant secretary of the navy; Donald Nelson, executive director of Supply Priorities and Allocation board; Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, and Nelson A. THEME OF RADIO IN 1942: 'KEEP 'EM ROLLING!'

War May Restrict, Alter Broadcast Pattern.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

If "Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair" was the theme song for radio in 1941, "Keep 'Em Rolling" is likely to be in 1942. The war will be the preëminent and dominant subject in broadcasting for the year just started.

Nevertheless, broadcasters are going ahead, reassured by the Federal Communications commission that there is no government plan to take over the radio industry, with plans of entertaining 130 million Americans as well as informing them. A few days after Pearl Harbor, Bob Hope, the comedian, announced that he and his troupe would try to keep America laughing in the face of war.

"One of the things that makes us an unbeatable nation," he said, "is our ability to laugh. We may black out our lights but never our sense of humor."

That attitude in broadcasting appears to be widespread and in the serious days ahead Americans do not expect to lose the programs that entertain them.

Radio to Help Win War.

But Americans expect radio to contribute its utmost to win the war and broadcasters are showing responsiveness to their obligations in this regard. Broadcasters are giving liberally of their sustaining time to defense requirements and sponsors in general are devoting substantial portions of time to promoting the sale of bonds and other war requirements.

During the first days of the war many programs waived their commercial talk altogether to make way for the news and presumably they will continue this practice when the magnitude of the news warrants.

Radio blackouts, already introduced on the west coast, may be expected to return there or in any area where there is danger of air attack since radio signals might serve to guide enemy planes to their objectives.

There are reports of the possible introduction of systems of "scrambling" radio signals to prevent the use of stations as plane beacons.

There appears to be some likelihood of reallocation of certain assignments of broadcasting stations. Thought is being given to allocating some of the frequencies at the long end [that is, the short numbers], of the broadcasting portion of the spectrum to the armed services.

Ryan Is Broadcast Censor.

Radio like the press will operate under censorship in 1942. J. Harold Ryan, Toledo radio executive, has accepted the post of broadcast censor. He will serve as assistant to Byron Price, director of censorship. A liaison officer also is to be named to coördinate for radio the work of the FCC, the defense communications board, the director of censorship and other war offices having radio functions.

The war also will affect the production of radio receivers for private use. The war needs of radio are tremendous. A billion dollars worth of defense communications equipment is to be built in 1942. This is more than twice the total of radio equipment manufactured last year.

Manufacturers have warned that a shortage of crucial metals and other elements needed in the manufacture of receivers may mean greatly curtailed production for private consumption this year.

Fortunately for millions of listeners the life of sets can be extended indefinitely thru expert service and repair.

HALPIN, COLLIE EXPERT, TO BE GUEST TODAY ON BOB BECKER PROGRAM

Thomas M. Halpin, expert on collie breeding, will make a guest appearance with Bob Becker on Chats About Dogs on W-G-N at 12:40 p. m. today. Halpin has been associated with the Hertzville kennels for 20 years. He will discuss the outstanding qualities of the collie, name those which make it a good companion dog, and tell listeners how to pick out a good collie puppy when they get to the point of buying one for a pet. He also will tell how to keep a collie in good coat and how to groom it.

'PINAFORE' TO BE GIVEN NEXT ON THEATER OF AIR

Harold Turner to Air Preview Wednesday:

Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta, "H. M. S. Pinafore," will be presented from 8 to 9 p. m. next Saturday on the Chicago Theater of the Air. Marion Claire and Attilo Baggiore will be the stars. The program will be broadcast on W-G-N, W59C and the coast to coast Mutual Broadcasting system.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak.

Musical background will be supplied by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra under the baton of Henry Weber and by the chorus directed by Robert Trendler. Singing in supporting rôles will be Win Strake, Bruce Foote, and Ruth Slater.

◆

Betty Winkler and Bret Morrison will headline the dramatic cast for the operetta. Miss Winkler will portray the part of Josephine, Miss Claire's singing rôle, while Marrison will portray the speaking voice for Ralph Rackstraw, Baggiore's singing rôle.

Others in the dramatic cast include: Bob Jellison, Phil Lord, Marvin Mueller, Hazel Dopheide, Willard Waterman, Bloyce Wright, Rita Ascot, and Marilou Neumayer.

◆

A preview of the operetta will be presented on W-G-N at 11:45 a. m. Wednesday, when Harold Turner plays selections from "Pinafore" while Vern Hansen tells portions of the story. Turner's "Operetta Previews" program will be a regular W-G-N feature thruout the Theater of the Air series.

The operettas are produced by William A. Bacher.

AMERICAS SPEAK SERIES WILL BE RESUMED TODAY

The Americas Speak series, presented by the Rotary clubs of the Americas in collaboration with W-G-N and the Mutual network, will make its 1942 debut from 6:30 to 7 p. m. over W59C and at 10:30 on W-G-N. The program is rated an outstanding contribution to Pan-American good will and friendship. The initial broadcast of this 18 week series will link the United States and Mexico, with the first half of the program originating in the studios of W-G-N and the latter half emanating from Mexico City.

Bret Morrison and Vincent Pelletier will be heard in a dramatization of Cortez' conquest of Mexico during the first half of the program. Featured on the 15 minute portion of the program from Mexico City will be interviews on subjects selected for their interest and appeal to the international audience. The Mexico program will also include musical selections.

The Americas Speak will be heard in the United States over the coast-to-coast facilities of the Mutual network, in Canada over a regional network of the Canadian Broadcasting corporation, and in Latin America and thruout the world over the facilities of the powerful short wave stations WGEO, WGEA, KGEI, and WRUL.

GRAND STRATEGY FOR 1942, TOPIC OF REVIEW STAND

Will Hitler and his Japanese allies succeed in diverting United States military and material aid to the Pacific and expose Great Britain, Russia, and American Atlantic shipping to a new axis offensive in the west? Can he convince the American people that Japan is the only enemy? What should be United States and allied "Grand Strategy for 1942?" To discuss these vital military, material, and morale questions, the Northwestern University Reviewing Stand will bring to W-G-N and Mutual microphones at 10 a.m. today three authorities on the war of materials, men, and propaganda: Col. Donald Armstrong, ordnance department, U. S. A., deputy district chief, Chicago ordnance district; Hugh M. Cole, lecturer in the Institute of Military Studies, University of Chicago, and Gerhard Schacher, lecturer in the Medill School of Journalism, Northwestern university, and radio commentator.

Irene Rich, lovely star of the screen and radio, now past 40, weighs the same as she did at 16. She recommends the easy Welch way to reduce.

Here's The Most Amazing Way To Lose Weight You've Ever Read About!

Here's how to take off ugly fat—without strict diet lists, no strenuous exercises, no drugs. The easy Welch Way! And intelligent, cooperative people who faithfully followed Dr. Frederic Damrau's instructions lost an average of 7 pounds a month. Amazing results sworn to before a Notary Public. And listen how easy it is. Just mix ¾ glass of Welch's Grape Juice with ¼ glass water, and drink before meals and at bedtime. Then this happens: First, you have less desire to eat sweet, fattening foods—thus reducing caloric intake. Second, the natural dextrose in Welch's is quickly consumed. This regime actually helps nature consume excess fat. Yet!—you needn't suffer a hungry moment. So start reducing the Welch Way today.

ELECTION DATA STIRS LAMBENT POLITICAL FIRE

Aspirants Get Facts on Requirements.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

First stirrings of the approaching primary election campaigns came last week as prospective candidates for office began mapping their strategy.

Officials to be nominated in the primaries on April 14 are: All congressmen, all state representatives, and state senators from odd numbered districts.

Officials to be elected [not merely nominated] in the primaries includes state central committeemen, who are picked according to congressional districts, and township committeemen and senatorial committeemen, who are chosen by senatorial districts.

Flynn Tells Dates.

Seekers of these offices were given their starting cues with the publication by County Clerk Michael J. Flynn of his annual election calendar covering the current year. This calendar, besides setting forth all the important political dates for 1942, such as filing and withdrawal deadlines, also lists other vital facts, as for example the number of signatures required on nominatin petitions for both Republican and Democratic candidates.

The number of signatures required on some petitions is based on the most recent vote for governor, or for the party member who received the highest number of votes in the latest previous election. Because neither congressional nor senatorial dictricts follow precinct lines exactly, determination of these percentages calls for thoro delving into election records, a task that is captained by Daniel A. Carey, attorney and chief clerk for Flynn's office.

Carey and his assistants have assembled these figures not only for Cook county, the limit of their official jurisdiction, but as a service also for other counties in Chicagoland. The following information is based on their efforts:

CONGRESSMAN.

Represents his congressional district in the national lower house in Washington, D. C. One is elected from each district for a term of two years.

Minimum number of names required on nominating petitions is one-half of 1 per cent of the total vote cast for representative of his party who received the highest number of votes in his district in the latest general election. The 1942 figures, by districts, are:

Dist.	Signatures req. Dem.	Rep.
1	192	160
2	900	842
3	828	784
4	403	153
5	194	83

8	212	72
9	293	308
10	C90	1,101
11	401	669

Districts 1 to 9 are entirely within Cook county. The 10th includes part of Cook county and all of Lake county. The 11th includes McHenry, Kane, DuPage, and Will counties.

STATE COMMITTEEMAN.

Represents his congressional district in the state conventions to be held on May 1 this year, at which nominees for university trustees are named and the state party platform is formulated. One is elected for each district for a term of two years.

Minimum number of names required on nominating petitions is 100.

STATE SENATOR

Represents his senatorial district in the upper house of the state legislature in Springfield. One is elected from each district for a term of four years. Odd numbered districts elect one biennium, even numbered districts the next.

Minimum number of names required on nominating petitions is one-half of 1 per cent of total cast for his party's candidate for governor in his district in the most recent general election. These figures, by district, are:

Dist.	Signatures req. Dem.	Rep.

*Elect state representatives only this year.

Districts 1 to 7 and the odd numbered districts 9 to 31, inclusive, are in Cook county, the 7th taking in most of the suburban territory. The 8th district is made up of Boone, McHenry, and Lake counties. The 14th takes in Kane and Kendall counties. The 41st is composed of DuPage and Will counties.

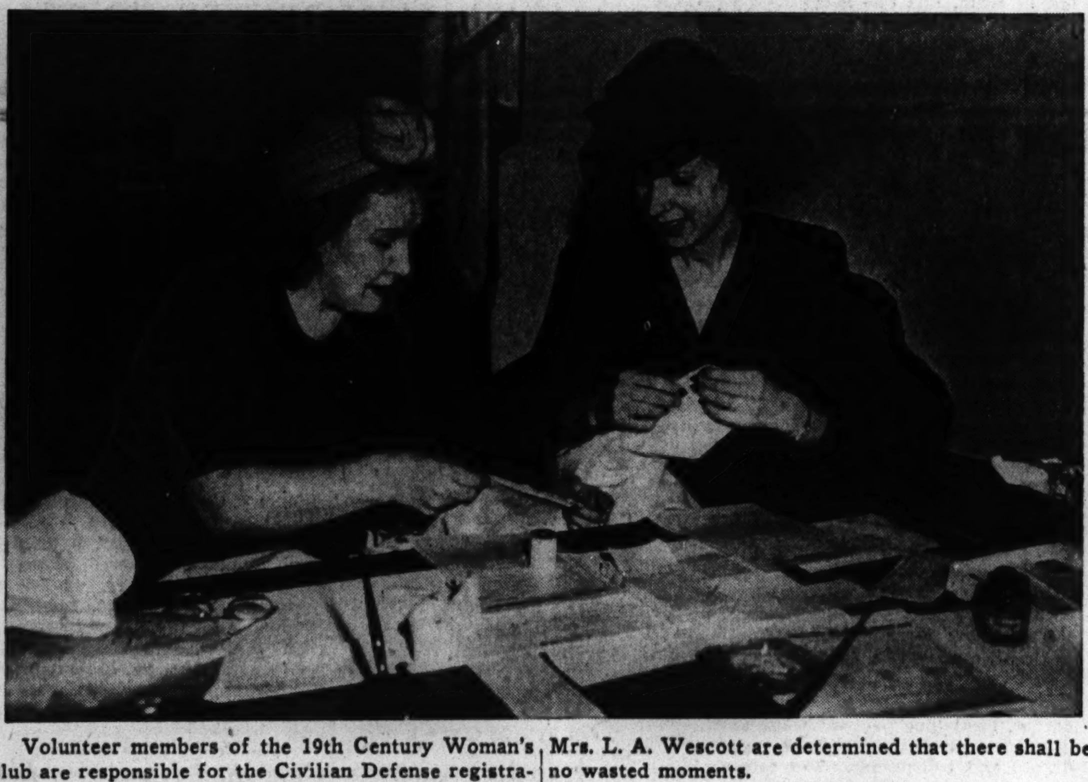
Oak Park's Community Chest Workers Become Volunteers for Red Cross Emergency Drive

Declaration of war on the axis came at a time when Oak Park and River Forest had just completed a successful Community Chest campaign and immediately the organization of 2,000 citizen volunteers under the chairmanship of Stuart W. Cochran turned its attention from a civic to a national responsibility. Along with the Red Cross drive for $75,000 in funds there has been renewed activity in Red Cross work at headquarters, Oak Park avenue and Lake street. Mrs. Ralph Trimmer, co-chairman of production units, is beyond the window in the foreground. Busy at the sewing table, left to right, are Mrs. Wallace M. Waterman, Mrs. Proctor Waldo, and Mrs. William V. Kahler.

Leaders of the Red Cross War Emergency campaign in Oak Park and River Forest, left to right, include Mrs. Robert E. Cantwell, chairman of the woman's division; Herrick Goodwillie, secretary of the Red Cross in the two suburbs; Lester B. McAllister, local general chairman of the Red Cross drive, and Mrs. Robert Y. Bradshaw, chairman of production units.



Volunteer members of the 19th Century Woman's club are responsible for the Civilian Defense registration in Oak Park. Mrs. Frederick Spring, left, and Mrs. L. A. Wescott are determined that there shall be no wasted moments.

High School Seniors Vote on Class Star

Principals of all the public high schools in Chicago were asked last week to make their nominations for the midyear interviews with outstanding seniors to be published in THE TRIBUNE. Interviews with seniors are a long established custom in The Tribune Metropolitan sections.

These nominations will be made by the principals by next Tuesday, and the lists will be printed in next Sunday's Metropolitan sections. The head of each school will select the ten young men or women whose scholastic, leardership and activity records mark them as best qualified to represent their school in the interviews.

Winner Chosen by Classmates.

From this list of candidates the seniors of each school by popular vote will choose the one person who will represent his school on THE TRIBUNE's honor roll. Pictures of these distinguished students, and interviews setting forth the scholastic careers and future aspirations of each, will appear in the Metropolitan section of Sunday, Jan. 25.

This year's midyear interviews will be the first under THE TRIBUNE's new system, adopted last June, of giving the students the final voice in selecting their own representatives. The method was worked out with the cooperation of James B. McCahey, president of the board of education and Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools.

Reasons for Change.

In previous years the principal of each school selected the three students he regarded as most outstanding, and the pictures and interviews of each were printed. This method brought forth the ranking students but had no provision for an expression of the opinion of classmates.

Brief biographies of each of the nominees will be carried with the list next Sunday. Graduates will have until the following Tuesday [Jan. 13] to cast their ballots.

Paragraphs About People You May Know

MR. AND MRS. JACOB FORMANEK celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary quietly yesterday at their home, 106 South Lincoln avenue, in Westmont. With them for the occasion were all but one of their seven children, and eight of their grandchildren. One daughter, a granddaughter, and a great-grandchild live in Czecho-Slovakia. Both Mr. and Mrs. Formanek came to the United States from Czecho-Slovakia in 1891. They were married in Chicago Jan. 3, 1892, and lived on the west side until moving to Westmont in 1921.

A COLOR film of Camp Algonquin will be shown to an Oak Park audience for the first time Wednesday at a luncheon meeting of the Community circle at the Oak Park Christian church. The film shows the type of vacation given to more than 1,600 mothers and children from Chicago's industrial sections each summer. It is of particular interest to Oak Parkers because the camp's Barton Memorial library and several other buildings were constructed by members of the Oak Park churches under leadership of the late Dr. Will Barton. Produced by volunteers, the film is available for free showing to any church, club, or civic group.

NEW assistant pastor of the First Methodist church in Oak Park is Rev. L. Churchill Austin, a senior at Garrett Biblical institute. A native of Oak Park, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Austin, 333 North Oak Park avenue. His undergraduate training was obtained at Ohio Wesleyan university.

For their second production of the season, the Institute Players of the Jewish People's institute will present "Yes My Darling Daughter" on January 10, 11, and 12. Frances Kelly, who has appeared in many leads at the Michiana Shores summer playhouse, and Dena Reed, both members of the Players Workshop, will be seen in the leading rôles as mother and daughter.

F. H. MASSMANN, 2636 Monroe street, has been reëlected chairman of the North Shore district of the Chicago Boy Scout council. He became interested in Scouting in 1930, and is a recipient of a Silver Beaver award, highest honor paid to a volunteer leader by a local Scout council.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollo N. Givler of Naperville spent the holidays with their son, Donald, and family in San Gabriel. After visiting with other relatives around Los Angeles, their plans called for a return by way of Seattle where their youngest son, Rollo Jr., is located. The trip offered an opportunity for the Givlers to make the acquaintance of their grandson, David, son of the Donald Givlers.

PLAN TO DOUBLE COURSES AIDING WAR INDUSTRY

6,700 Now Learning Specific Skills.

Chicago is preparing to double the rate at which its national defense training program is developing artificers to supply the expanding needs of industry geared to a tremendous war effort, Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, said last week.

Already the trainers of mechanical workers, who are of supreme importance in a war of production, are working around the clock But even this urgent speed is to be stepped up with more classes as soon as the contemplated demand for new war production workers is felt, Dr. Johnson said.

In the well-equipped vocational training shops of 10 of Chicago's high schools, 267 instructors, half of them from the school staffs and the other half from industry, are imparting new or improved skills to 6,700 or more men, some of whom are already engaged in the fabrication of the machines and weapons that give punching power to the man in the field.

Government Pays Bill.

This program is specifically set up for the purpose it now serves. In fact, it teaches only subjects approved by the Office of Production Management. It is separate and apart from the regular board of education vocational training program, which in its own way is aiding mightily in the race to outbuild the nation's enemies.

The national defense program borrows the buildings and equipment of the board of education during the time they are not in regular use, but other expenses are met from a fund appropriated by congress. The instructors who participate do so in their spare time, and are paid from this special fund as are the teachers hired from industrial establishments.

High schools whose shops are used are Lane on the north side, Schurz on the northwest side, Austin, Crane, and Harrison on the west side, Tilden, Englewood, and Lindblom on the southwest side, and Phillips, and Chicago vocational on the south side.

How the program functions was explained by Philip L. McNamee, industrial coördinator.

Teach Specific Skills.

"This program is concerned with the welfare of industry rather than the individual," McNamee said. "Therefore our purpose is to train the individual as fast as possible in a specific skill, so that he can take his place in the production line. We are not like the vocational school, which teaches several skills to a worker in a leisurely general course.

"When the national defense training program got under way a year ago last July, we drew our participants largely from the work relief rolls. With the decline of WPA, this source has almost dried up, and now our trainees come principally from the Illinois free employment service.

"The trainee when he comes to us selects the subject in which he wants instruction, and is assigned to the class nearest his home. There is no charge for instruction, materials or equipment. He progresses according to his individual ability."

Usually it requires from 8 to 10 weeks to train a man for a place in industry, McNamee said, but this period can be speeded up as soon as the emergency requires.

4,281 Obtain Jobs.

Of the 20,692 persons enrolled since the program began, 4,281 have been placed directly in industrial jobs, McNamee revealed. Many more thousands of which no record could be kept obtained jobs themselves as soon as their training was completed.

Many of the enrollees are individuals now employed who seek to improve themselves, McNamee said. A newcomer to the program must pick one subject and stick to it. A man already employed, however, can take as many subjects as his spare time will allow.

Machine shop work and electric welding are the most popular subjects, and there are long waiting lists for them.

Women Try to Enroll.

The great bulk of the present activity comes from 3 to 10:30 p. m., but classes are in progress in one or more of the 10 schools every hour of the working week. The later classes are chiefly for men employed during earlier hours.

Because industry is still adapting itself to the war effort, the actual outbreak of hostilities has not yet been reflected in the program to any great extent, McNamee said.

One notable result of the war is the increasing demand of women for a share in the program, in which only men can now enroll. Scores of women each day, eager to take active part in war production, try to enroll, but they must be turned down. Officials expressed the hope that soon the rules may be expanded to include women.

Courses of Study.

Courses are offered in the various operations of aviation building, electrical work, foundry practice, forge shop, and machine shop work, blue print reading and drawing, sheet metal work, tool and die design, marine drafting, ship lofting, ordnance inpsction and industrial chemistry, to mention only a few.

PUPILS OF BROWN SCHOOL TO HAVE REUNION JAN. 12

Historical Society Looks Back 85 Years.

Chicago of a day when Ashland avenue of the near west side was one of the city's fashionable residential streets will return for an evening on Monday, Jan. 12, at the Legler branch library, Pulaski road and Monroe street. While the occasion is the midseason business meeting of the West Side Historical society, the emphasis will lie in the reunion of former pupils of Brown school.

Survivor of the Chicago fire, Brown school, remodeled thru the years, still stands at Warren avenue and Wood street, where for 85 years it has served four generations of Chicagoans. Among the many children who sat in the classrooms thru the years were a number destined for fame. One was famous then—Thomas [Tad] Lincoln. He attended Brown school when he and his mother lived on Washington boulevard in the 1200 block. It was for only a short time, but while he was there he edited the school paper. One issue of this paper is on file at the Chicago Historical society.

Among Former Students.

Among the former students were Mrs. Bertha Honoré Palmer and her sister, Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant. Others were Cyrus Hall McCormick Jr. and Leander Hamilton McCormick. Myrtle Reed, who as Mrs. Myrtle Reed McCullough gained fame as the author of "Lavender and Old Lace," was an alumna. So were Harvey T. Woodruff, Eddie Foy, and Edgar Rice Burroughs, whose "Tarzan and the Apes" thrilled boyhood. Florenz Ziegfeld, whose name became synonymous with spectacular showgirl productions, grew up in the neighborhood, where his father, Florenz, was a music instructor. Lillian Russell, then Nellie Leonard, was a student.

Brown school celebrated its 75th anniversary in 1932. For the celebration, Gene T. Skinkle, a scholar in the 1870s, wrote some reminiscences of a few of his former classmates. Of Eddie Foy, then known as Eddie Fitzgerald, he had the following to say: "This Brown scholar of years agone was later better known as Eddie Foy, the comedian. His father, mother and sister were musicians and played for and called for many dances 60 years ago. They lived on Madison street opposite Page street for many years, and Eddie and his sister attended Brown school. It was Eddie Foy who did much to calm and save many lives in the audience in the Iroquois theater fire. He and his family were playing in the theater at the time of the disaster."

Principal to Speak.

Harry W. Herx, principal, will give a history of Brown school as the principal feature of the reunion and meeting Jan. 12. There will be reminiscences also from many of the former pupils.

Founded in 1930, the West Side Historical society is now 11 years old, and has grown to a membership of over 350 persons. Its founder was Miss Pearl I. Field, regional librarian of the Legler library.

The officers are George P. Madigan, 4030 West Madison street, president; J. C. Miller, 420 Wisconsin avenue, Oak Park, first vice president; Harlo Grant, 3246 Washington boulevard, second vice president; Miss Lois Bergh, 2651 Marmora avenue, third vice president; Mrs. Charles W. Carter, 109 South Washtenaw avenue, fourth vice president; T. H. Golightly, 4018 Madison street, treasurer, and Miss Field, honorary life president.

Members of Board.

Chairman of the board of directors is Otto Eisenschiml, Chicago author. Directors are Edward P. Brennan, 6446 Wayne avenue; John T. McEnery, 4041 Madison street; Mrs. S. E. Cleveland, 3750 Lake Shore drive; Dennis J. Ryan, 715 Humphrey avenue, Oak Park; Mrs. Signy Hoff, 808 Independence boulevard; Ray McCarthy, 25 North Pulaski road; Edgar Schnadig Jr., 175 West Jackson boulevard; Frank L. Wood, 306 South Hamlin avenue; Jay Beidler Camp, 546 Washington boulevard, and Amerigo Sansone, 5543 Adams street. Mrs. Gertrude I. Jenkins, assistant librarian of the Legler library, is secretary-historian.

Farragut Band Group.

The Farragut Band and Orchestra Parents' association will hold its monthly meeting at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening in the Shedd park fieldhouse.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, Jan. 5.

Transplant seedlings that are large enough. Seedlings need little plant food because their root system is meager, but when they have developed copiously more food is necessary. The amount of plant food to apply to any kind of plant is often a problem for most gardeners, but the safest amount is too little rather than too much.

Growing house plants need food and it is wise to buy a complete food which is one that contains the essential elements or those that plants need. Fertilizers like bone meal are not complete foods because they contain only a single element and must be supplemented with other foods. It is best to study the general requirements of soil or study the natural conditions under which a plant grew.

Tuesday, Jan. 6.

Keep the Christmas pot plants in as good condition as possible. Chief essentials are plenty of water, the avoidance of drafts, excessively dry atmosphere, and the control of insect pests. Placing pans of water on radiators will aid in keeping some moisture in the air, and an occasional syringing will keep the foliage cleared of all dust.

The grower of pot plants has a regular spraying program but sometimes it is difficult to rid his plants of all insects and if a few are on a plant that ultimately reaches a home gardener these few insects, finding the room congenial, increase at a rapid rate.

Wednesday, Jan. 7.

Transplant the Calla Lily when root bound, for it will need plenty of space and food to produce many flowers. These plants require an abundance of water; in fact, it is a moisture loving plant. Even tho the flowers are few, the foliage is tropical and well worth enjoying.

Thursday, Jan. 8.

If the home gardner has an overgrown plant or one that is not wanted, why not get in touch with the nearest high school—the biology department may like it.

Feed the birds by hanging pieces of suet to the branch of a tree where it can be seen from a window, or arrange a feeding station and see that food is always on hand. Country folk who are aware of pheasants in the vicinity should scatter grains where the birds will find them.

Friday, Jan. 9.

Paint all tools; clean, repair the lawn mower. Those who do gardening on a comparatively large scale can save much time and trouble if all machines are placed under cover and repaired at this time. The occasional practice of allowing farm machinery to rust in the field is certainly indicative of excessive carelessness and neglect.

Saturday, Jan. 10.

The period between Christmas and Easter is a good time in which to start woody twigs in flower. The pussy willow and goldenbell, cornelian cherry, shadbush, plum, and others are easy to start and they make fine bouquets in suitable containers.

ONE WAY DRIVES TOP MOTOR CLUB AIMS FOR 1942

Seeks Cure for Delays Thru West Side.

Continued effort to extend the one-way street system for Chicago's west side is one of the major objectives in the program of the West Area council of the Chicago Motor club for 1942.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the club, said civic leaders had pledged themselves to redouble activity by the council to urge relief of crowded conditions of west side streets.

"Most emphasis," said Mr. Hayes, "will be on recommendations to make West End avenue a one-way westbound street from Garfield park to Laramie avenue. This would make Washington boulevard one-way eastbound and relieve congestion on that artery in this area."

Viaduct Is Opened.

Most important of the safety and traffic improvements which the council helped bring to the west side in 1941 was the $800,000 Central avenue viaduct over the multiple tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad tracks between Grand and North avenues. More than 200,000 persons witnessed the opening ceremonies on the evening of May 14 sponsored by the west and northwest area councils of the motor club.

Other projects urged by the council which were completed during the year were the paving of Austin avenue between North avenue and Diversey boulevard; installation of traffic signals on Austin avenue at Grand and Diversey; an order for installation of traffic signals at Grand avenue and Mannheim road in Franklin park, and an order for construction of a $458,000 viaduct on Laramie avenue over the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul tracks near Grand avenue.

Safety Gates Installed.

Automatic gates at 25th avenue and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul tracks in Franklin park were installed, and an order for traffic lights at the 5th avenue and 16th street intersections with Pulaski road and Homan avenue and Austin boulevard was obtained.

SUBURBAN HOME IS BUILT ALONG GRECIAN LINES

Spacious Residence Has Three Fireplaces.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Chicago has made many claims to early architectural relationship with colonial fashions, but our city's first real architecture over a hundred years ago began with the Greek revival style. In those far gone days our pioneer carpenter-builders studied their handbooks faithfully and labored to translate their dreams of classic porticos and columns, pilasters and cornices into dwellings for those in the Chicago area.

Now again there is an increased interest in this stimulating native type and we see it reproduced with great beauty in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Baughman, 1216 South Sheridan road, Highland Park.

Green Slate Roof.

The architect, William N. Alderman, 140 South Dearborn street, has carried out the exterior in Lannon stone with dressed Indiana limestone lintels and slate roof of unfading green.

It is a house which reflects the classic vigor, grace, and clearcut purity of line. Inside as well as out we recognize those symbols of the ancient Greek tradition which are the basis of so much of our western decorative expression. [Indeed, this heritage from the Greek is all around us, and in the rooms where we move it is likely we can see motifs from those old days.]

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Baughman faces north and as you enter there's a great center reception hall with marble floor and wide, winding stair to the second floor.

Has Tall Windows.

The living room at the left has ice blue walls, and rose toned drapes at French doors and windows, rug and upholstery of chairs have exquisite shades of rose and blue and deep gold. The windows are tall, eight and one-half feet, and on the fireplace columns the Greek nymphs are hand carved. Molded plaster cornices and all-trim have been designed by the architect.

The fireplace wall in the library is of light walnut, a gem of unusual beauty. The rug is of deep American Beauty shade and the three other walls of the room are covered with a hand blocked scenic wall paper with a Greek revival house pictured on a soft gray background.

There's a large outdoor living room accessible both from the library and the living room.

Another fireplace is found in the dining room, this one a corner type of marble, and the rich blue of the drapes and the border of the beige rug were chosen especially to blend with the border pattern of the blue and white Regency paper.

Has Breakfast Bar.

The kitchen is streamlined and modern, a sparkling spot in white with red accessories and decorations and large enough to contain not only a breakfast corner but also a breakfast refreshment bar and counter.

On the second floor there's a master bedroom as spacious as the living room, with French blue carpeting, blue drapes, and French Regency beds of walnut with Regency plume note. The room has two baths, one very tailored and masculine, with light gray tile wainscot and walls papered in blue. There is a light, capacious dressing room with blue carpeting and rose colored plate glass top dressing table, and a second, very feminine bath in dusty pink and silver and a wall paper which flaunts dusty pink Regency plumes.

The two guest rooms are decorated and planned with the same artistry and feeling of esthetic judgment.

Carved Oak Beds.

One room has carved beds of dark oak and a Chinese rug with deep border, light blue papered walls and mirror cornices, deep blue satin drapes and bedspreads. The second guest room has blond walnut furnishings, pale peach toned wall paper with a lacey pattern, and a beige rug with tiny flowers in deep and dusty tones of pink.

In the basement there's a comfortable recreation room spendidly fitted out with the accessories and necessities of such a spot. There's a deep cobalt blue fireplace wall, while the other walls are painted cream. The floor is linoleum with Mexican rugs, the refreshment bar is finished in Venetian red, and stools are upholstered in green.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Otten of 1312 South Komensky avenue observed their 60th anniversary, while their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Roegner of 1440 South 56th court, Cicero, joined them in celebration of their own 35th wedding anniversary. Included in the gathering were 15 great grandchildren of the Ottens.

STATE SKATERS COMPETE TODAY ON LAKE ELLYN

Event Recalls Sleighing Parties of '90s.

Living up to its traditions of pioneer days in providing winter sports Lake Ellyn in Glen Ellyn today will be the scene of the state speed skate championship meet under the sponsorship of the Glen Ellyn Amateur Athletic association. Four hundred skaters of all ages will take part in the 20 events of the fourth annual meet, the weather, of course, permitting.

Lake Ellyn park is said to have the finest facilities for ice skating to be found in the Chicago area. The park district has provided a recreation house, flood light, and equipment to keep the ice in good condition. The checking and concessions in the recreation house are run by the park district and proceeds go toward the expense of the skating season.

Last year the meet was postponed due to lack of freezing weather on the scheduled date, but two years ago it is estimated that more than 15,000 persons gathered at the lake for the meet.

Events Starts at 1:15.

Events ranging from the 220 yard dash to the five mile race will start at 1:15 o'clock and continue until dark. A feature attraction will be the exhibition by a troupe from the Chicago Figure Skating club.

Teams taking part will include those of the CYO, the Northwest Skating club, the Glenn Ellyn Amateur Athletic association, the George F. Barrett club, the Elgin Skating club, the Tilden Skating club, the Swift Playground club, the Farragut Skating club, and the Harper Skating club.

Pete McAleese is skating coach for the Glen Ellyn association, and Fred Roll is chairman of the skating committee. Officers of the Glen Ellyn A. A. A., sponsoring the meet, are Harold S. Baum, president; Frank E. Huntshaw, vice president, and J. R. Stewart, secretary-treasurer.

Medals will be awarded to first, second, and third place winners in the various events. Backers of the meet are wearing coat lapel buttons which have been purchased for 25 cents.

Weather Gives Concern.

Altho Lake Ellyn already has been frozen over this season, mild weather around Christmas caused promoters concern, as it was realized that freezing weather must arrive several days before the date of the meet to make the carnival possible.

In connection with winter sports in Glen Ellyn there is reference in "The Story of an Old Town—Glen Ellyn" of sleighing parties on cold moonlight nights back in 1890 that were a favorite pastime of the young people.

"Hayracks were placed on runners and then filled with straw. About 25 could ride in one. All sat on straw with rugs and shawls to cover them and keep warm. Usually there were two or three loads in the party.

Girls Were Kissed.

"Sometimes they went to the Rathbun farm where a warm welcome awaited them with roaring hot fires and hot oyster soup. Sometimes they went to the Mark Davis farm, where that genial old bachelor manned the fiddle and kissed the girls while his sister set out warming food. One Glen Ellyn matron recalls the night when the snow was so deep that the young people couldn't get home and had to spend the night at their host's house. There was no telephone in those days, so parents couldn't be notified, but they took it calmly."

Lake Ellyn was made possible in 1890 thru the construction of a dam financed with $2,500 pledged by citizens. Thomas E. Hill landscaped the grounds and planned the artificial lake, while Philo Stacy superintended the actual construction work. The Glen Ellyn Hotel and Spring company acquired title to 116 acres of land. Later the company gave the park to the village.

For the healthful sport of ice skating some experts have said that Lake Ellyn offers advantages equal to those of Lake Placid or Lake Saranac.

THEME OF RADIO IN 1942: 'KEEP 'EM ROLLING!'

War May Restrict, Alter Broadcast Pattern.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

If "Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair" was the theme song for radio in 1941, "Keep 'Em Rolling" is likely to be in 1942. The war will be the preëminent and dominant subject in broadcasting for the year just started.

Nevertheless, broadcasters are going ahead, reassured by the Federal Communications commission that there is no government plan to take over the radio industry, with plans of entertaining 130 million Americans as well as informing them. A few days after Pearl Harbor, Bob Hope, the comedian, announced that he and his troupe would try to keep America laughing in the face of war.

"One of the things that makes us an unbeatable nation," he said, "is our ability to laugh. We may black out our lights but never our sense of humor."

That attitude in broadcasting appears to be widespread and in the serious days ahead Americans do not expect to lose the programs that entertain them.

Radio to Help Win War.

But Americans expect radio to contribute its utmost to win the war and broadcasters are showing responsiveness to their obligations in this regard. Broadcasters are giving liberally of their sustaining time to defense requirements and sponsors in general are devoting substantial portions of time to promoting the sale of bonds and other war requirements.

During the first days of the war many programs waived their commercial talk altogether to make way for the news and presumably they will continue this practice when the magnitude of the news warrants.

Radio blackouts, already introduced on the west coast, may be expected to return there or in any area where there is danger of air attack since radio signals might serve to guide enemy planes to their objectives.

There are reports of the possible introduction of systems of "scrambling" radio signals to prevent the use of stations as plane beacons.

There appears to be some likelihood of reallocation of certain assignments of broadcasting stations. Thought is being given to allocating some of the frequencies at the long end [that is, the short numbers], of the broadcasting portion of the spectrum to the armed services.

Ryan Is Broadcast Censor.

Radio like the press will operate under censorship in 1942. J. Harold Ryan, Toledo radio executive, has accepted the post of broadcast censor. He will serve as assistant to Byron Price, director of censorship. A liaison officer also is to be named to coördinate for radio the work of the FCC, the defense communications board, the director of censorship and other war offices having radio functions.

The war also will affect the production of radio receivers for private use. The war needs of radio are tremendous. A billion dollars worth of defense communications equipment is to be built in 1942. This is more than twice the total of radio equipment manufactured last year.

Manufacturers have warned that a shortage of crucial metals and other elements needed in the manufacture of receivers may mean greatly curtailed production for private consumption this year.

Fortunately for millions of listeners the life of sets can be extended indefinitely thru expert service and repair.

AMERICAS SPEAK SERIES WILL BE RESUMED TODAY

The Americas Speak series, presented by the Rotary clubs of the Americas in collaboration with W-G-N and the Mutual network, will make its 1942 debut from 6:30 to 7 p. m. over W59C and at 10:30 on W-G-N. The program is rated an outstanding contribution to Pan-American good will and friendship. The initial broadcast of this 18 week series will link the United States and Mexico, with the first half of the program originating in the studios of W-G-N and the latter half emanating from Mexico City.

Bret Morrison and Vincent Pelletier will be heard in a dramatization of Cortez' conquest of Mexico during the first half of the program. Featured on the 15 minute portion of the program from Mexico City will be interviews on subjects selected for their interest and appeal to the international audience. The Mexico program will also include musical selections.

The Americas Speak will be heard in the United States over the coast-to-coast facilities of the Mutual network, in Canada over a regional network of the Canadian Broadcasting corporation, and in Latin America and thruout the world over the facilities of the powerful short wave stations WGEO, WGEA, KGEI, and WRUL.

'PINAFORE' TO BE GIVEN NEXT ON THEATER OF AIR

Harold Turner to Air Preview Wednesday.

Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta, "H. M. S. Pinafore," will be presented from 8 to 9 p. m. next Saturday on the Chicago Theater of the Air. Marion Claire and Attilo Baggiore will be the stars. The program will be broadcast on W-G-N, W59C and the coast to coast Mutual Broadcasting system.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak.

Musical background will be supplied by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra under the baton of Henry Weber and by the chorus directed by Robert Trendler. Singing in supporting rôles will be Win Strake, Bruce Foote, and Ruth Slater.

Betty Winkler and Bret Morrison will headline the dramatic cast for the operetta. Miss Winkler will portray the part of Josephine, Miss Claire's singing rôle, while Marrison will portray the speaking voice for Ralph Rackstraw, Baggiore's singing rôle.

Others in the dramatic cast include: Bob Jellison, Phil Lord, Marvin Mueller, Hazel Dopheide, Willard Waterman, Bloyce Wright, Rita Ascot, and Marilou Neumayer.

A preview of the operetta will be presented on W-G-N at 11:45 a. m. Wednesday, when Harold Turner plays selections from "Pinafore" while Vern Hansen tells portions of the story. Turner's "Operetta Previews" program will be a regular W-G-N feature thruout the Theater of the Air series.

The operettas are produced by William A. Bacher.

'UNITED AMERICA LOOKS AHEAD' IS FORUM SUBJECT

The American Forum of the Air will return to W-G-N and the Mutual network tonight after a two week absence. The topic will be, "United America Looks Ahead to 1942" and nine national leaders from divergent fields will participate in the discussion. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will serve as co-chairman with Moderator Theodore Granik.

Other participants will be William Green, president of the AFL; Philip Murray, president of the CIO; Albert W. Hawkes, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Robert Patterson, undersecretary of war; Ralph A. Bard, assistant secretary of the navy; Donald Nelson, executive director of Supply Priorities and Allocation board; Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, and Nelson A. Rockefeller, coördinator, Office of Inter-American Affairs.

With this broadcast Moderator Granik celebrates his 15th year on the air. Much of the program's success has been attributed to Granik's ability to get opposing factions, usually bitterly opposed, to meet each other in public debate.

BEARS-ALL-STAR GAME WILL BE AIRED ON W-G-N

The last public appearance of the world's champion Chicago Bears will be aired on W-G-N and the Mutual network at 12:55 p. m. today. Red Barber will broadcast a description of the game between the Bears and the All-Star professional team made up of the outstanding players on the other National Professional league teams. The game will be played in the New York Polo Grounds for the benefit of the Navy Relief society.

Here's how to take off ugly fat—without strict diet lists, no strenuous exercises, no drugs. The easy Welch Way! And intelligent, cooperative people who faithfully followed Dr. Frederic Damrau's instructions lost an average of 7 pounds a month. Amazing results sworn to before a Notary Public. And listen how easy it is. Just mix ¾ glass of Welch's Grape Juice with ¼ glass water, and drink before meals and at bedtime. Then this happens: First, you have less desire to eat sweet, fattening foods—thus reducing caloric intake. Second, the natural dextrose in Welch's is quickly consumed. This regime actually helps nature consume excess fat. Yet!—you needn't suffer a hungry moment. So start reducing the Welch Way today.

ELECTION DATA STIRS LAMBENT POLITICAL FIRE

Aspirants Get Facts on Requirements.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

First stirrings of the approaching primary election campaigns came last week as prospective candidates for office began mapping their strategy.

Officials to be nominated in the primaries on April 14 are: All congressmen, all state representatives, and state senators from odd numbered districts.

Officials to be elected [not merely nominated] in the primaries includes state central committeemen, who are picked according to congressional districts, and township committeemen and senatorial committeemen, who are chosen by senatorial districts.

Flynn Tells Dates.

Seekers of these offices were given their starting cues with the publication by County Clerk Michael J. Flynn of his annual election calendar covering the current year. This calendar, besides setting forth all the important political dates for 1942, such as filing and withdrawal deadlines, also lists other vital facts, as for example the number of signatures required on nominatin petitions for both Republican and Democratic candidates.

The number of signatures required on some petitions is based on the most recent vote for governor, or for the party member who received the highest number of votes in the latest previous election. Because neither congressional nor senatorial dictricts follow precinct lines exactly, determination of these percentages calls for thoro delving into election records, a task that is captained by Daniel A. Carey, attorney and chief clerk for Flynn's office.

Carey and his assistants have assembled these figures not only for Cook county, the limit of their official jurisdiction, but as a service also for other counties in Chicagoland. The following information is based on their efforts:

CONGRESSMAN.

Represents his congressional district in the national lower house in Washington, D. C. One is elected from each district for a term of two years.

Minimum number of names required on nominating petitions is one-half of 1 per cent of the total vote cast for representative of his party who received the highest number of votes in his district in the latest general election. The 1942 figures, by districts, are:

Dist.	Signatures req. Dem.	Signatures req. Rep.
1	192	160
2	900	842
3	828	784
4	403	153
5	104	83
6	1,013	831
7	1,334	1,232
8	212	72
9	293	308
10	C90	1,101
11	401	669

Districts 1 to 9 are entirely within Cook county. The 10th includes part of Cook county and all of Lake county. The 11th includes McHenry, Kane, DuPage, and Will counties.

STATE COMMITTEEMAN.

Represents his congressional district in the state conventions to be held on May 1 this year, at which nominees for university trustees are named and the state party platform is formulated. One is elected for each district for a term of two years.

Minimum number of names required on nominating petitions is 100.

STATE SENATOR

Represents his senatorial district in the upper house of the state legislature in Springfield. One is elected from each district for a term of four years. Odd numbered districts elect one biennium, even numbered districts the next.

Minimum number of names required on nominating petitions is one-half of 1 per cent of total cast for his party's candidate for governor in his district in the most recent general election. These figures, by district, are:

Dist.	Signatures req. Dem.	Signatures req. Rep.
1	53	45
*2	97	65
3	126	116
*4	264	122
5	304	341

25	712	804
27	88	26
29	64	79
31	309	411
41	218	377

*Elect state representatives only this year.

Districts 1 to 7 and the odd numbered districts 9 to 31, inclusive, are in Cook county, the 7th taking in most of the suburban territory. The 8th district is made up of Boone, McHenry, and Lake counties. The 14th takes in Kane and Kendall counties. The 41st is composed of DuPage and Will counties.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Represents his senatorial district in the lower house of the state legislature Three are elected from each district for terms of two years each.

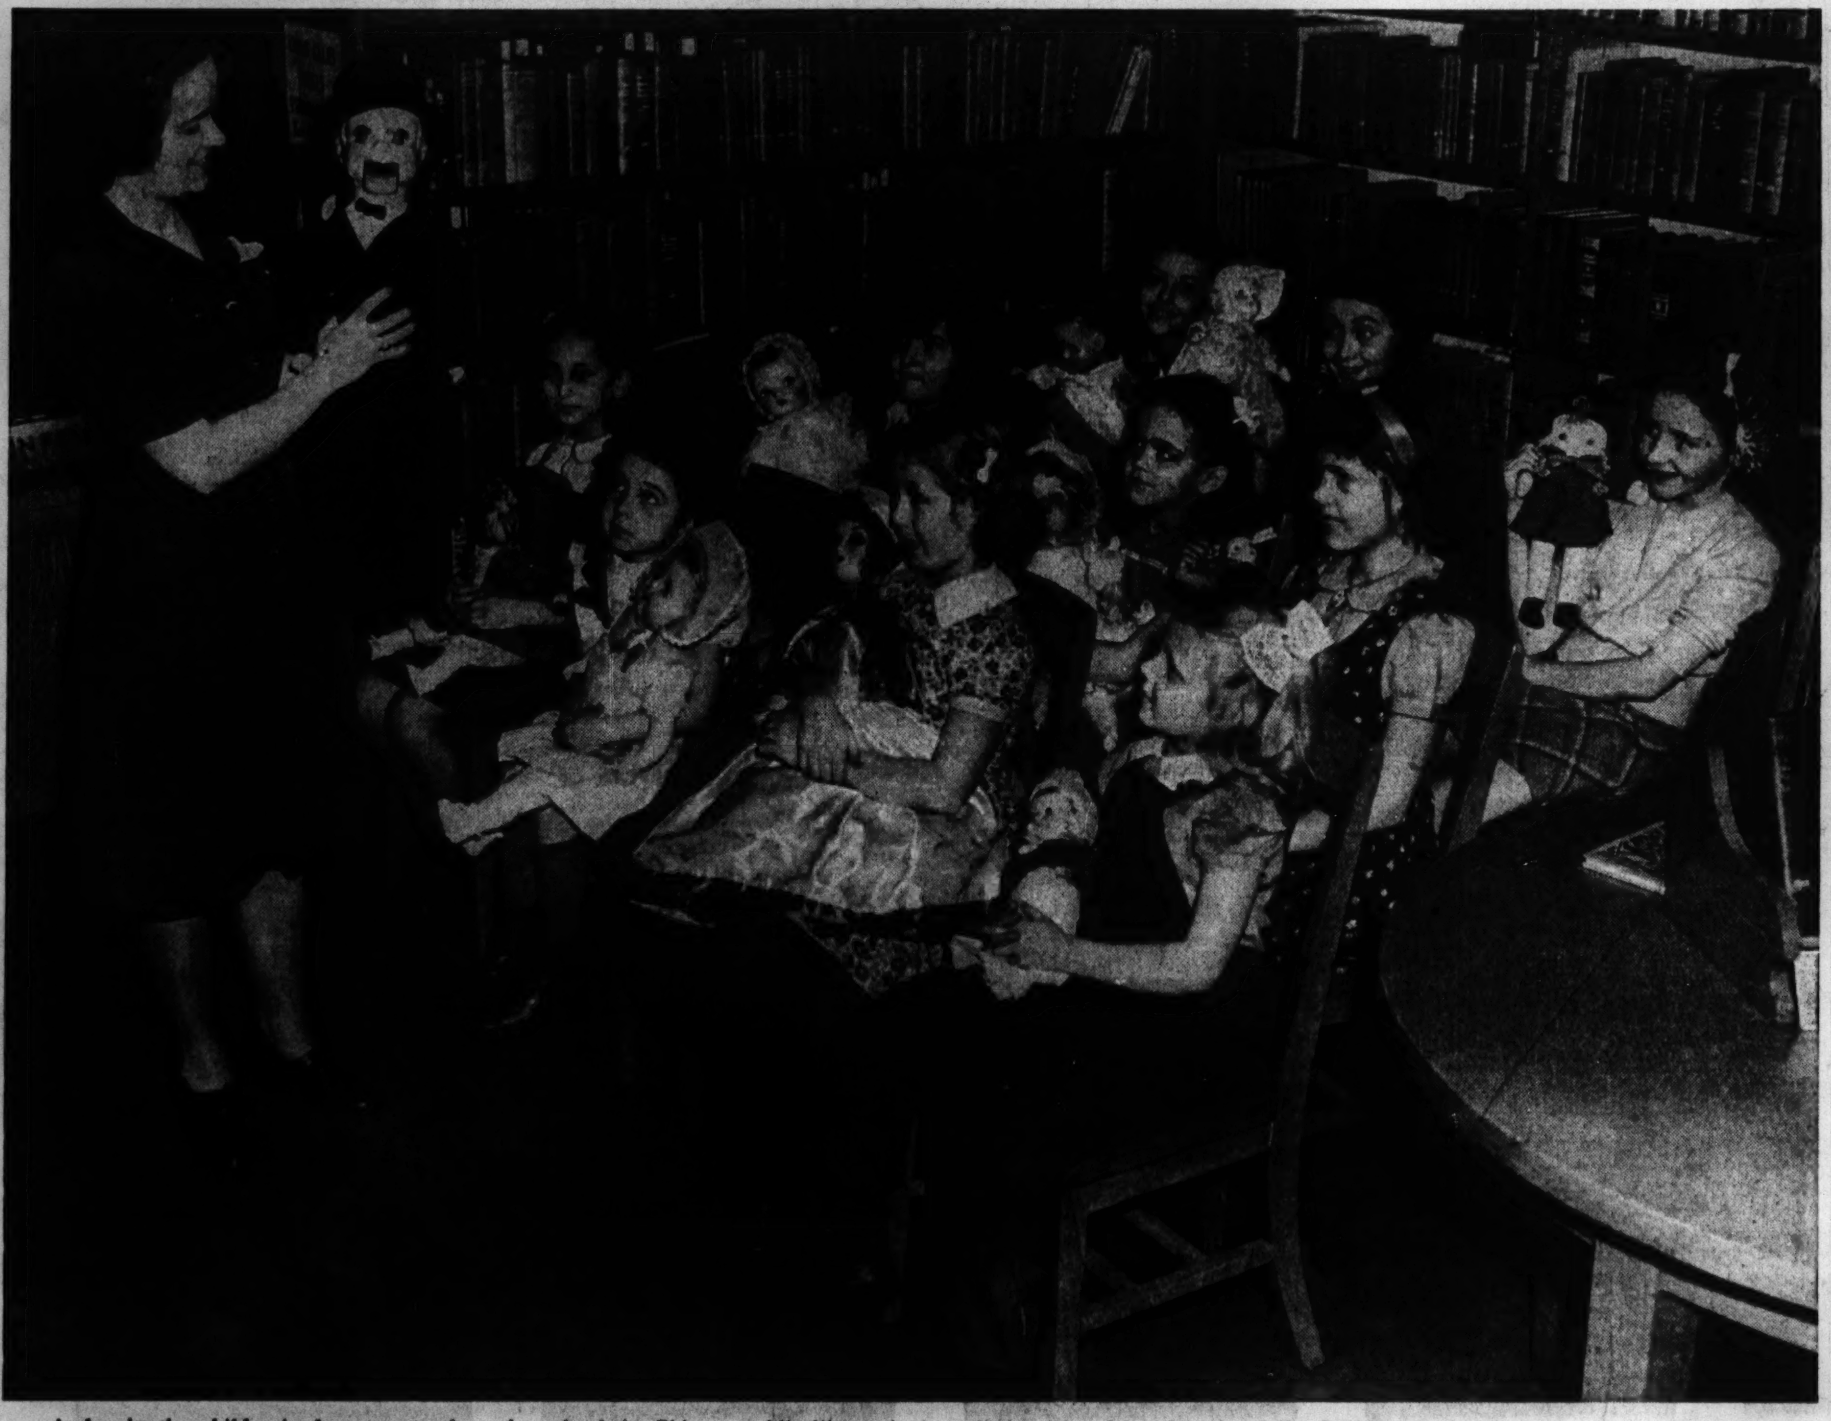
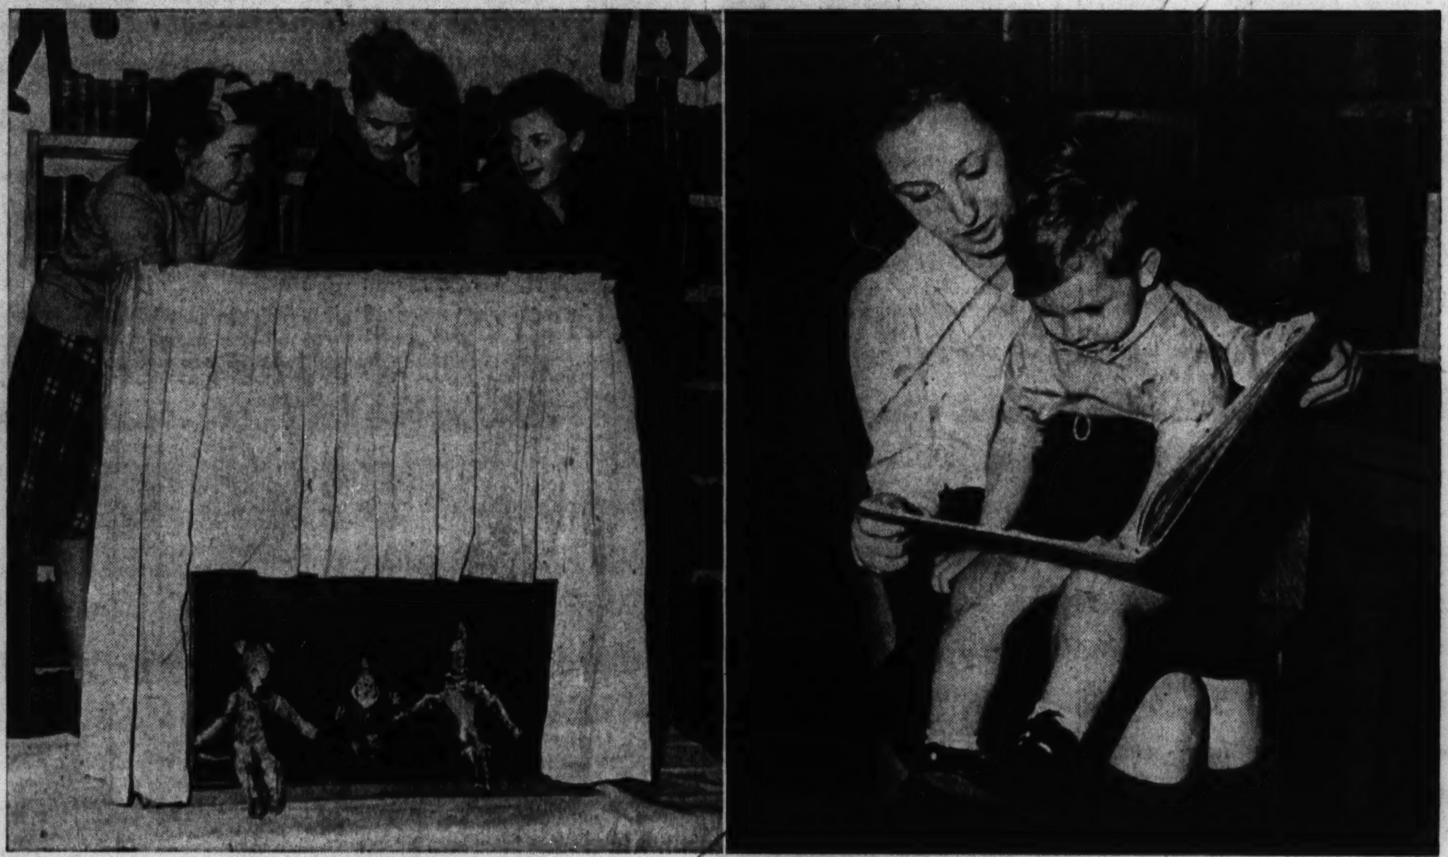
Holidays Are Busy Times for Children in City's Branch Libraries



A day in the children's department of any branch of the Chicago public library is a day of activity, change, unexpected remarks, major joys and, of course, a tiny tragedy now and then. When the youngsters are on holiday from school classes, the library is busier than ever. Thus, the Northtown branch, 2502 Devon avenue, made the last holidays brighter with a special Bring-Your-Dolly story hour. The Northtown children's librarian, Miss Berenice Perley, told the story of "Susanna's Auction," which is all about a stubborn little girl and her favorite doll. In Miss Perley's audience are, left to right, first row: Geraldine Springer, Sondra Persky, Beverly Gubbins, and Virginia Ruth Jacobson. Second row: Dorothy Culhane, Patty Kilday, and Ann Elizabeth Moyat, and, third row, left to right: Catherine Kohnen, Patsy Lackner, and Charlene Sternaman. Miss Perley is playing Edgar Bergen for the big Charlie McCarthy doll that was brought to the party.



Besides the dolly story hour, Northtown children's department was busy rehearsing a puppet show this vacation. The puppets and their "voices" at the left are: Dorilee Koch, 5722 North Washtenaw avenue; Elwood Rieck, 5827 North Campbell avenue, and June Kitchen, 5618 North Artesian avenue. June is the principal puppeteer, an interest and an art passed on to her from her older sister, now Mrs. Iris Arrasmith, 4931 North Avers avenue. The Northtown young folks will take the puppet show to Seward park library at 4 o'clock the afternoon of Jan. 21. The serious young reader at the right is Buddy Springer, 20 months old, of 6227 North Rockwell street. His sister, Mary Jean, 12 years old, is doing the reading.

High School Seniors Vote on Class Star

Principals of all the public high schools in Chicago were asked last week to make their nominations for the midyear interviews with outstanding seniors to be published in THE TRIBUNE. Interviews with seniors are a long established custom in The Tribune Metropolitan sections.

These nominations will be made by the principals by next Tuesday, and the lists will be printed in next Sunday's Metropolitan sections. The head of each school will select the ten young men or women whose scholastic, leardership and activity records mark them as best qualified to represent their school in the interviews.

Winner Chosen by Classmates.

From this list of candidates the seniors of each school by popular vote will choose the one person who will represent his school on THE TRIBUNE's honor roll. Pictures of these distinguished students, and interviews, setting forth the scholastic careers and future aspirations of each, will appear in the Metropolitan section of Sunday, Jan. 25.

This year's midyear interviews will be the first under THE TRIBUNE's new system, adopted last June, of giving the students the final voice in selecting their own representatives. The method was worked out with the coöperation of James B. McCahey, president of the board of education and Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools.

Reasons for Change.

In previous years the principal of each school selected the three students he regarded as most outstanding, and the pictures and interviews of each were printed. This method brought forth the ranking students but had no provision for an expression of the opinion of classmates.

Brief biographies of each of the nominees will be carried with the list next Sunday. Graduates will have until the following Tuesday [Jan. 13] to cast their ballots.

STEUBEN SOCIAL CLUB TO INSTALL OFFICERS FRIDAY

Installation of new officers for the Steuben Social club will be held Friday evening at the Germania club, 108 Germania place. New officers are Louis Knabe, president, Rudolph Walter and Anton Beato, vice presidents, Magdalen Hitzler, secretary, and Elizabeth Schmitt, treasurer. The new board of governors includes Michael Schmitt, Rose M. Hatzenbuehler, Harry Blaurock, and Margaret Schmidt. Charles Plattlock, Michael Sasgen, and Harry Blaurock were chosen for the auditing committee.

NAME CHAIRMEN IN CAMPAIGN FOR INDIANA COLLEGE

Walter L. Johnson, Evanston, and Mrs. Ernest H. Freeman, Wilmette, have been appointed co-chairmen for the Illinois group coöperating in a nation-wide alumni campaign to raise $225,000 for a women's residence hall at Earlham college, Richmond, Ind. Coöperating with the chairmen are Alan Wallace, Glencoe; Mrs. Eloise Grawols, Mary Lu Daggy, Flora Hendricks, Ralph Johnson, and Wilfred Reynolds of Evanston; Lewis Taylor, Glenview, and Dudley Woodman, 850 Lake Shore drive. Former President Herbert Hoover is honorary chairman for the drive.

Father Hubbard to Give Lecture at New Trier

The Rev. Bernard R. Hubbard, "the glacier priest," will speak on "Oomiak Adventures in Arctic Alaska" at 8 o'clock this evening in the New Trier High school, Winnetka. The meeting is sponsored by the North Shore Sunday Evening club. Father Hubbard will illustrate his talk with colored film.

TRAINING CAMP NEWS

John Quinn, 1503 North Lockwood avenue; Joseph Sherman, 4601 Monticello avenue, and Evan Hughes, Evanston, were promoted to the rank of privates first class at Fort Sheridan.

Rydstrom is a graduate of Western Reserve university, Cleveland, O. Robert B. Evans, son of Mrs. Louise Evans, 1408 Balmoral avenue, and Edward J. Horder, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Horder of Evanston are now at Victoria, Tex., receiving advanced flying training.

Lieut. James J. O'Connor of 1322 Foster avenue received his commission at Fort Riley, Kas., recently. James H. Roussell of 519 North avenue and George H. Kamberis of 815 Newport avenue have completed basic cavalry training at the post.

Arthur H. Gilster, 24, of 4602 North Damen avenue, recently received his wings at the naval air station, Jacksonville, Fla., and was assigned immediately to active duty. Gilster received his preliminary training at the naval reserve air base in Glenview. Before entering the navy he attended the University of Illinois and was graduated from Carleton college, Northfield, Minn.

CAMERA GROUP RATIONS USE OF FILM AND PAPER

With hope that other similar groups will follow suit in conservation of defense materials, the Green Briar Camera club, 2650 Peterson avenue, recently passed a resolution rationing members in the amount of valuable paper and film to be used a month.

All members also pledged to place all used film cans, spools and film pack holders in a depository provided at the club. The proceeds from the sale of this material will be turned over to the Red Cross.

Civilian Defense Director to Speak at Evanston

Raymond J. Kelly of Detroit, regional director of civilian defense, will address Evanston's first civilian defense meeting at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Willard school. Mayor S. G. Ingraham and Ralph Shanesy, chairman of Evanston defense council, will attend the gathering sponsored by the Evanston Goodfellows. Marshal I. McMahon, attorney, is president of the group.

Honor Medals Will Reward Best in ROTC

Outstanding ROTC cadets in the 27 public high school units thruout Chicago will receive awards for excellence from the war department, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, the Chicago chapter of the DAR, and other patriotic organizations this week and next at a series of special assemblies beginning tomorrow morning.

Awards will go to more than 320 young men who have excelled in one or more phases of military training. Of this number, 116 presentations will be made by Col. William F. Morrison, professor of military science and tactics for ROTC units in the Chicago area. In addition THE TRIBUNE will present 157 gold and 47 silver medals to cadets with excellent records during the last semester. Still other awards will be made by local organizations in each high school district.

From War Department.

Efficiency medals will be presented by Col. Morrison to the highest ranking officer and noncommissioned officer at each of the 27 high schools. Other war department trophies include 22 medals for members of cadet corps bands, 79 for neatness, 18 for rifle marksmanship, and 23 for recruiting.

PLAN TO DOUBLE COURSES AIDING WAR INDUSTRY

6,700 Now Learning Specific Skills.

Chicago is preparing to double the rate at which its national defense training program is developing artificers to supply the expanding needs of industry geared to a tremendous war effort, Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, said last week.

Already the trainers of mechanical workers, who are of supreme importance in a war of production, are working around the clock But even this urgent speed is to be stepped up with more classes as soon as the contemplated demand for new war production workers is felt, Dr. Johnson said.

In the well-equipped vocational training shops of 10 of Chicago's high schools, 267 instructors, half of them from the school staffs and the other half from industry, are imparting new or improved skills to 6,700 or more men, some of whom are already engaged in the fabrication of the machines and weapons that give punching power to the man in the field.

Government Pays Bill.

This program is specifically set up for the purpose it now serves. In fact, it teaches only subjects approved by the Office of Production Management. It is separate and apart from the regular board of education vocational training program, which in its own way is aiding mightily in the race to outbuild the nation's enemies.

The national defense program borrows the buildings and equipment of the board of education during the time they are not in regular use, but other expenses are met from a fund appropriated by congress. The instructors who participate do so in their spare time, and are paid from this special fund as are the teachers hired from industrial establishments.

High schools whose shops are used are Lane on the north side, Schurz on the northwest side, Austin, Crane, and Harrison on the west side, Tilden, Englewood, and Lindblom on the southwest side, and Phillips, and Chicago vocational on the south side.

How the program functions was explained by Philip L. McNamee, industrial coördinator.

Teach Specific Skills.

"This program is concerned with the welfare of industry rather than the individual, McNamee said. "Therefore our purpose is to train the individual as fast as possible in a specific skill, so that he can take his place in the production line. We are not like the vocational school, which teaches several skills to a worker in a leisurely general course.

"When the national defense training program got under way a year ago last July, we drew our participants largely from the work relief rolls. With the decline of WPA, this source has almost dried up, and now our trainees come principally from the Illinois free employment service.

"The trainee when he comes to us selects the subject in which he wants instruction, and is assigned to the class nearest his home. There is no charge for instruction, materials or equipment. He progresses according to his individual ability."

Usually it requires from 8 to 10 weeks to train a man for a place in industry, McNamee said, but this period can be speeded up as soon as the emergency requires.

4,281 Obtain Jobs.

Of the 20,692 persons enrolled since the program began, 4,281 have been placed directly in industrial jobs, McNamee revealed. Many more thousands of which no record could be kept obtained jobs themselves as soon as their training was completed.

Many of the enrollees are individuals now employed who seek to improve themselves, McNamee said. A newcomer to the program must pick one subject and stick to it. A man already employed, however, can take as many subjects as his spare time will allow.

Machine shop work and electric welding are the most popular subjects, and there are long waiting lists for them.

Women Try to Enroll.

The great bulk of the present activity comes from 3 to 10:30 p. m., but classes are in progress in one or more of the 10 schools every hour of the working week. The later classes are chiefly for men employed during earlier hours.

Because industry is still adapting itself to the war effort, the actual outbreak of hostilities has not yet been reflected in the program to any great extent, McNamee said.

One notable result of the war is the increasing demand of women for a share in the program, in which only men can now enroll. Scores of women each day, eager to take active part in war production, try to enroll, but they must be turned down. Officials expressed the hope that soon the rules may be expanded to include women.

Courses of Study.

Courses are offered in the various operations of aviation building, electrical work, foundry practice, forge shop, and machine shop work, blue print reading and drawing, sheet metal work, tool and die design, marine drafting, ship lofting, ordnance inpsction and industrial chemistry, to mention only a few.

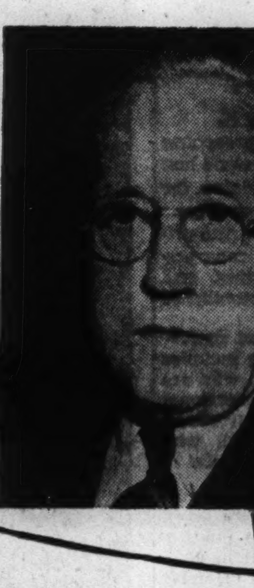
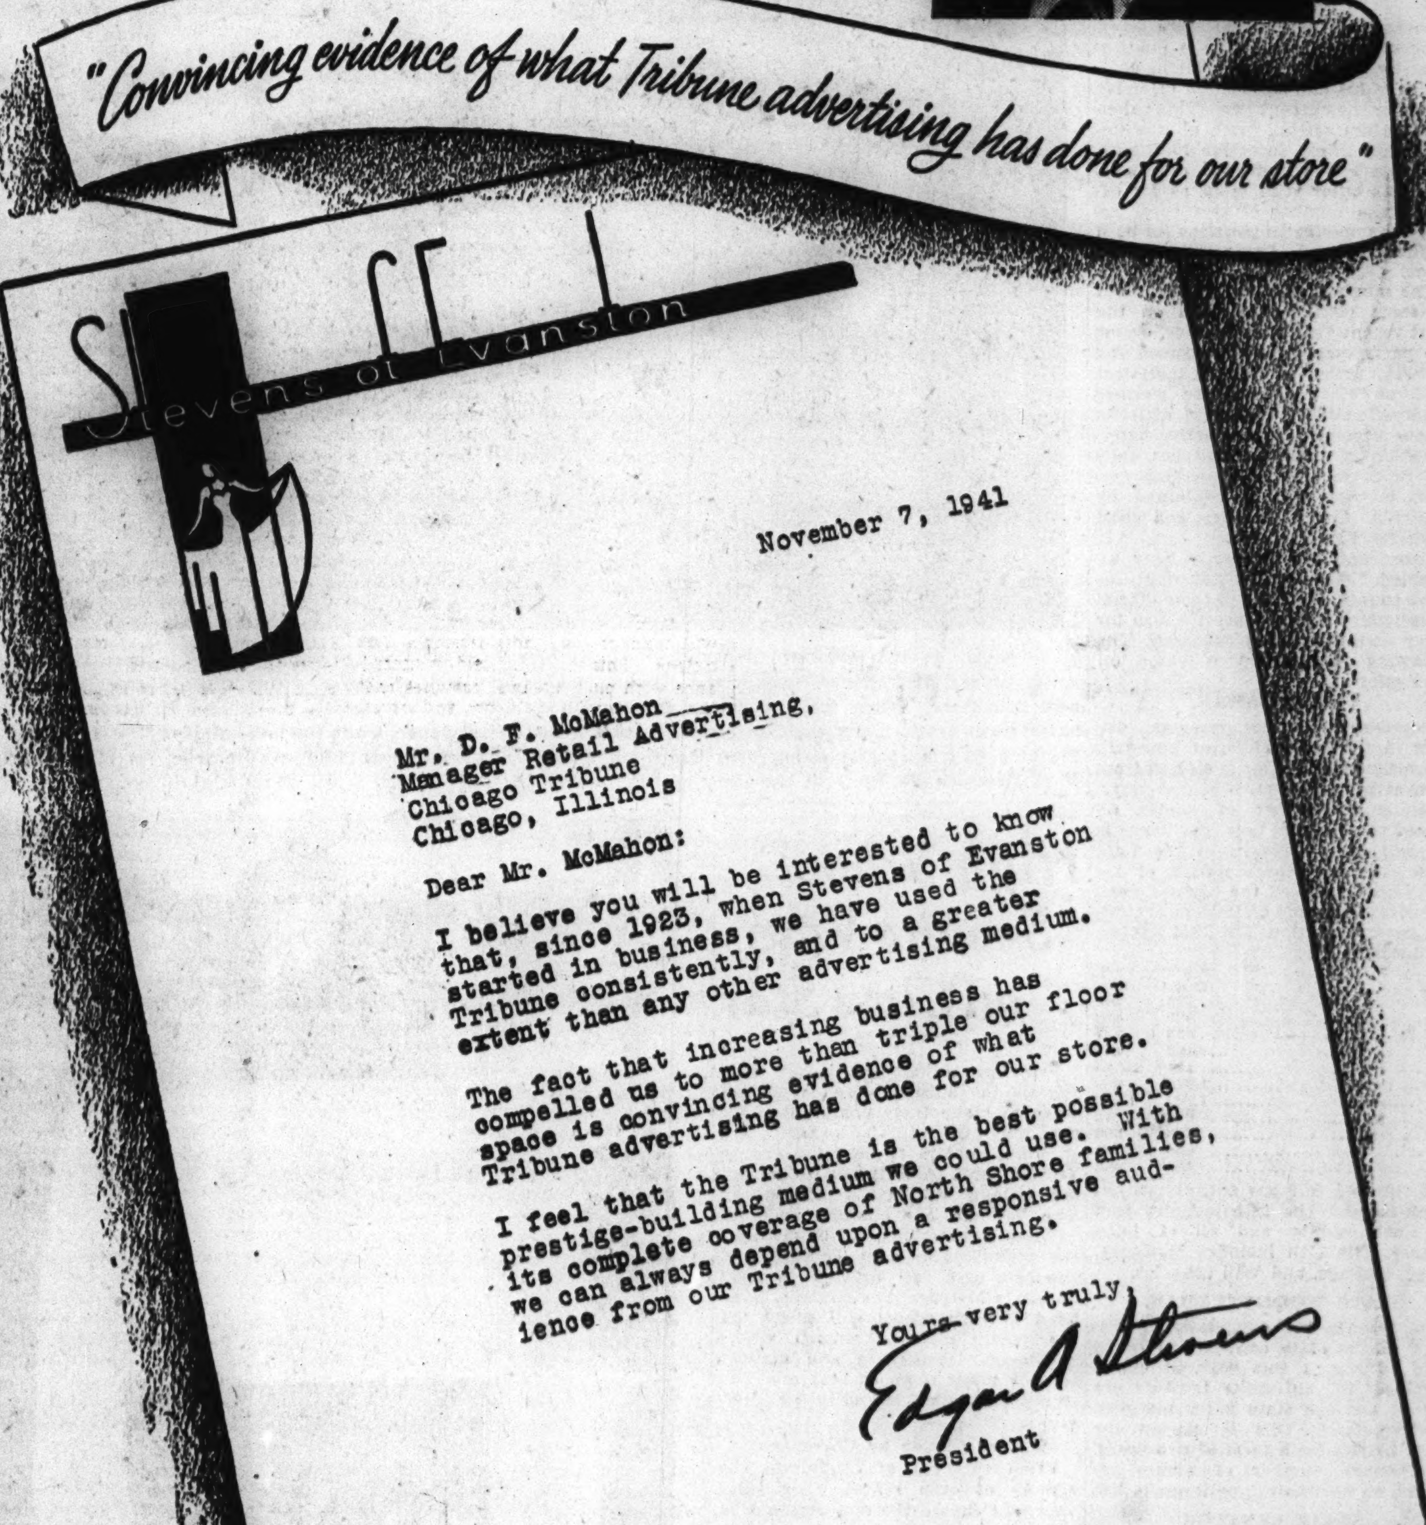
STEVENS of EVANSTON





"Convincing evidence of what Tribune advertising has done for our store"
Stevens of Evanston

November 7, 1941

Mr. D. F. McMahon
Manager Retail Advertising,
Chicago Tribune
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Mr. McMahon:

I believe you will be interested to know that, since 1923, when Stevens of Evanston started in business, we have used the Tribune consistently, and to a greater extent than any other advertising medium.

The fact that increasing business has compelled us to more than triple our floor space is convincing evidence of what Tribune advertising has done for our store.

I feel that the Tribune is the best possible prestige-building medium we could use. With its complete coverage of North Shore families, we can always depend upon a responsive audience from our Tribune advertising.

Yours very truly,
Edgar A Stevens
President

FROM a yard goods store to one of the smartest women's apparel establishments in metropolitan Chicago—that's the story of Stevens of Evanston which, during all its eighteen years in business, has placed the preponderance of its advertising in the Chicago Tribune.

To build patronage, Stevens of Evanston shortly after its opening in 1923 began to advertise in the Daily Tribune.

With the launching of the Sunday Tribune Metropolitan sections in 1927, the store added the North Metro section to its schedule. On the basis of results, the store more than doubled its use of the Sunday Tribune in 1928.

Since that time, Stevens of Evanston has built its drive for business almost exclusively on advertising in the Metropolitan section of the Sunday Tribune. Since 1939, the store has used no advertising in any other Chicago newspaper—with the results reported by Mr. Stevens in the letter above.

Are you making the most of your opportunities for growth and bigger profits? Would you like more information about the low-cost, business-building force which the Metropolitan sections of the Sunday Tribune place at your disposal?

Last year 796 neighborhood merchants used the Sunday Tribune Metropolitan sections to solicit the patronage of the families best able to trade with them.

No matter what you are selling, you can sell more, at economical cost, with a consistent schedule of advertising addressed to the families who read the Metropolitan section edited for and circulated exclusively on your side of the city.

With higher industrial activity stepping up the buying power of the families in every neighborhood and suburb of Chicago, now is the time to ask a representative to show you how you can cash in to the full on your greater opportunities. Call SUPerior 0100—Metropolitan section advertising.

DON'T BE FAT!

Irene Rich, lovely star of the screen and radio, now past 40, weighs the same as she did at 16. She recommends the easy Welch way to reduce.

Here's The Most Amazing Way To Lose Weight You've Ever Read About!

Here's how to take off ugly fat—without strict diet lists, no strenuous exercises, no drugs. The easy Welch Way! And intelligent, cooperative people who faithfully followed Dr. Frederic Damrau's instructions lost an average of 7 pounds a month. Amazing results sworn to before a Notary Public. And listen how easy it is. Just mix ¾ glass of Welch's Grape Juice with ¼ glass water, and drink before meals and at bedtime. Then this happens: First, you have less desire to eat sweet, fattening foods—thus reducing caloric intake. Second, the natural dextrose in Welch's is quickly consumed. This regime actually helps nature consume excess fat. Yet!—you needn't suffer a hungry moment. So start reducing the Welch Way today.

Because Your way is paved with supreme values—honor, morality, liberty—supreme values which shine in the folds of the Star Spangled Banner....

Because Your way is lined with not a single selfish element. It is a fight for what you believe and wish to be the right of mankind and for the future peace and security of the world.

Because Your way is the road which will lead to the punishment of the infernal creation of evil, falsehood, perjury, assassination, profanation, slavery, martyrdom and all kinds of disasters....

Because Your way is arrayed against a mad arrogance which would enslave the earth, the sea, the heavens, and the souls of men....

Because Your way is the way Brave and Stalwart men have always taken in every great conflict between right and violence, between civilization and barbarism....

Yes, Yank, we're going your way and we'll keep going your way by backing you in every way humanly possible. America will buy DEFENSE BONDS and keep on buying them until every treacherous assault against our flag has been avenged.

THEME OF RADIO IN 1942: 'KEEP 'EM ROLLING!'

War May Restrict, Alter Broadcast Pattern.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

If "Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair" was the theme song for radio in 1941, "Keep 'Em Rolling" is likely to be in 1942. The war will be the preëminent and dominant subject in broadcasting for the year just started.

Nevertheless, broadcasters are going ahead, reassured by the Federal Communications commission that there is no government plan to take over the radio industry, with plans of entertaining 130 million Americans as well as informing them. A few days after Pearl Harbor, Bob Hope, the comedian, announced that he and his troupe would try to keep America laughing in the face of war.

"One of the things that makes us an unbeatable nation," he said, "is our ability to laugh. We may black out our lights but never our sense of humor."

That attitude in broadcasting appears to be widespread and in the serious days ahead Americans do not expect to lose the programs that entertain them.

Radio to Help Win War.

But Americans expect radio to contribute its utmost to win the war and broadcasters are showing responsiveness to their obligations in this regard. Broadcasters are giving liberally of their sustaining time to defense requirements and sponsors in general are devoting substantial portions of time to promoting the sale of bonds and other war requirements.

During the first days of the war many programs waived their commercial talk altogether to make way for the news and presumably they will continue this practice when the magnitude of the news warrants.

Radio blackouts, already introduced on the west coast, may be expected to return there or in any area where there is danger of air attack since radio signals might serve to guide enemy planes to their objectives.

There are reports of the possible introduction of systems of "scrambling" radio signals to prevent the use of stations as plane beacons.

There appears to be some likelihood of reallocation of certain assignments of broadcasting stations. Thought is being given to allocating some of the frequencies at the long end [that is, the short numbers], of the broadcasting portion of the spectrum to the armed services.

Ryan Is Broadcast Censor.

Radio like the press will operate under censorship in 1942. J. Harold Ryan, Toledo radio executive, has accepted the post of broadcast censor. He will serve as assistant to Byron Price, director of censorship. A liaison officer also is to be named to coördinate for radio the work of the FCC, the defense communications board, the director of censorship and other war offices having radio functions.

The war also will affect the production of radio receivers for private use. The war needs of radio are tremendous. A billion dollars worth of defense communications equipment is to be built in 1942. This is more than twice the total of radio equipment manufactured last year.

Manufacturers have warned that a shortage of crucial metals and other elements needed in the manufacture of receivers may mean greatly curtailed production for private consumption this year.

Fortunately for millions of listeners the life of sets can be extended indefinitely thru expert service and repair.

Temple Judea Sisterhood.

Temple Judea sisterhood will hold its regular meeting at 1 o'clock tomorrow in the temple, 1227 Independence boulevard. Pearl Heart will be the guest speaker.

Operetta Fans

Eleanor Robinson of Hollywood receives a Chicago Theater of the Air club charter from Betty Rhodes, W-G-N-Mutual songstress on the west coast. Many such clubs have been organized.

Bride of Army Athletic Director

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert P. Johnson of Evanston announce the recent marriage of their daughter, Shirly Mae, to Earl Grace, former Cub catcher, in Phoenix, Ariz. The bride was graduated from Evanston Township High school and attended DePauw university in Greencastle, Ind. Her husband is athletic director at Luke field, Phoenix, Ariz., air corps training base.

Bride Next Friday

Miss Ethel Clair Thomson, daughter of Mrs. Estelle Thomson of 1673 Pratt boulevard, will be married to Joseph Mildenberg, son of Andrew Mildenberg of 3431 North Kedzie avenue, Friday at St. Jerome's church. A reception in the Georgian hotel, Evanston, will follow the ceremony. Miss Thomson is a graduate of Immaculata High school and Mr. Mildenberg was graduated from Lane Technical High school. After a honeymoon to Mississippi the couple will make their home on the north side.

COLLIE EXPERT WILL BE GUEST OF BOB BECKER

Thomas M. Halpin, expert on collie breeding, will make a guest appearance with Bob Becker on Chats About Dogs on W-G-N at 12:40 p. m. today. Halpin has been associated with the Hertzville kennels for 20 years. He will discuss the outstanding qualities of the collie, name those which make it a good companion dog, and tell listeners how to pick out a good collie puppy when they get to the point of buying one for a pet. He also will tell how to keep a collie in good coat and how to groom it.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Jan. 5.

Transplant seedlings that are large enough. Seedlings need little plant food because their root system is meager, but when they have developed copiously more food is necessary. The amount of plant food to apply to any kind of plant is often a problem for most gardeners, but the safest amount is too little rather than too much.

Growing house plants need food and it is wise to buy a complete food which is one that contains the essential elements or those that plants need. Fertilizers like bone meal are not complete foods because they contain only a single element and must be supplemented with other foods. It is best to study the general requirements of soil or study the natural conditions under which a plant grew.

As an example, we know that most ferns delight in a woodsy place, somewhat shaded from direct sunlight and with a soil consisting of leaf mold or decayed vegetation. Hence the soil should be similar in character for pot plants.

Tuesday, Jan. 6.

Keep the Christmas pot plants in as good condition as possible. Chief essentials are plenty of water, the avoidance of drafts, excessively dry atmosphere, and the control of insect pests. Placing pans of water on radiators will aid in keeping some moisture in the air, and an occasional syringing will keep the foilage cleared of all dust.

The grower of pot plants has a regular spraying program but sometimes it is difficult to rid his plants of all insects and if a few are on a plant that ultimately reaches a home gardener these few insects, finding the room congenial, increase at a rapid rate.

Spraying materials may be bought at hardware, drug, or seed stores. Use a contact spray, such as Black Leaf 40, on insects that suck the juices from the leaves or tender growths; use a stomach on worms or bugs that eat the leaves. Syringing often will be sufficient to control mealy bugs and red spiders.

Wednesday, Jan. 7.

If the home gardner has an overgrown plant or one that is not wanted, why not get in touch with the nearest high school—the biology department may like it.

Feed the birds by hanging pieces of suet to the branch of a tree where it can be seen from a window, or arrange a feeding station and see that food is always on hand. Country folk who are aware of pheasants in the vicinity should scatter grains where the birds will find them.

If snow is deep, the small animals, such as rabbits, may be hard hit to find food and eventually they will start gnawing the tender bark from young trees and shrubs. Many plants are girdled and killed back from this cause, but if the trunks are protected by placing small meshed fencing around the trunk, the animals cannot injure them. This work should be done when the ground is free from snow.

Thursday, Jan. 8.

Transplant the Calla Lily when root bound, for it will need plenty of space and food to produce many flowers. These plants require an abundance of water; in fact, it is a moisture loving plant. Even tho the flowers are few, the foliage is tropical and well worth enjoying.

Friday, Jan. 9.

Paint all tools; clean, repair the lawn mower. Those who do gardening on a comparatively large scale can save much time and trouble if all machines are placed under cover and repaired at this time. The occasional practice of allowing farm machinery to rust in the field is certainly indicative of excessive carelessness and neglect.

Start fancy leaved Caladium tubers. Tubers can be purchased from supply houses and their beauty is unrivaled by any group of plants. If started in pots, use a soil consisting of leafmold, sand, and soil, with good drainage.

Saturday, Jan. 10.

The period between Christmas and Easter is a good time in which to start woody twigs in flower. The pussy willow and goldenbell, cornelian cherry, shadbush, plum, and others are easy to start and they make fine bouquets in suitable containers.

Prepare flats for sowing seeds of Vinca roses and alba, verbena hybrida, petunia, and other seeds that take a considerable time to develop. Pot up glozinia in soil like that used for the caladiums.

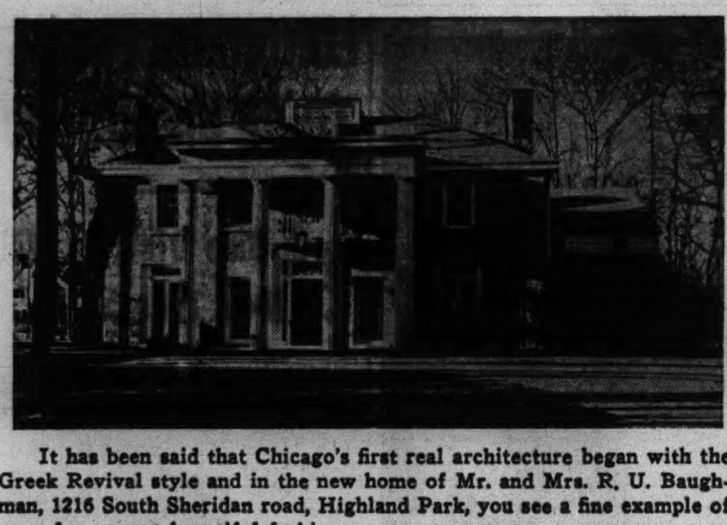
New Highland Park Home



It has been said that Chicago's first real architecture began with the Greek Revival style and in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Baughman, 1216 South Sheridan road, Highland Park, you see a fine example of one of our most beautiful fashions.

SCHOOL PROJECT BUILDS STAMINA FOR ARMY DUTY

Set Up New Program at Lake Forest.

A physical education program designed to build up the physical stamina of future service men will begin at Lake Forest High school tomorrow. Raymond Moore, high school principal, says the new schedule will give 95 junior and senior boys two hours a week in special gym work in place of the former one hour program of games and exercises.

He said, "We have decided upon this program after noting the great number of draft rejections because of physical unfitness and as a means of doing our part in preparing our boys now that the country is at war. The exercises will be especially worked out to build up physical ruggedness."

Follows Present Routine.

The new program follows thru on an already established routine for freshmen and sophomores. The lower classmen have always had a more complete physical education training than the upper classmen since the latter have heavier study schedules.

Besides the physical training, Lake Forest High school is installing enlarged rifle club facilities. A new range is being built back of the indoor track in the school basement.

Plan for Future Needs.

"Our present physical education course is made up of games and exercises in preparation for peacetime adult life," Moore said. "This new schedule is more strenuous in order to meet the needs of the immediate future. We shall endeavor to help our boys to keep themselves at their peak physically."

Edgar W. Lindenmeyer, All-American tackle at the University of Missouri in 1926, is Lake Forest physical education instructor.

SHAWNEE CLUB WATER CARNIVAL SATURDAY TO DRAW 300 CHILDREN

Cy Nelson.
[Young photo.]

More than 300 children between the ages of 6 and 16 will participate in a water carnival next Saturday afternoon at the Shawnee Country club, Wilmette, to welcome the club's new swimming instructor, Cy Nelson, veteran Chicago coach.

A swimming and diving exhibition by the Shawnee water ballet and swimming teams, in addition to races in which all youngsters may join, are on the program.

Nelson plans to widen the scope of swimming activity among the younger age groups.

"It is well known," Nelson said, "that good physical condition is especially important in times of national emergency. Good health and vitality are as essential to civilian morale as to our armed forces, and I know of no better conditioner than swimming."

Evanston Nursery League to Take First Aid Course

The membership of the Mary Crane Nursery league of Evanston will begin a course in home nursing and first aid, sponsored by the American Red Cross, Wednesday morning at the National College of Education. The course will be for 10 weeks. Thursday afternoon the league will meet at the home of Mrs. Carl Wickman, Wilmette, for a book reading by Florence Bourke Ellis. Mrs. William Haddad and Mrs. Arnold Carlsen are co-chairmen for the program.

SUBURBAN HOME IS BUILT ALONG GRECIAN LINES

Spacious Residence Has Three Fireplaces.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Chicago has made many claims to early architectural relationship with colonial fashions, but our city's first real architecture over a hundred years ago began with the Greek revival style. In those far gone days our pioneer carpenter-builders studied their handbooks faithfully and labored to translate their dreams of classic porticos and columns, pilasters and cornices into dwellings for those in the Chicago area.

Now again there is an increased interest in this stimulating native type and we see it reproduced with great beauty in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Baughman, 1216 South Sheridan road, Highland Park.

Green Slate Roof.

The architect, William N. Alderman, 140 South Dearborn street, has carried out the exterior in Lannon stone with dressed Indiana limestone lintels and slate roof of unfading green.

It is a house which reflects the classic vigor, grace, and clearcut purity of line. Inside as well as out we recognize those symbols of the ancient Greek tradition which are the basis of so much of our western decorative expression. [Indeed, this heritage from the Greek is all around us, and in the rooms where we move it is likely we can see motifs from those old days.]

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Baughman faces north and as you enter there's a great center reception hall with marble floor and wide, winding stair to the second floor.

Has Tall Windows.

The living room at the left has ice blue walls, and rose toned drapes at French doors and windows, rug and upholstery of chairs have exquisite shades of rose and blue and deep gold. The windows are tall, eight and one-half feet, and on the fireplace columns the Greek nymphs are hand carved. Molded plaster cornices and all-trim have been designed by the architect.

The fireplace wall in the library is of light walnut, a gem of unusual beauty. The rug is of deep American Beauty shade and the three other walls of the room are covered with a hand blocked scenic wall paper with a Greek revival house pictured on a soft gray background.

There's a large outdoor living room accessible both from the library and the living room.

Another fireplace is found in the dining room, this one a corner type of marble, and the rich blue of the drapes and the border of the beige rug were chosen especially to blend with the border pattern of the blue and white Regency paper.

Has Breakfast Bar.

The kitchen is streamlined and modern, a sparkling spot in white with red accessories and decorations and large enough to contain not only a breakfast corner but also a breakfast refreshment bar and counter.

On the second floor there's a master bedroom as spacious as the living room, with French blue carpeting, blue drapes, and French Regency beds of walnut with Regency plume note. The room has two baths, one very tailored and masculine, with light gray tile wainscot and walls papered in blue. There is a light, capacious dressing room with blue carpeting and rose colored plate glass top dressing table, and a second, very feminine bath in dusty pink and silver and a wall paper which flaunts dusty pink Regency plumes.

The two guest rooms are decorated and planned with the same artistry and feeling of esthetic judgment.

Carved Oak Beds.

One room has carved beds of dark oak and a Chinese rug with deep border, light blue papered walls and mirror cornices, deep blue satin drapes and bedspreads. The second guest room has blond walnut furnishings, pale peach toned wall paper with a lacey pattern, and a beige rug with tiny flowers in deep and dusty tones of pink.

In the basement there's a comfortable recreation room spendidly fitted out with the accessories and necessities of such a spot. There's a deep cobalt blue fireplace wall, while the other walls are painted cream. The floor is linoleum with Mexican rugs, the refreshment bar is finished in Venetian red, and stools are upholstered in green.

The B'nai B'rith Hillel foundation at Northwestern university will sponsor a "Final Fling," the last dance before final examinations begin, Saturday evening at the Belmont hotel. They are, from left to right, Shirley Lieberman, 141 South Central avenue; June Gluck, 7630 North Marshfield avenue; Arlene Becker, Glencoe, and Janet Aronson, 4942 North Francisco avenue. Ed Salkowe, Northwestern junior shown above, and his orchestra will play.

ISABELLA LADIES COUNCIL FORMS RED CROSS UNIT

Mrs. Grace Haley, 6422 North Francisco avenue, is the chairman of the newly organized Red Cross unit of Our Mother of Perpetual Help council of the Ladies of Isabella. Mrs. Alice Quinn, 2706 Peterson avenue, is co-chairman. Beginning tomorrow meetings will be held at noon every Monday at Green Briar fieldhouse, 2650 Peterson avenue. The women will have luncheon and spend the afternoon working. Any one interested in helping with the Red Cross assignments is invited to attend the sessions.

The council plans to establish an evening branch for Red Cross work, but the opening has not been announced. Mrs. Cecelia Vandervoort, 6609 North Artesian avenue, is grand lady of the council, and Mrs. Margaret Callahan, 5927 North Artesian avenue, is philanthropy chairman.

ELECTION DATA STIRS LAMBENT POLITICAL FIRE

Aspirants Get Facts on Requirements.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

First stirrings of the approaching primary election campaigns came last week as prospective candidates for office began mapping their strategy.

Officials to be nominated in the primaries on April 14 are: All congressmen, all state representatives, and state senators from odd numbered districts.

Officials to be elected [not merely nominated] in the primaries includes state central committeemen, who are picked according to congressional districts, and township committeemen and senatorial committeemen, who are chosen by senatorial districts.

Flynn Tells Dates.

Seekers of these offices were given their starting cues with the publication by County Clerk Michael J. Flynn of his annual election calendar covering the current year. This calendar, besides setting forth all the important political dates for 1942, such as filing and withdrawal deadlines, also lists other vital facts, as for example the number of signatures required on nominatin petitions for both Republican and Democratic candidates.

The number of signatures required on some petitions is based on the most recent vote for governor, or for the party member who received the highest number of votes in the latest previous election. Because neither congressional nor senatorial dictricts follow precinct lines exactly, determination of these percentages calls for thoro delving into election records, a task that is captained by Daniel A. Carey, attorney and chief clerk for Flynn's office.

Carey and his assistants have assembled these figures not only for Cook county, the limit of their official jurisdiction, but as a service also for other counties in Chicagoland. The following information is based on their efforts:

CONGRESSMAN.

Represents his congressional district in the national lower house in Washington, D. C. One is elected from each district for a term of two years.

Minimum number of names required on nominating petitions is one-half of 1 per cent of the total vote cast for representative of his party who received the highest number of votes in his district in the latest general election. The 1942 figures, by districts, are:

	Signatures req.
Dist.	Dem.	Rep.
1	192	160
2	900	842
3	828	784
4	403	153

8	212	72
9	293	308
10	690	1,101
11	401	669

Districts 1 to 9 are entirely within Cook county. The 10th includes part of Cook county and all of Lake county. The 11th includes McHenry, Kane, DuPage, and Will counties.

STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEEMAN

Represents his congressional district in the state conventions to be held on May 1 this year, at which nominees for university trustees are named and the state party platform is formulated. One is elected for each district for a term of two years.

Minimum number of names required on nominating petitions is 100.

STATE SENATOR

Represents his senatorial district in the upper house of the state legislature in Springfield. One is elected from each district for a term of four years. Odd numbered districts elect one biennium, even numbered districts the next.

Minimum number of names required on nominating petitions is one-half of 1 per cent of total cast for his party's candidate for governor in his district in the most recent general election. These figures, by district, are:

	Signatures req.
Dist.	Dem.	Rep.

*Elect state representatives only this year.

Districts 1 to 7 and the odd numbered districts 9 to 31, inclusive, are in Cook county, the 7th taking in most of the suburban territory. The 8th district is made up of Boone, McHenry, and Lake counties. The 14th takes in Kane and Kendall counties. The 41st is composed of DuPage and Will counties.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Represents his senatorial district in the lower house of the state legislature Three are elected from each district for terms of two years each.

Schools Call Children from Holiday Vacations

BACK TO SCHOOL

Farewell to Christmas holidays and toys will be said in sad scenes like this in thousands of south side homes tomorrow. Like other children, Buddy and Isabel Wakefield are expected to forget about dolls and picture books, toy trains and tanks temporarily and go back to school. It'll be doubly hard for Buddy and Isabel, tho, because they both celebrated their birthdays on Dec. 19 and have lots of things to leave. Buddy, who is 5 years old, attends the Hyde Park School for Little Children, while Isabel is in 1A at the Bret Harte school. They are the children of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Wakefield, 5466 Everett avenue.

DADS OF MERCY HIGH WILL HEAR DEFENSE TALK

Members of the Mercy High school Dads club will hear Arthur E. Canty, Cook county commander of the American Legion and field director for the defense commission, tomorrow evening in the school auditorium. George W. Fleming, general secretary of Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee, will present the sound film, "Hit and Run Driver."

Musical and dramatic numbers will be offered by Claire McNally, Dolores Welter, Peggy Jane Routliff, Mary O'Malley, Helen Madigan, and Leona and Mildred Hynes. Charlotte Twardowski, sophomore soprano, will sing "The Star Spangled Banner."

Thomas W. Routliff, vice president of the club, is in charge of the program.

Dr. Dafoe to Tell Sinai Forum About Quintuplets

Dr. Roy Allan Dafoe will give a lecture on the Dionne quintuplets tomorrow evening at the Sinai Temple forum, 4622 South Park way. This will be the first of eight consecutive weekly lectures scheduled by the forum for 1942.

Will County Supervisors Vote $5,000 for Defense

The Will county board of supervisors voted $5,000 last week to the Will county area civil defense commission to be used with moneys given by Joliet and other communities. The action followed a conference with Lieut. Col. T. C. Gerber, commanding officer of the Elwood ordnance plant and the Kankakee arsenal, who told of the ned for keeping civil morale high. The supervisors, whose resolution appropriating the money urged economy in nondefense spending, waived their usual travel allowance for the day.

Leo Mothers' Club to Hold Annual Card Party Jan. 23

Final plans for the annual card party of the Leo Mothers' club, to be held Friday evening, Jan. 23, in the Mural room of the Morrison hotel, have been completed. Mrs. Frank A. Nessinger, chairman of the party, announced the following committee chairmen: Mrs. John McKee, Mrs. Charles Miller, Mrs. Edward Kopshever, and Mrs. George Kollman. The club is composed of mothers of boys attending Leo High school, 79th and Peoria streets. Mrs. Thomas Curley is president of the club.

High School Seniors Vote on Class Star

Principals of all the public high schools in Chicago were asked last week to make their nominations for the midyear interviews with outstanding seniors to be published in THE TRIBUNE. Interviews with seniors are a long established custom in The Tribune Metropolitan sections.

These nominations will be made by the principals by next Tuesday, and the lists will be printed in next Sunday's Metropolitan sections. The head of each school will select the ten young men or women whose scholastic, leardership and activity records mark them as best qualified to represent their school in the interviews.

Winner Chosen by Classmates.

From this list of candidates the seniors of each school by popular vote will choose the one person who will represent his school on THE TRIBUNE'S honor roll. Pictures of these distinguished students, and interviews setting forth the scholastic careers and future aspirations of each, will appear in the Metropolitan section of Sunday, Jan. 25.

This year's midyear interviews will be the first under THE TRIBUNE'S new system, adopted last June, of giving the students the final voice in selecting their own representatives. The method was worked out with the cooperation of James B. McCahey, president of the board of education and Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools.

Reasons for Change.

In previous years the principal of each school selected the three students he regarded as most outstanding, and the pictures and interviews of each were printed. This method brought forth the ranking students but had no provision for an expression of the opinion of classmates.

Brief biographies of each of the list next Sunday. Graduates will have until the following Tuesday [Jan. 13] to cast their ballots.

HYDE PARK ART CENTER IN DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

The Hyde Park Art center, 1500 East 57th street, is in the midst of a membership campaign designed to support the enlarged work of the center, which is entering its fourth year. Principal achievement of the last year was establishment of free classes in art for both adults and children.

In the former group, 43 persons have been receiving evening instruction from Walter Paul Robinson, and in the Saturday morning class for children, 35 are registered. They were taught by George Redlich until his recent death, and the class now will be conducted by Mrs. Florence Forster.

A memorial exhibit to Mr. Redlich, composed of work done in his children's classes, has been hung in the center and will be on view there until Wednesday. It will be followed by a week's showing of drawings and paintings by members of the adult classes. A number of other exhibitions of photography, graphic design, school art, prints, and of water colors by Hyde Park artists are scheduled for the spring.

CATHOLIC WOMEN WILL HOLD FIRST SESSION OF YEAR

PLAN TO DOUBLE COURSES AIDING WAR INDUSTRY

6,700 Now Learning Specific Skills.

Chicago is preparing to double the rate at which its national defense training program is developing artificers to supply the expanding needs of industry geared to a tremendous war effort, Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, said last week.

Already the trainers of mechanical workers, who are of supreme importance in a war of production, are working around the clock. But even this urgent speed is to be stepped up with more classes as soon as the contemplated demand for new war production workers is felt, Dr. Johnson said.

In the well-equipped vocational training shops of 10 of Chicago's high schools, 267 instructors, half of them from the school staffs and the other half from industry, are imparting new or improved skills to 6,700 or more men, some of whom are already engaged in the fabrication of the machines and weapons that give punching power to the man in the field.

Government Pays Bill.

This program is specifically set up for the purpose it now serves. In fact, it teaches only subjects approved by the Office of Production Management. It is separate and apart from the regular board of education vocational training program, which in its own way is aiding mightily in the race to outbuild the nation's enemies.

The national defense program borrows the buildings and equipment of the board of education during the time they are not in regular use, but other expenses are met from a fund appropriated by congress. The instructors who participate do so in their spare time, and are paid from this special fund as are the teachers hired from industrial establishments.

High schools whose shops are used are Lane on the north side, Schurz on the northwest side, Austin, Crane, and Harrison on the west side, Tilden, Englewood, and Lindblom on the southwest side, and Phillips, and Chicago vocational on the south side.

How the program functions was explained by Philip L. McNamee, industrial coördinator.

Teach Specific Skills.

"This program is concerned with the welfare of industry rather than the individual," McNamee said. "Therefore our purpose is to train the individual as fast as possible in a specific skill, so that he can take his place in the production line. We are not like the vocational school, which teaches several skills to a worker in a leisurely general course.

"When the national defense training program got under way a year ago last July, we drew our participants largely from the work relief rolls. With the decline of WPA, this source has almost dried up, and now our trainees come principally from the Illinois free employment service.

"The trainee when he comes to us selects the subject in which he wants instruction, and is assigned to the class nearest his home. There is no charge for instruction, materials or equipment. He progresses according to his individual ability."

Usually it requires from 8 to 10 weeks to train a man for a place in industry, McNamee said, but this period can be speeded up as soon as the emergency requires.

4,281 Obtain Jobs.

Of the 20,692 persons enrolled since the program began, 4,281 have been placed directly in industrial jobs, McNamee revealed. Many more thousands of which no record could be kept obtained jobs themselves as soon as their training was completed.

Many of the enrollees are individuals now employed who seek to improve themselves, McNamee said. A newcomer to the program must pick one subject and stick to it. A man already employed, however, can take as many subjects as his spare time will allow.

Machine shop work and electric welding are the most popular subjects, and there are long waiting lists for them.

Women Try to Enroll.

The great bulk of the present activity comes from 3 to 10:30 p. m., but classes are in progress in one or more of the 10 schools every hour of the working week. The later classes are chiefly for men employed during earlier hours.

Because industry is still adapting itself to the war effort, the actual outbreak of hostilities has not yet been reflected in the program to any great extent, McNamee said.

One notable result of the war is the increasing demand of women for a share in the program, in which only men can now enroll. Scores of women each day, eager to take active part in war production, try to enroll, but they must be turned down. Officials expressed the hope that soon the rules may be expanded to include women.

Courses of Study.

Courses are offered in the various operations of aviation building, electrical work, foundry practice, forge shop, and machine shop work, blue print reading and drawing, sheet metal work, tool and die design, marine drafting, ship lofting, ordnance inspection and industrial chemistry, to mention only a few.

Chicago Serbians Get Ready to Celebrate Their Christmas on Wednesday

FOR THE BARBECUE
LUCKY COIN CAKE
ASKING FORGIVENESS

The Serbians in South Chicago are just getting ready for Christmas. Mike (left) and George Lalich, Bowen High school students, are tending a 75 pound hog in the garage of their home at 10636 Calhoun avenue in preparation for the homemade barbecue which will constitute the main meal on Wednesday. The Lalichs belong to the Serbian Orthodox church, which celebrates Christmas on Jan. 7, according to the Julian calendar, and preserves many European Yuletide customs. Another tradition is the baking of the bread cake, in which are placed three lucky coins. Starting to work on this in the Lalich household are (left to right) Mrs. Sophie Krajack, 10900 Torrence avenue, a married daughter; George Lalich, head of the house, and Eva, his wife. George will kill the hog and his sons will turn it on the spit. Steve Lalich, another son, enacts another popular Serbian Christmas custom when he kisses Sophie —the traditional manner of asking forgiveness.

CHRISTMAS DAY STILL TO ARRIVE FOR SERBIANS

1,600 Families to Observe Fete Wednesday.

For 1,600 Serbian families of the south side and suburbs Christmas will take place Wednesday in accordance with the Julian calendar. Masses and other special services are scheduled by Serbian Orthodox churches in South Chicago, Indiana Harbor, Joliet, and Gary and some of the European customs will be observed in the homes.

St. Archangel Michael Serbian Orthodox church, 9807 Commercial avenue, will have a service at 4 o'clock in the morning and a high mass at 10:30 o'clock. With the exception of the Serbian church in Indiana Harbor, which will have mass at 8 o'clock, masses will be at 10 o'clock Thursday and Friday. Services at an earlier hour will consist of anointing of the people with oil by the priest and the kissing of the cross.

Lucky Coin in Cake.

In the homes Serbian housewives will bake the traditional bread cake which is eaten with the main meal on Christmas. The cake is filled with a variety of seeds and one lucky coin. Whoever finds the coin in his piece of cake treasures it and expects luck thruout the year. Another custom the Serbians observe during the holiday season is the act of forgiveness thru kissing. Any one may kiss any one else in order to be forgiven.

The custom of having barbecued lamb or turkey—fixed personally in the basement or garage—also is observed by most of the families but some of the other old world traditions have been dropped. The custom of bringing straw into the home to signify the birth of Christ in a stable and the Yule log burning rite have almost completely disappeared.

Pastors of Three Churches.

The Rev. Andrew Popovich is pastor of St. Archangel Michael church and the Serbian Orthodox church in Indiana Harbor. Other pastors are the Rev. Vladimir Mrvichin of the Gary church and the Rev. Nicholas Drazgich of the Joliet church.

TRAINING SCHOOL TO BE OPENED AT SUBURB CHURCH

A leadership training school in Christian education will begin at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening in the First Presbyterian church of Hammond. The courses will continue every Monday and Tuesday evening for three weeks. The Rev. Paul J. Renz, president of the Hammond Council of Churches, is sponsor.

The classes will include "The Child's Approach to Religion," by Miss Winnie Plummer, director of the weekday schools of religion in Chicago, and "Guiding Youth's Approach to Religion," by Miss Helen Wilcox, director of Christian Education in the First Presbyterian church of La Grange.

"Christian Evangelism" will be taught by Dr. John E. Simpson, pastor of the United Presbyterian church of Oak Park, and "Jesus and His Teachings" by Dr. Charles A. Garmer, pastor of the First Baptist church of Morgan Park.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, Jan. 5.

Transplant seedlings that are large enough. Seedlings need little plant food because their root system is meager, but when they have developed copiously more food is necessary. The amount of plant food to apply to any kind of plant is often a problem for most gardeners, but the safest amount is too little rather than too much.

Growing house plants need food and it is wise to buy a complete food which is one that contains the essential elements or those that plants need. Fertilizers like bone meal are not complete foods because they contain only a single element and must be supplemented with other foods. It is best to study the general requirements of soil or study the natural conditions under which a plant grew.

Tuesday, Jan. 6.

Keep the Christmas pot plants in as good condition as possible. Chief essentials are plenty of water, the avoidance of drafts, excessively dry atmosphere, and the control of insect pests. Placing pans of water on radiators will aid in keeping some moisture in the air, and an occasional syringing will keep the foliage cleared of all dust.

The grower of pot plants has a regular spraying program but sometimes it is difficult to rid his plants of all insects and if a few are on a plant that ultimately reaches a home gardener these few insects, finding the room congenial, increase at a rapid rate.

Wednesday, Jan. 7.

Transplant the Calla Lily when root bound, for it will need plenty of space and food to produce many flowers. These plants require an abundance of water; in fact, it is a moisture loving plant. Even tho the flowers are few, the foliage is tropical and well worth enjoying.

Many persons will have received planted terrariums for Christmas. These delightful miniature hothouses require a minimum of care. There are, however, a few things that require attention. First, do not permit an excess of moisture to form on the underside of the glass. If moisture forms, simply give a crack of air by moving the cover to one side. An excess of moisture is certain to cause a fungous to form which eventually affects the plants, causing much injury or death.

Keep these glass houses in subdued light, that is, away from direct sunlight, for the plants are usually shade loving. This does not mean they like a dark place, for most of them need light shade or the shade from a light lace curtain.

Thursday, Jan. 8.

If the home gardner has an overgrown plant or one that is not wanted, why not get in touch with the nearest high school—the biology department may like it.

Feed the birds by hanging pieces of suet to the branch of a tree where it can be seen from a window, or arrange a feeding station and see that food is always on hand. Country folk who are aware of pheasants in the vicinity should scatter grains where the birds will find them.

Friday, Jan. 9.

Start fancy leaved Caladium tubers. Tubers can be purchased from supply houses and their beauty is unrivaled by any group of plants. If started in pots, use a soil consisting of leafmold, sand, and soil, with good drainage. They make a nice house plant.

Saturday, Jan. 10.

The period between Christmas and Easter is a good time in which to start woody twigs in flower. The pussy willow and goldenbell, cornelian cherry, shadbush, plum, and others are easy to start and they make fine bouquets in suitable containers.

Prepare flats for sowing seeds of Vinca roses and alba, verbena hybrida, petunia, and other seeds that take a considerable time to develop. Pot up glozinia in soil like that used for the caladiums.

SUBURBAN HOME IS BUILT ALONG GRECIAN LINES

Spacious Residence Has Three Fireplaces.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Chicago has made many claims to early architectural relationship with colonial fashions, but our city's first real architecture over a hundred years ago, began with the Greek revival style. In those far gone days our pioneer carpenter-builders studied their handbooks faithfully and labored to translate their dreams of classic porticos and columns, pilasters and cornices into dwellings for those in the Chicago area.

Now again there is an increased interest in this stimulating native type and we see it reproduced with great beauty in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. R. U. Baughman, 1216 South Sheridan road, Highland Park.

Green Slate Roof.

The architect, William N. Alderman, 140 South Dearborn street, has carried out the exterior in Lannon stone with dressed Indiana limestone finish and slate roof of unfading green.

It is a house which reflects the classic vigor, grace, and clear cut purity of line. Inside as well as out we recognize those symbols of the ancient Greek tradition which are the basis of so much of our western decorative expression. [Indeed, this heritage from the Greek is all around us, and in the rooms where we move it is likely we can see motifs from those old days.]

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Baughman faces north and as you enter there's a great center reception hall with marble floor and wide, winding stair to the second floor.

Has Tall Windows.

The living room at the left has ice blue walls, and rose toned drapes at French doors and windows, rug and upholstery of chairs have exquisite shades of rose and blue and deep gold. The windows are tall, eight and one-half feet, and on the fireplace columns the Greek nymphs are hand carved. Moulded plaster cornices and all trim have been designed by the architect.

The fireplace wall in the library is of light walnut, a gem of unusual beauty. The rug is of deep American Beauty shade and the three other walls of the room are covered with a hand blocked scenic wall paper with a Greek revival house pictured on a soft grey background.

There's a large outdoor living room accessible both from the library and the living room.

Another fireplace is found in the dining room, this one a corner type of marble, and the rich blue of the drapes and the border of the beige rug were chosen especially to blend with the border pattern of the blue and white regency paper.

Has Breakfast Bar.

The kitchen is streamlined and modern, a sparkling spot in white with red accessories and decorations and large enough to contain not only a breakfast corner but also a breakfast refreshment bar and counter.

On the second floor there's a master bedroom as spacious as the living room, with French blue carpeting, blue drapes, and French regency beds of walnut with regency plume note. The room has two baths, one very tailored and masculine, with light gray tile wainscot and walls papered in blue. There is a light, capacious dressing room with blue carpeting and rose colored plate glass top dressing table, and a second, very feminine bath in dusty pink and silver and a wall paper which flaunts dusty pink regency plumes.

The two guest rooms are decorated and planned with the same artistry and feeling of esthetic judgement.

Carved Oak Beds.

One room has carved beds of dark oak and a Chinese rug with deep border, light blue papered walls and mirror cornices, deep blue satin drapes and bedspreads. The second guest room has blonde walnut furnishings, pale peach toned wall paper with a lacey pattern, and a beige rug with tiny flowers in deep and dusty tones of pink.

In the basement there's a comfortable recreation room spendidly fitted out with the accessories and necessities of such a spot. There's a deep cobalt blue fireplace wall, while the other walls are painted cream. The floor is linoleum with Mexican rugs, the refreshment bar is finished in Venetian red, and stools are upholstered in green.

Here, too, in this basement there's a large laundry and a utility room with floor of asphalt tile. Also accessible from the basement stairs is a small green house.

Many symbols, nuances, and motifs have been employed to create a background for this home, a traditional, storied background and yet one well adapted to modern America.

Defense Bonds Chosen for Prizes

These south shore women hope to set an example for other clubs on the south side by using defense bonds for card game prizes. As members of the Wednesday club, they have met regularly for 10 years. They are (front row, left to right): Mrs. Paul Garvey, Mrs. John M. Weeks, Mrs. Raymond Cupler, Mrs. Harold Haab, and (back row) Mrs. Louis Barbour, Mrs. Warren Bay, Mrs. Anton Bohlken, and Mrs. William Federbush. Several have sons in the army and in the air corps.

TRAINING CAMP NEWS

Gerald Weil, 2115 East 70th street, has been given his commission of ensign in the navy air corps at Pensacola, Fla. His 15 day Christmas leave was canceled, however, and he was ordered to report to a squadron immediately.

Aviation Cadet Lloyd B. Shields, 6305 Woodlawn avenue, has been sent to Goodfellow field, San Angelo, Tex., from Hicks field, Fort Worth, Tex., where he took his primary flight training. During his 10 weeks' training at Goodfellow Basic Flying school he will prepare to take his place in the expanded army air corps by learning to handle 450 horse power BT-13A trainers. He will indulge in acrobatics, cross-country practice, and formation, instrument and night flying.

A new arrival at Sheppard field, Texas, is Lieut. Howard E. Snyder. He is assigned for duty as commanding officer of the 403d school squadron. A graduate of Culver Military academy, Lieut. Snyder received his commission in April, 1941. He is the son of Harry Snyder, 8017 Eberhart avenue.

Laurence L. Goldberg, 7746 Phillips avenue, recently was promoted to sergeant in Troop A of the 106th cavalry. He was a lawyer in civilian life.

Charles E. Curren, 4728 Woodlawn avenue, was one of 191 men at Chanute field, who recently received promotions. Curran was advanced to corporal.

Private George V. Lene, 6106 Drexel avenue, has passed the examination for a mechanic in the ground crew of the air corps at Jefferson Barracks, Mo. He soon will be transferred to an air field for further training.

Private First Class Harvey L. Galberth, 6430 Rhodes avenue, has reported to the world's largest cavalry school at Fort Riley, Kas. He will receive a modern course of instruction in communications.

Charles P. Summerall, president of the college. The present holder of the Col. Robert R. McCormick scholarship, William J. DeWitt, will be graduated from the school at Charleston, S. C., in June. DeWitt, a graduate of Bowen High school, matriculated at The Citadel in September, 1938.

The scholarship is limited by its donor to boys from Illinois. In addition to meeting the entrance requirements candidates must fulfill the following requirements: [a] general worth and personality; [b] exhibition of moral force of character; [c] physical vigor; and [d] scholastic preparation.

Principal Picks Candidate.

Other things being equal, Gen. Summerall said preference would be shown the candidate who otherwise would be unable to attend college.

From the applications received at any high school the principal will select that candidate who best fulfills the requirements and send his record to The Citadel.

The Citadel committee on scholarships will make the final selection from the candidates selected by the principals of the various public and private high schools of Illinois.

Age Limit, 16 to 22.

No boy is admitted to the freshman class at The Citadel unless he is between the ages of 16 and 22 at the time the college session begins and possesses no physical defects which would make military training dangerous to him.

All records of candidates must be submitted not later than June 30, 1942.

CHILDREN AWAIT VISIT OF MAGI TO MEXICAN HOMES

They'll Find Presents on Tuesday Morning.

Mexicans of Chicagoland say that traditionally Christmas day was a holy day in the land of their forefathers. There were no gifts, altho older folks sometimes exchanged small presents—tokens of good will—on New Year's day. The children set out their shoes for gifts on the night of Jan. 5, the eve of Three Kings' day. On the morning of Jan. 6, if they were fortunate, they might find some fruit or sweets left in the little boots by the Magi, of course.

But some of the Mexicans came to the United States. Right now, 3,000 of them live in the Town of Lake, that district sprawling about 47th street and Ashland avenue and known in Chicago and thruout the country as Back o' the Yards. There, wide-eyed Mexican children will rise early Tuesday morning to look into the shoes they'll put outside the doors of their flats tomorrow night.

Expect Visit from Magi.

In South Chicago, there are another 3,000 Mexicans. And children there, like the youngsters in the Town of Lake, will set out their shoes tomorrow night in hopes that the Magi will call.

If they wake up too early Tuesday, there's a great possibility they'll get to the shoes before the "Three Kings" do—more than one grownup recalls having done just that.

Miss Mary Louise Garibay who lives in the Town of Lake, at 1543 West 46th street, and works at the South Chicago Community center recalls having peeked too early on Three Kings' day. Miss Garibay tells the story of the survival of the Three Kings' day practice which she says flourishes among the Town of Lake Mexicans and within the South Chicago group. As an adult, she says, she finds remembering the children on Jan. 6 an extra strain on a Christmas flattened purse. "But they're so happy," she concludes, "I guess the grownups can manage."

Like Christmas Gifts, Too.

But if any one believes that these modern transplanted Mexican youngsters are content with a few presents in the shoes on Jan. 6—the Mexican parents want him to know that's a big mistake. Small José and Bonita just regard Jan. 6 as an extra dividend after Christmas. The modern Mexican youngster is willing to go to church and observe the holy day services of the Christmas of his forefathers, but he wants to come home to a Christmas tree and presents.

Then on Jan. 6 the little Mexican boys and girls are wholly in favor of sticking to tradition again.

Here in this country, Mexican parents have to be careful not to play Three Kings too early in the morning if there is cold January weather. Then the apples and nuts that mean Three Kings' day presents may be frozen.

HYDE PARK ART CENTER IN DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

The Hyde Park Art center, 1500 East 57th street, is in the midst of a membership campaign designed to support the enlarged work of the center, which is entering its fourth year. Principal achievement of the last year was establishment of free classes in art for both adults and children.

In the former group, 43 persons have been receiving evening instruction from Walter Paul Robinson, and in the Saturday morning class for children, 35 are registered. They were taught by George Redlich until his recent death, and the class now will be conducted by Mrs. Florence Forster.

A memorial exhibit to Mr. Redlich, composed of work done in his children's classes, has been hung in the center and will be on view there until Wednesday. It will be followed by a week's showing of drawings and paintings by members of the adult classes. A number of other exhibitions of photography, graphic design, school art, prints, and of water colors by Hyde Park artists are scheduled for the spring.

THEME OF RADIO IN 1942: 'KEEP 'EM ROLLING!'

War May Restrict, Alter Broadcast Pattern.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

If "Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair" was the theme song for radio in 1941, "Keep 'Em Rolling" is likely to be in 1942. The war will be the preëminent and dominant subject in broadcasting for the year just started.

Nevertheless, broadcasters are going ahead, reassured by the Federal Communications commission that there is no government plan to take over the radio industry, with plans of entertaining 130 million Americans as well as informing them. A few days after Pearl Harbor, Bob Hope, the comedian, announced that he and his troupe would try to keep America laughing in the face of war.

"One of the things that makes us an unbeatable nation," he said, "is our ability to laugh. We may black out our lights but never our sense of humor."

That attitude in broadcasting appears to be widespread and in the serious days ahead Americans do not expect to lose the programs that entertain them.

Radio to Help Win War.

But Americans expect radio to contribute its utmost to win the war and broadcasters are showing responsiveness to their obligations in this regard. Broadcasters are giving liberally of their sustaining time to defense requirements and sponsors in general are devoting substantial portions of time to promoting the sale of bonds and other war requirements.

During the first days of the war many programs waived their commercial talk altogether to make way for the news and presumably they will continue this practice when the magnitude of the news warrants.

Radio blackouts, already introduced on the west coast, may be expected to return there or in any area where there is danger of air attack since radio signals might serve to guide enemy planes to their objectives.

There are reports of the possible introduction of systems of "scrambling" radio signals to prevent the use of stations as plane beacons.

There appears to be some likelihood of reallocation of certain assignments of broadcasting stations. Thought is being given to allocating some of the frequencies at the long end [that is, the short numbers], of the broadcasting portion of the spectrum to the armed services.

Ryan Is Broadcast Censor.

Radio like the press will operate under censorship in 1942. J. Harold Ryan, Toledo radio executive, has accepted the post of broadcast censor. He will serve as assistant to Byron Price, director of censorship. A liaison officer also is to be named to coördinate for radio the work of the FCC, the defense communications board, the director of censorship and other war offices having radio functions.

The war also will affect the production of radio receivers for private use. The war needs of radio are tremendous. A billion dollars worth of defense communications equipment is to be built in 1942. This is more than twice the total of radio equipment manufactured last year.

Manufacturers have warned that a shortage of crucial metals and other elements needed in the manufacture of receivers may mean greatly curtailed production for private consumption this year.

Fortunately for millions of listeners the life of sets can be extended indefinitely thru expert service and repair.

BEARS-ALL-STAR GAME WILL BE AIRED ON W-G-N

The last public appearance of the world's champion Chicago Bears will be aired on W-G-N and the Mutual network at 12:55 p. m. today. Red Barber will broadcast a description of the game between the Bears and the All-Star professional team made up of the outstanding players on the other National Professional league teams. The game will be played in the New York Polo Grounds for the benefit of the Navy Relief society.

DON'T BE FAT!

Irene Rich, lovely star of the screen and radio, now past 40, weighs the same as she did at 16. She recommends the easy Welch way to reduce.

Here's The Most Amazing Way To Lose Weight You've Ever Read About!

Here's how to take off ugly fat—without strict diet lists, no strenuous exercises, no drugs. The easy Welch Way! And intelligent, coöperative people who faithfully followed Dr. Frederic Damrau's instructions lost an average of 7 pounds a month. Amazing results sworn to before a Notary Public. And listen how easy it is. Just mix ¾ glass of Welch's Grape Juice with ¼ glass water, and drink before meals and at bedtime. Then this happens: First, you have less desire to eat sweet, fattening foods—thus reducing caloric intake. Second, the natural dextrose in Welch's is quickly consumed. This regime actually helps nature consume excess fat. Yet!—you needn't suffer a hungry moment. So start reducing the Welch Way today.

Play Clothes for South Flaunt Colors

By Rea Seeger.

HOWEVER you stand upon the issues of escape or sticking around in the midst of things—work, war, or politics — the newest, winter, southern resort clothes are sufficiently colorful, summery, and new to shake the decision of the sternest souls. Flaunting their gayety, beauty, and charm before the rather winter-groggy shoppers, these clever new creations from the workrooms of American designers are everything to shout about.

From one outstanding collection we've sketched the newest models, but others just as colorful and dramatic also are worth a speedy trip to town for close inspection. 1—Seashore excitement, the shirred laton swim suit with the exposed midriff. It comes in startling contrast colors. 2 and 3—Versions of the same tripartite dress in smooth crepe. The shortest skirt is the active play suit; the longer skirt for daytime and street wear. 4—Another stunning print dress for daytime wear all thru the 24 hours. It is made of gay, printed jersey. 5—Sharkskin printed in a bright design, resembling an etching in effect, features the flared short skirt and the simply cut blouse top with brief sleeves. Sunshade hat of white or red, and slippers to match, offer the contrast.

6—Coal black slacks in novelty mixture are the big splash of the season. Wear such slacks and matching, tailored long jacket with the newest, huge-patterned print blouse, also with long sleeves to slide under the sleeves of the jacket.

7—Cotton crash beach robe, at least six yards around the lower hemline, covers the shirred laton swim suit, if you wish. Huge printed seagulls swoop and dive all over the robe.

8—Long torso daytime dress in three colors of crepe, one color used for the slenderizing midriff section.

9—Denim play dress with shorts, in so called prison stripes. For information call Sup. 0200.

ON THE SCREEN

Left: Olivia de Havilland stars in "They Died with Their Boots On." At the Chicago, soon.

Right: "How Green Was My Valley" stars Maureen O'Hara. It's coming to the State-Lake.

Here's Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck as they appear in a scene from the film, "Ball of Fire," now showing at the Palace theater.

Below: "Henry Aldrich for President" is the second feature at the Roosevelt theater. June Preisser and Jimmy Lydon. pictured here, are the two leading players.

Right: Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney are co-starred again in another musical. This time it's "Babes on Broadway." At the United Artists.

Two New Musicals Scheduled for Chicago Stages

'PanamaHattie' and 'Pal Joey' to Open Soon

By Cecil Smith.

Altho "Louisiana Purchase" remains for another fortnight at the Erlanger theater and "The Student Prince" continues thru the coming week at the Grand Opera house, two other major musical comedies loom in the immediate offing. On Monday, Jan. 12, "Pal Joey" will take over the Grand for an indefinite period. A week later, on Jan. 19, "Panama Hattie" will open at the Erlanger, in day-and-date conflict with Ethel Barrymore in "The Corn Is Green."

"Pal Joey" and "Panama Hattie" are the only remaining Broadway musical successes from last season's with the exception of "Lady in the Dark," which Chicago has not yet seen. Apart from a great deal of vivacity and a discreet amount of dirt, they have not much in common. "Pal Joey" tells in gentle and beguiling terms of the rise and fall of a young bounder whose principal scene of activity is an alleged night club on Cottage Grove avenue, right here in Chicago. "Panama Hattie" turns to raucous advantage a typical prefabricated musical comedy libretto about a questionable Panamanian lady with a heart of gold and a nose for fifth column plots against the canal.

• • •

The title rôle, and the rest of the story for that matter, of "Pal Joey" is an enlargement upon a series of sharp, slangy sketches which John O'Hara contributed to the New Yorker magazine. Out of his own material Mr. O'Hara has written one of the wittiest books a musical comedy ever had, and has violated all traditional principle by creating real characters instead of artificial figures around whom to festoon songs and dances.

Lorenz Hart, the neatest rhymester on Broadway, has brought his best quality of sophisticated improvisation to the lyrics, and Richard Rodgers, who for years has worked hand in glove with his partner Hart, has turned out a distinctive musical score, brightened by such excellent pieces as "Bewitched, Bothered, and Bewildered," "I Could Write a Book," and "In Our Little Den of Iniquity."

• • •

Altho the story of "Pal Joey" is focused upon Joey himself, it is probably not that brash and attractive heel whom you will remember longest. Without intending to cast a shadow of an aspersion upon that brilliant, lanky dancer, George Tapps, who plays Joey, I cannot overlook the fact that the delectable Vivienne Segal is in the cast. And to my taste at least, there is no point in looking anywhere else when Vivienne is on the stage. The superbly understated worldliness of her performance in "I Married an Angel" is at least equaled by her portrait of the blasé Chicago society woman who takes a fancy to Joey, and who proves in the end that she knows quite as well how to leave him as to love him.

George Abbott, who understands as well as any man in America how to keep a show swift and youthful, produced and staged "Pal Joey." Jo Mielziner, who collaborated with Rodgers and Hart on "I Married an Angel," designed the scenery, and John Koenig created the costumes. The cast, in addition to Miss Segal and Mr. Tapps, includes Vivienne Allen, Shirley Paige, Anne Blair, David Burns, Mildred Todd, and many others.

• • •

"Panama Hattie," following "Louisiana Purchase" into the Erlanger Jan. 19, is the property of B. G. De Sylva, whose triumvirate of hits—"Du Barry Was a Lady" and "Louisiana Purchase" were the first two—has made the Clark street house a center of loud gayety for a large part of two successive seasons. In New York "Panama Hattie" closed last night after running up a total of 515 performances and sending the original Hattie, Ethel Merman, onto the sick list.

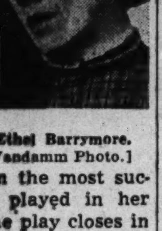
Frances Williams, who performed a similar substitution in "Du Barry Was a Lady," takes over for Miss Merman on tour. To her will fall such Cole Porter hit tunes as "Make It Another Old Fashioned, Please," "I've Still Got My Health," and that priceless bit of maudlin sentiment, "Let's Be Buddies," which she sings to a small girl who is being chaperoned in Panama by Arthur Treacher, the drily amusing butler of movie fame. James Dunn, another graduate of the films, appears as the father of the child and the swain of Miss Williams.

In the fast moving doings of "Panama Hattie" other important assignments are carried by Ann Barrett, Red Marshall, Lorna Lynn, Pat Harrington, and Carmen D'Antonio, not to mention the 50 girls luridly described as "Panamamas." The book is by Herbert Fields and Mr. De Sylva. Mr. Porter, as is his wont, wrote both music and lyrics.

AT GREAT NORTHERN

The latest comedy to emerge on the Great Northern theater's stage is Elliott Lester's decade-old "Take My Advice," in which Sunda Love is one of the featured players. [Nelidoff Photo.]

Notes of the Theater



Ethel Barrymore. [Vandamm Photo.]

"The Corn Is Green" will arrive two weeks earlier than expected, coming into the Harris theater on Monday, Jan. 19. Its stay here will last exactly six weeks. Emlyn Williams' drama with a Welsh background will bring back Ethel Barrymore for the first time since she played the centenarian in "Whiteoaks," and will reveal her in the most successful rôle she has played in her long career. When the play closes in New York on Jan. 17 it will end a run of well over a year. The work also had the distinction of winning the Drama Critics' circle citation as the best foreign play brought to Broadway during the 1940-'41 season. The major players supporting Miss Barrymore are Richard Waring, Thelma Schnee, Edmond Breon, Eva Leonard-Boyne, Esther Mitchell, and Marcel Dill—the first three making their Chicago bow at this time.

As previously announced "The Corn Is Green" becomes the third offering on the American Theater society and Theater guild subscription series. It was produced and staged by Herman Shumlin, who was responsible for "The Little Foxes," "Watch on the Rhine," "The Children's Hour," and "Grand Hotel."

◆

Three attractions give up the local ghost at the end of this week. "Native Son" deserts the Studebaker theater for points northwest, "The Student Prince" bows out of the Grand Opera house to warble its Rombergian tunes elsewhere, and "Take My Advice" just evaporates at the Great Northern. Of the playhouses named only the Grand gets another tenant right away. It is "Pal Joey," discussed at length in an adjacent column.

◆

Another departure, not quite so imminent, is that of "Louisiana Purchase." With its four stars—Victor Moore, Vera Zorina, William Gaxton, and Irene Bordoni—and its many carloads of scenery the musical comedy moves on after Jan. 17 to Detroit, Pittsburgh, Washington, and Boston before disbanding. No such extravagant production has been so successful in Chicago since the pre-depression days, and its local run of 14 weeks will probably set a record for a long time to come among lavish musicals. The 140,000 who have seen the B. G. De Sylva production have pushed $325,000 across the box office sill to do so.

"Claudia," which remains snugly ensconced at the Selwyn theater, has had the fun of watching the rest of the season's attractions come and go without worrying one bit. The comedy's unruffled exterior belies a vast amount of activity backstage. Every Friday night two $25 defense bonds are raffled off among the members of the cast and the theater staff, who are pledged to take part in the raffle weekly. At the moment Beverly Bayne, Claudia's mother in the play, is trying to establish a method whereby more money will pour into the coffers of the American Theater Wing for War Service. She suitable bank when they break one of the numerous and poorly enforced backstage rules. These include such items as being punctual for rehearsals, no smoking in dressing rooms, no standing in exits and entrances, being made up a full half hour before curtain time, no talking on stage during a performance, and so on ad infinitum.

Old Favorite in New Show at the Casino

By Will Davidson.

Puns in pantomine, caricatures in capers—that's Sheila Barrett. The star of the Rhumba Casino show is an old favorite, and despite her own remarks about it, I'm not referring to age. There is an incisive quality about Miss Barrett's impersonations and mimicry that sometimes is devastating, sometimes kindly, almost always amusing.

It might as well be admitted now that her "Afternoon Radio" number isn't good. By contrast with the wit and sharpness of her other skits it is distinctly second rate Barrett. But "Blind Date," the sorrowful saga of a wallflower; the skit about the southern gal who gets progressively more inebriated as she increasingly protests her addiction to abstemiousness; and that hilarious lampoon of "Gone with the Wind," with Fannie Brice as Scarlett, and W. C. Fields as Rhett, are gorgeous fun. There are others that rank close to these, too. It's a welcome change in café fare.

Carol King's exquisite toe dancing still dominates the supporting show, with the ensemble work of the Pan American troupe an ever colorful background for the revue. The singer in this show is Alice Dawn, a student of the nasal school whose appearance and approach appeals to many of the customers.

José Morand [Bruno Photo]

A devilishly handsome gent with a terrific physique, and the neatest job of tailoring you've seen on a café floor in a long time, is the spark of the show that reopened the Colony club during the holidays. He is Luis Gomez, a veteran dancer. He is only half of the dance team of Gomez and Minor, but with all due respect to Miss Minor's well trained and graceful work, Luis is the boy who sparkles. His lifts and turns are magnificent, and that smile—the gals love it.

April Ames, pretty dancing star of New York's "Louisiana Purchase," is a lively and likeable feature of the show and little Nina Oria, with the Bonnie Baker face and the Lupe Velez pep give the feminine part of the revue a large share of the honors. Tito Coral, suffering from Chicago throat, hasn't been at his best, which is very, very good. But laryngitis can't down that Coral personality.

The Virginia La Verne Debutantes are not up to the Colony's standard of line girls. I strongly suspect they've not had much intimate club experience, for they seemed as unhappy about it as I was.

José Morand, who changed his name from Moran, because of phonetics, has an ideal band for the Colony. His music is most danceable, and the band has versatility enough to switch easily from a conga into a waltz without a drop in quality.

The new Colony has started off well. It is beautiful so far, in decor and decorum.

Chicago Symphony to Present Two Dvorak Programs

Composer to Be Honored on Anniversary

By Edward Barry.

The fact that Antonin Dvorak is perhaps the only major European composer ever to have lived in the state of Iowa is but one reason for the special interest which Americans have always had in him. Another is that his most famous work, the "New World" symphony, was written in this country and utilizes certain musical devices which are, in intention at least, American. Still a third is the influence he exerted on musical education here during the two years he served as head of New York's National conservatory.

John Weicher. [Maurice Photo.]

On Thursday night and Friday afternoon of this week Frederick Stock and the Chicago Symphony orchestra, with John Weicher as violin soloist, will present all Dvorak programs in Orchestra hall in recognition of the 100th anniversary of the composer's birth. The fitting date for such an observance would have been last Sept. 8, but the Symphony season had not yet begun.

So it was decided to combine the Dvorak observance with the annual commemoration of Theodore Thomas, the orchestra's founder and first conductor, who died on Jan. 4, 1905. Bracketing the names of Dvorak and Thomas is a perfectly fitting procedure, for the latter, like the former, played an important part in the task of bringing raw young America to musical maturity.

• • •

Another justification for such bracketing lies in the fact that Thomas helped popularize Dvorak's music. Records of his pre-1891 performances [when he and his orchestra were barnstorming the country as well as playing relatively stable concert series in the east] are not available, but a study of the early répertoire of the Chicago orchestra reveals the fact that Dvorak's name was well known here before he ever arrived in this country. During the season of 1891-'92 Chicagoans heard his first symphony; the overture, "Husitzka"; the Scherzo Capriccioso; one of the Slavonic rhapsodies; the violin concerto, and an excerpt from the oratorio, "St. Ludmilla."

Later, Thomas gave the "New World" symphony several performances here, but it was left to Mr. Stock, Thomas' successor, really to popularize this work. It was played frequently up to the season of 1920-'21, then allowed almost to drop from the répertoire. Readers will be astonished to learn that it has had only one performance on the Thursday-Friday subscription series during the last 20 years.

Dvorak was born in the Bohemian village of Nelahozeves on Sept. 8, 1841. His father was a butcher and innkeeper. The boy showed great musical talent and at the age of about 16 he was sent to Prague for serious study.

• • •

Soon his great interest in and gift for composition asserted themselves. Schubert, Beethoven, and Wagner were his ideals and his models, but a pronounced national note was early apparent in his work. He had lived close to the soil of Bohemia, and he knew intimately the musical idiom of the country. Even when he became well acquainted with the great European written tradition, the folk note remained and gave his music much of its extraordinary individuality and interest.

Dvorak's first major honor was the Austrian State prize [Bohemia was then a part of the Austrian empire], which was bestowed on an early E flat symphony. Even more important to the young composer were the friendship and the good offices of the older composer, Johannes Brahms. The latter persuaded the powerful publishing house of Simrock to issue Dvorak's Moravian duets.

Dvorak was about 35 at the time, and from then on to the end of his life he seems to have known nothing but success. He had little trouble getting his works before the public, for he was one of the relatively few composers who were recognized at their true worth early in their careers. Dvorak was an important musical personage by the time he was 40, and honors of one sort or another came to him with gratifying regularity. Nor was his reputation confined to his homeland. He made many trips to England, where he was received with acclaim. The invitation from America came in 1891, and in the fall of 1892 he arrived in New York. The following summer he visited the middlewest—Chicago, Omaha, and St. Paul—and lived for a while in the village of Spillville, Ia., whose large Bohemian population eased the pain of the homesickness from which he suffered almost constantly.

His love for his own country led him to turn down other tempting offers from abroad. At home he was a sort of grand old man of music, at once composer, teacher, and counselor. He died in Prague on May 1, 1904, and was given a national funeral as evidence of the respect and affection in which he was held.

Dvorak's musical output was enormous. He wrote 10 operas, nine symphonies [only five of which he published], concertos for violin, cello and piano, a variety of overtures and other orchestral works, a vast amount of chamber music, choral music, songs, and small pieces for various instruments.

Philip Hale has this to say about the composer: "The winning and endearing qualities of childhood were in Dvorak's best music: artless simplicity, irresistible frankness, delight in nature and life. His music was best when it smacked of the soil, when he remembered his early days, the strains of vagabond musicians, the dances dear to his folk. One of a happily primitive people, he delighted in rhythm and color. . . . Some have been inclined to think lightly of Dvorak because his best and most vital qualities were recognized by the people. This popularity irritated those who believe that pure art is only for the few—the purists. . . . But this popularity was based on the quick recognition of essential qualities: melody, rhythm, color. . . . Dvorak had his faults, and they were tiresome and exasperating. His naiveté became a mannerism. Like a child he delighted in vain repetitions. . . . His complete works may gather dust in libraries, but no carefully chosen anthology will be without examples of his piquancy, strength and beauty in thought and expression." ["Philip Hale's Boston Symphony Programme Notes," published by Doubleday Doran.]

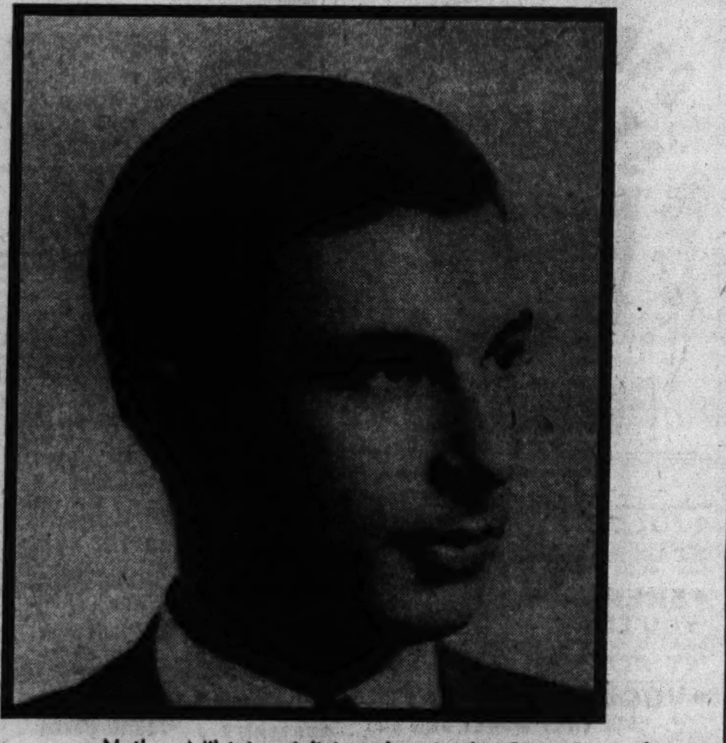
The complete program for Thursday and Friday follows:

Overture, "Othello"	Dvorak
Concerto for Violin, A minor John Weicher.	Dvorak
Symphony No. 5, E minor [from the "New World"]	Dvorak

Mr. Stock will also conduct the young people's concert Wednesday afternoon and the popular concert on Saturday night. The program for the latter follows:

Overture to an Italian Comedy	Benjamin
Symphony after Byron's "Manfred"	Tschaikowsky
Symphonie Concertante for violin and viola, E flat major Violin: John Weicher; viola, Milton Preves	Mozart
Rumanian Rhapsody No. 1.	Enesco

TO PLAY NEXT SUNDAY



Nathan Milstein, violinist, plays in the Civic Opera house next Sunday afternoon. His recital is a part of the History and Enjoyment of Music series.

Current Music News

Illinois WPA Symphony orchestra. With tomorrow's concert the Illinois symphony will settle down in the Eighth street theater for the remainder of the season. The feature of the program will be a concert version of Donizetti's excellent comic opera, "Don Pasquale." It will be sung under the direction of Leo Kopp, who prepared similar tabloid versions of Ravel's "The Spanish Hour" and Debussy's "Pelléas and Mélisande" for presentation by the orchestra. "Don Pasquale" was last given here professionally by the Civic Opera company in 1930 with Salvi, Schipa, Rimini, and Trevisan. It was given some eight times at Ravinia alternating such distinguished singers as Bori, Macbeth, Chamblee, Schipa, Hackett, Picco, Rimini, Basiola, and Trevisan in the leading rôles. Monday's cast will include Lois Wallner, soprano; Edward Stack and William Tabbert, baritones; Kenneth Morrow and Michael Signorelli, tenors. The full program:

Enya Gonzalez, the charming soprano from the Philippine Islands, makes her Chicago recital debut under the auspices of the Arts club a week from tonight. She has appeared here just once previously when she sang "Madame Butterfly" with the Chicago Opera company in 1940. At the Arts club she will introduce a number of folk songs from her native islands and offer works by several Spanish composers.

Mr. Smith, It Seems, Dislikes Ballet Number

By Cecil Smith.

The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo moved on to St. Louis two days ago, but the impact of its crowded week at the Civic Opera house is by no means forgotten. Most of the memories are agreeable, and even ecstatic ones. But the delights of the ballet surely were dwelt on sufficiently while the dancers were here; and a few therapeutic words of complaint may not be amiss.

The one really serious miscalculation in Leonide Massine's répertoire proved to be the allegedly American ballet, "Saratoga." At the outset the new work should have possessed every advantage. The evocation of Saratoga Springs, the famous New York state spa and horse racing center, as it presumably glittered and tingled with excitement in the '90s; the choice of a scenario framed about so popular and familiar a subject as racing; the charmingly reminiscent backdrop, showing the grandstand and the gingerbread pavilions, painted in a half-realistic, half-cartoon style by Oliver Smith; the lively costumes by Alvin Colt; the stage full of lithe jockeys and happy racing fans—all of these elements provided the makings of as gay and bright a ballet as could well be imagined.

With all these sparkling materials at hand, Mr. Massine's way of going about the composition of "Saratoga" rather baffles the understanding. With a dozen of the best young American composers eager and waiting for just such an opportunity, Mr. Massine assigned the task of composing the score to Jaromir Weinberger, who is less American than Mr. Massine himself by several seasons of residence, and who appropriated and paraphrased American tunes with callous abandon, only to dress them up with decadent chromatic harmony in post-romantic central European vain.

When Mr. Weinberger's horns started maundering about in phony inner voices like those of Dohnanyi's suite for orchestra, or when innocent tunes began to sound like dejected bits of Richard Strauss, or perhaps more like discarded passages from the first draft of "Schwanda," all appropriateness to time and place vanished utterly and finally.

• • •

I have described Mr. Weinberger's score in some detail because there is a fairly clear analogy between his method with the music and Mr. Massine's method of putting the dance structure together. In general, the large pattern of "Saratoga" is derived from "Le Beau Danube," in which a lot of attractive people dance a lot of attractive dances in a park, while a closely chaperoned young girl manages to elude her guard for a few romantic interludes. In "Saratoga" the thread of story is treated in a brasher mood, but its genealogical descent from "Le Beau Danube" remains quite unmistakable, even when the pattern is varied with suggestions of "Gaite Parisienne," with the cakewalk replacing the cancan.

In other words, Mr. Massine has not undertaken to discover a new form to express his American subject matter. He has not even sought out new dance styles, or even, to a surprising extent, new dance steps. To the unspecialized observer, the cakewalk differs from the cancan only in certain external mannerisms, and not at all in its basic mood.

• • •

As if to hide the essential repetitiousness and Europeanism of his dance materials, Mr. Massine has made use of countless pantomimic touches which may be classified as Americana, just as Mr. Weinberger made use of comparable musical themes. This procedure, I am afraid, is a bit insulting, for in dance and music alike the only American elements are the externals, which a child of 6 could readily grasp, while the flavor of the composition as a whole remains conventionally European. To cite a single example, it is not particularly flattering to the American ego that Mr. Massine has his jockies go about pretending to ride horses and generally behaving like undereducated vaudeville performers. He did not have to reduce "The Three Cornered Hat" to a music hall level to make it Spanish; and, incidentally, a Spanish composer was allowed to write the music.

Nobody admires Mr. Massine's enormous creative gifts more than I do, and for this reason I am disturbed to see him approaching so near to the border of charlatanry as he does, no doubt unconsciously, in "Saratoga."

• • •

It would be interesting to know whether he has ever pondered upon the exuberant and convincing spontaneity and naturalness of such genuinely American ballets as Catherine Littlefield's "Barn Dance" and Ruth Page's "Frankie and Johnny." In such works as these, American dancing becomes as inevitable as it is convincing, for the mood and spirit dictate the outward procedures, and the form grows out of an actual inner need for expression.

If I may be bold enough to make a new year's wish for Mr. Massine, it is that he will find himself a worthy American musical collaborator in 1942, and that he will make a genuine attempt to understand the inside nature of the American spirit and mind. For he is a great artist, and it would be enormously stimulating to feel that at last he belongs to America.

Notes of Music and Musicians

Béla and Ditta Bartók. The eminent Hungarian composer and his wife form a two piano team which makes its Chicago debut on Tuesday night in Orchestra hall on the Adult Education council's Musical Arts piano series. If he continues at his present rate Mr. Bartók will shortly be a familiar performer locally, for he has already appeared with the Chicago Symphony this season, and he gave a lecture-recital of his own music at the Arts club the previous year. Mrs. Bartók, a former pupil of her husband, will play here for the first time on Tuesday.

Béla Bartók.

The duo pianists have compiled a program of unusual interest, including choice items by Debussy and Johann Christian Bach, a Liszt curiosity, and three novelties. The first of these last is a piano transcription of Balinese ceremonial music by a Canadian born composer, Colin McPhee, who spent several months on the Island of Bali collecting the musical materials to be found thereon. Four pieces from Bartók's new set of studies for piano students, known as "Mikrokosmos," and a set of four individual numbers by the composer-pianist will likewise be heard for the first time in Chicago. The program:

En blanc et noire	Debussy
Sonata, G Major	J. C. Bach
Balinese Ceremonial Music [First performance in Chicago.]	McPhee
Four Pieces from "Mikrokosmos"	Bartók
Serenata; Allegro Diabolico; Scena della Puszta; Ter Finire	Bartók

Where to Go, What to Do Book Planned

By the Rev. John Evans.

A youth's eye view of the cities of the nation will be presented in the book which students of Antioch college, Yellow Springs, O., are preparing for publication in the spring.

"Where to go, where to eat, what to do, where to live in New York, Chicago, or Philadelphia—our book will try to answer these questions from the point of view of college students," said Marjorie Kaun, a co-ed from Hammond, Ind., and editor of the book.

As a result of their work and study program, Antioch students are able to draw from their own experiences in compiling the material in the book. On alternate 10 week periods, students work in one of the nation's larger cities learning how to get along in the workaday world and also how to support themselves on meager budgets.

• • •

"For years the information students gathered by bitter experience has been lost and every graduate has had to start from the bottom again," said Miss Kaun. "Now students going to a city for the first time will have a guide to help them find living quarters, eating places, recreation centers, and sources of all sorts of interesting information about the city."

Information for the book is being gathered from the students at present working off campus by means of a questionnaire. Material covered includes everything from the city's municipal setup to the best place to take a date. Students are asked to describe their living quarters, their favorite "dives," their most interesting experiences.

The business and editorial staffs have been at work on the book for almost a year. Last fall, the college community government advanced $1,200 for its publication and selected Miss Kaun as editor.

• • •

Students of Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., have organized a service fund in the interest of the many benevolences that have been made more urgent by the war. The organization's aim was set at $3,500, but students and faculty members responded so well that $4,000 was raised. Some of the money will go to China and to the Red Cross.

Best Films of December and '41 Highlights

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

I have two baskets full of "bests" for you this morning. But before I pass 'em out I would like to pay brief tribute to newcomers who especially surprised and delighted me.

If the screen is to survive it must constantly have new blood flowing into its veins. New and vivid personalities to replace—or flank—old favorites. And so, this morning, I hand my own little private "Oscars" to Laird Cregar in "I Wake Up Screaming"; to Red Skelton in "Whistling in the Dark"; to Abbott and Costello in "Keep 'Em Flying," to Veronica Lake in "I Wanted Wings" and to Ruth Warwick in "Citizen Kane."

December's Best Films.

Keep 'Em Flying, Great Guns, Target for Tonight, The Maltese Falcon, Dumbo, I Wake Up Screaming, One Foot in Heaven, and Ball of Fire.

All of these were outstanding. The most unusual of the lot were the Walt Disney technicolor feature, "Dumbo," the British documentary film, "Target for Tonight," the murder mystery, "I Wake Up Screaming," and the gentle and lovely drama "One Foot in Heaven."

1941's Best Movies.

Santa Fe Trail, Philadelphia Story, Flight Command, Land of Liberty, Cheers for Miss Bishop, Rage in Heaven, Adam Had Four Sons, The Great Lie, Flight from Destiny, Ladies in Retirement, Sergeant York, All That Money Can Buy, 40,000 Horsemen, Daybreak, A Woman's Face, Meet John Doe, The Reluctant Dragon, Blossoms in the Dust, Here Is Ireland, The Little Foxes and Suspicion.

Best Performances of 1941 by Veterans.

Katharine Hepburn in "Philadelphia Story"; Martha Scott in "Cheers for Miss Bishop" and "One Foot in Heaven"; Fredric March in "One Foot in Heaven"; Robert Montgomery in "Rage in Heaven"; Ingrid Bergman in "Adam Had Four Sons"; Bette Davis in "The Great Lie" and "The Little Foxes"; the late James Stevenson in "The Great Lie"; Ida Lupino in "Ladies in Retirement"; Gary Cooper in "Sergeant York" and "Meet John Doe"; Walter Huston in "All That Money Can Buy"; Joan Crawford in "A Woman's Face"; Greer Garson in "Blossoms in the Dust"; Joan Fontaine in "Suspicion" and Dana Andrews in "Ball of Fire."

So far as this column's concerned, the above whitens up all 1941's corners and away we go, smiling and hoping, into 1942's movie maelstrom.

See you tomorrow.

Accordion Concerto.

William Meyer's Concerto in G, said to be the first concerto for accordion and full orchestra, has been published by the Clef Publishing company.

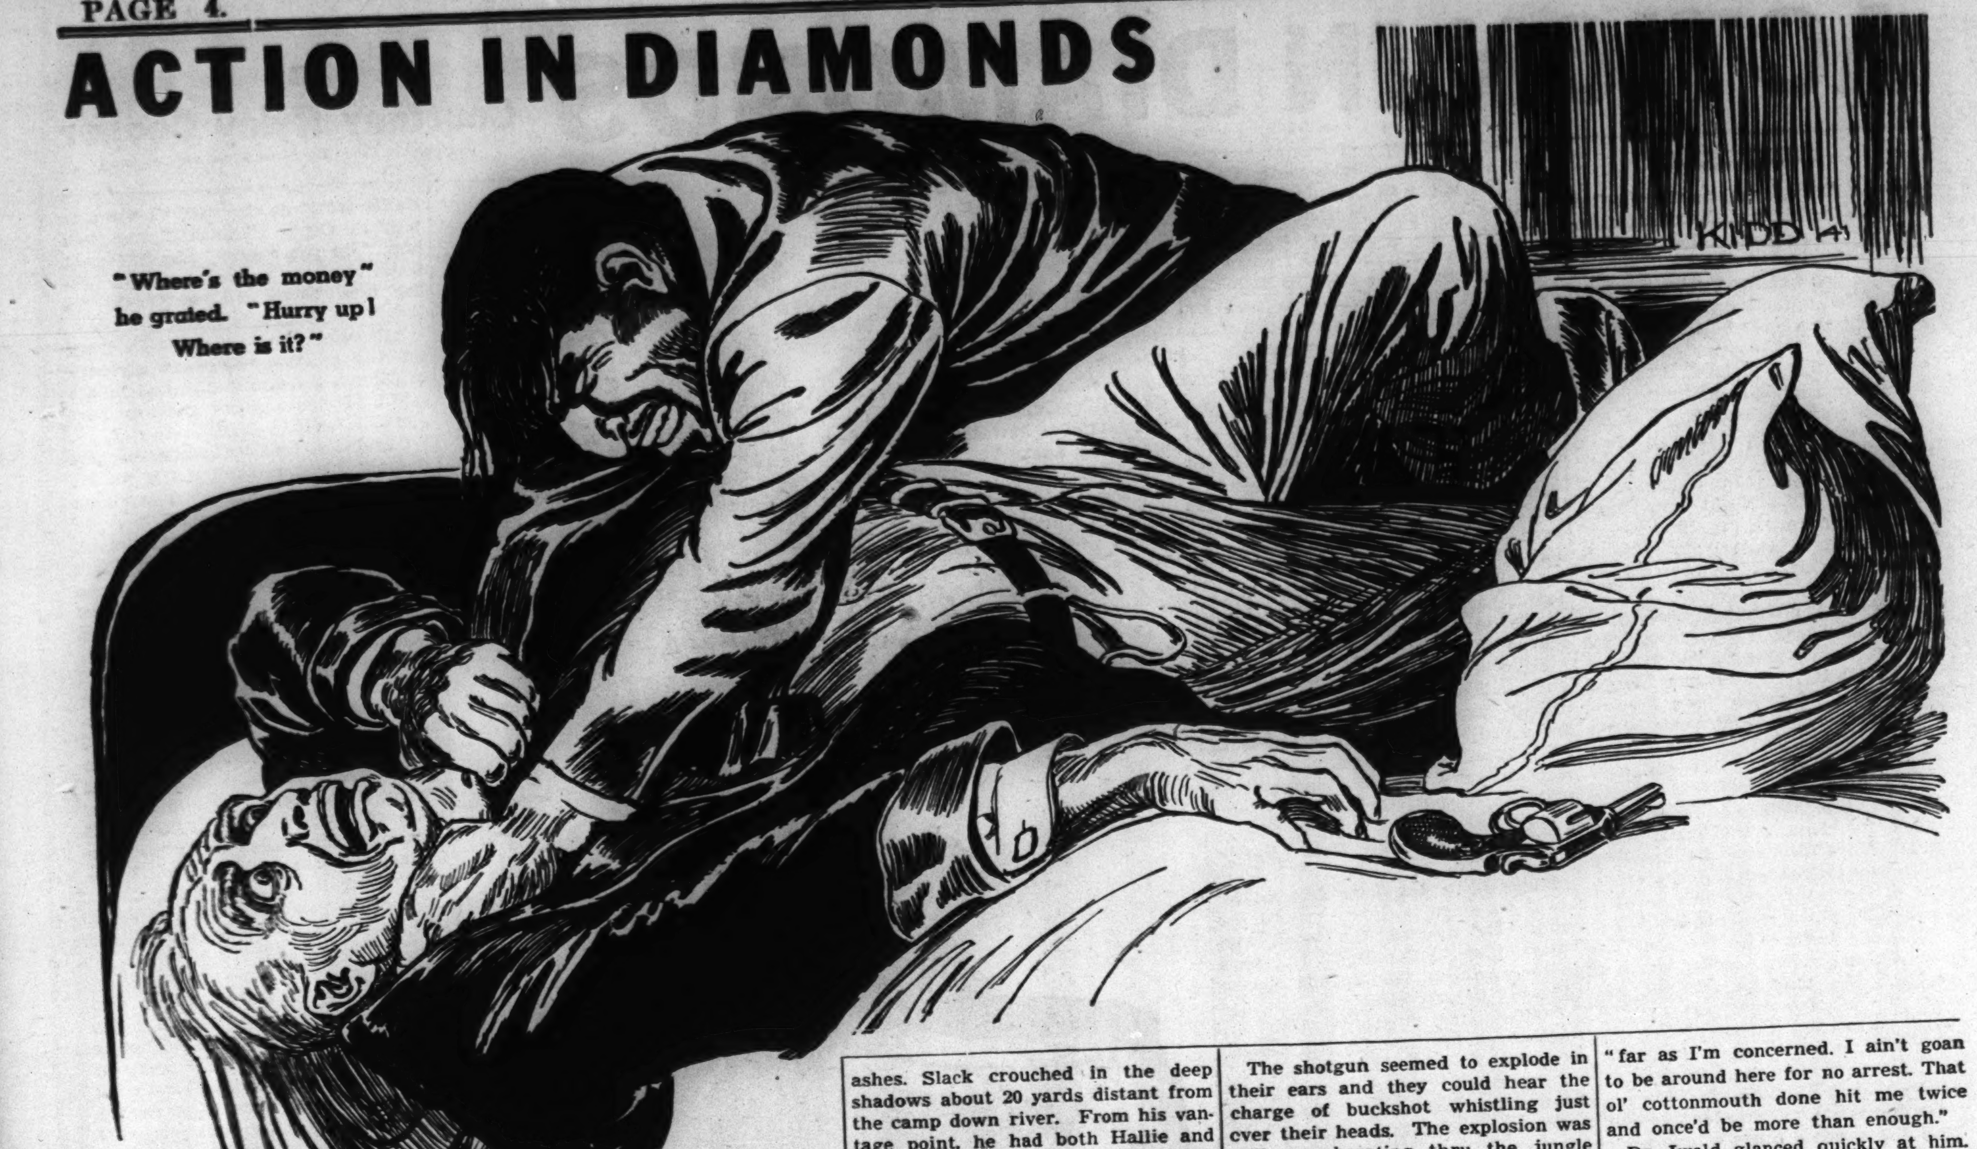
ACTION IN DIAMONDS



"Where's the money" he grated. "Hurry up! Where is it?"

stop. Don't try nothing or I will kill him. I will tell the rest when you git here. Don't try nothing or I will kill him."

He folded the note and put it carefully in his pocket and paddled back to the headland. As he passed it to enter Whitewater Bay, he saw the riding lights of the yacht and those of the Tarpon Queen about 100 yards to the north.

He was under the dark shadow of the yacht in half an hour. She was riding stern to the land and her speedboat strained at her painter under Slack's hand. He slipped the canoe's small painter thru a steel ring, untied the speedboat and worked her to the gangway. There he tied her loosely. He did not make a sound.

Some one was sitting on the sun deck. He could smell cigaret smoke. He thought whoever it was was alone. He listened for 10 or 15 minutes. There were lights in several of the cabins. He took the scarf and fishing line and started to move up the gangway, a step at a time. As he reached the sun deck, the smoker finished the cigaret and shot it overside.

Slack saw the lone figure and moved in under the arc the cigaret made. He was against it, a hand over its mouth, the knife against its body. His hand told him he had the girl but it was too late to stop. "Don't holler," he whispered, "or I'll have to stick ya." The girl stiffened as he wound the scarf tightly about her mouth but she made no resistance as he wrapped her with the line. He took the folded note from his pocket, opened it and placed it on the sun deck table under an ash tray. Then he lifted the girl to his shoulder, laid her in the speedboat, cast off and started the engine.

Roar of Escaping Boat Brings Action

Its roar galvanized both boats. Phil McNally and Bill, his mate, leaped to the rail of the Tarpon Queen and tried to pierce the darkness between them and the Sybilla. Welton Bayne came more leisurely and stared toward the yacht.

"It isn't the sheriff," Phil reasoned. "That's the Sybilla's speed boat and she's going away. I'll bet Slack has stolen her for another getaway."

"Slack?" Welton Bayne repeated, paling. "O, no. Slack's in New Orleans. The radio broadcast said so."

"I hope you're right," Phil said, "but I don't believe it."

On board the Sybilla, the Dabneys leaned over the rail staring after the retreating sound. Then with one accord, both ran aft to the sun deck. There was no one there.

"Miss Kent!" Capt. Dabney shouted, "O, Miss Kent! Where are you?"

There was no answer and Joe Dabney ran below and along the passageway. Hallie's door was open and he switched on her lights. She was not in her cabin. He came out and hurried to Gordon Kent's room. He knocked on the door and opened it. Gordon Kent lay on his bed. Dr. Iwald sat beside him.

"Mr. Kent," Joe sputtered, "Miss Kent's gone! Somebody snatched her and took her away in the speedboat."

"Shut up, you fool!" Dr. Iwald snarled and turned to the bed.

Gordon Kent was raising himself slowly and painfully to a sitting posture. His eyes were wide and wild with terror.

"What's—that?" he said slowly, "Hallie—kidnaped? No! Hallie! This is—my punishment!"

He shuddered as a paroxysm struck him and fell back heavily upon the bed. His head lolled sideways as it struck the pillow. The mouth and eyes were open. Dr. Iwald bent over him. He turned back an eyelid and reached for the wrist. Then he put his face against the old man's mouth and waited. He straightened up.

"Mr. Kent," he pronounced, "is dead."

On the sun deck, Capt. Dabney had found Slack's note. He read it under the table lamp and strode to the rail. "Ahoy, Tarpon Queen," he shouted, "Come alongside. Slack's snatched Miss Kent. He wants $1,000."

As the Tarpon Queen came toward the Sybilla, Dr. Iwald came on deck and Capt. Dabney handed him the note. He read it carefully under the lamp and watched the Tarpon Queen come alongside.

"Bayne," he said coldly, "take that thousand dollars you stole from Mr. Kent and bring it to Slack. He wants it to release Hallie and Mr. Kent is dead. Here is what Slack wrote. He wants it to release Hallie."

Phil said nothing. He turned the cruiser and headed for the land.

Away out at sea, the powerful snub nosed revenue cutter, Priscilla, changed her course from south to east and marched into Whitewater Bay. Her searchlight cut the darkness and ranged from south to north until it picked up the proud, graceful Sybilla riding at her anchor. The searchlight passed her, sweeping north, and found no sign of the Tarpon Queen or any other craft. It came back and found the Sybilla again and stayed on her.

And in the covered, land locked river the sheriff's boat came on slowly and carefully southward. A moment later, they were in Whitewater Bay and headed for the Sybilla.

In Slack's camp everything was prepared for the visitors who, Slack knew, might arrive any minute from now till morning. Hallie sat completely free at the fire which smoldered hotly under a thick veil of ashes. Slack crouched in the deep shadows about 20 yards distant from the camp down river. From his vantage point, he had both Hallie and the river under his eye. The shotgun lay beside him. His welcome of Hallie to the camp had been politely regretful.

"I'm awful disobliged it had to be you, Miss Kent," he had apologized as he lifted her from the speedboat and set her down by the fire. "I'm Slack and I was aimin' to bring in Welton Bayne and git him to pay me a thousand dollars of what he owes me. I got to hold you till I git that money because I need it to git away. But you mustn't be skeered. I'm goan to untie you so's you can fight the mesquiters. They're mighty pesky. But I wouldn't move around much. I got a cottonmouth moccasin penned down right near you. If you move, you might step on him. I'm goan just a step from the fire to watch. If anybody comes, you put this here kindlin' on the flame so it'll flare up. That's all. I am awful disobliged it's you. I didn't aim to take you."

Then he had stepped into the lean-to and got the shotgun and moved to his watching post.

Hallie Prays That Some One Will Save Her

Hallie sat there, fearing to move lest she step on the moccasin. She didn't doubt Slack's word. She knew the deadly snake was around there somewhere. She imagined she could feel it slithering toward her. She slapped at the mosquitoes gingerly so that an abrupt move would not draw its anger and its fangs. She prayed that some one would arrive there soon.

The Tarpon Queen was coming. The little ship was following the same course she followed to the discovery of Altine's body, not so long ago. She moved in darkness except for the faint glow of her riding lights.

On board, Phil McNally was at the wheel and Bill on the apron behind a flashlight he played from bank to bank. Phil wore a revolver at his hip. Bayne's revolver was beside Bill. Bayne stood just outside the cabin beside Phil, peering fearfully from one bank to the other.

The shotgun seemed to explode in their ears and they could hear the charge of buckshot whistling just over their heads. The explosion was still reverberating thru the jungle when Slack shouted:

"That you, McNally? Draw up to the left bank. Keep your searchlight dark. Who's aboard you?"

"Myself, my mate, and Welton Bayne."

"Bayne, eh? You got the thousand, Bayne?"

"I have it," Phil said. "Where's Miss Kent?"

"She's all right. Throw that kindlin' on the fire, ma'am." Hallie did so, and they saw her in the flare. "Come ashore," Slack ordered, "All of you. Walk to the fire."

Bill threw a rope around a mangrove root to hold the cruiser and picked up Bayne's revolver. As he dropped from the apron to the deck, Bayne snatched the gun from him. "Shut up," he hissed, "or I'll kill you!" The boy went stiffly on to the bank. Bayne followed. Phil brought up the rear. They walked to the fire. Hallie rose trembling. Phil caught her as her legs collapsed and set her gently down again. Slack appeared, skirted the fire and took his stand between it and his lean-to.

"Where's the money, McNally?" he demanded.

Phil pulled the sheaf of bills from his pocket and was holding them toward him when, out of the corner of his eye, he saw Bayne raise the revolver. He jumped sideways and jostled him as the gun exploded. Slack saw the gun come up, too, and his counter was as swift as light. His knife arced over the fire and buried itself in Bayne's shoulder, knocking the gun to the ground.

"That's one I owe you, McNally," Slack grinned. "Now, I'll pay off Mr. Bayne in full."

He stepped backward quickly, ready to raise his shotgun and send a charge of buckshot into Bayne's heart. His foot caught a stump and he stumbled against the barrel, knocking it over. His impact against the barrel robbed him of all balance. He toppled over as the moccasin slithered out of the barrel and struck him once, twice, in the face.

Slack's eyes clouded with stupefaction as Phil leaped forward and fired five shots into the snake's head and body. Hallie screamed and Bill jerked Slack to his feet.

Behind them from the darkness, Sheriff Clyde thundered, "Don't move, Bayne. You either, Slack. I arrest you both in the name of the law for trespass, grand larceny, highway robbery, and murder."

Bayne leaned against a cypress, his face deadly white, his hand clutching the bleeding shoulder from which he had just pulled Slack's knife. Slack stood staring owlishly as the sheriff and his posse, the federal men, John Justin, and Dr. Iwald came ashore.

"I reckon that's all a waste of time, sheriff," he declared mildly, "far as I'm concerned. I ain't goan to be around here for no arrest. That ol' cottonmouth done hit me twice and once'd be more than enough."

Dr. Iwald glanced quickly at him. The man's face was already swelling, his eyes already dulling as the swift poison worked. There was nothing the doctor could do, even if he had his instruments.

"But Mr. Bayne'll be around waitin' for you," Slack said thickly, "and I aim to see that he gets as much of what's comin' to him as the law can give him. Sheriff, have one of your men git out his pad and pencil. I'm goan to tell you just how bad a boy Mr. Bayne has been. I'm goan to tell you that he's to blame for everything. Le's see. Fifteen diamond store robberies, two policemen, and Fred Altine killed. Me, too, even if an ol' cottonmouth moccasin did it for him. And he tricked Miss Kent into being finger moll in that last robbery."

One of the men stood in front of Slack, taking down his confession as he went into detail. Dr. Iwald stepped directly up to Phil.

"Keep Miss Kent off the Sybilla, McNally," he whispered. "Her father died tonight of shock when he heard she had been kidnaped."

Phil Catches Hallie as She Falls Against Him

Phil moved toward Hallie and she rose to her feet and fell against him. John Justin looked at them standing there in the firelight. He wanted to congratulate Phil on his fine work in breaking the case against Bayne and his mob but he realized this was no time. He would congratulate him later, but in the meantime he would see to it that a complete account of the case went to headquarters in Washington. He was almost positive that the reward for the arrest and conviction of the criminals and Phil's appointment to the FBI would come almost together.

The voice of Dr. Iwald broke into his thoughts.

"Did I ever tell you," the doctor asked, "that crime doesn't pay? Well, it doesn't. And I'm afraid I'm going back into a penitentiary to carry that message to thousands of cons who will be too clever to believe me. They never have and they never will. Down in my heart, I probably don't believe it myself. If I did, I wouldn't be one of them."

Behind Phil and Hallie, standing in the firelight, the voice of Slack went monotonously on, recounting the crimes of which he and Welton Bayne had been guilty. It came to Phil as a macabre misericordia. He tried to disregard it as he sought wildly for a way of telling gently this girl he loved that her father was dead.

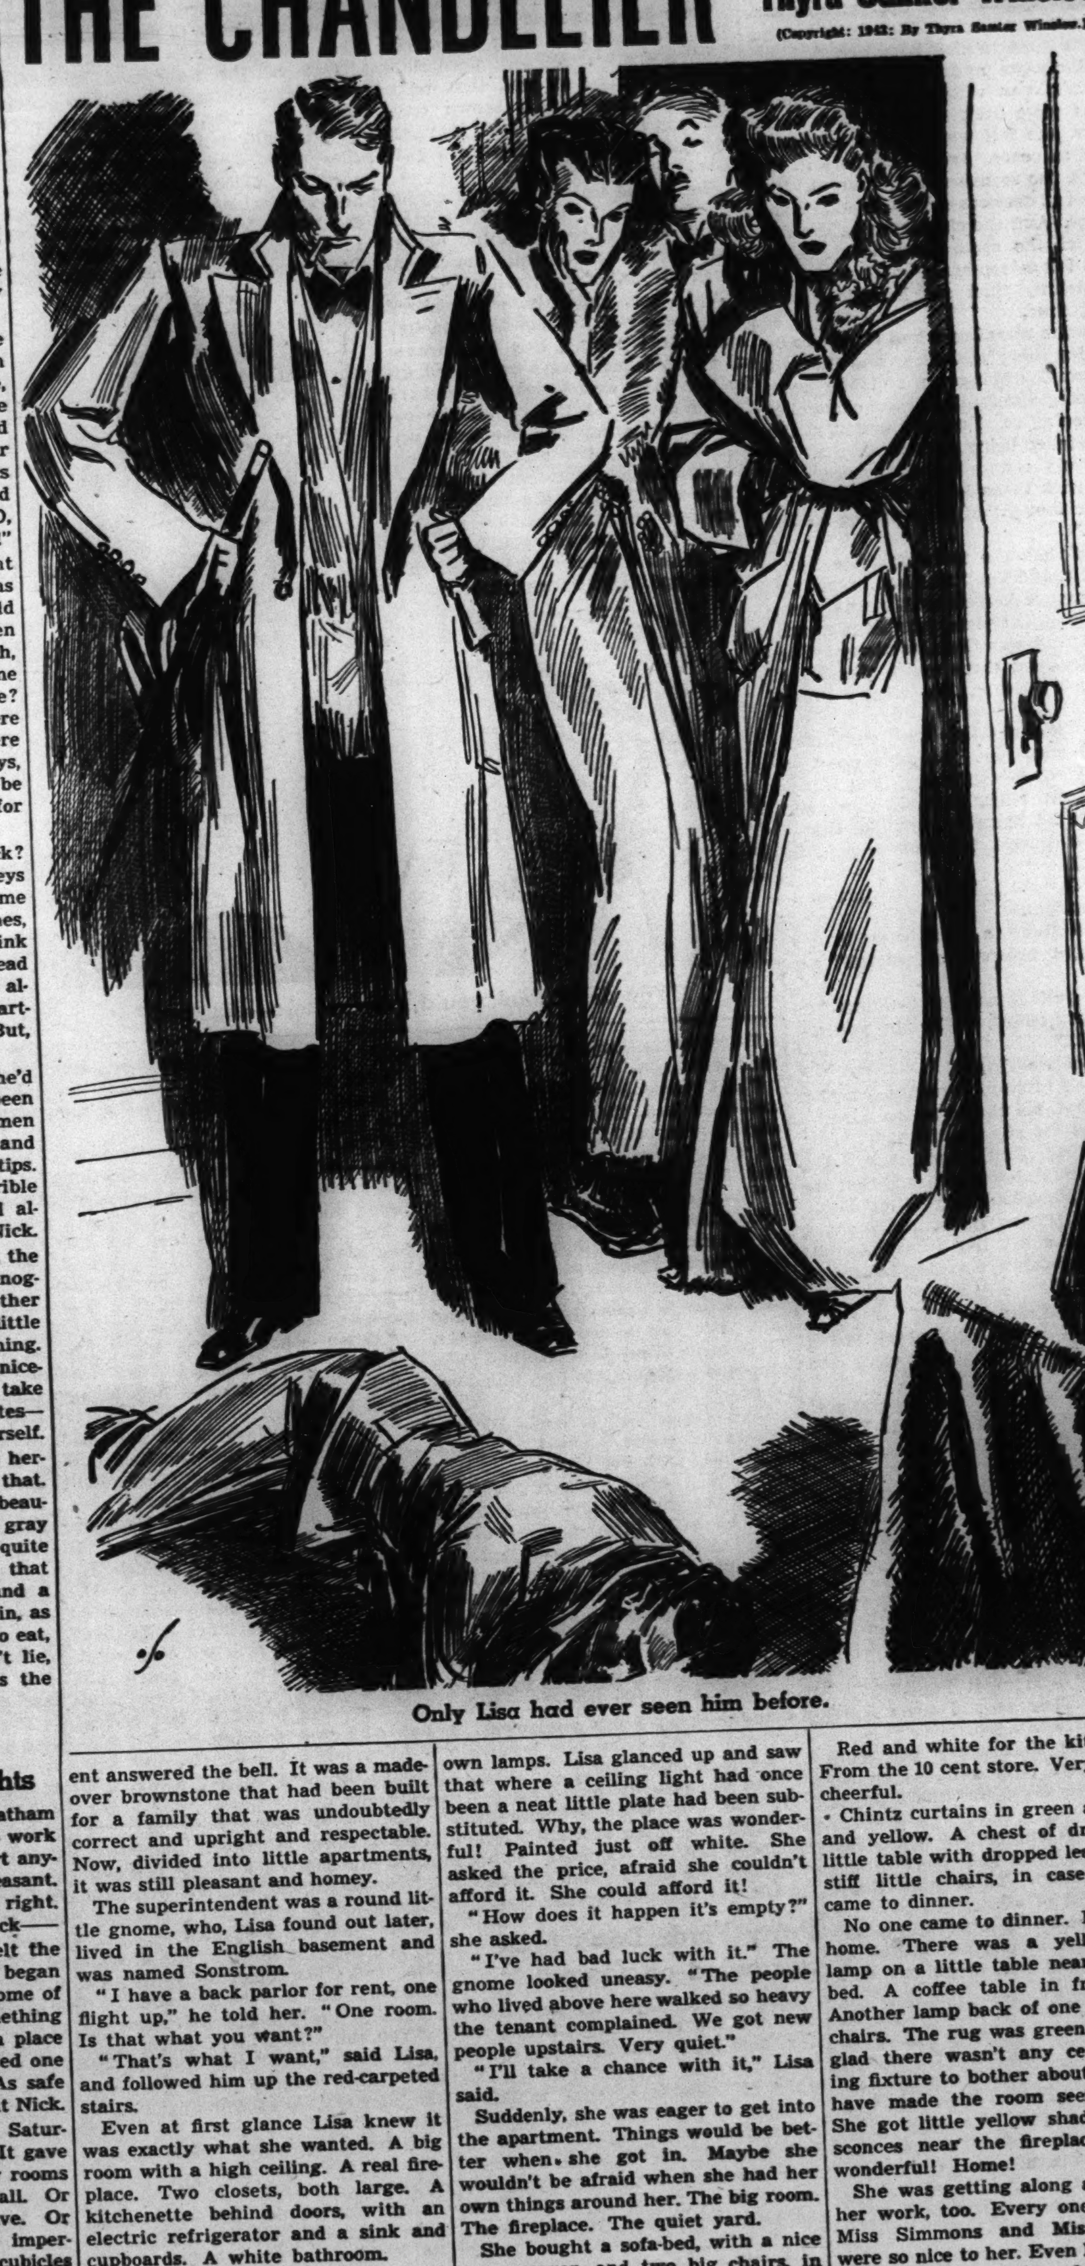
WORLD'S GREATEST STORIES

THE CHANDELIER

By Thyra Samter Winslow

(Copyright: 1942: By Thyra Samter Winslow.)



Only Lisa had ever seen him before.

TO begin with, you may as well know that the title of this story is a misnomer. There isn't a chandelier in it at all. There couldn't be. Even Lisa Fenning will admit that, and she ought to know.

Things like that might happen in a medieval English castle. But not in New York. Not in the era of flexible glass and trans-Atlantic airplanes and television and stockings made of coal. And yet, if there were no chandelier, how did—well, what really happened?

When Lisa took the apartment she was just a bundle of nerves. Every one she knew told her so.

Yet when she felt jumpiest no one knew about it at all. That was when she came into the old brownstone, especially at night, walked up the narrow, red-carpeted stairs, and turned the key in the door of her own one-room apartment. She always held her breath, then. As she pressed the light-switch she prayed, "O, please, God, don't let Nick be here!"

With the first warm flood of light she knew she was safe. The room was always as she had left it. She could breathe easily, then. Read. Or listen to the radio. But always, underneath, there was fear. What if the telephone rang—and she heard Nick's voice? What if the doorbell rang? Or there was a knock on the door? There were a hundred possibilities—but always, the worse, was that he would be there, in her apartment, waiting for her to come home.

What were locked doors to Nick? Didn't he always have skeleton keys in his pocket? Some day she'd come home—and there he'd be! Sometimes, in the night, in her room, she'd think she heard noises and cover her head and wait. Wait! For Nick! It was always some one walking in the apartment above her. Or in the hall. But, what if——some day——

Before the apartment, after she'd got to New York, there had been third-rate hotels, with furtive men hanging around the entrances and impudent bellboys too eager for tips. Or rooming houses with terrible furniture and uneven beds. And always, in all of them, the fear of Nick.

She'd had three jobs—and kept the third one. She had learned stenography at home, before her mother had died, when she was a good little girl and not afraid of anything. There's always a place for a nice-looking girl who knows how to take dictation—and can read her notes—and has dignity and keeps to herself.

Lisa had dignity and kept to herself. Too much, if it came to that. And she was nice looking. Not beautiful, exactly, but she had large gray eyes and soft hair that never quite stayed in place, a grave mouth that was pretty when she smiled and a good little figure—a little too thin, as if she hadn't had quite enough to eat, and in Lisa's case figures didn't lie, for that was exactly what was the matter with it.

Fear of Nick Fills Lisa's Pleasant Thoughts

The job with Watters & Latham was a good one. Fine people to work for. The men didn't try to start anything. The girls were pleasant. Everything was going along all right. If only it weren't for fearing Nick——

Almost at once, when she felt the job would last for a while, Lisa began to save for an apartment. A home of her own! Her own things! Something to cling to! Not the kind of a place she had in Chicago. She wanted one room, where she'd feel safe. As safe as she could feel, knowing about Nick.

She looked for apartments Saturday afternoons and Sundays. It gave her something to do.. She saw rooms that were too boxlike and small. Or too shabby. Or too expensive. Or factorylike structures, huge, impersonal, with a hundred little cubicles for a hundred tenants. Lisa knew she couldn't feel at home living like that.

Then she found the apartment! She liked it even before the superintendent answered the bell. It was a made-over brownstone that had been built for a family that was undoubtedly correct and upright and respectable. Now, divided into little apartments, it was still pleasant and homey.

The superintendent was a round little gnome, who, Lisa found out later, lived in the English basement and was named Sonstrom.

"I have a back parlor for rent, one flight up," he told her. "One room. Is that what you want?"

"That's what I want," said Lisa, and followed him up the red-carpeted stairs.

Even at first glance Lisa knew it was exactly what she wanted. A big room with a high ceiling. A real fireplace. Two closets, both large. A kitchenette behind doors, with an electric refrigerator and a sink and cupboards. A white bathroom.

There were two windows that looked out on a quiet yard with a tree in it. Wall sconces on each side of the fireplace and outlets for her own lamps. Lisa glanced up and saw that where a ceiling light had once been a neat little plate had been substituted. Why, the place was wonderful! Painted just off white. She asked the price, afraid she couldn't afford it. She could afford it!

"How does it happen it's empty?" she asked.

"I've had bad luck with it." The gnome looked uneasy. "The people who lived above here walked so heavy the tenant complained. We got new people upstairs. Very quiet."

"I'll take a chance with it," Lisa said.

Suddenly, she was eager to get into the apartment. Things would be better when she got in. Maybe she wouldn't be afraid when she had her own things around her. The big room. The fireplace. The quiet yard.

She bought a sofa-bed, with a nice green cover, and two big chairs, in stripes of green and gray. And moved in. And bought the other furnishings after she was living there.

Red and white for the kitchenette. From the 10 cent store. Very gay and cheerful.

Chintz curtains in green and white and yellow. A chest of drawers. A little table with dropped leaves. Two stiff little chairs, in case any one came to dinner.

No one came to dinner. But it was home. There was a yellow-shaded lamp on a little table near the sofa-bed. A coffee table in front of it. Another lamp back of one of the big chairs. The rug was green. Lisa was glad there wasn't any center lighting fixture to bother about—it would have made the room seem smaller. She got little yellow shades for the sconces near the fireplace. It was wonderful! Home!

She was getting along all right in her work, too. Every one was kind. Miss Simmons and Miss Galbreth were so nice to her. Even Mr. Latham stopped at her desk and joked with her. He was wonderful! Good looking, too. But of course his being friendly didn't mean anything. He was the boss. Even if it had meant anything—there was Nick. Always Nick—to be afraid of.

Funny, when she had first met Nick she hadn't thought she could ever be afraid of him. She hadn't been in Chicago very long, then, and she was working hard. She'd met him on the street—a pickup. She was ashamed when the thought of that, even now. After everything that had happened! He seemed friendly and sort of shy. She had sized him up as not having much money, tho she found out later that his clothes were expensive—she didn't know much about men's clothes. When he asked her to have dinner with him she'd accepted—she didn't get asked out to dinner very often. And she was amazed when he'd taken her to an expensive restaurant.

Later, he'd called for her in a big car, explaining that it belonged to his boss. Weeks after he told her the truth about it.

"I wanted to find out if you were a gold digger. Sure, this is my car. Your car whenever you want to use it."

Those first weeks seemed all right. Nothing wrong with them—excepting remembering that Nick had picked her up. She felt he remembered that, too. He took her to dinner and to the theater. And sometimes to supper afterward.

Only once in a while something odd happened. Like the time he told her he had to telephone some one, and excused himself. And didn't come back. But sent a note, instead. She remembered, the note, "Had to leave—I'll telephone you." The check was paid, she remembered. He must have known he was not going to come back! Funny. He never even tried to explain it. Or the time he asked her to call him Turner, when his name was really Soletti.

Past Seems Unreal to Lisa in Retrospect

Then she'd lost her job—and had a hard time getting another one. O, she got one—but the boss was fresh. And another one—and the hours were long—she had to work until 9 at night. And Nick said, "You're my girl. Why do you have to worry about a job?"

The next thing she knew she'd left her furnished room and was living in an apartment—with Nick. Now, when she looked back on it she didn't believe it. It seemed like another person. None of the things that had happened seemed real, after that. The ornate furnishings. Keeping house for Nick. Waiting up—all hours—for him to come home. Sometimes he didn't come at all. Hearing little things—

And then she knew. And couldn't keep from admitting it to herself. Nick was a crook.

Not one of the big racketeers. Nick wasn't clever enough for that. Just a small-sized crook.

He was always bringing home mysterious bundles—that were "hot." Cautioned Lisa not to touch them. She wouldn't have touched them for the world. He was always going away for two or three days at a time, telling her, "If any one telephones, say that I just stepped out, that I'll be right back. Remember that! You don't know where I am, but I stepped out just a minute ago."

Nick would go out alone, most of the time. Sometimes he would take her with him.

"Put on your best clothes, honey, we're stepping." And she'd put on the things he liked. Dresses a little too bright for her taste. Hats a little too large and ornate.

The trouble—then. Strange men asking for Nick. And Nick coming in. And going away.

And then—the police. And the district attorney asking her questions. And letting her go again. And then, that night! Nick there—and different, Nick, mean looking and furtive.

"You told them!" he said.

"I never told any one anything."

"Jake said they had you up."

THE CHANDELIER

She told, then, in detail, all that had happened. How she had answered questions. "I don't know anything," she had said.

"I really didn't know anything," she told Nick.

"Well, be careful. Don't go too far—saving your own neck."

"But Nick, I was thinking of you——"

"Well, stop thinking of me! You and I are quits! See!"

She was willing to be quits. But she didn't know why. She packed her things that night, went away. To another furnished room.

In a week she had a job—and was trying to forget.

Then, one day, on the street, a man in an ordinary business suit had stopped her, asked her questions.

"I don't know anything about Nick," she said. "I'm trying to keep my job—that's all I'm worrying about."

The next day she was fired. She wasn't given any explanation.

When she came home that night she hadn't had any idea. . . . She unlocked the door of that little rented room. And there sat Nick. Waiting. It was then she knew she hated him.

"You didn't think you'd find me here, did you?" he said.

"No, Nick, I didn't."

"Don't be so mealy mouthed. You have enough to say about me when I'm not around."

"Nick, I never mentioned you. Only last night when that man stopped me . . ."

"You said enough then."

"I only said I hadn't seen you."

"And that I was a crook—and you were thru with me and trying to go straight."

"Nothing like that, Nick!"

"Well, look here," he said. "I told you I was thru! And, now, you shut up about me! Or I'll get you—I swear I will! One more word and you'll be sorry. Remember—I can find you no matter where you are!"

He was gone, then, and she sat there, trembling. It didn't seem real, even then. Now, the whole horrible picture was just something she tried not to think about.

She'd got another job, then. She didn't have enough money to go away. She began to save. She didn't talk to any one. She kept her eyes down, on the street. Hurried along. Did her work as well as she could. And was frightened, most of the time.

Then she began to feel a little easier.

Life was going to be all right! She was going to forget Nick. Going to start all over again. She took a room on the north side. Nobody knew her there. In the office, no one knew about Nick. A new start!

And then, one day, the telephone rang. She never forgot any detail of it. The colored maid called up the stairs to her:

"Miss Fenning. Some one on the telephone!"

She hurried down. Who would be calling her there? Who knew that she was there? And then that awful fear in the pit of her stomach. Not Nick?

It wasn't Nick. It was a voice she had never heard before.

"Miss Fenning?"

"Yes," said Lisa, and her voice was low.

"I'm talking for Nick Soletti."

"How did you find out where I . . ."

"Nick told me where to call."

"O!"

"Did you know they'd got Nick?"

"Got him?"

"It was in the papers. He was sent up."

"Sent up? Nick?" She couldn't do anything but repeat, parrotlike, what the voice said.

"Yes. And he says you talked."

"I haven't mentioned his name."

"That's not his story. Anyhow, he said to tell you he'd get you when he came out."

The man at the other end hung up the receiver.

Lisa looked thru the papers. She didn't find anything. She went to the library, Saturday afternoon and Sunday, and looked. And didn't find a thing. Chicago was full of petty crooks who were being sent to jail. Nick wasn't a big shot—worthy of a big news story. He might even have used another name. His real name? She never knew. She didn't know any more than that voice over the telephone had told her.

When she saved enough money she came to New York. And here she was now. A new job. Her own snug little home. People in the office nice to her. Making friends with some of them, even. And, running under it all, the fear of Nick. Nick would find her! Everything she built would crumble.

She had gone to sleep thinking about Nick—and wishing she could put him out of her mind. Maybe she should have changed her name. But that wouldn't have helped. She knew Nick! He'd find her no matter what name she used. How long was he in for? How long would it take him after he got out? But she had thought of Roger Latham, at the office, too. How wonderful he was! Not like Nick. Not furtive and evil. Roger Latham was upright and honorable and fine! And lately he'd spent more time talking with her.

She woke up during the night. She didn't know what time it was, but it was quite dark outside. And, somehow, she felt warm and comfortable and at peace. And, even there in the dark, the room seemed different. Her chest of drawers seemed shadowy and large. And the chandelier in the center of the room seemed to glisten. She fell asleep again—and slept more peacefully than she had slept in a long time.

In the morning, when she woke up she lay there half asleep and thought, "Funny, waking up and the room seeming different. And the chandelier glistening so. I never thought of the chandelier being so very bright. It's a lovely chandelier, of course. Old and with those lovely crystals, but I never thought of it glistening in the dark."

And then she woke up more fully. What chandelier? She had to look up to convince herself that it was gone. The small, flat plate, painted to match the ceiling, was there, as always. She had dreamed there was a chandelier there! Of course. But what a funny dream!

The thought of the chandelier stayed with her. It had seemed so real. Well, it was better than thinking about Nick, anyhow. But she mustn't let herself think like that—about a dream! Her nerves were in a state!

One day she met Sonstrom, the superintendent.

"Was there a chandelier in my apartment before I moved in?" she asked.

"Not as long as I've been here," he said. And added, "Why did you ask about it?"

"I just wondered."

"That's funny, because another lady asked me the same question."

"What did she say about it?"

"Nothing. Just asked. And, when I said I didn't know, she said that she bet this place had seen better days—but that it was in an awful state, now. She didn't like it a little bit! But she was always finding fault with something."

"What became of her?"

"I don't know. She never left a forwarding address. They come and go."

"Who lived here before—when it was a house?" Lisa pursued. Maybe she could find out—maybe there had been a chandelier.

"I don't know that, either. Some man and his wife, and he was always going around doing good deeds—but it didn't help him."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, they tell me—I don't know for sure—that burglars got in and konked him on the head. Killed him, I guess."

"In this apartment house?"

"Yeah. They say. I don't know which apartment, tho.

"Don't let that worry you, lady. I guess there ain't a house on the block where some one didn't die or get born."

Lisa put it out of her mind. She had other people and other things to think about. There was Roger Latham, first of all.

Roger Latham liked her! He wasn't satisfied, just seeing her in the office. He asked her to go out with him!

Roger took her to dinner. To the Rainbow room. And they looked out of the huge windows at the city twinkling below. And it was all very elegant and smooth. Here she was, Lisa Fenning, just like other girls, having dinner with the man she cared about—in a smart restaurant. They danced. Roger asked her to call him by his first name. And he called her Lisa. And said:

"You're even nicer, away from the office, than you are in it. I thought you would be!" And Lisa said:

"You're exactly the same—and the way I thought you would be—and that's pretty satisfactory, too."

And they looked at each other, and smiled. And talked about nothing at all. And had fun!

If only it hadn't been for Nick—the memory of Nick. And the fear of Nick. And that horrible moment when she unlocked her door. What if—tonight—Nick was there? She snapped on the switch and the soft, yellow-shaded light flooded the room. It was just as she had left it! Nick wasn't there!

Roger took her to the theater.

They agreed that Ethel Merman was tops. And they both admired Ethel Waters and thought that "Taking a Chance on Love" was about as good as any song you could hear, these days.

"And Ethel Barrymore is just about my favorite actress. Funny, all three Ethels to be tops at one time!"

"It is funny," agreed Roger. "But Lisa is a nice name, too."

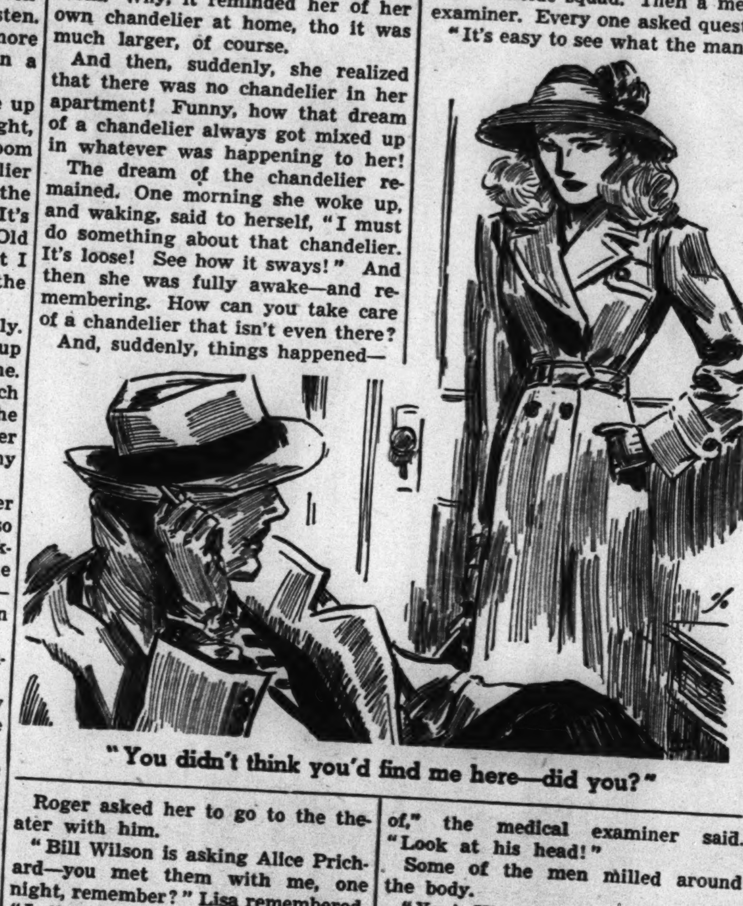
They had dinner at Versailles. Lisa thought the food was wonderful. They had a specialty—chopped chicken in cream sauce and then baked until the top was a brown crust. She was having such fun! Why, she was getting used to having a good time!

She looked up at the huge crystal chandelier in the center of the great room. Why, it reminded her of her own chandelier at home, tho it was much larger, of course.

And then, suddenly, she realized that there was no chandelier in her apartment! Funny, how that dream of a chandelier always got mixed up in whatever was happening to her!

The dream of the chandelier remained. One morning she woke up, and waking, said to herself, "I must do something about that chandelier. It's loose! See how it sways!" And then she was fully awake—and remembering. How can you take care of a chandelier that isn't even there?

And, suddenly, things happened—



"You didn't think you'd find me here—did you?"

Roger asked her to go to the theater with him.

"Bill Wilson is asking Alice Prichard—you met them with me, one night, remember?" Lisa remembered. "I thought we'd all go together—and then go some place to dance."

"Wonderful!" she said.

Lisa hurried home from the office on the night of the theater. She had a wonderful feeling of extravagance and luxury. Dressing for the theater. "I'll wear a black tie," Roger had said. She had a new dinner dress. All so proper and pleasant—and gala. This was happening to her, Lisa Fenning!

Then Roger had arrived. With a corsage of white orchids. It went beautifully with her blue gown.

They met Alice Prichard and Bill Wilson at the theater—and there they were—a little party—looking very "carriage trade" and gay.

The play was good. They chatted between acts. It couldn't have been nicer! And, after the theater they went to Fefe's Monte Carlo.

It was late when they took her home. They were going to drop her at the door but Roger said, "Come in and look at Lisa's apartment. I want you to see what she's been able to do with one room."

"Yes, do come in," said Lisa.

It was late, Alice Prichard said. It would only take a minute, Roger reminded her. O, why not? So they dismissed the taxicab, and all trailed up the narrow, red-carpeted stairs.

Party Finds Dead Man Sprawled on Carpet

Lisa handed Roger her key. Later she couldn't remember whether or not she'd made that oft-repeated, almost wordless prayer. But she always did—almost without thinking.

Roger snapped the light switch. The four of them piled into the room. And stopped. For there, in the center of the room, a man lay, sprawled, face down, on the green carpet! And the man was dead! Without looking, Lisa knew who the man was. It was Nick Soletti!

Lisa stood there, very still.

"Sit down," said Roger, very gently, and led her to one of the big chairs. And the three talked, and Lisa sat there and didn't say anything at all.

The man had come in to rob, of course. But how did he get in? They'd better not touch him until the police came. They'd read about things like this.

Roger took charge. He telephoned for the police. Found drinks for Lisa and Alice. Told them, "Things like this happen, in New York. I'm sorry—on account of Lisa. She's such a bundle of nerves, anyhow."

The police came. First, men in uniform. Asking questions. Roger did most of the talking.

"We came in, the four of us. We had been out for the evening. This is Miss Lisa Fenning, my fiancée." His fiancée! The one bright spot! Maybe he only said that to make things easier! "This is Miss Alice Prichard and Mr. William Floyd Wilson." He told his own name, gave a detailed account of what had happened. And added, "It goes without saying that none of us had ever seen that man before."

One of the uniformed men did some telephoning. Other men began to arrive. Lisa, sitting there very quietly, didn't find out quite who they were. One from the district attorney's office, she thought she heard some one say. Some one from the homicide squad. Then a medical examiner. Every one asked questions.

"It's easy to see what the man died of," the medical examiner said. "Look at his head!"

Some of the men milled around the body.

"Yep! Hit on the head. Some one gave him a whack. Or something fell on him. He was dead when you found him?"

Yes, he was dead, they all four told him.

"Well, it looks like an internal hemorrhage to me. We'll do a postmortem, of course."

"When—when was he hit?" Lisa asked. The words seem to come from outside of herself. She had to say them.

"He could have been hit here and died right away," the examiner said. And looked around. "There don't look as if there was any trouble here, tho. Nothing overturned. No fight. Nothing that could have hit him. It could have happened hours ago. It's funny—a man can get hit on the head—look at this bump—and go on for hours. He must have done that."

"Why did he pick out this apartment?" some one else asked, and Lisa sat still, and held her hands together—and hoped no one noticed how she was shaking.

"You never know! He may have ducked in here to get away from some one."

"He's got these skeleton keys! They'd open practically anything." Some one jangled a bunch of keys.

"No identification. We may find fingerprints."

They took the body away.

"You folks be down at the district attorney's office tomorrow at 10," the assistant district attorney said.

Finally, the police were gone.

"You can't sleep here," Roger said.

"Of course not!" said Alice Prichard. "She's coming home with me. The poor child is as white as if she'd seen a ghost."

"I don't blame her!" Bill Wilson said. "I don't feel any too chipper, myself."

They waited in the apartment while Lisa changed her clothes in the bathroom. Changed from the lovely dinner gown that had seemed so gay into a tailored suit. Suitable for a district attorney's office! Lisa shook so she could hardly dress. She'd been at a district attorney's office before.

They took a taxicab to Alice Prichard's apartment. She lived with her mother, who was asleep, of course. The apartment was lovely. Even with her nerves jangling, Lisa noticed it. Books. And a bowl of flowers. Ivory walls and rough, ivory colored curtains. A nice girl—like Alice Prichard—had taken her in.

She lay on Alice Prichard's bed and she tried to lie very still and she couldn't sleep. What was going to happen? She'd said she didn't know the man whom they had found there, in her apartment, dead. And the man was Nick. What if they found out she had known him?

It wouldn't do any good to tell. What good would it do? But if—if they found out! Roger and Bill called for them quite early. And Mrs. Prichard, awake now, and knowing the story as Alice told it, had breakfast ready for them. Fruit and scrambled eggs and bacon. And coffee that was hot and strong.

The taxicab ride, then. Downtown. A dingy white building that had once been used as an office building. Crowding into the old elevator. The jocular elevator man. Did he always treat lightly the tragic figures that he took up and down? A room then, part of a hallway. And a man asking "Who do you want to see?"

An anteroom, then, of a two-room suite. And all of the men they'd seen the night before. The assistant district attorney. The medical examiner. Policemen. Every one eyed Lisa curiously. Did they eye her curiously? Were they suspicious? Did they know anything?

The district attorney, then. And questions. And answers. And, when Lisa's turn came, it was as if her mouth were frozen. She tried to talk clearly. She seemed to mouth her words.

Roger tried to help her.

"Miss Fenning is in business with me," he said. "She is very nervous—she has not been well—and the shock of this . . ." O, yes, he could vouch for her. They'd been out together all evening. He had picked her up, himself, early in the evening. He could swear she was alone. She was his fiancée. Of course she had never seen the man who had been found dead!

More questions. A delay, then. And then, suddenly, it was all over! They could go!

A simple case. The man had broken into the apartment with a skeleton key. He had undoubtedly come in to rob. These made-over brownstones are targets for petty thieves—no doorman in attendance. He'd been hit earlier. No one would ever know how. Men like this—a professional thief, obviously—things like this happen. "If—if we ever need any of you again . . ."

They never needed any of them again!

Lisa never knew if they found out about Nick. Never knew if they buried him as an unknown. Or, tracing his fingerprints, found out who he was. She wanted to know. But what did it matter? Better let well enough alone! Nick was dead!

"You'll want to get out of that apartment," Roger said. "I can imagine how you feel about it. If—if it's satisfactory to you I'd like to get married in spring. We can find a place we both like."

Taking it for granted that she'd marry him! But of course she'd marry him! Marry Roger Latham. She—Lisa Fenning! After all that had happened!

Just what had happened? Lisa, lying on the sofa-bed in her apartment, tried to get her mind off of it—couldn't quite get her mind off of it. Even knowing that Nick was dead. The load was gone. And the fear. And yet——

The chandelier, for one thing. What had happened? Had the chandelier fallen on Nick? Was that what had killed him? It could have happened suddenly, like that. The medical examiner had said so. But, of course, it could have happened—before. Some place else. But the chandelier! If it had hit him. It had been loose! She had seen it sway. And now it was gone! She never saw it again. But, of course, she didn't see it! There never had been a chandelier. She told herself that, over and over again.

Better convince herself there never had been a Nick, too. Then, everything would be all right. If you can believe one thing you can believe more than one.

She was safe with Roger. Roger loved her. She loved Roger. There was nothing to be afraid of. Nick was gone. And the chandelier was gone! The lovely crystal chandelier that had fallen on Nick and killed him. And had saved her life. Lisa missed the chandelier. She missed it when she woke up, suddenly, at night, and glanced at the ceiling—and saw only the little, flat plate instead. She missed it when she lay, half awake, in the morning. It had always been there. So graceful. So beneficent.

How silly! She had imagined it. Because she was nervous. Of course. Now there was nothing to be nervous about. Nick was gone. She was going to marry Roger, whom she loved. And be happy. With Roger. Nick was gone! She said it over and over to herself. And as for the chandelier, why, of course, there never had been a chandelier!

ACTION IN DIAMONDS

CONCLUSION

BAYNE started to step back as the doctor reached his side—and stopped. The hand nearest him whipped from the doctor's pocket and the diamond broker felt something pointed touch his body above his belt.

"I know, of course," Dr. Iwald apologetically explained, "that hydrocyanic acid kills instantly when administered by mouth. But I've often wondered how long it would take if introduced intravenously. Something less than a minute, I should say. I'll find out now, Bayne, if you don't cough up those jewels. This needle against your side is loaded with it. Step over to the table and give."

Bayne obeyed, his legs shaking so they could hardly support him. He dropped every stone he had taken.

"That all?" the doctor asked. "I'm sorry, I'd rather have finished the experiment. I think you'd better go."

Bayne was at the door and thru it in a storm of terror.

Bayne ran into his cabin and locked the door behind him. Cold sweat chilled his body. He knew he had escaped death only by the thickness of the tiny cork which covered Dr. Iwald's murderous needle.

Thru the porthole he saw the Tarpon Queen riding easily at her anchor. She was, he realized, his first step in an escape from a world which threatened to hem him in. All the old terror welled up in him again, blotting out the shock of Dr. Iwald's needle against his flesh.

Gordon Kent, he decided, would have to advance him the money to get out of here. He mustn't refuse him. If he wouldn't give him the money willingly—

Bayne's mouth set. He examined his revolver and saw that it was loaded. Thrusting it back in his pocket, he unlocked the door and opened it and peered up and down the passageway. There was no one in sight, so he walked swiftly to Kent's cabin. The door was unlocked. It gave inward under his gentle push. He stepped into the room and closed the door and locked it.

Bayne Demands Money from Kent for Flight

Gordon Kent was lying fully dressed upon his bed. His face was sallow and drawn. The whites of his eyes were yellow. His hands were trembling as if with palsy. He was an old man. He looked up as he heard the door click shut.

"Is that you, Hallie?" he asked and leaned forward. "Who is it? O, Bayne." His voice hardened. "What do you want?"

"Money," Bayne replied and walked to the bed, "I've got to have it! I've got to get out of here. The police and G-men are on their way. A grand will be enough. That will get me to Miami."

"Why should I give you money?" Kent demanded. "I've already advanced you $50,000. And all this mess is your fault. I won't give you a dollar. Get out of here!"

"You don't understand," Bayne said and his eyes were cold, "I'm not asking. I'm demanding. Get up a grand. Quick!"

Kent's mouth dropped open. Closed. His eyes narrowed. "All right," he said mildly and thrust his hand under the pillow. It came out holding a revolver waveringly on Bayne. "Now get out of here," he panted, "or I'll kill you!"

Bayne leaped in and thrust the gun aside with his left hand. His right drove into the older man's face which seemed to dissolve under the impact. Kent started to crumble but Bayne grabbed him by the neck and shook him. The feel of flesh between his fingers drove him crazy. He pulled away and hit with both hands. The older man began to moan.

"Where's the money?" he panted, "Hurry up! Where is it?"

He ran his hand under the pillow and found a wallet. From it he took a sheaf of bills and thrust them into his pocket. He looked at Kent. The older man lay on his back on the bed, his head and one hand pointed toward the floor. Bayne hurried to the door without a backward look. The passageway was still deserted. He stepped out and shut the door softly and started for the deck, wild with elation and excitement.

He was almost abreast of the door of Hallie's cabin when the girl opened it. Standing against the backlight of the porthole, the blue kerchief around her ash-blonde hair brought out the intense blue of her eyes. In that split instant, Bayne thought she was the most beautiful woman he had ever seen. He loved her for it and hated her for the contemptuous way she had treated all his advances. She tried to shut the door but his foot was in and he thrust her aside and was in the cabin before she could move or speak.

"Get out of here," she ordered. "What do you want?"

"You," he said, "I'm tired of being played like a fish. I want you to be nice to me."

She moved backward before his advance but her eyes were steady. "Get out of here or I'll scream," she threatened. "I despise you. You ruined my father."

"And you, too," he laughed, "You'll find it hard to explain how you came to be in Hendricky's as my boys moved in."

He was still moving toward her and suddenly he grasped her wrist, jerked her to him and had her in his arms. She saw the wildness in his eyes and she screamed and fought. Her struggles brought the porthole and the Tarpon Queen within her vision.

"Help!" she cried, "Phil! Captain McNally!"

Bayne spun her from him as he heard footsteps hurrying toward the cabin. He opened the door and hastened up to the deck. He stood there watching the Tarpon Queen plunging toward him.

"What's the matter?" Phil demanded as he brought the cruiser alongside, "Where's Miss Kent?"

"O, down below somewhere," Bayne answered easily, "having hysterics. I want you to take me back to Miami."

He started down the gangway but Hallie, disheveled and angry, hurtled him aside. She ran down the gangway and landed on the cruiser's deck on her hands and knees.

"Don't take him, Phil," she sobbed, "He's trying to get away from the police. He just threatened to attack me."

Phil stepped past her as Bill helped her to her feet. He stood looking up speculatively at Bayne who blustered down at him. His eyes narrowed but his voice was suave as he said:

"Miami? Come aboard."

Bayne turned and grinned at the Dabneys, father and son, who had come up behind him and now stood impassive. Then he came down the gangway.

"Want me to get your luggage?" Phil asked respectfully.

"No," Bayne answered, "I'll come back for it later." His smile was smug.

Below, Dr. Iwald opened the door of Gordon Kent's cabin. He stood for an instant, staring at the figure on the bed, and then hastened toward it, pressing the bell as he picked up the jeweler's wrist. He was holding it when Mikko arrived.

"Get me my bag," he ordered, "Quick!"

He pulled his patient back on the bed and thrust the pillow under his head. He was bathing Kent's face with a wet towel when the boy returned and he opened the bag and thrust a vial of smelling salts under Kent's nose. The man shuddered and coughed and opened his eyes.

"What happened?" His eyes focussed, "That damned criminal beat me up, Doc," he said and put his hand suddenly to his breast. "He——"

"Steady," the doctor soothed and poured a few drops of adrenalin on a spoon and filled his hypo, "I'm giving you a little stimulant."

Kent didn't answer. His face was blue. The doctor watched him anxiously. In about three minutes the blueness began to fade. Dr. Iwald sighed and looked out the porthole at the Tarpon Queen which was standing out to sea. He turned back into the room again and saw that Mikko was still there, anxiously watching Kent.

"You can go, Mikko," he said, "Mr. Kent is all right—for the moment."

The Tarpon Queen moved serenely seaward, a strained silence aboard her that was destined to last for several hours. Hallie went below to the cabin. Welton Bayne lit a cigaret with an appearance of ease he was far from feeling. Bill Wellington turned his eyes from his to Phil. Phil stood at the wheel, his face inscrutable.

Very late in the afternoon, Hallie came out of the cabin. Her eyes were swollen and suspiciously bright.

"I want to go back to the Sybilla, Capt. McNally," she said.

"You're a little late, aren't you?" Bayne sneered, "You shouldn't have left her. Really, you shouldn't have come to her in the first place. We're on our way to Miami."

"I want to go back to the Sybilla, Capt. McNally," Hallie repeated, "My father isn't well. He needs me."

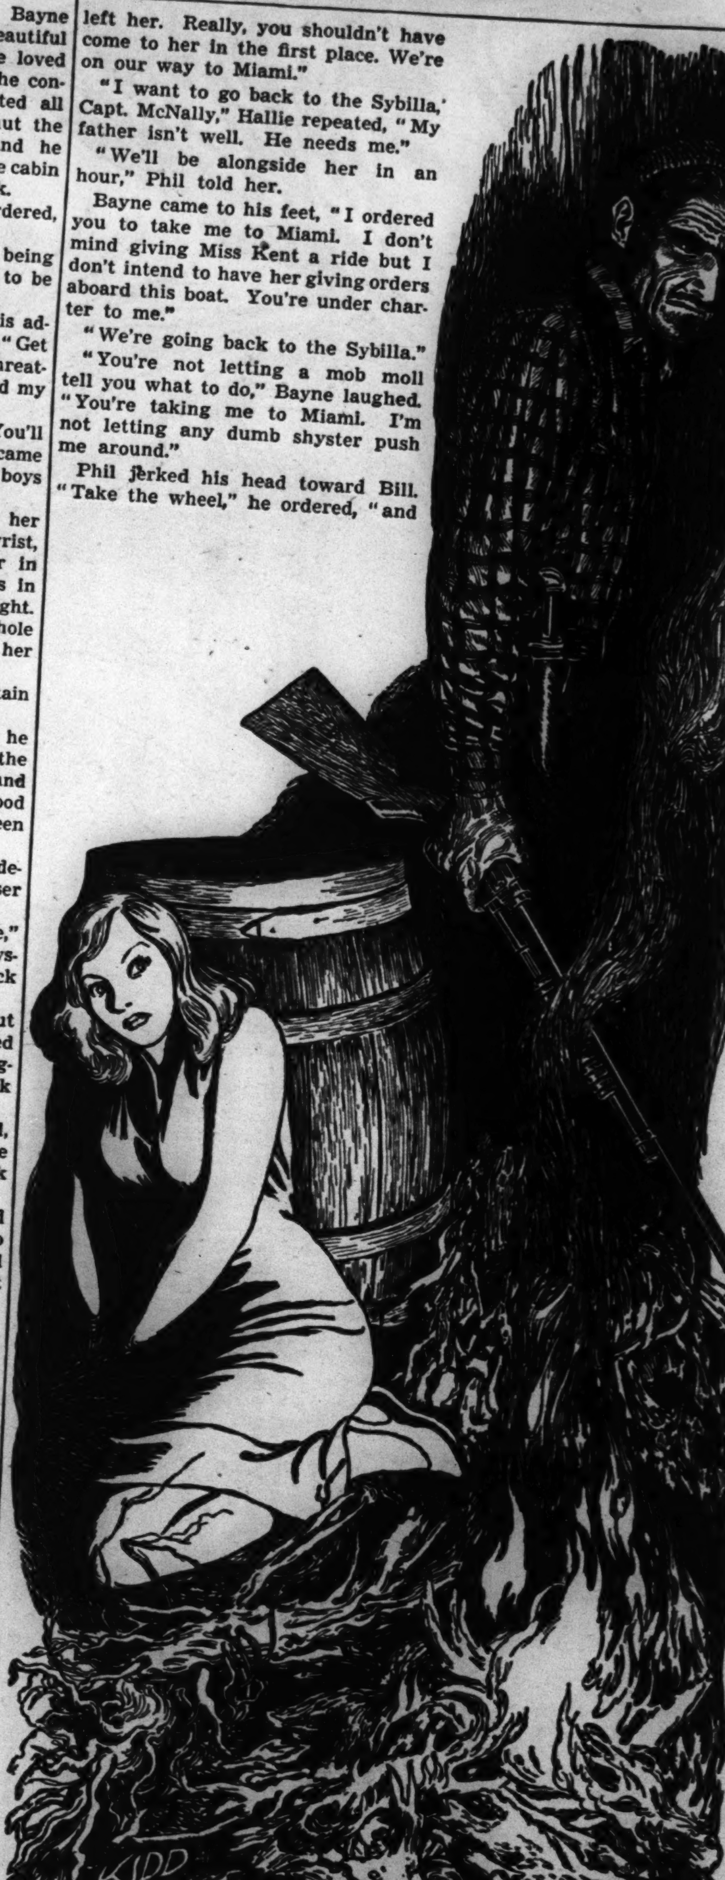
"We'll be alongside her in an hour," Phil told her.

Bayne came to his feet, "I ordered you to take me to Miami. I don't mind giving Miss Kent a ride but I don't intend to have her giving orders aboard this boat. You're under charter to me."

"We're going back to the Sybilla."

"You're not letting a mob moll tell you what to do," Bayne laughed. "You're taking me to Miami. I'm not letting any dumb shyster push me around."

Phil jerked his head toward Bill. "Take the wheel," he ordered, "and keep her as she is." He walked over to Bayne. "Now let's get this straight. First, we're going back to the Sybilla. Second, you're not giving orders on this boat. Third, you're carrying a gun. Guns make me nervous. I'll have to ask you to hand it over." He put out his hand.



Hallie sat there, fearing to move.

"Maybe you'd like to take it away from me," Bayne suggested, his eyes running over Phil's lean and somewhat awkward form. Ostentatiously, he pulled the gun from his pocket. Bill Wellington never saw so many things happen so fast in his life. Cap'n Phil's hand licked out and the gun came spinning from Bayne's hand.

Phil's Flailing Fists Subdue Welton Bayne

"Grab it, Bill," Cap'n Phil said. But that was all he had time to say.

The gun hadn't stopped spinning when Cap'n Phil was sprawled on the deck where Bayne's blow had knocked him. Bill wished he had a belayin' pin or somethin'. Bayne was so big. His shoulders were twice as broad as Cap'n Phil's. His arms were like a dock worker's.

But Cap'n Phil was up and his two arms worked like pistons against Bayne's belly. He doubled up and backed away and Cap'n Phil's right whistled onto his jaw.

Bayne fell down and Phil jerked him to his feet. He let him go and hit him with both hands. When Bayne fell down again, Phil just did it over. When he pulled him up the third time, Bayne whined, "Don't hit me again—don't!" Phil ordered, "Empty your pockets." Bayne did and a fistfull of green paper money fell to the deck. Phil said, "I'll take that, too," and made Bayne pick it up and hand it to him. Then Bayne crept into the cabin. He was pretty sick.

Hallie stood looking at Phil as he walked back and took the wheel from Bill. Then,

"Bring me a cloth and a basin of cold water, Bill," she said, "I have some doctoring to do. Thank you, Phil. You acted like a G-man. They're good at everything, aren't they?"

"I'm a peace officer," he warned her, "I was sworn in as a sheriff's deputy the day I reported Altine's murder."

"O!" she breathed. "Why did you do that?" Bill came back with the cloth and basin and some iodine and Hallie set it on the rail. "I want to talk to Cap'n Phil, Bill," she told him, "Do you mind?" So Bill went for'ard and began working on a fishing line. "Why did you?" she insisted and began to bathe his eye.

"Because I wanted to catch Slack for the murder. Then on my way to Miami, I found a diamond in the cabin. I suspected it might be part of the Hendricky haul."

"And I'd been in there, so you thought I dropped it," Hallie smiled, "You had already guessed I was what they called, 'the finger moll.'"

"At first, yes," Phil confessed, "but then I remembered that Slack and Altine had spent the afternoon of their arrival there. You half guessed it when you wondered whether I was a G-man. I'd passed an examination for the FBI but I was way down on the list. I thought if I solved the Miami diamond robberies, it might move me up. So I took the diamond and my theory to an old friend who is a retired secret service man. Later, I found another diamond in my skiff. That proved that Slack had stolen diamonds from Bayne. Then, I wished I hadn't gotten mixed up in the case."

"Because you suspected my father was in on those robberies," Hallie said. "Wasn't it?"

He nodded.

"Well, that's all right. Dad was in on them. He has been a fence for Bayne for eight years. That is Bayne's hold on him. He's ready to confess as soon as the police get here. Phil, why did you want to quit when you thought my father was involved? Was it because of me?"

Hallie Professes Her Love for McNally

He glanced at her and then away. "It was, wasn't it? But why?"

"What difference does it make?"

"Do I have to do all the love making?" she asked softly and put her arms around him and kissed him, "O, Phil," she murmured, "I think I fell in love with you on sight."

Phil tried to feel sorry for Gordon Kent but he couldn't push it beyond Hallie. The case was about broken and he might get some credit for bringing in the first tangible clue and for recovering the money from Slack but he doubted whether these facts would move him up in the list. He didn't care much, really. He had some money and he was having a good season. Hallie and he could live well for a while. Later, he'd go back to the law. But he couldn't think very coherently about the future. The present was too glowing to look beyond.

He hated to let Hallie go even for a little while when they reached the Sybilla but he was paid a little for the wrench when he ordered Bayne to remain on the cruiser as Hallie climbed the yacht's gangway.

"But why should I stay here?" Bayne protested.

"Because," Phil told him, "Miss Kent doesn't want you on the Sybilla."

Hallie went directly to her father's cabin and found him in bed and drowsy from the opiates Dr. Iwald had given him.

"He's suffering from shock," the gnarled doctor explained to her, "He can't stand many of them. Bayne gave him a pretty bad beating. I'm staying here with him," he glared at her. "He's been a pretty good friend to me."

Hallie sat there for an hour or so. Thru the porthole she could see the world darkening and hear the drowsy cries of zooming gulls. When full darkness came, she went up to the sun deck and sat there listening to the waves lapping against the ship, thinking of Phil. She sat there a long time.

Around 9 o'clock, Slack made his preparations for his foray on the Sybilla. He checked the knife in his belt and added a heavy scarf and about 20 feet of heavy fishing line. They were all he needed. The knife to keep Bayne or whoever he bagged from yelling, the scarf to keep him that way while he tied him up in the speedboat. It was his plan to go out to the yacht in the canoe but to leave her in the speedboat. Nobody could catch him in that.

He put the rope and the scarf in the canoe and then went to the lean-to and carefully removed a wrapper from a tomato can. He returned to the fire and sat down with a stub pencil. On the top of a box, he wrote his ransom demand.

These Menus Assist the Budget and Aid Nutrition

Wise Selection of Food Aim of Housewives

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1942: By the Chicago Tribune.]

To plan menus carefully, buy food economically, and use it without waste should be one of the foremost aims of the homemaker for this wartime year of 1942.

We Americans long have lived on an extravagant diet, extravagant not only because we spent money heedlessly for food, and then wasted it, but because we bought, not the essentials of good nutrition, but the things we liked, and these were mostly the wrong things. We had too many rich sweets, too many expensive, spicy sauces, not enough plain, well cooked vegetables, fruit, milk, and eggs.

Now it's going to be different. We're going to make a vigorous attempt to economize on food and, at the same time, improve our diets. It can be done. It MUST be done.

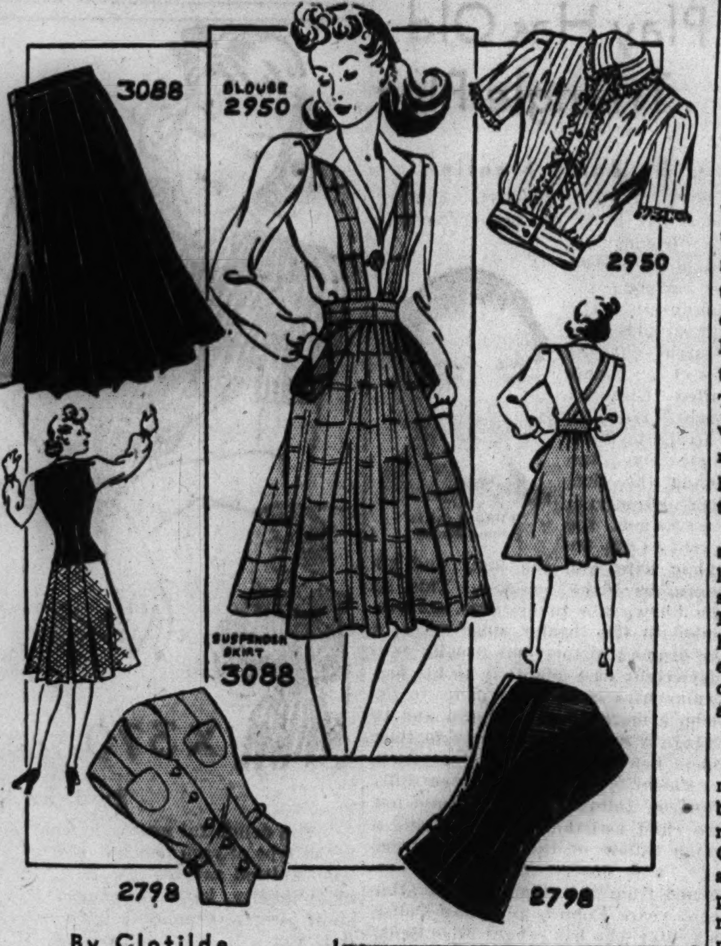
Clotilde Patterns



By Clotilde.

A glance at the fashion sketch today may lead you to think there are at least six patterns, but there really are only three, and those are versatile models.

No. 3088 makes either a waist-high or a suspender skirt. No. 2950 fashions two kinds of companion blouses, and 2798 makes threesomes of your outfits by adding either of two styles of weskits.

Washable materials are, of course, elected for the blouses, one of which is softly tailored in the one-button, shirtwaist manner, with long sleeves; the other has a collar and short sleeves, and lace or some other edging does trimming honors.

Woolen, crepe, and velveteen, in either plaids or plain colors, are obvious choices for the skirt styles. You'll notice that the suspender version has two dressy, "baggy" pockets just below the snug waistband.

The weskit may be buttoned down the front or at the side. Pocket locations are subject to your mood, and the buckled half-belt is optional. Woolen crepe, velveteen, and flannel make lovely weskits.

Style No. 3088 is designed for waist sizes 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34. Size 28 requires 2 yards of 54 inch material for plaited skirt; 2 yards of 54 inch for suspender model.

Style No. 2950 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 2⅝ yards of 39 inch material for long-sleeved blouse; 1¾ yards of 39 inch, with 2½ yards of edging, for short-sleeved version.

Style No. 2798 is designed for sizes 12, 14 and 16, and 36, 38 and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires ⅝ yard of 54 inch material for weskit; ⅞ yard of 54 inch for jerkin.

Each pattern costs ten cents.

'Thank You' Note Is Final Holiday Duty

By Helen Bartlett.

There is one special holiday duty which we hope you haven't forgotten, that of writing your thank you notes. Most of us have discharged this obligation before now, since 10 days have elapsed in which to do it. But there always are a few procrastinators who need a little prodding. There still is time to get under the wire, and because this is Sunday you might well be expected to have a little leisure time to pursue this task.

Now there is no need to make this such an odious chore and to put on a long face or thrust the paper to one side because we mentioned the idea. It is something that you know you have to do, and to neglect the duty entirely and fail to write the letters, or put it off so long that you are ashamed to do it, is a grave offense.

• • •

In most cases these letters are directed to relatives or close friends, because it is only those whom we remember and are remembered by at Christmas. A simple, cordial, personal note with a message of sincere pleasure for the present is all that is required. Acknowledgments to a business acquaintance who is not particularly a personal friend might be a little more difficult to write because they must, of necessity, be a little more formal. We will not be confronted with many like that, altho they are quite as important to acknowledge.

Don't forget this social responsibility. It is little enough to expect you to make a personal response to persons who have taken time and trouble and money to remember you at Christmas.

What should you do to be charming? This question and many others about developing a charming personality are answered in the booklet, "Charm and Self-consciousness," by Helen Bartlett, Tribune etiquet editor. On sale at Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 3 cents. Postpaid, 5 cents.

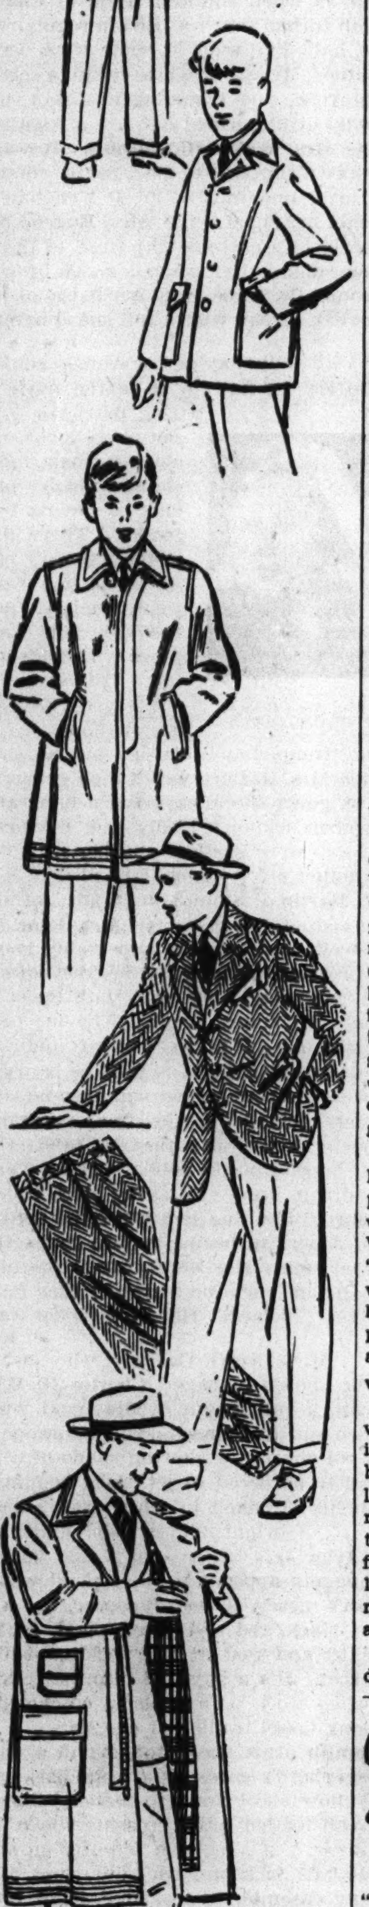
FASHIONS—

By Angela

Young man, if the thing you wanted and needed most for Christmas wasn't among those things present when the great unwrapping took place that morning, such as a fleecy fingertip coat, or a new suit, there's still graduation or Easter to be hopeful about. Send a marked copy to the man who writes the checks or, if you have a Christmas check, go down and spend it tomorrow.

The little colonel in the family can make good use of a military uniform. There's no time like the present for military uniforms. It's something he can wear to school or for play. Various branches of the service are represented, such as the army pilot, air cadet, the navy, and the army [officer's uniform in olive drab illustrated]. Under $7.

The short jacket sketched second is of camel's hair type material. A little lightweight for winter weather, but just the thing, come spring. It is reversible, too, with a lining of water-repellent poplin material. Pockets on both sides.



There isn't a school boy who doesn't yearn for a fingertip jacket. It's a classic item in the casual young man's wardrobe. Broad, square shoulders, roomy pockets, rows of stitching around the hem, fly front. There are dozens of them on the racks, in either a dark bluish green or tan. Seldom seen at this price of under $12.

The suit salesman claims 10 different combinations for this suit of four pieces. There's a medium blue tweed jacket, tweed trousers to match, contrasting trousers of plain blue covert cloth, and a sweater vest which is reversible, tweed on one side and covert on the other. The sweater vest is of a V neck slip-over style, with fabric in the front and a knitted back. I haven't yet figured out the 10 combinations, but they're there!

The station wagon coat is a practical number. It's a tan cotton gabardine, processed to repel moisture, and lined with a cotton plaid. There's a zipper fly front closing. Under $5.

Thru the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

In this new year which is just unfolding we'll have new standards for many things, including good looks. We have an idea that this year will mark the exit of the glamor girl, the lily of the field, and the entrance of a type completely different and, as yet, untagged.

We can predict without hopping too far out on a limb, that clothes, hair styles, and makeup will be greatly simplified. Emphasis will be on the functional, rather than the flossy. We'll dispense with many things quite cheerfully.

We'll be sparing of our colognes and perfumes, since these might, before the year is out, be scarcer than they ever were before. We'll be sparing of our nail lacquers and lipstick, too. We won't slather glamor stuff around as we've been doing, partly because g. s. won't be too plentiful, and partly because we won't have time for too much of such frippery.

Hair undoubtedly will be shorter, trimmer, and easier to manage. Highly stylized makeup, the trademark of the woman who devotes most of her thought and effort to herself, will vanish from the scene. We'll keep our complexion as smooth as possible, but our makeup will be simple, natural, and the kind that may be taken care of with the minimum of time and motion.

The 1942 woman will be alert, and look alert. She'll be feminine without being fussy, immaculately clean and neat but not gaudy. She has work to do, and you can bet that she'll look attractive for every minute of her working day.

Read Antoinette Donnelly's article in the Graphic section of today's paper, in which she writes of the place of beauty in the Stephens college, Columbia, Mo., curriculum.

Eleanor Nangle, "thru her looking glass," sees everything that is new in the fascinating realm of beauty aids, and tells you about them daily in The Chicago Tribune.

Crucial times bring a new era in beauty. The 1942 woman will be alert. The exit of the glamour type is predicted, and simplification will be the rule in every woman's beauty program.

Lady of the House

Wedding Anniversary.

A man's greatness may put him on a pedestal in most respects, but the romance of his life brings him into a universal circle of interest and understanding. So, like so many of our courageous young friends, let's begin what may well prove a long, hard year with romance.

January 6, so far as historians have been able to fix the date, marks the 183rd anniversary of the wedding of George and Martha Washington.

Where did they meet? In Williamsburg, social as well as political capital of Virginia, where Washington, commanding the military defenses of Virginia against the Indians, often went. Going down one day to urge needed improvements in his command, he paused at William's ferry, over the Pamunkey river, at the house of Major Chamberlayne, who invited him to stay for dinner. Washington at first declined, but what seems to have turned the decision was the major's remark that the charming Mrs. Custis also was a guest in his house.

The next day the journey to Williamsburg was resumed, but it is reported that as soon as the business with the governor was transacted, Washington hurried back to the "White House" on the Pamunkey where the Widow Custis lived. When he left he took with him the lady's promise to become his wife as soon as his military service on the Ohio was finished.

It is still disputed whether the wedding of George and Martha Washington took place at the home of the bride or at St. Peter's church in Williamsburg, but the Rev. Mr. Mossom, rector of St. Peter's, officiated, and the date of the marriage has been fixed as Jan. 6, 1759. It was a brilliant affair, with the governor, the military and civil authorities, as well as the socially élite in attendance.

What did she wear? Martha's wedding gown was "a satin quilt, over which a heavy white silk, interwoven with threads of silver, was looped back with white satin ribbons, richly brocaded in a leaf pattern. There were close elbow sleeves revealing a puff and frill of lace. Strings of pearls were woven in and out of her powdered hair. Her high heeled slippers were of white satin, with brilliant buckles."

Far from wearing the "conventional black," the groom "was arrayed as the most brilliant figure in the whole assemblage."

To the minds of many nothing in all history outdoes the attachment of George and Martha Washington for each other, and their wedding day, Jan. 6, marked the beginning of one of the stately and lovely romances of all time.

Two Problems.

To iron out the wrinkles
In clothes that we must wear,
Is not so hard a problem
To women here and there.

To iron out the wrinkles
In lives from day to day,
Is quite another problem
To solve along the way.

American Pipe Smoke.

It seems that with the collapse of France the supply of briar root has stopped and there is distress among pipe smokers! But take heart, man of the house [I understand there are more and more of you reading this column], United States Forest Products laboratory research men bring you a crumb of comfort. They say American woods make just as good pipes, so just try to wean yourself away from the idea that a pipe is not really a pipe unless it is made of foreign wood.

There's mountain laurel already being collected by mountaineers of the western Carolinas. Mountain mahogany of the Sierras, California wild lilac, madrone, rhododendron, and even that gnarled old apple tree in your own back yard all produce good burls for pipes, said to be equal in workability and beauty of grain and even better in smoking qualities than imported briar,

Or, to be still more American in your pipe smoking, go back to the calumet of red catlinite, the peace pipe of the American Indian. That's not only all-American, it's midwestern and Chicagoland, too.

Winter Furniture Shows to Open Tomorrow

By Edith Weigle

[Grignon Photo.]

This sun room glider is one of the hundreds of new items to be seen at the American Furniture Mart during the winter home furnishings shows which open there and at the Merchandise Mart tomorrow.

Officials at both the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart are expecting a big attendance of retail dealers at the winter national home furnishings market which opens tomorrow and continues till Jan. 17.

In spite of the fact that priority restrictions on raw materials have forced all furniture manufacturers to make some reductions in their lines there will be plenty of new designs at the shows. The emphasis will be on the practical and efficient rather than the elaborate and highly decorative type of thing.

Style predictions are for a great deal of color. The new lacquer finishes are growing in popularity and are appearing on all varieties of woods.

• • •

Modern, because of its adaptability to limited space and its versatility due to the fact that many of its pieces are interchangeable will appear in greater numbers than ever before at this winter market. It needs only a minimum amount of metal for decorative purposes and is, therefore, easy to produce in wartime. Woods that will be seen most often in its construction are light mahogany, walnut, maple, and birch.

The new interest in quaint, farm house furniture of the Pennsylvania Dutch type is continuing. The more conventional early American and colonial furniture will be brightened with paints and lacquers.

Simplified 18th century English pieces also will be shown, pieces that may be used in combination with conservative modern. And the trend toward Chinese design will be in evidence again. Women find it interesting to bring a bright note of color into their rooms in a Chinese lacquered coffee table or lamp or book table, or in a small console.

• • •

The Chinese motif, too, will be seen in new styles in summer furniture, one manufacturer at the Merchandise Mart employing its patterns in a line of rattan pieces which will have lacquer trimming, and upholstering in clear, bright colors typical of the orient.

Stick rattan is used for chairs, sofas, and tables in a group extremely modern in appearance and based on a new method of weaving the fiber in a close, fine pattern. When painted in pistachio green, light turquoise, or pinky beige this furniture will add interest to any informal setting.

The photograph today shows one of the new sunroom gliders which will be exhibited at the American Furniture Mart during the coming market. The frame is maple, lacquered ostrich white, and the upholstery is green with a huge white flower. If gliders had any particular period design we'd say this was frankly modern.

On the House

By Louise Bargelt

In case you are planning to rejuvenate some scratched and marred floor this winter, we have a leaflet on floor refinishing which suggests some of the main factors to consider before embarking on such a piece of work. Floors can be refinished with varnish, shellac, wax or a combination of these, or one of the new transparent penetrating floor finishes can be used, blended with oil if you want to be daring and introduce color into a floor.

This may be the month when that varnish on inclosed porch and sunroom trim is beginning to crack and blister. This can be caused if porch or sunroom suffers any extremes of temperature, hasn't the same good heat as rest of house. In which emergency the old varnish can be removed and new types applied which will stand up under temperature changes.

One definite trend of the last year has been to see the modern heating plant grow smaller and smaller. Now if one is building a small home or remodeling without benefit of basement there are warm air heaters equipped with winter air conditioning [fans, humidifiers, and filters] which are so small they can be installed in a four foot deep closet [or less] and—what's still newer—are so good looking they can even be installed in a kitchen, next to a sink. And, it goes without saying, harmonize with the kitchen's swanky fixtures and decorations.

Mrs. T. H. G., Evanston—I use lacquer thinner to eliminate spots from luggage and other articles which are covered with "airplane cloth." I apply this thinner sparingly with a clean cloth. Then afterward when dirt and spots have been removed, I give this surface a coating of clear brushing lacquer.

Hazel M., Chicago—I keep a supply of cigaret papers fastened with a thumb tack inside my husband's drawer of his smoking cabinet. He says these are a help when he wants to dry wet pipe stems or clean out nicotine traps.

Adelaide B., Chicago—When my husband wants to polish or wax the car he turns a pair of cheap fleece lined gloves inside out and then puts them on. Then he uses his hands for rubbing instead of a cloth. Says the gloves don't slip from his hands, and he can cover more rubbing surface with his hands than with a cloth.

Adviser Names Fundamentals of Procedure

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

Perhaps you're not "a digger," but if you have much to do with children, it can be a very good habit to acquire.

If you dig deep enough under the earth's surface you strike bedrock, no matter where you dig. Eventually that's what happens.

I couldn't help thinking of this last evening when, in answering some letters from mothers, I looked over again the books for the layman which I might recommend on the subject of the nervous child.

The Nervous Child, by Hector C. Cameron, [Oxford Univ. Press, New York, price $2.]

Safeguarding Children's Nerves, by James J. Walsh, Dr. J. Foote, [J. P. Lippincott Co., Phila., Pa. Price, $2.]

Several chapters in The Tired Child by Max Seham and Grete Seham. [J. P. Lippincott Co., Phila., Pa.]

As I laid them down I couldn't help saying to myself: "Well, in recommending these books to parents you're really recommending general principles of child guidance." What these books did was to dig down, down, down to causes. Once there, lo and behold, the mother would find herself striking bedrock, the bedrock of the same principles, the same unalterable fundamentals on which stands child guidance in general.

• • •

Those principles of dealing with the nervous child are simply the same principles that underlie all child training; they are what you read in this column from day to day, sometimes plainly put, sometimes told in anecdote or story or conversation, taken word for word from home life.

Usually our talks about these principles of child training touch only one point a day. According to our readers, that is the most helpful form of advice, for even a busy or tired mother can snatch enough time to read our daily article. Some tell me that they fold the paper, prop it above the sink or kitchen table, and read as they wash dishes or prepare dinner. During this last week we have had several such short daily talks about curing nervousness in children. A longer one today on preventing nervousness, which will act also as a summing up, may be helpful to you, especially if you missed that series on the cure of this difficulty.

So, whether your child is a nervous child or whether you don't want him to be one, come with me and dig down to bedrock and uncover these fundamentals.

• • •

The first fundamental in either preventing or curing nervousness or behavior difficulties is to establish physical well being. This consists of, first, periodical examinations by a good doctor who knows children, and the correction of any physical defects. Sight and hearing must not be overlooked, because nervousness and unhappiness and misbehavior often are traceable to poor hearing and poor eyesight which never have been recognized.

Second, is right living. That means, of course, those things we know our children must have: good food, plenty of rest, play, and fresh air, and exercise.

Fundamental number three, [such a cold name for such a lovely thing!] consists of having a warm, friendly, enjoyable [and this "enjoyable" business is not a fancy lace edging on the garment of parenthood, it's a mighty important part of the fabric itself] relationship with your son or daughter. This is a terrifically important piece of bedrock. It oils the wheels of management, reduces friction to a minimum. But what a mixture of metaphors. I hope you get the idea.

Fundamental number four is another dull name for a beautiful thing. This fundamental consists of a harmonious and happy family life, or as harmonious and happy a one as possible, for perfection isn't possible. Home serenity is a need of young things.

Fashions as I See Them

By Judith Cass

The milliners will not like it, but the florists will be glad that Miss Mary Faherty usually wears flowers instead of hats on her pretty head. One day it is a gardenia with the leaves flattened out so that it looks twice as large as an ordinary flower, and another time it is several carnations tucked above her pompadour. As a matter of fact, so diminutive are many flower trimmed chapeaux that from the front one wouldn't know whether Miss Faherty has on a hat. . . . At a recent debut tea Mrs. William Jenkins of Greenwich, Conn., who was visiting her father, Harold Pynchon, and Mrs. Pynchon, looked as young as the subdebs who were at the party in a full skirted black, lightweight wool frock trimmed in red embroidered bands that ran vertically on the skirt and bodice. Her hat, a tiny black one perched above her black pompadour, was trimmed with red and green birds that were too saucy for description. "Sis," as she is called by her family and friends, is an exceedingly pretty and poised young woman. . . . Another charming young matron at this party—Frances Connell's debut—was Mrs. Richard D. Bokum II., who wore a violet wool suit with touches of the same lovely color on her brown fur hat. Her coat was of the same fur, and on one hand was a tiny muff which looked as if it wouldn't have accommodated another hand. White for daytime wear under a fur coat is a recent fashion edict, and the number of women and girls who are observing it are legion. Young Betty Mullaney, who spent her vacation from school in the east in Chicago, wore a white wool frock trimmed with brass buttons, at a tea given at the Arts club by the Burgess Snyders for Betty's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Mullaney. A "beanie" covered the crown of Betty's long, blondish hair.

Mrs. William Jenkins.

• • •

The same sort of a head covering was worn by Mrs. Snyder, who has dozens of hats like that, one to match every frock. She wears her white hair in a roll that frames enchantingly her pink cheeked face, much younger than one associates with white hair. Mrs. Mullaney, as chic as when she first came to Chicago from Paris, wore a metallic cloth turban that was tied in regular bandanna style. One of the smartest hats I've seen in some time was worn by Mme. Morel, Pierre's mother. It was of white velvet, a sort of tricorne with the brim slightly upturned, and trimming it was a heavy, big meshed, black veil. A really distinguished hat. . . . Another dashing hat at the same party was Mrs. Welch Dickinson's. It was of brown with a lace veil that looped from side to side, partly concealing the lower half of her face. It made one think of lovely Venetian ladies, half hiding behind coquettishly arranged veils. Mrs. Eugene Swigart combines brown and gray subtly in a costume she wore to the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo the other night. Her gown is a rich brown sparkling with sequin trimming around the throat, and her hat is of lustrous, soft satin. It is a sort of boxlike turban with a full snood hanging well down over her shoulders.

• • •

Virtually any girl or woman could take a lesson from Mrs. Edmond Raftery on how to be in the mode and still individual in her style. This patrician grande dame always is smart, but she never looks exactly like any other well dressed older woman. She is perfectly groomed and her clothes, always black and white, have that definite look of having been designed and made especially for her. There is something special to custom made clothes, there's no denying that, even tho most of us wear, and wouldn't bother with anything but, ready made clothes. At a recent luncheon party at the Yar, Mrs. Raftery wore a simple, black crepe gown with folds of the satin-back lessening its severity. Around her neck was an inch wide band of white grosgrain ribbon, and pinned at the point of the shallow vee of the neckline was a white pansy pin, completely Victorian but as charming as violets in May. As a rule Mrs. Raftery wears high collars, but when she does wear a collarless gown she always has a band around her neck, a style that most women acknowledgedly past 60 would do well to follow. Her white gloves were spotless and her little black hat was trim and chic. . . . Another older woman who always is attractively gowned is Mrs. Alfred T. Martin of Stonington, Conn., formerly of Wheaton and Chicago, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Lynn Gratiot, in Winnetka. Mrs. Martin always is dressed in impeccably good taste. One of her loveliest bits of costume jewelry is a necklace of crystal-like balls set in gold filigree. It ties around her neck with black velvet ribbon, for the necklace is only half a one, originally having been the trimming of a simple black gown. . . . If midyear exams and a dearth of after the holiday parties mean that ball gowns must be banished temporarily to their cellophane bags, the younger set will have no complaints coming, for almost every night during the Christmas vacation found the debutantes and their beaux dressed in satins and tails. One of the loveliest gowns to make its appearance at holiday parties was worn by Miss Anne Boswell. It's a dream dress of drifting black tulle, cut on the tight bodiced and full skirted line that is a perennial favorite with the young. A wide band of American beauty sequin roses, frosty lilies of the valley, and jeweled stems and leaves bands the hem. The cluster of shining silver balls and metallic leaves in Miss Boswell's dark hair took the place of "real" flowers. Her little jacket was of silver fox pelts.

Miss Evelyn Gardner, who saw the Princeton Triangle show with the show's manager, Charles H. Wilson, covered her white net gown with a full length evening coat which almost carried out the Princeton colors, orange and black. Her wool wrap in a glowing shade of cerise had a petal collar bordered in jet black sequins. A cerise camellia streaked in white was pinned in her hair. . . . A bright note of color under Mrs. William L. Taylor Jr.'s black wool reefer fastened with silver nuggets appears to be a plaid wool waistcoat. It isn't merely a vest, however, but a complete dress of black, red and green plaid, knife-plaited in the skirt and tied at the neckline with a cherry red ascot. It's a gay and informal costume, especially when worn with a black, crocheted pillbox with a long tassel trailing at one side. . . . Mrs. Walter V. Smith often goes shopping in a trim topcoat of turquoise and brown shepherd's check on a white background. She pairs her accessories, a yellow ascot scarf to match yellow pigskin gloves, and a brown hat with feather quills crossing above the visor to tone with a brown wool dress. . . . In town recently on official business for the board of La Rabida Jackson Park sanitarium, Mrs. William J. Frazier wore a striking ensemble of teal blue, plum, and fuchsia. The topcoat and jacket of her suit were of teal blue plaid ruled in plum and fuchsia, and the skirt was a monotone teal wool. Twin fuchsia birds fluttered over her plum felt toque, which was veiled in plum colored net.

Latest Odets Play Has Old Triangle Plot

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK [Special]. — Clifford Odets has, as he has been promising his friends he would do, parked his soapbox for the duration. His newest play is a straight-out domestic drama called "Clash by Night." It is also a straight-out triangle play, featuring the cloddish, blundering husband, the frustrated, unhappy wife, and the lusty and adventurous home wrecker. This, as you know, is a theme that has prevailed in the theater since early in the drama's history, but usually each playwright who adapts it to his particular uses is at some pains to develop a more novel approach and to engage a more interesting trio than Odets has found for its illustration.

"Clash by Night" is beautifully acted by Tallulah Bankhead and her two chief assistants, Lee J. Cobb, a rough fellow of the Wallace Beery type, and Joseph Schildkraut, returned from the cinema farms after many years. Cobb is an honest Polish carpenter who has caught Miss Bankhead on the rebound from a love affair that had turned out badly, and married her.

They are fairly miserable in their Staten Island cottage when Schildkraut, an electrician who operates a motion picture machine in a neighborhood theater, comes to board with them. Immediately he senses Tallulah's unhappiness, which, you may believe, she is not at all careful to hide, and makes his advances accordingly.

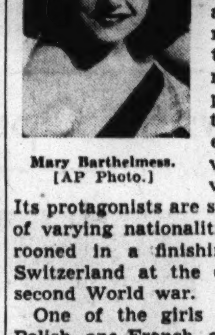
• • •

Slowly the passion of the lovers builds to a climax in which they are prepared to sacrifice all. At least, Tallulah is willing to give up her home, her husband, and her infant, and Schildkraut is prepared to take on the responsibilities of marriage to legitimatize their affair. This, you may also believe, they are not permitted to do. Cobb, suffering the tortures of hell, drinks himself into a state bordering madness, stalks Schildkraut to his booth on the roof of the movie theater and strangles the life out of him.

It is a drama of external perfections, but little inner fire. I, as audience, admired the actors greatly for their skill in the projection of characters, but cared little for the characters projected.

• • •

On the other hand, a poignant little drama called "Letters to Lucerne" is, I think, an important contribution to the theater season, altho again I am not in complete agreement with my colleagues in that opinion. To me it is an important contribution because, emotionally, it reveals a warring world in little. Its protagonists are six young women of varying nationalities who are marooned in a finishing school in Switzerland at the outbreak of the second World war.



Mary Barthelmess.
[AP Photo.]

One of the girls is German, one Polish, one French, one English, and two American. Together they generate all those normal, but regrettable, human weaknesses that stir racial suspicions and hatreds, and then fan the hatreds into conflicts that lead to wars.

Before Munich the girls had been happy and understanding humans. They loved each other, they loved their school and its head mistress, Mme. Hunter. Erna, the German, and Olga, the Pole, were chums. At the play's opening they are just back from a walking tour with Erna's brother that they snitched out of a holiday they were supposed to spend at home, and Olga is desperately in love with Erna's brother.

There is talk of war in the outside world, but in Mme. Hunter's school little attention is paid to it.

• • •

But now comes the war. Germany has swept over Poland and taken over Czecho-Slovakia and Austria. Erna's brother has been called to the colors and assigned to a bombing squad that is given Warsaw as its objective. Now Felice of France and Marion of England must take sides, must begin to hate Erna of Germany. Olga of Poland can no longer love her chum, whose brother is a German bomber. Sally, who comes from the south in America, must take mischievious delight in exposing Erna when the German girl tries to hide her letters and not read of the war. Bingo Bill, the other American girl, would try to act as an appeaser and stop the developing school war before it gets well started.

Mme. Hunter tries desperately to hold this remnant of her school together; tries to preach the understanding tolerance that must endure if civilization itself is to endure. But it is no use. The school must be broken up. The girls must be thrown back into the whirling madhouse that is the world. Friendships must be obliterated, even tho Erna's last letter, smuggled in thru Holland, explains that her people, too, are opposed to the Nazi gangsters; that what they have written before has been written to protect her father and mother from reprisals in Berlin, and that Hans had wrecked his bomber over Poland and gone to his own death rather than rain destruction on Olga's people.

Abbott Hall Cadets Enjoy Xmas Party

By Cousin Eve.

When it comes to Christmas parties, the one for naval cadets at 1500 Lake Shore drive was something! You've seen hundreds of uniformed boys coming from Abbott hall, a high dormitory in Chicago avenue housing nearly a thousand of them. Of these all but 42 went home on leave for four days over Christmas. But for one reason or another these two score and some budding young officers couldn't travel to see their families, and it became the concern of a group at 1500 Lake Shore drive to entertain them.

First Mrs. Cy Adams and Mrs. James Ames cogitated on the problem of cheering and amusing the homesick young midshipmen. And then the committee grew and the party grew to include 42 lovely young debbies and Captain and Mrs. B. B. Wygand from Abbott hall. Few people know about the fascinatin villa after the Italian style on the very tiptop of 1500. It belongs to George Woodruff and is a shining example of the luxury of the past 20 years. For some time now it has been empty with all its furnishings, its wind-swept lawn, fountain and a tennis court. It is one of the most complete, lovely villinos imaginable, done in 15th century Italian manner, and all on one level. In the great drawing room or hall is an organ with stairs leading to it, and a balcony.

• • •

All swept and garnished with Christmas greens, it was like fairyland with three glittering Christmas trees all gold and silver, a huge Santa Claus coming over the balcony, and hundreds of winking red wax candles. The committee that gave the beautiful party included Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Adams, Mr. and Mrs. James Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, Mr. and Mrs. Huntington Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Britton I. Budd, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Dickinson, and Mr. and Mrs. James Ward Thorne. Over a hundred guests sat down with the lonely young middies at the lace covered tables, with place cards for everybody and gay music thruout.

It was such a gay, happy party that guests burst into song, hopping up often to dance. Among the belles present were Mary Adams, Mary Ryerson, Pauline Palmer, Shirley Hopkins and the whole roster of this year's buds. The navy boys, some of whom have lovely voices, gave a few rousing choruses, and the popular revival of "Jingle Bells" was one of the favorites. The orchestra was a four-piece affair—piano, accordion, saxophone and bass viol—making up with verve and enthusiasm a great volume of syncopated rhythm.

At midnight sharp the band played "Home, Sweet Home" and the Christmas party was over.

Capt. Wigand says that the hospitality shown his Abbott hall boys by the warm-hearted patriots of Chicago is overwhelming.

• • •

In Lake Forest the residents did their bit, inviting to their Christmas dinners any Great Lakes sailors available. Friends of mine with several married daughters living far away bethought themselves of asking a dozen boys to dinner and hoped to make them happy.

But the poor lads were silent and solemn. Their hosts couldn't find the secret of their reticence until later on the party retired to the living room. There all over the room were photographs of the young beauties of the family, and the boys rushed over en masse to feast their eyes. Finally one of them plucked up courage. "When are they coming down?" he queried. The hostess tactfully broke the news soon as possible that her girls were all brides of yesteryear. Poor dear sailor lads! Their hearts are tuned up to romance. The women who worked before Christmas making socks for Bluejackets had thank-you letters from Great Lakes bubbling over with romantic ideas.

Any of these letters, so amusing, yet full of boyish pathos, was payment in full for a whole mountain of yuletide turmoil and trouble.

• • •

Coming out of the Charles Yoe Freemans' last Sunday with two hard working millionairesses, we stood on the pavement and with one voice said: "Wasn't that the loveliest party ever?" I wonder if people aren't more appreciative nowadays of their many blessings?

Going in to the Freeman party, even the front door was charmingly aglitter with a wreath of colored lights. Inside was warm brightness, a log fire on every hearth and the delectable smell of wood smoke. The house is high ceiled, old fashioned, with Christmas greens draping every doorway and red candles glowing a warm welcome.

Mrs. Freeman's coral crêpe frock with a close jacket edged lightly with turquoise beads, was ideal. If you said "Happy New Year" once you said it fifty times at this party, and the surge of guests was like a tide, coming and going. Some of the invitees settled themselves in the dining room where they could keep an eye on the eggnog, the hot little beaten biscuit and the hot little mince turnovers, both specialties of this hospitable house. Others parked in the library where there was less uproar and one could better savor the southern flavor of the day. The hostess was a Washington girl and an aura of Virginia clings to her delightful house. Far and away the most regal figure among the ladies was Mrs. William Calhoun of Peking. Her frock was silk with all the flowers of Arcady printed on it, and her wrap, a most unique one of Chinese sable, rich and rare. Chinese elegancies have a way of looking so opulent and distinguished! Mme. Cardelli's white hat, with two little cygnets or baby swans cuddling together, leads the town in the way of smart winter hats. Now is the season for white hats, and small white sailors are in vogue. Among others at this holiday party were Count and Countess Giulio Bolognesi, down from northern Wisconsin for a six month stay, Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus Swift, Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pitcher, Mrs. John Crerar, the Joseph Ryersons, George Ranneys, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pitcher, Mrs. Crerar, the Joseph Ryersons, George Ranneys, Albert Spragues, Mrs. A. H. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, William S. Monroe, Mrs. Bernard Rogers, Ralph Shaw, Mrs. Warren Fairbanks, the Harold Ambergs, and Mrs. C. Morse Ely.

Among my New Year's cards was one from England, really a sort of letter in a manila envelope without signs of censorship, and the most cheerful greetings in the world from one of London's celebrated beauties.

Christmas was a bit more hectic than usual this season, the wrappings were prettier, the parcels piled higher, the messages vastly more affectionate. Among the most tricky of holiday frivolities were the Cinderella slippers seemingly done in glass, for lovely little feet. This glass footwear is made of cellophane, I fancy, and was gaining popularity at Palm Beach early last spring. Wartime restrictions and necessities are sure to bring forth new fashions, and new fashions distract our minds to a certain extent from the stern realities around us.

The fact that Paris is still able to carry on and produce beautiful fresh styles speaks volumes for the hardihood of French designers. From time to time I have access to French fashion magazines and am carried away with the elegance and dash of the evening gowns and "tailleurs." An exceedingly long, double breasted coat is being worn with the short skirt of tailored suits in Paris, and striped fabrics are also in high mode.

The French consul general in Chicago, Raymond Imbault-Huart and his tall, handsome wife have had family letters lately from France, and one of the subjects uppermost in these missives is the tremendous chic and stunning appearance of French women in Paris as they go about. They may be cold, they may be, and probably are, hungry, and have few hot baths, but they have a sure knowledge of appropriate dress and an innate coquetry that never dies.

Mme. Imbault-Huart hears that Sherry's, at the Rond-Point of the Champs Elysees, where American coffee used to be brewed, is the great rendezvous of high society. When one heard that Parisians were reduced to the point of eating rutabagas one's heart bleeds for them. For there's nothing a true French person dislikes so violently as the turnip, and rutabagas is their staple of diet, according to an interesting and very pretty exile, Mrs. Horatio N. Orr.

• • •

There were many exciting people at the Arts club tea given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Snyder of Gary in honor of their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Mullaney of Fitzwilliam, N. H. And Mrs. Orr was one of them. She, too, was chic after the French fashion, and she dilated on the utter impossibility of enjoying life on rutabagas, or going to dinner parties where food simply wasn't, with curfew at ten-thirty.

Mrs. Welsh Dickinson poured tea at the party which was staged in the Arts club dining room with its ardent cerise satin chair seats, and harlequin parchment shades. The Mullaneys were in fine form. Their house, "Sunny Top," on the south slope of the White mountains, is named for their cherished estate at Chantilly, near the great royal park and château of the Condés. They took an ancient house on the long narrow single street at Fitzwilliam and have molded it into a charming place to live. The inside is lined with exquisite carved wood panelings from an early day abandoned church. Other exiles from France have followed them to this region, and they have a nice little coterie of old friends and new.

Young Betty Mullaney, a cherished granddaughter, is in Chicago with the family and returning to school at North Hampton this week. I noted that June Mullaney had her clever head tied up in a Persian lamé scarf, and assumed that such is the mode at points east.

Inquiries as to the various animal friends at "Sunny Top" brought sad news. Dogs and cats are short-lived in the country. But others had come to take their places. In fact, two grandchildren of ZuZu, the Siamese air-minded cat, buried at Chantilly, arrived by motor from California a short while ago. And these two felines have practically none of their grandpa's saturnine qualities or terrible yowls. Neither are they given over to aviation, as he was, but seem to like motoring. The Mullaneys are certainly great fun, and almost make one yearn for country life.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Valentine's house in Ritchie place is one of the most fitting in Chicago for a holiday meeting of the American Friends of China.

Not only have they a large collection of Chinese hangings and works of art, but they have been frequent visitors to China in the past. On their last journey to the orient they arrived at the Cathay at Shanghai at the moment of the famous Japanese air attack, and their son, Joseph Jr., photographed much of it from the hotel roof during the bombardment.

The order of the day wasn't the same as usual. The president, Mrs. Harley MacNair, was resting in a hospital and Mrs. Walter Brewster presided in her stead with many clever turns of phrase. She introduced a young and attractive woman, Mrs. John King Fairbank of Washington, who is an authority on bas-reliefs of the Han dynasty, after ten years studying them in China.

During the speaker's illustrated talk she constantly referred to two parchments on the side wall, covered with cavorting figures of Chinese men and horses. She called them "rubbings" which is the technical name for the imprints made by archæologists from these two thousand year old bas-reliefs. Mrs. Fairbank had visited same famous votive shrines in Shantung province where some of the Han relics are to be found and spent two years of her life deciphering and reproducing them. She not only speaks Chinese but reads it. Taken by and large, it was one of the best afternoons one had had in a long time. Mrs. Fairbank presents her knowledge in a charming way, and the two thousand years old "rubbings" were full of amazing fire and life. These Han bas-reliefs, however, are mere modern stuff, compared with those caves in Korea. There the bas-reliefs of lovely ladies with little lap dogs and very smart curly hairdo were made four thousand years ago. From Mrs. Fairbank we also learned about the superb Han exhibit going on at the Art institute, which was the first thing she did on leaving the train that brought her from Washington. She hotfooted to the Art institute, and so shall I.

The American Friends of China found Mrs. Freeman Hinckley and Mrs. Brewster doing the honors in the dining room. The tea table had lovely bronzes but an air of Christmas gayety as well. Mrs. William Calhoun, Mrs. C. Wesley Dempster, Miss Florence Bartlett, Mrs. Robert Gregory, Mrs. Ira Morris, Miss Emily Larned, Mrs. John P. Cohane, Col. and Mrs. Langhorne, Mrs. John A. Carpenter, Mrs. H. C. Bangs, and Freeman Hinckley were a few in the attentive audience.

Contract According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

There always have been and always will be, I fear, two schools of thought on the subject of bridge. One school maintains that it is a perhaps pleasant but profitless means of killing time, ranking only an inconsequential step above euchre, old maid, and other games that are scarcely vital to the eternal scheme of things. [Am I biased in suspecting that the members of this school are not very proficient bridge players?]

The other school carries its banner far higher and waves it much more belligerently. "A clear fire, a clean hearth, and the rigor of the game"—the celebrated wish of Charles Lamb's Mrs. Battle, sums up the opinion of this group—and, if necessary, they can dispense with the fire and the hearth!

To quote some one more modern, here are the sentiments of Thomas Sullivent, writing in the The Bridge World magazine:

"Contract bridge is neither a disease nor a four ring circus. It is an educational institution.

"First, of course, are certain additions to the English language attributable to bridge. These may contain beauty to a greater or lesser degree but, as a well known author of short stories might put it, they are more than somewhat descriptive. However, these have been discussed in the pages of this magazine before and are not in the province of this article. Then, too, we have the problems in mathematics that frequently arise. For instance, consider for a moment the practicability of learning to count to 13, which caused a certain leading bridge authority to compare the average player with a South African bushman. [This may be a slight misinterpretation, but the author has personally made comparisons much less flattering in connection with a number of temporary partners.]

"Anybody who learns the game of bridge at all well is likely to acquire a desire to win. Unless he plays with a bunch of suckers this will require some degree of concentration and diligence, not to mention the necessity of polishing up his imagination. All of these traits are useful in the game of life. It is not contended that tricks learned at the bridge table are useful elsewhere, but the mind is trained to be on the alert and to apply logic in the effort to solve any situation that might develop.

"An individual suffering from an inferiority complex, having met and conquered his presumable superiors in a bridge tournament is likely to develop a much better opinion of himself. It has been pointed out by psychologists that people generally are much more capable than they suspect, therefore anything causing them to become aware of their own ability is beneficial. It does not follow, of course, that winning a bridge tournament will change a Casper Milquetoast into a reincarnation of Attila the Hun. But a metamorphosis is probable.

"Since before the dawn of history, card games have been a source of pleasure and amusement, the generally accepted theory being that they were originally a substitute for military tactics, designed to sharpen the wits of the strategist while he was engaged in the process of growing a new crop of cannon fodder. However, the environment of the well appointed home usually provided the bridge enthusiast of today is much superior to the card game of our fathers, who disported themselves in the back room of the neighborhood grocery, draped gracefully over pickle kegs and goods boxes. Furthermore, the modern streamlined club room is a far cry from the old time saloon in which the hardy frontiersmen were prone to reach for a card with their left hand and a shootin' iron with the right. Time stumbles on.

"As a social equalizer, bridge is an example par excellence. Be he communist, Republican, or New Dealer, Hindu fakir or cosmopolite, a man in a bridge tournament strives for a period with his peers. The man of the street is equal to a page from the social register. Indeed, when the scion of industry and the corner traffic cop meet on even terms and each finds that the other has learned to distinquish a Bath coup from a model T their mutual respect is increased. Tho one half may not know how the other half lives, there is created a stronger bond between them.

"The fact that a man cannot play bridge does not detract from his status as a citizen. It merely marks him as unsuitable for a partner in a bridge tournament. This does not prove that he is a wife beater, or a business failure, or a dud at quoits. In fact, it might prove the opposite. When a choice is to be made between two given objects their individual values are determined by the use they are put to. Choosing between Man of War and Paul Bunyan's blue ox, a man would be guided by his ultimate aim, whether it was to win a race or to extricate an army tank from an Amazonian bog.

"Perhaps if present day war lords had spent more of their youth in an effort to calculate the value of a backward finesse to the fifth decimal place, the world would not have such a case of jitters. Quien sabe?

"Taken by and large, it's a great game."

There are no trumps and South leads. North and South are to win four tricks against any defense.

Solution: South leads the club nine. North wins and returns the queen of diamonds. [The 10 lead will not solve.] East wins and leads another diamond, following with the jack of clubs, on which North discards a heart.

Now North must make three spade tricks.

If South starts with the six of clubs, East gives up the jack.

If North returns the 10 of diamonds, instead of the queen, East wins with the king and leads the jack, before leading the club, to prevent North from discarding the diamond. This 10 of diamond lead would therefore give East and West two spades and a heart, or two hearts and then a spade.

Purely Personal

New England parentage, a childhood spent in a Colorado mining camp, and experiences as court reporter, official reporter for the Colorado house of representatives, lawyer, investigator in the attorney general's office in Washington, social worker in New York, and housewife in Chicago contribute to Edith Stewart Van Buren's original point of view, which distinguishes her pithy talks and book reviews. . . . She always has read "just everything," but really discovered American literature after joining the Friends of American Writers, which she currently heads. Altho she reads "almost constantly," she finds time now for only the outstanding foreign books, would like to be able to reread the Brontës and Tolstoi as she used to each year. . . . She has her own corner with a desk and a typewriter in the Van Buren living room overlooking Lincoln park. She is fond, but not overly proud, of the furnishings of the apartment, largely old pieces inherited from her family and her husband's. . . . She and George Burnett Van Buren, lawyer and insurance adjuster, met and were married in New York, came to Chicago two years later. They have two children, Stuyvesant, a freshman at the University of Wyoming, who has just enlisted in the marines, and Joan, a senior at the Francis Parker school. . . . Mrs. Van Buren thinks on her feet when she makes a talk in public, sometimes worries afterward about what she may have said. She never has wanted to write, herself. . . . She does occasional needlepoint, enjoys the theater and good music, plays "horrible" bridge, likes walking and swimming. Slim and smart, she wears "very plain" tailored clothes, mostly black. B. B.

Jewish Women Launch 15th Tithe Drive

It was said recently by Joseph E. Davies, chairman of the President's committee on war relief agencies in Washington, that "the state of war now existing between the United States and the axis countries does not alter the desirability of endeavoring to meet the urgent relief requirements of foreign countries associated with the United States in the war effort."

These words are in the minds of thousands of Hadassah members who, remembering the Jewish military units fighting in the middle east, are preparing to organize the 15th annual tithe campaign in support of the Hadassah medical organization in Palestine. The annual drive for funds will be launched Tuesday at simultaneous luncheons thruout the city and suburbs.

The supreme grand lodge of B'nai B'rith has pledged $50,000 to the Red Cross, and the 11,000 members of 18 women's auxiliaries in the Chicago area will launch the drive for funds here at a rally Wednesday, Jan. 14, in the Congress hotel. The speaker will be American-born Princess Paul Sapieha, author of "Polish Profile." Heading the B'nai B'rith Women's day rally is Mrs. Beverly Beck.

Princess Paul Sapieha.

There will be a meeting of the Jewish Consumptive Relief society at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday in the Congress hotel, at which Ann Birk Kuper will give a reading of the new Edna Ferber-George Kaufman play, "The Land Is Bright."

The case discussion group of the Jewish Big Sisters will meet at 2 o'clock Tuesday at the 203 North Wabash avenue headquarters, and at 1 o'clock Thursday Mrs. J. J. Katzin and Mrs. J. B. Anixter, co-chairmen, will confer with the clothing committee.

Miss Gertrude Cohen will give a review of Richard Wright's "Native Son" for the literary group of the National Council of Jewish Juniors at 2:30 o'clock today at the home of Miss Zelda Lefko, 5335 Magnolia avenue.

News of Art, Artists, and Art Exhibits

By Eleanor Jewett.

One of the most cheerful of the holiday shows that 1942 will bring to a close is that of paintings and sculpture by members of the Chicago Galleries association, 215 North Michigan avenue. Several prizes were awarded late in the month. The first prize went to "October Morning" by Karl Ouren and the second prize to "Portrait of Mrs. Frank I. Johnson" by her artist husband, Frank I. Johnson. It is an excellent likeness and one of the most sympathetic portraits in the show.

"Rolling Surf England" by Frederic Tellander, "Checker Game Down South" by William Kenndey, "Common Things," by Leslie Buck, and "Early Snow" by Gianni Cilfone were given prizes and honorable mentions went to "Sycamores" by Charles P. Killgore, "Summer's Idle Hours" by Anthony Buchta, and "Going Home" by Carl Hoerman.

Edward T. Grigware, a member of the Chicago galleries and of the Palette and Chisel club, sends a card from Cody, Wyo., where he has been living for several years. In 1935 Mr. Grigware became a lieutenant commander in the naval reserve and on Dec. 15 he was called to Seattle on active service. Mrs. Grigware is remaining at Cody and she has registered for an 80 hour nursing course to be given after the holidays.

The first exhibitions of the new year are the exhibit of paintings, water colors and prints, by Max Beckmann, which opened Friday at the Arts club, Wrigley tower, to run thru January, and the annual exhibit of work by members of the Business Men's Art club, which may be seen in the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers, thru Jan. 21.

An interesting exhibit of Russian photographs is on display in Blackstone hall, Art institute. The Chicago Forum on Russian Affairs assembled them and they show young Russia at work, at drill, and at play. The young women are shown at many jobs usually reserved for men. Both men and women are of sturdy peasant types. One of the photographs shows the various sport societies on parade and another, "Moscow Mothers on Parade," shows us the women with children on their shoulders, singing as they march.

A collective farm school is another print interest; it shows young Turkmen girls working out problems. "Analyzing Wheat Seed" is the title of one of the finest photographs, depicting a young woman all in white, including a white babushka on her head, weighing the seed. The famous Russian operas are well represented with dramatic scenes, and there are many photographs showing women as pilots, cavalry, troopers, in folk dances, grenade throwers, and as navigators on the Volga.

On Jan. 22 a one-man show of paintings by Karl Knath is to open at the Art institute. What is known of his early history makes him almost an Art institute find. Dudley Crafts Watson says of him, "Zona Gale, the Wisconsin writer, brought Karl Knaths to my office at the Milwaukee Art institute. She had found him in her home town, Portage, an apprentice in his uncle's bakeshop. The uncle showed Miss Gale a batch of drawings made by Karl on scraps of paper and discarded box linings. "He will do nothing else when he is thru baking," complained the uncle.

Miss Gale enlisted Mr. Watson's sympathy and assistance and together they got Karl released from the bakery and helped him to come to Milwaukee, where he secured a job and studied painting and drawing in his spare time. He soon began to win honorable mentions. The young artist's next step was to come to Chicago and enroll in the classes at the Art institute. He worked most of his way thru school in the janitor's corps. He was drafted in the World war. After the armistice he returned and resumed the study of art in New York and Provincetown. He is now established as an American painter who has made a name for himself.

Karl Knath shows in his paintings his interest in patterns, color combinations, forms, abstractions, and brief and powerful statements of objects stripped of all nonessentials.

The 12 week winter term of the Art institute school opens tomorrow and runs thru March 26. An exhibit of paintings by William Fett, a Foreign Traveling Fellowship winner, is hanging in the school lobby.

A note from Lane K. Newberry, distinguished painter of historical scenes and particularly famous for his series of paintings of Illinois landmarks, comes from Marquette, Mich., where he says he is in the middle of a tour of lectures to schools and colleges which will cause him to make 255 separate appearances before next June, from Council Bluffs, Ia., to Bridgeport, Conn.

Dale Nichols, on the other hand, has bought a small ranch out west and is letting us hear very little from him, probably to make the surprise the more important when he hangs new paintings in 1942 shows.

The School of Design in Chicago, Moholy-Nagy director, announces that one of the 10 first prizes in the "Pictures for Children" competition was won by Juliet Kepes, a student. The Museum of Modern Art in New York sponsored the competition. Another member of the school, Marli Ehrman, head of the weaving workshop, won first prize in textile design in the Museum of Modern Art All-American competition last spring.

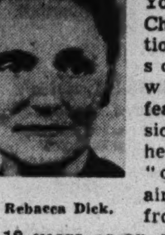
Fund-Raising Is Fun, Says YWCA Leader

By Betty Browning.

"Money raising is fun!" That was the surprising comment of Miss Rebecca Dick on her new job as finance chairman of the Chicago Young Woman's Christian association. This slender southerner, whose delicate features and musical voice give her a deceptively "other world" air, has come from New York after 18 years as an expert on fund raising to direct the Chicago YWCA's efforts to make both ends meet.



Miss Rebecca Dick.

Under her leadership the organization will make February "budget month" and will appeal at that time for the public assistance which makes possible its service to some 40,000 young women each year. After deducting income from residences, classes, camps and investments, and assistance from the Community Fund, there still is between $100,000 and $110,000 to be raised annually if the work of the YWCA is to continue.

• • •

In keeping with Miss Dick's conception of fund raising is her scorn of the term "campaign." And she repudiates the definition of money raising as "begging."

The most successful fund raisers, she has found, "are not those who lightly call themselves beggars, but those who believe that they are offering others an opportunity to invest, not only their money, but themselves, in something worthwhile."

Then she smiled swiftly. "That may sound starry eyed, I know, but I have seen it work over and over again!"

There are two types of causes from the money raising standpoint, Miss Dick has found. There is the type that has an emotional appeal, the disaster, such as an earthquake or war, and the blind beggar with the tin cup. These arouse persons who wouldn't think thru an appeal.

Then, there is the type of cause that registers thru people's minds, the "good old annual appeal" for educational, preventive and protective services. "A much slower process," Miss Dick remarked drily, "and many people do not submit themselves to it."

• • •

The YWCA, Miss Dick believes, has both types of appeal, particularly at this time, when so many young people are facing grave responsibilities and need help to make life livable.

"There's plenty of emotion," she said, "in the thought that some one's daughter needs help, needs a job, or a place to live, or advice in a love affair, and has no place to go. It is difficult individually to reach such a girl, but it is possible to help the YWCA to which she turns for aid."

Except in what she terms cases of "world shaking appeal," Miss Dick has found that money raising largely is a matter of building public relations, of educating people as to why money is needed.

• • •

"It is up to the institution or cause to prove its value to the public," Miss Dick said, "and in the long run the public is not a bad judge. So it rests with those interested in the institution or cause to see that the public is informed."

There is, probably unconsciously, a good deal of the missionary in Miss Dick. For her the great compensation for the hard work of raising money is the moment when, as she put it, she sees the minds of people opening to the appeal from something outside themselves.

Before coming to Chicago Miss Dick directed the fund raising programs for a variety of educational and philanthropic institutions in this and other countries, foreign missions, and American colleges, and churches included. She also had charge of the New York City YWCA's campaign one year. She has been "organizing" all her life without calling it that, she says.

After teaching school in the south, she came north to direct a Christian Endeavor camp for slum children on Long Island. She wanted to study at Columbia university, and in order to stay in New York, got a job with the Red Cross during the annual roll call. "I loved it, ate it up," Miss Dick commented. She has been doing similar work ever since.

Pan-American Council Is to Have Latin Festival

Santa Claus of the North Pole will be replaced by an oriental potentate as distributor of holiday largesse at a celebration of El Dia de los Santos Reyes by the Pan-American council Saturday night at International house, 1414 East 59th street. There will be group singing, games, and dancing.

Women Voters to Organize Wartime Work

The attention of the National League of Women Voters will be focused this week upon Indianapolis, where its general council is assembling Wednesday for a special two-day meeting to organize a wartime program. The council session will be flanked by meetings of the national board on Tuesday and Friday.

Miss Marguerite Wells.

Comprising the general council are two delegates from each state league, and the national board of 14 members. Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer of Bloomington, president of the Illinois league, and Mrs. Raleigh Stone, Cook county league president, will be in the Illinois delegation, which also will include Mrs. Quincy Wright of Chicago and Mrs. Walter Fisher of Winnetka.

• • •

The council meeting was called by Miss Marguerite Wells, national president, who said in her message:

"A new direction, a new tempo are asked of the league by a country at war. This means new methods of work. The comfortable safety of being sure of the wisdom of every small detail before expressing an opinion, even our own education, by exhaustive, careful study groups, these we must temporarily sacrifice. To pull its oar today, the league must stop hoarding its experience and knowledge within its membership. It must share this experience and knowledge with the general public; it must reach not five but 500 times as many as in the past."

Before leaving for the council meeting in Indianapolis, Mrs. Stone will participate as a speaker Tuesday in a conference of Cook County league members on "Consumer Problems." The session will run from 10:30 to 2:30 o'clock, and will be held in the assembly room of newly enlarged suite of offices at 225 North Michigan avenue.

• • •

Mrs. Stone will open the conference with an analysis of "You, the Consumer." Others scheduled to speak are Mrs. Herbert Bebb, who will discuss "Standards, Grades and Labels"; Mrs. Ambrose Fuller, whose topic will be "Milk and Meat"; Mrs. Maurice Pollak, who will report on the status of food and drug legislation; and Miss Nelle Nordstrom, who will tell of the development of "Consumer Information Centers" under the defense program.

Fiestas Take on New Meaning in Old Mexico

By Alden Powell.

MEXICO CITY. When the New Year bells rang out in Mexico they heralded a new round of the fiestas. This year, in the face of total war, the variety of Arabian Nights entertainment has a deeper significance than ever before.

As in the United States, Mexico welcomes the new year with dances and parties. Hotels, night clubs, and private clubs put on brilliant programs, a mixture of Spanish, Indian, Mexican, and American, and evening dress is the general rule. When the New Year strikes a quaint custom is carried out. The first thing you do is to kiss your mother and wish her a happy New Year. If she is not there, you either go to find her, or telephone, or telegraph. Then you kiss your wife or sweetheart, and after that come abrazos—the Mexican embrace—of relatives and friends. New Year's day is celebrated with fairs and fireworks.

• • •

The festival of Chalma, with its mystic Indian base, is held the first week in January. Mountainous Chalma is the shrine of a Spanish crucifix famed as miracle working, and Indians from all over the country make a pilgrimage to this ancient sanctuary. At night the forest paths are alive with the torches of incoming pilgrims, many of whom walk for days and weeks over the mountains. The rites and Indian dances are unspoiled and are remarkable for their color and beauty. Chalma is difficult to reach—there is a walk of a few miles from the last bus stop, Ocuilan—but its inaccessibility is a challenge, and Americans who attend the fiestas have an unforgettable experience.

Jan. 6 is the Day of the Three Wise Men, celebrated—for the most part by the children—as a second Christmas. Dressed in Spanish shepherd and shepherdess costumes, with plumed hats and laced bodices for the girls, and satin breeches and cloaks for the boys, Mexico sings and dances before the image of the Christ-child in the churches. The dances are an odd blend of Indian and Spanish medievalism.

• • •

Jan. 17 is the Day of St. Anthony, celebrated by all towns named after the saint, and by all communities that claim him as patron saint. In the rural villages you can see animals being blessed in church. This is a relic of an ancient custom.

Old in tradition and legend, Tzintzuntzan, in Michoacan, holds a festival the first week in February, with many dances, of both Spanish and Indian origin, in the plaza before the church. This church has a painting which is believed to be a genuine Titian. At the same time you can visit nearby Lake Patzcuaro, with its picturesque Tarascan Indian Island of Janitzio.

Feb. 5 is a national holiday, Constitution day, marked by parades and by fireworks.

Feb. 14 belongs to Guadalajara, Mexico's second largest city. This year Guadalajara will celebrate the 400th anniversary of its founding, but, since the actual act took place on Feb. 14, 1542, that day will be especially important. There will be a parade of historical floats, masked balls, a reception in the government palace, Indian dances, and Spanish serenades. The founding of the city by the conquistadores will be reënacted in costume.

• • •

The rest of February is given over to Lent celebrations. The week before Lent is carnival time thruout Mexico. Worth visiting are the fiestas in Merida, Yucatan; in Mazatlan, the western seacoast resort, and in Huejotzingo, on the road to Puebla.

Amecameca holds its annual fiesta to honor the Christ of the Cave on Ash Wednesday, while Chalma has a festival on the same day. Taxco is noteworthy for the dances and fireworks with which it celebrates the fourth Friday of Lent.

Holy week is notable anywhere in Mexico, with its medieval pageantry and rites. Tzintzuntzan, Iztalapa, and Queretaro hold naive representations of the Passion Play. Amatitlan, in Cuernavaca, often puts on the Dance of the Moors and the Christians before the little old church, and also has jaripeos, or amateur rodeos.

ON THE SKI TRAILS OF THE NORTHLAND

When snow blankets the Laurentians, the Esterel district in Quebec province becomes one of Canada's chief winter sports centers. Here is a quartet of devotees of such sports.

THE VOICE OF THE TRAVELER

Letters regarding travel conditions and experience are welcomed. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

THE WAR OF THE AMERICAS.

MEXICO, D. F., Dec. 10. — To the Travel Editor: Sherman said it: "War is hell!"

In the present crisis, however, it is reassuring to know, as President Avila Camacho said over the radio last night, that "this is the war of the Americas" and that Mexico is playing her rôle wholeheartedly and as per schedule.

When the first impact of the shocking news passes and a readjusted frame of mind takes hold, people will again indulge in recreational travel. This is human nature.

When that comes about a sizable portion of the 18 million adult traveling population in the United States will come to Mexico, where they can enjoy the thrill of complete dissociation from the usual sights and sounds and yet sense none of the uneasiness of separation sometimes felt when one is away from home.

With the compliments of the season,

LUCAS DE PALACIO.
Managing Director, Mexican Tourist Association.

BACK TO NORMALCY.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 18.—To the Travel Editor: Contrary to reports and rumors, neither San Francisco nor the Redwood empire has been attacked, raided, or bombed.

While the American citizens of the Pacific coast are coöperating to the fullest during blackouts, and while these blackouts are now efficient and effective, the enemy has not attacked us.

During their leisure time our people continue to pursue their normal outdoor sports and are enjoying the beauties of the countryside.

At the commencement of any war, particularly when it occurs suddenly, there is bound to be a certain amount of confusion and difficulty, especially when advance preparations are lacking.

Conditions on the coast are fast leveling off and heading for a substantial degree of normalcy and routine within proper precautionary limits.

While certain major bridges are under guard [and they should be], bridges and highways are open.

It will be greatly appreciated if you will relay these facts to the traveling public, who are certainly entitled to the facts.

With holiday greetings,

CLYDE EDMONDSON.
General Manager, Redwood Empire Association.

Miami-Nassau Race Set for Early February

MIAMI, Fla.—Officials of the Miami Yacht club have announced the Miami winter season sailing race schedule, to be featured by the Miami-Nassau race Feb. 10. Sharing interest with this event is the Sir Thomas Lipton Classic Feb. 7. Miami's midwinter regatta will take place March 29.

The curtain raising Orange bowl sailboat regatta on Sunday will be held on the Matheson Hammock course under sponsorship of the Dade county parks department.

Sailing, once the chief mode of transportation on Biscayne bay, has become one of this area's biggest sports attractions. Races for light craft in the suicide and snipe classes are held every Sunday in the Miramar section of the bay.

Havana Is Still Gay Despite the War

HAVANA, Cuba.—The holiday spirit continues in Cuba until Wise Kings' day, Jan. 6.—Known in Spanish speaking countries as Reyes Magos, the day commemorates the time when the Three Wise Men arrived in Bethlehem from the east.

For many centuries Christians exchanged gifts on this day and not on Christmas. In some countries the early custom still prevails. In Cuba the children receive presents on both days. This is not only a child's holiday in Havana. Special parties are planned for the hotels, night spots, and clubs. One of the largest will be held at Bajo la Luna, supper club at the Hotel Nacional.

The holidays have been gay this season in Havana, despite world conditions. The race track, casinos, and night clubs are crowded.

Tax Exempt.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—All homesteads here are exempted from taxation up to $5,000.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Do you know of any one who could tell me just what it costs to start and stop the average streamlined train?

—A. K.

There is no reliable formula for determining the exact cost. However, officials of the Union Pacific railroad have estimated it at $1.69. This figure includes brake shoe wear and consumption of compressed air, lubrication, and fuel.

I understand that Spanish is the official language in all South American countries except Brazil, where it's Portuguese. Can you tell me why that country is the lone exception?

—F. C. M.

Because the Portuguese were the first on the scene there. In settling the rival claims of Spain and Portugal following Columbus' discoveries, Pope Alexander VI. had an imaginary line drawn in the South Atlantic. This line lopped off, in Portugal's favor, what is now Brazil.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

FOREIGN TRAVEL

Snow Flurries Start Trek to Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, FLA.

The trek to Miami Beach that started with the first flurry of snow in the north has, with the advent of 1942, become the annual migration. People are flocking here, adding color to the colony of homeowners who came down early. Many visitors stay geared to important defense business back home by telephone and telegraph, but they can, at the same time, enjoy Miami Beach sunshine, one of the few things that world events cannot possibly alter. The keynote this season is informality in private entertaining, the patriotic angle in big, formal functions, but fun under the sun in everything.

Hosts include in all guest lists members of the defense forces on leave or on duty here, prompted by the desire to show appreciation to the men who are defending the American way of life. Prominent members of the winter colony have been appointed to the special gifts committee of the Dade county $150,000 drive for the Red Cross war relief fund. Among them are David J. Molloy, president of Indian Creek club, and Harold A. Clark. All are working under William K. Vanderbilt, honorary chairman of the fund, who with Mrs. Vanderbilt now makes Miami Beach his permanent home and who, incidentally, started the drive with his check for $10,000.

• • •

Perennials who wait to come here until they are sure everything is open can come any time now, for there are only two major events remaining on the future calendar, the opening of the fishing tournament next Sunday, and Hialeah Park, Jan. 14. First of the weekly buffet suppers and keno parties at the Indian Creek club will be given Jan. 7, and the popular Sunday night buffets were inaugurated during the holidays.

The Committee of One Hundred has resumed its Thursday afternoon informal bridge and other games, the Surf club is sponsoring its usual weekly backgammon and bridge tournaments, and the Bath, Indian Creek, and Surf are staging tennis tournaments for club members and their house guests.

All this is in addition to more formal functions at these three exclusive clubs, and to informal luncheon parties daily as members relax after swimming, sunning, and golfing. Most celebrities here are on pleasure bent, but some combine business. Helen Traubel, Metropolitan star, who will be presented in concert tomorrow, and her husband, William Bass Traubel, came down before Christmas.

• • •

United States Sen. Elmer D. Thomas, here officially, takes time out to attend the races at Tropical Park with Mrs. Thomas. Another national figure seen frequently at the track is William A. Julian, treasurer of the United States, and doubtless he turns his winnings, the currency that bears his signature, into defense bonds, as most winter colonists are doing.

Glamor Girl Brenda Frasier and husband, "Shipwreck" Kelly, have taken a house in Miami Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Sorensen are here, so is Powell Crosley Jr. of radio fame, Erskine Caldwell and his distinguished wife, Margaret Bourke White, and Mr. and Mrs. Paris Singer.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Wainwright Ernst will give a luncheon tomorrow at their country estate near here honoring Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lafayette Jones of New York. The Ernsts attended the big party given in Miami Beach recently at which everyone had to buy a defense stamp to get in and another stamp with every cocktail. Their daughter, Marilyn Ernst, entertained 30 college friends this week at a buffet supper party at their estate.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wright plan to leave their Calumet stable in California, hoping Santa Anita may yet open, but plan to stay all winter in their Miami Beach home.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Giles are regular attendants at luncheon and the races at Tropical Park while wintering at their home in Royal Palm avenue.

THEY HELP WELCOME THE VISITORS

A few bread crumbs cast upon the sands are enough to attract whole flocks of seagulls at Daytona Beach, Fla. The birds become tame thru frequent feeding by the tourists.

Shows, Regatta at Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—Newly announced events in Jacksonville's round of entertainment are the Jacksonville Dog show, Jan. 10 and 11; the Jacksonville Antique show, Jan. 26 to 28, and an outboard regatta April 4 and 5.

More than 400 dogs will be brought here from all sections of the country to compete for 40 trophies and cash awards in the event to be held this year at the Hyde Park Country club.

Tucson Sees New Year In at Gala Fetes

TUCSON, ARIZ.

Ranch parties and gala dances at the Pioneer and Santa Rita featured New Year's eve in the Old Pueblo, and on New Year's afternoon a capacity crowd witnessed the rodeo at Kinsley's ranch, 30 miles south of Tucson. Competitors in bronc riding, steer bulldogging, and calf roping put on a colorful, exciting show under the direction of Rodeo Impresario Buck Sorrells. Marion Getzwiler Jr., southern Arizona's leading rodeo star, was guest of honor. He leaves the range for Uncle Sam's army next week.

A buffet supper and dance at El Rancho Grande in Nogales, Ariz., was a housewarming in honor of the ranch's new proprietor, Lynn Gillham of the Flying V. It was a democratic affair. Guests in dinner jackets and evening dresses mingled with cowpokes in levis and brush jackets. The serapes of the Mexican orchestra completed a picture seldom seen north of the Gila.

• • •

Rancho Grande overlooks Nogales, a city of good neighbors. Divided in the middle by the international boundary, the border town presents dramatic contrasts in tongue and economic status. Last week Mexican soldiers marched thru the International Gate to entrain, across American soil, for Lower California. This week American fire hoses were passed over the 10 foot fence, made in the United States, to help Mexican firemen put out a Mexican fire.

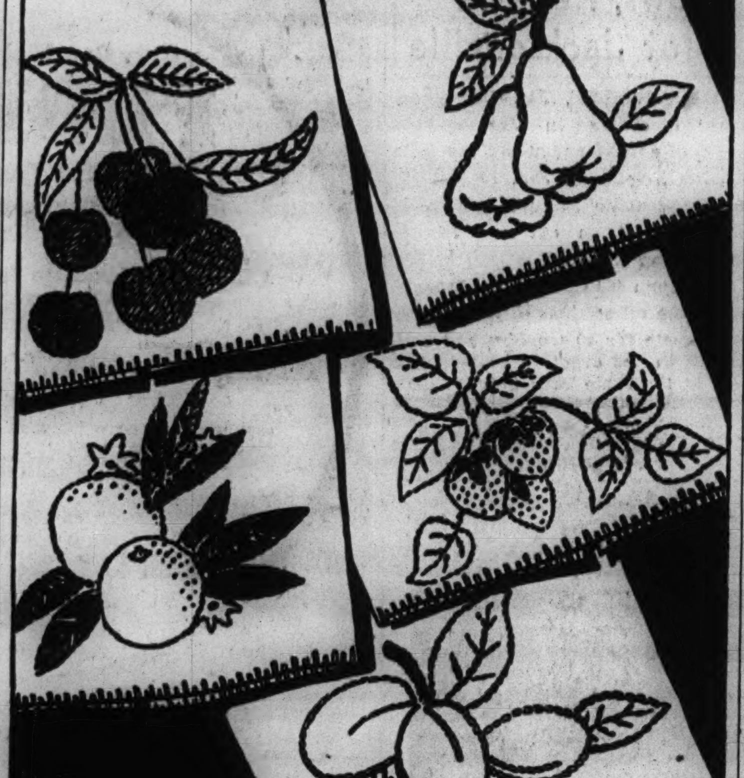
Among guests at the rancho's New Year's eve party were a contingent from the Flying V, including the Misses Sylvia Hrudka, Georgia Allen, and Helen Resek of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Streeter of Wilmette.

• • •

Chicagoans arriving at the Diamond W guest ranch in time for New Year's festivities there were Mr. and Mrs. William Wieboldt of Oak Park, Mr. and Mrs. Nat Owings, and the Misses Lillian R. Marshall and Helen Jones of Chicago, the latter two having recently returned from an extended trip in Mexico. They will return to their Kimbark avenue home in the near future.

Arriving this week at the Bar B. R., in the Rincon foothills, were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Egan and their daughters, Joan and Regina. The Egans, who have been away from Chicago for some months, came here from New York City. Other late holiday arrivals include Mrs. Orville J. Taylor, who is stopping at the Christopher Square; Miss Fanny R. Smith, who is at the Pepper Tree; Mrs. Arthur D. Foyer of Evanston, who is spending her second winter at the Glenwood, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wahler of Evanston and Robert P. McDowell of Chicago, staying at the Kenyon ranch.

Pattern for Fruit Motifs



By Nancy Cabot.

Here is an attractive, hot iron transfer design of ten fruit motifs which are ideal for kitchen towels, luncheon dollies and napkins, curtain trimming, or for the central motif of potholders. These motifs measure approximately four by five inches each, and the hot iron transfer pattern includes detailed illustration of stitches, as well as a chart of suggested colors.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the ten fruit motifs, No. 734, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Curtain Up on 1942 Palm Beach Season

By Helen Van Hoy Smith.

PALM BEACH, FLA.

The prolog over, the curtain now is up on act 1 of the Palm Beach season. On New Year's eve some 500 attended the opening dance at the Everglades club. Decorations were vibrant with patriotism. Huge posters, bunting, and patriotic music paid tribute to the good old U. S. A. Even the paper hats were in patriotic colors, and many tried to blow reveille on the little tin horns at midnight when the strains of the Star Spangled Banner were blended with Auld Lang Syne.

Dancing was enjoyed in the famous Orange Gardens patio, made more glamorous by the glow of golden globes in the genuine orange trees, and by myriads of opalescent balloons and a "ceiling visibility" of tropical stars. The Chicago colony was practically all there.

• • •

Whitehall, the magnificent alabaster mansion which was the home of Henry M. Flagler, opened informally on New Year's day. The room in which the railroad tycoon and his guests used to play billiards has been converted into a gin rummy room.

The Chicago clan, especially those who have been here for many years, were also much in evidence at the New Year's day reception given by Mr. and Mrs. John Shephard Jr. at lovely Casa del Pastor. Toasts were drunk to Mr. Shephard's health [he was celebrating his 85th birthday] from a flowing bowl of eggnog. A feast was spread out on the loggia and a stringed orchestra in the garden played thruout the evening.

Howard Clements, the guest of his sister, Mrs. Kenneth G. Smith, and Mr. Smith, was honored at a birthday dinner the other night at the opening of the Patio. The orchestra came to his table, which was decorated with an imposing birthday cake, and played his favorite selections.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Homer [Mme. Louise Homer] were honored by their hosts, Dr. and Mrs. Daniel J. McCarthy, with a tea last Monday. The Homers have also been entertained by many others during their stay here.

Palm Beach, which for the last two seasons has given large and elaborate parties for Great Britain, suffering Finland, Greece, and China, now has decided to concentrate on America. Among the events for the American cause will be a fashion show at the Whitehall, when the most beautiful society women in the resort will serve as models for the most beautiful clothes. This event will be for the benefit of Aid America, Inc., sponsored by Mrs. Henry J. Topping Jr. [Gloria Baker].

Chicagoans have been interested in meeting Mme. Wellington Koo, wife of the distinguished Chinese diplomat. She is a petite, oriental beauty and wears an enchanting pageboy bob with a brush roll on the top of her head. She favors American slacks, but for tea she is like a doll in a toy shop in heavy Chinese silk robes, split on each side. Looking more like the younger sister of her two sons than their mother, Mme. Koo has been extensively fêted during her stay.

• • •

Mrs. H. Stillson Hart of Barrington has returned to Hartease, her Sea Breeze avenue villa, where she has as her guest Mrs. Harold C. Cheney of Barrington. Mr. and Mrs. Noel Marshall Seeburg gave a cocktail party early in the week for Philadelphia visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Le Ray Berdeau gave a dinner at Villa Today on Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred P. Sloan Jr. are here from New York to open their new home on the Ocean boulevard, which they recently purchased from the Wolcott Blairs. Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Partridge of Wheaton are expected this week-end to visit in the resort.

• • •

The Pat Di Ciccos [Gloria Vanderbilt] will honeymoon in Palm Beach. The bridegroom is no stranger to these parts. He has been here often. His brother, Joe, lives at Gomez, some 20 miles north. Joe, like his father, "the broccoli king," operates a vegetable farm specializing in eggplant, bell peppers, and yellow wax beans. Motorists will notice his sign. It is a neat iron filigree, but he spells his name with a De instead of a Di.

Betty Ann Pease Engaged to Wed David E. White

An announcement of interest in Chicago is being made in Detroit, Mich., today of the engagement of Miss Betty Ann Pease, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Pease Jr. of Birmingham, Mich., to David E. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. White of Birmingham. Mr. Pease formerly lived in Kenilworth, and his father still lives there. Miss Pease, who is a niece of Mrs. Edwin E. Sheridan of Evanston, was graduated from the Kingswood school in West Hartford, Conn., and attended Denison university. Mr. White was graduated from Culver military academy. No date has been set for the wedding.

The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps but not value. The column in this page contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

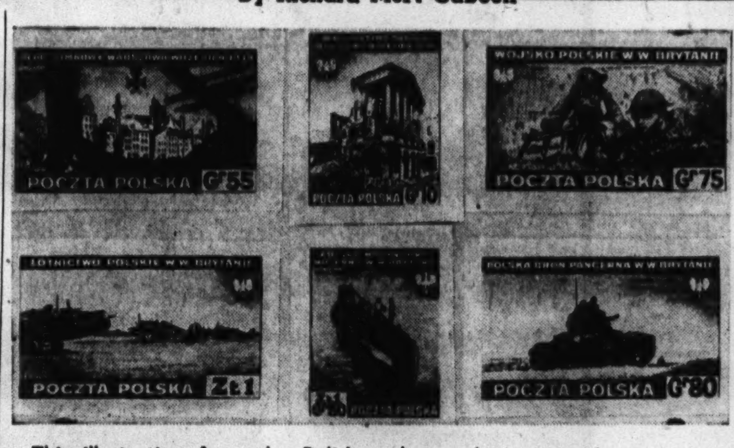
The items regarding the early local posts of Chicago may not be of much interest to some of the readers of this department but it is believed that they should be recorded inasmuch as previous records have been very indefinite. Since the last publication of such an item, William Cessna, in charge of indexing THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, has located several advertisments and notices which will serve to clarify many things in connection with Floyd's Penny Post.

The first of these is an advertisment which appeared each day from June 11 to 15, 1861. It reads: "Floyd's Penny Post.—On Saturday, June 15, 1861 [unless sooner disposed of] 'Floyd's Penny Post' will be discontinued, and what stamps I may have out will be redeemed in gold and silver. It was my intention when I established the Post one year ago to have made it a permanent institution but circumstances over which I have no control, and which I consider unnecessary to make public, compel me to make this announcement. During the time it has been in operation its success has exceeded my most sanguine expectations, and to the generous public who have sustained me in my enterprise, I return my most sincere thanks. JOHN R. FLOYD. N. B. To a person of good business qualifications a rare chance is offered."

Particular attention is called to the fact that Floyd says he established the post the year before. This would fix the establishment during the spring or summer of 1860 and not during 1859, a date which has been given in catalogs and articles on the subject.

On the date of the first appearance of this advertisment THE TRIBUNE carried a news item which stated that "readers will be sorry to learn of the demise of that most useful and excellent institution, the Penny Post," and which went on to express the hope that it would be resumed in the future, either in his or other capable hands.

On June 20, 1861, the following notice was published: "Floyd's Penny Post. It is my pleasure to announce that the 'Penny Post' is to be continued in this city, I having disposed of my right, title, interest, and good will in Floyd's Penny Post to Mr. Charles W. Mappa, long and favorably known in business circles in this city and who, I am confident, will make the Post an honor to Chicago. I shall remain with him for the present and promise to my former patrons and friends my undivided attention to making the most prompt, cheap and reliable method for the dispatch of Letters, Notices, Circulars, Cards of Invitation, etc., etc., to be found. Thankful for past favors and hoping for your patronage to the new proprietor. John R. Floyd, Room No. 9, Warners Hall, 124 Randolph street."



This illustration from the Polish embassy shows six values of the new Polish postage stamps issued by the government in exile.

A news item of the same date calls readers' attention to the notice and congratulates the city on the continuance of the Post. One can only conjecture at this time as to what may have caused Mr. Floyd to give up this venture.

The embassy of Poland in the United States thru the office of its financial counselor announces that a postal agreement between the British and Polish governments was arranged to permit the opening of a Polish postal service on Dec. 15, 1941, applicable to correspondence posted on board Polish warships and merchant ships when on the high seas. The purpose of this scheme was to enable the Polish government in exile to bring out an issue of stamps of Free Poland. In addition, on certain days, correspondence originating in Polish camps in the United Kingdom will be diverted for mailing on Polish ships. Under this arrangement letters will not be transmitted to enemy territories including those held by the enemy. Affixing and canceling of stamps will be performed only on board Polish ships. No air mail is contemplated at this time.

The series consists of eight stamps, as follows: 5 groszy, violet, Ruins of American Embassy in Warsaw; 10 groszy, green, Ruins of Ministry of Finance, Warsaw; 25 groszy, gray, Demolition of the Monument of Adam Mickiewicz; 55 groszy, blue, Palace Square in Warsaw; 75 groszy, olive, Soldiers and Machine Gun in Trench; 80 groszy, magenta, Armored Tank; 1 zloty, indigo, Polish Aviation Unit in Great Britain, and 1.50 zloty, brown madder, Polish Submarine.

It was expected that the stamps would arrive in America before the end of 1941, where they would be available to collectors at the office of the financial counselor, Polish embassy, 14 Wall street, New York City. The face value of the set is 5 zlotys which amounts to 85 cents. Collectors must include mailing expenses amounting to not less than 3 cents.

Postmaster General Frank C. Walker has announced that air mails of United States origin for the Netherlands Indies, North Borneo, Sarawak, Straits Settlements, Malaya, Burma, Unoccupied China, and the near east countries of Palestine, Turkey, and Syria, which, prior to the outbreak of the war, were carried over the trans-Pacific air mail route, will now be promptly routed via the new South Atlantic air mail route and Africa.

Air mail for the above points will be dispatched thru Miami to Lagos, Nigeria, by way of Port of Spain, Trinidad; Belem, Brazil, and Bathurst, Gambia. At Lagos direct connections will be made with existing British empire air mail service now operating between Lagos and Singapore and the Netherlands Indies.

Tel-I-Tong, the useful appliance which combines tongs, magnifying glass, and perforation gauge in one instrument, is now priced at $1. Scott Publications, Inc., No. 1 West 47th street, has exclusive distribution.

In keeping with the nation-wide publicizing of Uncle Sam's air forces, the McLaurin-Jones company, Brookfield, Mass., has issued two new series of United States navy aircraft squadron insignia poster stamps with separate albums as sequels to its first series with album issued early in 1941. Interesting stories explain how and why each insignia originated. The stamps are on gummed paper and present each insignia in the actual colors used on the aircraft. Address the McLaurin-Jones company for complete information. The three sets will be available.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Truly Surprising

So Easy. No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it can't be beaten.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick relief, it's a wonder. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

[ADVERTISMENT]

Could Henry VIII Have Had Stomach Acid Pains?

History tells how Henry VIII would gorge himself with food and suffer afterward. Don't ignore your sufferings. Try a 25c box of Udga for relief of stomach acid pains, indigestion, gas pains, for heartburn, burning sensation, bloat and other conditions caused by excess acid. Udga Tablets must help or money refunded. At drug stores everywhere.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, Jan. 2, 1894.

Dear Julia: New Year's day has come and gone. It was a quiet one for us. Few people in Chicago keep open house as they used to do, to receive their friends. Many hostesses have been annoyed by the behavior of callers who had taken too much liquor and so have quietly decided that they didn't want the responsibility of contributing to such behavior. I don't know any more unpleasant sight than a personal friend who doesn't realize what he is doing.

L. Wilbur Messer.

Instead of remaining at home to callers, Will and I attended the opening of the new YMCA building at 153 La Salle street, a much more improving way of spending the day, it seemed to me. There were about 2,000 persons present, we were told, the reception lasting from 3 to 10 in the evening. It was an informal affair, intended to give the public a chance to inspect the building, which surpasses in size and completeness of detail any ever erected by the association.

The spacious parlors on the third floor were beautifully decorated with flowers and here the guests were received by a committee consisting of such well known and beloved ladies as Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick Jr., Mrs. L. Wilbur Messer [wife of the secretary of the association here], Mrs. John M. Ewen [daughter of our dear old pastor, Dr. R. W. Patterson], and Mrs. John R. Case. Helping at the tea table were the charming Mrs. Edward T. Blair, Mrs. Henry P. Crowell, Mrs. James L. Houghteling, the Misses Skinner, and the Misses Isham.

In the restaurant adjoining the parlors, a lunch was served during the reception hours, while an orchestra played. Present at this grand opening were four men to whom the occasion meant a great deal. S. D. Ward was one of these. He had organized the first branch of the YMCA here in 1854. Then there were John V. Farwell, B. F. Jacobs, and Simeon W. King, who were charter members of the real association formed four years later. Another to whom the day was a culmination of efforts was L. W. Messer, secretary of the association.

One of the few speeches was made by a young architect, Irving K. Pond, who is chairman of the library committee and who made an appeal for funds for supplying books. He said the students in the night classes of the YMCA are much handicapped by lack of suitable reference library. Will thought Mr. Pond's speech was very bright and stimulating. I saw many checkbooks come out when the speech was over, and I think the library fund had at least a start.

The building which we inspected is indeed marvelous. It's fireproof and quite handsomely furnished. It cost $900,000, while the price of the ground, I understand, was $800,000. There is still about $100,000 to be raised, but that isn't much for rich Chicago. The building project started with a bequest of John Crerar, who left $50,000 to the YMCA, in which he was much interested. The remainder has been raised by subscription and by bonding the building.

Among eminent Chicagoans I saw during the afternoon were Graham Taylor, a leader in the study of social service; T. W. Harvey; Henry W. King, one of our neighbors on Rush street, as you doubtless remember; T. B. Blackstone, president of the Chicago and Alton railroad, who was one of Mr. Crerar's closest friends, and Norman Williams, another friend of Mr. Crerar.

And now, wishing you health and prosperity and all that you may wish me to wish you for the year 1894, I am, your devoted friend,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

The name of L. Wilbur Messer [1856-1923] will always be highly regarded in Chicago. His achievements in YMCA work are compared to those of a Wanamaker or a Marshall Field in merchandising. Coming to Chicago in 1888, he built up this great organization here. It was he who laid out what is known as the Metropolitan plan, the establishment of centers in populous portions of Chicago. The building referred to as 153 La Salle street in the preceding letter is now numbered 19 South La Salle street, headquarters of the YMCA in Chicago. John V. Farwell is president of the board; Frank A. Hathaway is secretary. The library for which Irving K. Pond appealed now contains 24,000 volumes.

Attic Treasures.

Hearing "Bustles and Bangs" in St. Charles, Ill., Mrs. J. R. Bowie of that city sends a shelf lambrequin, one of the finest bits of embroidery of the '80s which we have ever seen —velvet pansie appliqued on light brown satin. From Mrs. Gilbert Lock of Chicago have been received some advertising cards, embossed and colored, given away by merchants in the '80s. If any readers have cards of this kind, we should be glad to see them and will return them promptly.

"The Keepsake" Charms Readers.

Tho Christmas is past, "The Keepsake" still has its mission. Use it for a birthday gift, or to have and to hold, for your own pleasure. You will want it for "The Old Testament Books in Rhyme." Lovers of Ireland will want to possess it for "Robert Emmet's Speech from the Dock," eloquent and mournful. Price of "The Keepsake," 50 cents a copy, at the Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street. If ordered by mail, add 5 cents for handling charge. In lots of 10 or more, 40 cents a copy, plus 3 cents a copy for handling.

A Weekly Sponsored Column of Things Advertised and Interesting

New York, N. Y., Jan. 3. Sometimes I hear a shopper complain that the cost of national advertising zooms-up the price of merchandise,—a grouch that indeed calls for challenge! Mr. Advertising (whether you like his face, his voice, his claims or not) is a dual personality . . . a super-salesman for BUSINESS, and an open forum or Information Center to the shopper. If this "SELL-TELL" agent were banished from our lives, would we be able to purchase more cheaply? A thousand times NO . . . for how could any manufacturer afford to produce his products in sufficient volume to price it at the low cost that mass production permits, if deprived of means of creating a market among the 130,000,000 of us? And how could we, shoppers, become informed about buying possibilities and new developments except through the "telling" power of advertising? How could we exercise free choice in buying what we want, when we want it, and why we want it? So don't resent Mr. Advertising's modest salary . . . it's due to his efforts that we, as shoppers, can buy American comforts! But here,—enough of "shop talk" . . . let's on to the more personal, more exciting survey of BUY-LINES that are particularly appropriate for this first week of a brand New Year!

Step up and shake hands with clever Mr. Pacific FACTAG . . . most informed label in all the fabric world! No vague claims that a fabric of cotton or rayon is "Fast",—the FACTAG will tell you in Washington's Bureau of Standards terms JUST how fast the material is to light and to washing! But that's not all to the Pacific FACTAG fabric-guidance,—for printed on each FACTAG is full information on the laundering or dry cleaning treatment that is BEST for the fabric to which it is attached. Mr. FACTAG, you see, is highly individual . . . his label-story as different as each type of fabric to which it is tagged! So demand FACTAG labeling on cottons and rayons in ready-to-wear, lingerie, and yardgoods . . . and make your selections fully informed of how fabrics will behave, and how to treat them for longer, more satisfactory wear! Remember,—the Pacific FACTAG labels garments and piece goods of distinguished Pacific Mills fabrics.
